RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of The Norwich Savings Society held Aug. 3d, 1924, action was taken as follows:

Resolved, That the loss which has befallen this community in the death of Honorable Lucius Brown is felt with peculiar sorrow by The Norwich Savings Society.

A Trustee since 1874, a Director since 1877 and a Vice President since 1895, he has for fifty years given generously to this institution of his time, shrewd judgment and mature wisdom.

Of Puritan stock and deep religious feeling, he had the courage of his convictions and was outspoken in support of what he believed right and in condemnation of wrong. As a tribute to his sturdiness of character and high ideals of life, we enter this resolution on our permanent records and direct that a copy be sent to his family with expressions of our sympathy.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

New York, Aug. 3.—Diversion of speculative interest to stock trading and occasional outbursts of profit-taking last week reacted against the bond market. Prices drifted irregularly lower, although foreign obligations and certain railroad issues developed independent strength.

Establishment of new high levels by Liberty bonds during the week attested to the underlying strength of the market. Most of these issues later settled back to liquidation by corporations and institutions seeking to provide funds for month-end requirements, but the entire list hovered around the year's top prices. Expectations that the treasury's next financing, probably totaling $350,000,000 would be on a 2 per cent. interest basis was a strengthening factor.

Expansion in the volume of new financing to about $87,000,000, contrasted with $35,000,000 in the preceding week, furnished additional outlet for investment fund. Employment of Wall Street's surplus cash in the earlier period was confined chiefly to outstanding issues and figured in their advance to no high ground for the year.

Re-entry of the Canadian National Railways into the New York market with new bonds issues aggregating $30,000,000 and prospects that the Canadian Pacific would offer $10,000,000 debenture stock next week, testified to the attractiveness of local investment conditions. Their return to New York, investment bankers indicated, might improve their chances of obtaining a portion of the Canadian government's financing this fall.

The agreement reached by the inter-allied conference expected to pave the way for execution of the Dawes plan, flotation of a German loan and a general European settlement of the reparations problem, strengthened French and Belgian obligations.

The French government's issues closed the week by attaining new peak prices for the year.

Progress in railroad merger negotiations, notably the Van Sweringen's plan to consolidate Erie, Pere Marquette and Chesapeake and Ohio with their enlarged "Nickel Plate" system, revived interest in the bonds of these roads. Erie convertibles were especially active on reports that an attractive plan for exchanging securities was being worked out. New Orleans, Texas nad Mexico and International Great Northern liens were aided by the withdrawal of objections to the merger of these roads with the Missouri Pacific. Activity of Baltimore and Ohio mortgages was linked with reports that preparations were under way for the sale of another $35,000,000 refunding bond issue.

Corporate financing in July totaled $275,833,800 of which $236,561,600 was represented by bonu and note issues. Bonds called for redemption in August prior to maturity total $45,414,900, compared with $39,394 last month.

Stock offerings are expected to vie with new bond issues for public investment interest next week. In addition the Canadian Pacific's contemplated $10,000,000 offering of debenture stock more than 100,000 shares of Great Western Sugar stock will be sold around $91 a share. The Commonwealth Edison Company will market $15,000,000 five per cent. bonds.

BLINDED BY SUN AUTO DRIVER CRASHES INTO TWO MACHINES

Blinded by the sun, Edward LaFleur of Taftville, momentarily lost control of his Nash Six, Saturday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock while coming down Tunnell Hill in Lisbon, and, before he had a chance to straighten out two cars had been badly smashed, one woman passenger injured, and LaFleur's own car wrecked.

Reporting the accident LaFleur claimed that as he came down the hill the sun blinded him and his car struck the Chevrolet coupe driven by John S. Nunes of 57 Denison avenue, New London, smashing a front mudguard, ripping off the running board and bending the rear axle. Swerving after striking the Nunes' car, LaFleur lost control and drove nearly head on into another Chevrolet coupe, owned and driven by Joseph King of 9 Denison avenue New London, wrecking both machines, LaFleurs' car finally coming to a stop with the front end resting against the bank at the left of the road.

Mrs. King, who was riding with her husband, was thrown against the windshield and was injured by flying glass. She also suffered other minor injuries. She was assisted from the car and the ambulance was summoned from the W. W. Backus hospital.

The other occupants of the three cars escaped with shakings and minor bruises and cuts.

The Chevrolet driven by Mr. King had the radiator driven back about three inches, the windshield was broken and the right front mudguard crumpled. LaFleur's car was badly damaged, the left front wheel being ripped off, steering apparatus wrecked, this coming when he struck the car driven by Mr. Nunes, both front fenders smashed and dents in the radiator and on the body.

Grand Juror George F. Helmboldt and Lisbon constables were soon at the scene of the accident and speedily cleared the road for traffic, continuing their work until the state police arrived.

At the hospital Sunday it was reported that Mrs. King was resting comfortably and had suffered no broken bones. She will be allowed to return to her home about the middle of the week.

A GOOD NAME TO BE VALUED ABOVE RICHES, SAYS PRIEST

Next to a good conscience, a man's most priceless possession is a good name, was the thought of Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, the junior curate, preaching Sunday at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church. It was the eighth Sunday after Pentecost, the epistle read in all the masses being Romans viii. 12-17 and the gospel Luke xvi 1-9. Father Guerriero made the point that, whereas a man may accumulate riches by long and patient labor, the good name which is his is acquired by just as constant and continuous effort in the ways of righteousness. But the possession which he may smass avail him nothing when he comes to die, while his good name lasts beyond the grave and goes with him into eternity.

Th escripture was cited to prove this; and even the pagan philosopher Plato assures man that, although he may lose all earthly possessions, he still has the greatest wealth of all, if he retain his good name. How such a priceless asset can be acquired, by laboring to keep a good conscience through never trangressing the commanmants of God, was pointed out by the preacher, concisely and logically.

The number of summer confessions is keeping up in a way to esablish a new high record, even for this great parish of vigorous and practical faith, as proved by the large number of penitents who received holy communion from Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who read the low mass, and who required the assistance of Father Guerriero in giving communion.

NORWICH GIRL SOLOIST AT SPIRITUALIST MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Lake Pleasant, Mass., Aug. 3.—The 52nd annual convocation of the New England Spiritualist Camp Meeting Association opened today at Lake Pleasant, Mass., with a large attendance. The marvellous psychic powers and reputation of Mrs. A. Scott Bledsoe of California having drew unusually large crowds for the opening. Mrs. Bledsoe's work has fulfilled all expectations. The singing of Miss Viola M. Grover of Norwich, Conn., who has been engaged as soloist for the entire five weeks is making a splendid impression, and at the week afternoon services more than once enthusiastic applause has greeted her efforts at the end of a song. Miss Grover's deep contralto tones, with their sympathetic timbre, her clear enunciation, and easy and graceful platform presence have combined to make her engagement at Lake Pleasant a most satisfactory one to the management of the camp meeting, to her hearers and to Rev. Albert P. Blinn, who is the recipient of many congratulations in having secured Miss Grover's services.

Rev. Albert P. Blinn, who was to have been a speaker at the convocation is still confined to his cottage, having been quite ill with an attack of sciatica rheumatism for the past two weeks, but is slowly gaining.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS RETURN FROM CAMP KIWANIS

Twenty-seven Camp Fire Girls returned Saturday from Camp Kiwanis, South Hanson, Mass., the camp of the New England Camp Fire Girls, after spending two happy weeks at the camp. Connecticut was represented at the camp by 50 girls and one week at the camp was known as Connecticut Week.

While at camp the girls enjoyed everything that usually goes with camp life and also worked for honors, especially their Wokelo honors, which is the national camp-fire honor.

Friday evening the girls gathered about the camp fire and Miss Lotta Clark, one of the directors of the camp, presented the honors to those who had qualified.

Three camp-fire groups were represented from Norwich and vicinity, the United Congregational church group, the Park Congregational church group and the Taftville group.

MOTORISTS IN COURT FOR TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Two motorists who disobeyed parking regulations, by parking their cars within the lines marked out for crosswalks, had their cases noiled in city court Saturday morning upon payment of $3 each.

Another auto driver, who went through Norwich without markers on his car had his case noiled upon payment of $5. The man, who deals in automobiles, has one set of markers that he uses for his cars and upon setting out for a ride Friday failed to put the markers onto the car he was driving and he was picked up by Officer Myron Morgan.

A PURSE OF OVER $1,000 PRESENTED FR. BRODERICK

A native of Willimantic, Rev. James A. Broderick, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Terryville, for the past ten years, was surprised Tuesday evening when he was called to the Lyceum there, where a public reception in honor of his silver jubilee had been arranged by his parishioners. During the evening Father Broderick was given a purse of over $1,000 as a testimonial of gratitude and appreciation from his parishioners.

MOVIE STARS INVITED BY WEALTHY COTTAGER

Watch Hill apparently is not to have the honor of entertaining Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford, this summer in spite of rumors that the noted film stars are coming to spend a part of August at the shore. They were invited by Mrs. Dennis O'Brien of New York to be her guests at Sunnylands, the former Dock estate, shortly after their arrival in New York from a trip abroad. They declined the invitation with regret according to Mrs. O'Brien, because of the fact that they must leave for the west this coming week to begin work on a new series of feature pictures.

Douglas Fairbanks was once a familiar figure at Watch Hill, where he frequently visited his father-in-law, Daniel F. Sully, the former "cotton king," at Kenneth Rigge. His first wife was Miss Beth Sully, whom he married at Kenneth Ridge in 1908. Several years later Mr. Fairbanks acted in a moving picture taken at Watch Hill. His son, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who has followed in the footsteps of his father and become a movie star, also has been a frequent visitor at the Hill and is well known by members of the summer colony.

FIRE IN ALMSHOUSE WINTER SUPPLY OF COAL

Shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning the fire department was called by telephone for a fire in a pile of 50 tons of soft coal at the Norwich Almshouse. The firemen wet down the burning coal and during the day men in the employ of the town were busy carting the coal away to a new location.

The coal was recently stored in the almshouse bins for the coming winter and caught fire from spontaneous combustion. When the firemen arrived the woodwork in the large bin was beginning to blaze up.

JEWETT CITY DRIVER BUMPED AUTO IN REAR

William Dealtry of Jewett City reported at police headquarters that while he was driving his machine in Jewett City Saturday evening he had a rear end collision with an automobile driven by a Mr. Medick. Dealtry's machine was damaged to some extent. He was attempting to pass the machine ahead at the time of the accident.

NORWICH MARKET CONDITIONS.

The dry weather of late has had a tendency to eliminate the supply of fruit and vegetables on the markets here. The supply of native vegetables now includes, potatoes, onions, lettuce, squashes, tomatoes, corn, beets, carrots, string beans and peas. Weather conditions have caused a firmer market for squashes, beans, potatoes, tomatoes and corn. The dry weather has greatly reduced the berry crop, prices for blackberries which as yet are appearing in limited quantities on the markets here, are now quoted on a ranke of 10 to 12 cents per quart basket. Lettuce is scarce and slightly higher at present, the same applies to a few other vegetables as well.

LYME ART ASSOCIATION OPENS ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Lyme, Aug. 3.—The summer exhibition of the artists of Old Lyme, which opened yesterday fully justifies the high reputation which their displays have won for them in the field of art. This reputation is built upon the sincere work and earnest effort of twenty-three years during which this group of painters has organized annual exhibits of steadily increasing importance. Beginning with a small collection of pictures which were shown in the public library the displays have grown each year, and now the four spacious galleries of the new building of the Lyme Art association are taxed to their utmost to find adequate accommodation for the two hundred and eighty-eight works which are included in the current exhibit.

The first impression that a visitor receives on entering the galleries is one of sunshine and lively color. Varied though the exhibition is in character, the open air note easily predominates, and a majority of the painters are lovers of sun and shadow, rather than of the more sober moods of nature. In the south gallery is found this lively joyous note in such pictures as the handsome marine by Will Howe Foote, Edwin F. Rook's "Hadlyme Birches," William Chadwick's painting of the rocky Bermuda coast, the garden scene with its purple and yellow iris by George Burr, or the "Nasturtium Garden" by Lucient Abrams.

The sunshine of his own flower garden has also attracted Clark Voorhees and his picture, Honeysuckle and Roses, is a fine study of varied greens harmonized admirably with the blue of a cloudless summer sky.

Gregory Smith's Snow in March is flooded with that dazzling white sunshine which comes on clear days as the sun mounts toward its position at the Vernal Equinox. In the Connecticut country, as the season advances, the days of early spring bring a haze to veil the brilliance of the sun, and it is these subtle effects which William S. Robinson prefers, and which he has beautifully interpreted in such pictures as The Laurel Road and Springtime where the apple trees are laden with snowy blossoms.

The days of hazy sunshine have also appealed to Guy Wiggins, whose Indian Summer will be rated as one of the best works that have come from his brush, and to Wilson Irvine, whose Cottage in England to be singled out for the luminous quality of its colorful gray tones.

The painters of indoor subjects have naturally employed a lower-keyed palette, and have discarded mere brilliance of color in favor richness and harmony. An excellent example of this is to be found in Ivon Olinsky's fine figure picture entitled The Hostess which has the place of honor on the south wall. Flanking it on either side are two admirable decorative flower subjects by Harry L. Hoffman. One of these, which he calls Parrots, was picked out by the jury of artists for the award of the coveted W. S. Eaton prize of $500.

The Museum Purchase Prize for a like amount was awarded to Everett Warner for a landscape called Autumn Afternoon, showing a delicate screen of partly leafless trees against the deep blue of an Indian Summer sky.

There are a number of pictures in the current display which have a double appeal, attracting not only art lovers but those who are fond of outdoor life and its sports. For example there are several pictures which seem destined to give pleasure to those who pass their leisure in hunting. Among these canvases Percival Rosseau's two finely drawn presentations of hunting dogs will arrest the visitor's attention by the extraordinary lifelike appearance of the animals. Duck hunters will look with interest upon Harry Hoffman's painting showing two men crouching in the reeds and partly silhouetted against the golden glory of a sunset sky. It is entitled The Last Half Hour, but game wardens who are a suspicious class, will probably conclude that at the end of thirty minutes the hunters will still be there, and perhaps their suspicion may turn out to be correct.

Lovers of horseflesh will find much to admire in Henry R. Poore's Steeplechase, with the spirited movement of the riders just appearing over the crest of a hill, and a fine rolling sky in the background.

The painters of cattle are always very much in evidence in the Lyme exhibitions, and this year the honors are very evenly divided between Carleton Wiggins, whose Dutch stable interior is one of the very best sheep pictures that he has ever done, Matilda Browne, who has sent a well painted picture of yearling cattle, and William H. Howe who sends two large pictures to show that he is equally skillful either in the painting of cows or of sheep.

No summary of the important pictures would be complete which failed to include Charles Ebert's notable achievement, Winter Sunset, which hangs in one of the places of honor in the south gallery, or Bruce Crane's South Wind which has won a similar position in the north gallery. Frank A. Bicknell's Roger Lake, a dignified composition suggesting the classic feeling of Claude Lorraine, is another one of the pictures which deserves a more detailed mention than the limits of this article permit. George Bruestle, Frank Vincent Du Mond, John F. Stacey, Will Taylor, Platt Hubbard, Ernest Albert and E. Maxwell Albert are among the landscape men whose able work well repays careful inspection.

Lydia Longacre enjoys the distinction of contributing the only miniatures to the show, two well-studied portraits, and in sculpture the number of works shown is also limited, there being but two exhibitors, Lydia Kirk is represented by two small statuettes, and Bessie Potter Vonnoh by four small bronze figures, of which the one called The Dance is perhaps the most striking.

The west gallery has been entirely given over to small pictures and sketches, the works of each artist being kept together in a single group.

TROLLEY CAR AND AUTO COLLIDE ON MAIN STREET

A report was made Saturday evening at police headquarters by Henry St. Germain of No. 37 Hamilton avenue that a machine he was driving and a trolley car came together on Main street during the evening. He reported that while he was driving through Main street near the Plaut Cadden store a trolley car was coming towards him down the Main street hill. He drove along to find a place to drive into to allow the trolley car to pass and as he was backing to square his automobile the trolley and auto came together. The automobile was slightly damaged.

Eight Calls For Ambulance

The Backus hospital ambulance had a busy week nd, answering eight calls Saturday and Sunday. There were six calls for the ambulance Saturday and two Sunday calls.

ANOTHER NEW HAVEN BEER TRUCKLOAD HELD UP BY NEW LONDON POLICE

New London, Aug. 3.—There are indications that the superior court for New London county will have to pass on the right of a man to transport from one town or city to another beer that is being sold in the city from which it is transported. A truckload of such beer containing more than 6000 bottles was seized here Saturday morning just as the night force of policemen was going off duty. The trackman and his assistant were arrested and when presented in the police court were held for examination next Wednesday. They are in jail because they could not furnish a bond of $1500 each.

This is the second case of a similar nature which the superior court must pass upon, for Manuel Estoff was grabbed when he brought a truckload of beer into New London from the same source, it is understood, that the load seized Saturday originated in New Haven. The men nabbed Saturday are Wesley Howell and Theodore Hogan, both negroes. They say the beer was loaded on the truck they had without their knowledge of just where it was brewed and they were told to drive to New London and deliver it to the Acid Manufacturing company. They would have so delivered it had they not been held up and taken into custody. That was like throwing a monkey wrench into the machinery for the Acid Manufacturing company will probably not get possession of their goods now. The bill of lading was made out on the form statement of the Starin Transportation company, but that fact is not taken as proof positive that the beer was ever in the possession of the Starin company or that the corporation shipped the beer to New London. Estoff, the first named truckman, is at liberty on a bond of $3,000 furnished by a New Haven bank, it is understood. He is to come before the superior court at Norwich the first Tuesday of next month. If the men now accused are bound over to the same court, they, too, will be presented then. The beer seized Saturday will be analyzed at Hartford, so that the contents of the bottles that hold it will be determined as to alcoholic content. Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh, Sergeant Smith and Policeman Leyden and Selisnitzky are the men who will appear as witnesses against the beer owners and transporters.

Fred R. Swanson, who conducts the dance hall at Ocean Beach, is to come before the police court Monday morning to answer to a complaint alleging that he operated his automobile recklessly at the beach and thereby endangered the life and limb of persons using the highway. He is complained against by Mrs. S. W. Holmes of Park place, and she was so insistent upon the arrest of Swanson that she asked for his arrest after she had complained to an officer. It is claimed that Swanson ran into the son of Mrs. Holmes and threw him from a bicycle and that Swanson would not admit his carelessness and his liability to damages though the latter only consisted in the payment for the lad's damaged clothing.

George A. Wragg was charged Saturday with ignoring the rules of the road as they apply to automobilists. He was summoned to court by Officer Babcock for the reason that he did not reduce the speed of his car as he approached intersecting streets and that he did not give notice of his approach to street corners by the sounding of his horn. Judge Prince did not regard the offense as one that would warrant a penalty and he reserved judgment.

Alson M. Abbott, a New Jersey motorist, got the notion into his head that he could take the registration plates from his car, registered in Jersey and use them on a car that he bought and was operating in Connecticut. He doesn't possess that notion any longer, for he was set aright as to his privilege by the police court Saturday.

William Shmauk, of Ocean avenue, formerly treasurer of the P. Schwartz corporation, dealers in grain and located in the Armstrong building, on Bank street, was arrested Saturday by Sergeant Frank Howard, on a warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, charging Shmauk with theft and fraud. He was held in bonds of $5,000 for his appearance in the police court Monday morning, the mother of Shmauk, Mrs. Pauline Shmauk, becoming surety on the bond.

The complaint recites that on Jan. 28th Shmauk did wrongly make certain false entries upon certain books of the P. Schwartz corporation and as agent for the said corporation did keep certain false books and entries concerning the business affairs of the corporation, with intent to defraud the said P. Schwartz company.

It is further alleged that Shmauk as the treasurer of the corporation did wrongfully appropriate and convert to his own use certain money and funds and property of the said corporation on Jan. 26, 1921.

On Dec. 1, 1923, it is alleged that Shmauk stole nine United States Liberty bonds of the aggregate value of $900 and the property of the P. Schwartz company.

Still another charge against the former treasurer is that Jan. 8, 1923, he negotiated a note for $600 upon the New London City National bank and forged the name of "P. Schwartz" as indorser, with intent to defraud said bank.

Katie Grisevich, 208 Burnham street, Hartford, complained to the police this afternon that she had been robbed by a bathhouse thief at Ocean Beach. Miss Grisevich stated that she hired a bathhouse at the Neptune Baths and when she donned her bathing attire she requested Jacob Lubchansky, 199 Huntington street, who had charge of the bathhouses, to give her the key. He refused to do so, stating that her belongings would be safe in the house. When she returned from bathing Miss Grisevich found her purse on the floor with $3 missing and a like amount left in the pocketbook. Patrolman John Clifford was assigned to investigate the complaint and to endeavor to find the thief.

The automobile, owned and operated by Joseph Gilmore 13 Hope street, and a machine operated by Augustine C. Skelly, West Thames street, Norwich, were in collision at 1 o'clock this morning on Williams street, near Gallows Lane. Both cars were damaged. Gilmore was operating his machine from Norwich to New London and Skelly was driving his car to Norwich. Just after Gilmore's car had passed Gallows Lane it encountered the machine of Skelly's and both machines came together. Gilmore's car suffered the greater damage for one wheel was ripped away. None of the passengers sustained injury.

Ira Comstock, 19 Addison street, complained to the police Saturday forenoon that while his automobile was parked in the rear of the National Bank of Commerce Friday night, an automobile tire cover was stolen from the car. Samuel F. Frierman, of the Columbia Leather company, also reported that while his machine was parked near the Comstock auto, a thief stole a motor meter, kit of tools and an American Express company receipt book.

Frank H. Geer, superintendent of the New London-Hartford bus line, this forenoon requested the New London police to arrest the driver of public service auto Q-1137 for accepting the hire of the machine for a trip to New London from Hartford. The authorities would not apprehend the driver of the car, but when the machine operated by Raymond Anzovin, 13 1-2 East street, Hartford, was located on State street, Anzovin was ordered to go to the police station by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, and there the driver's address was obtained. It is the contention of Geer that Anzovin violated the law in accepting passenger hire from Hartford to this city and that right is vested in the transportation company. The police contend that inasmuch as Anzovin has been issued a public service license he is within his rights to accept the hire of his machine to New London or anywhere else.

Richard Forsyth, Jr., of Waterford, Mrs. William Howard of Essex, Mrs. Francis Montigny and infant son, Montauk avenue; Adolph Sylvia, Howard street, and Joseph Giri, Mountain avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Jesse J. Rowley, 74, died Friday night at his home on Broad street extension, Waterford. He was employed many years by the Connecticut Power company and is survived by his widow and several children. Mr. Rowley suffered a shock a week ago.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Hugh Casey, 170 Garfield avenue, to be suspended.

Mrs. Mary J. Rogers has purchased the two-story wooden building at 3419 Bank street, from Morris Schantzer. The price paid was $22,000. The structure is occupied by Peabody Brothers on the ground floor and for residential purposes on the upper floor.

Charles Neff was taken into custody last night on North Bank street when Neff was found in a helpless state of intoxication by Patrolman Clarence Martin. Neff this morning furnished a cash bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Andrew Burnett, 54 Blinman street, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Patrick Sheehan, charged with breach of the peace. He was locked up pending a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Burnett went to his home about 5 o'clock and was in an ugly mood. He started to wreck the furniture and when he did so Mrs. Burnett lodged complaint with the police.

The shoe store of William Kaplan, 613 Main stret, was damaged slightly by fire this afternoon when a box containing refuse became ablaze. An alarm was rung in from Box 15, corner of Crystal avenue and Main street, the department responding in quick time. Entrance to the store was gained by forcing a door and the fire was extinguished with chemicals.

Kaplan and several friends, it is claimed, had been in the store several hours playing cards and during the playing the cigarette butts of the players were thrown into the wooden box, among a quantity of papers. When the players had left the store but a short time a pedestrian discovered the place ablaze and caused an alarm to be sent in. The damage to the place and to the stock will be trifial.

Several alleged violators of the automobile law will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Keeler, wife of Dr. R. H. Keeler, 676 Ocean Ave. lodged complaint with Motorcycle Officer Wm. Babcock that James Miller, 31 Thames street, in driving away from the curb on Truman street, failed to give a signal. Miller was ordered to appear in the police court as was Mrs. Keeler, for the latter did not possess an operator's license.

Francis Gallagher, Waterford and Robert Burns, 19 Wall street and Alfred Turgeon, Center street, Manchester, were ordered into court for failure to give signal or reduce the speed of their machines, while passing intersecting highways.

A case of infantile paralysis has developed at Ocean Beach and in an endeavor to prevent the spreading of the contagion extraordinary precautions have been taken by the health authorities. A patrolman is stationed in front of the house, which is 44 Alewife avenue, to prevent the entrance or departure of anyone from the place. The case was revealed Saturday noon when a physician was summoned to attend a child, who had been ill a day or two. The physician diagnosed the case as paralysis and the quarantining of the place and the stationing of police there followed on orders of Health Officer Benjamin N. Pennell.

Another large crowd of men, women and children visited Ocean Beach today but the number bathing was not as great as on previous Sundays, this fact being due to the temperature of the water and the cool air.

Edward R. Burkle, 908 Bank street, was arrested this evening by Traffic Officer William Corcoran, charged with breach of the peace by William H. Maynard, 41 Lee avenue. Burkle furnished a surety on his bond of $100 in Mayer Boyer, for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. It is understood that a child of Maynard annoyed Burkle and the latter went to home of the youngster's parents where he engaged in an altercation with the father, finally striking Maynard a severe blow on the face. Burkle is well known and a few years ago was prominently identified with horse races, owning a number of fast steppers the past quarter of a century.

POETRY

SUNSHINE IN ENGLAND.

When the sun shines on England it stones
For low-hung leaden skies, and rain and dim,
Moist fogs that paint the verdure on her stones
And fill her feeble rivers to the brim

When the sun shines on England shafts of light
And hedge-bound meadows of a green as bright—
As bright as is the blue of tropic seas.

When the sun shines it is as if the face
Of some proud man relaxed its haughty stare,
And smiled upon us with a sudden grace,
Flattering because its coming is so rare.

—Alice Duer Miller, in Harper's Magazine.

A CHANTED CALENDAR.

First came the primrose,
On the bank high,
Like a maiden looking forth
From the window of a tower
When the battle rolls below,
So looked she,
And saw the storms go by.

Then came the wind-flower
In the valley left behind,
As a wounded maiden, pale
With purple streaks of woe.
When the battle has rolled by Wanders to and fro,
So tottered she,
Disheveled in the wind.

Then came the daisies,
On the first of May,
Like a bannered show's advance
While the crowd runs by the way,
With ten thousand flowers about them;
They came trooping through the fields.

As a happy people come,
So came they.
As a happy people come
When the war has rolled away,
With dance and labor, pipe and drum,
And all make holiday.

Then came the cowslip,
Like a dancer in the fair,
She spread her little mat of green,
And on it danced she,
With a fillet bound about her brow,
A fillet round her happy brow,
A golden fillet round her brow,
And rubies in her hair.

ENGINE CRASHED THROUGH WALL OF RAILROAD STATION

Locomotive and Two Baggage Cars Jumped the Track at Stoughton, Mass.—Passenger Train Was Bound From New Bedford and Newport to Boston—Two Railroad Employes Were Slightly Injured—Derailed Baggage Car Blocked Traffic.

Stoughton, Mass., Aug. 4.—The locomotive and two baggage cars of a seven-car passenger train, bound from New Bedford and Newport, R. I., for Boston, jumped the track here today, the engine crashing through the stone wall of the Stoughton station. Two railroad employes were said to have received injuries. One of the baggage cars, which were thrown immediately behind the locomotive, was thrown across the roadbed, blocking traffic on both lines.

None of the passengers riding in the five rear cars was reported to have been injured, although they were said to have been shaken up by the impact of the engine against the station. The shock was received principally by the two baggage cars.

The station was said to be empty at the time except for two children who climbed to safety through a window. The only injuries at first reported were suffered by the engineer whose knee was said to have been hurt, and by the gate tender, whose head was cut.

The injured included: Engineer Frank P. Stucke of Hyde Park, who suffered an injured knee cap and a severe gash on the head near the eye; Fireman E. R. Brown, Mansfield, scratches and bruises; and Gate Tender Florin Robichaud, whose head was severely cut and who suffered injuries to his abdomen and possible fractured ribs. All were removed to a Canton hospital.

The accident occurred at about 4.35 daylight saving time. The train was due in Boston at 5.10 p. m.

Railroad officials tonight could assign no cause for the derailment, which occurred as the train was traveling at full speed, no stop being made at Stoughton.

Fireman Brown jumped as the engine first left the rails, his action probably saving him from death or serious injury, for the locomotive turned over on the side occupied by the fireman as it plunged through the wall into the waiting room. Engineer Stucke climbed out through the cab door as the locomotive lay in the station, completely occupying the ladies' waiting room.

The first baggage car turned over on its side, fouling a freight on a siding and blocking the tracks. The second baggage car turned only partly over and also was thrown across the tracks.

It was expected that traffic would be blocked for several hours and trains were re-routed through Mansfield.

FIVE NAVAL VESSELS TO PATROL THE FLIGHT LANE

On Board U. S. Destroyer Barry, Indian Harbor, Labrador, Aug. 4, (by the A. P.)—When the American round-the-world fliers take off from Greenland on the final North Atlantic leap of their globe-encircling flight, five United States naval vessels will be patrolling the flight lane underneath them.

The special squadron, sent northward to prepare the way for the fliers and to aid them on their jump to the North American continent, dropped anchor Saturday under perfect weather conditions, the day being the first brightened by sunshine in many weeks.

Commander Russell Wilson, in charge of the squadron, assigned the Barry to Cape Farewell on the southern tip of Greenland. The Lawrence to remain off Indian Harbor, and the Overland, Coghlan and Charles Ausburne to patrol the far flung lane in between. The vessels will sail for their posts as soon as the fliers get under way, keeping in radio contact with Indian Harbor and the Milwaukee which has on board Captain Alfred H. Thiesen, army signal officer, who is co-ordinating meteorological observations between the patrolling stations and the Dominion government headquarters at Ottawa.

No information from the aviators had been received until the Milwaukee reported the successful flight to Iceland of Lieutenant Erik Nelson but further information is expected today or tomorrow.

The planes, when they arrive here, will land on a landlocked bay behind a ridge of hills two miles north of where the Milwaukee landed supplies for the airmen. The weather is mild and flying conditions over the patrol line excellent.

Yesterday, the crews of the destroyers went fishing and caught a quantity of good-sized fish. Later various parties went duck hunting.

COOLIDGE IS RECEIVING ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Washington, Aug. 4.—Marking time until the national campaign gets actively underway later this month, some republican leaders who have been busy sounding out the country brought further encouraging reports to President Coolidge today.

Senator Wadsworth, of New York conferred this morning and reported conditions satisfactory in his state from a political standpoint. While alarm prevailed in the republican ranks, he said apparent dissatisfaction among the democrats forecast as substantial democratic vote for Coolidge.

Like other party leaders here he counseled an active campaign, particularly in the northwestern states, but thought an extensive speaking tour by the president would be unnecessary.

C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president, said reports of growing enthusiasm for the national ticket were increasing and predicted Mr. Coolidge would carry all states west of the Mississippi.

The president crowded most of his engagements into a few hours and again devoted considerable time to rounding out his speech of acceptance to be delivered at the formal notification exercises here August 14.

ERNEST YORK, PAWCATUCK, DIES FROM FRACTURED SKULL

New London, Aug. 4.—Ernest York, 22, Pawcatuck, who sustained a fractured skull in an automobile accident July 29th, died this morning at Lawrence hospital. York was riding in a machine owned and driven by Lawrence Main of Westerly on the Westerly-Hopkinton road when the car collided with a machine owned and driven by William F. Totten of Westerly. York was thrown from the car and landed upon his head. Main is being held in $2,500 bonds for trial on charge of reckless driving in the Third district court, Groton.

INDICTED FOR GAS BOMB EXPLOSION IN R. I. SENATE

Providence, Aug. 4.—William C. Bailey, chairman of the republican state central committee, John T. Toomey of Johnston and William (Toots) Murray of Boston, were indicted by the grand jury here tonight on charges of conspiracy in connection with the explosion of the gas bomb in the Rhode Island state senate on June 19.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Mourning Death of Joseph Conrad

Bishopsgate, England, Aug. 4.—Lovers of literature today mourned the passing of Joseph Conrad, eminent author of sea tales, who died at his home here yesterday in his 67th year. Death came suddenly. Mr. Canrad was apparently in normal health saturday morning. At noon, however, he was seized with an attack of asthma, which developed with such repidity that his physician advised the use of oxygen.

Anglo-Russian Conference.

London, Aug. 4 (By the A. P.)—A plenary session of the Anglo-Russian conference was held at the foreign office today. It was reported tonight that considerable progress toward an agreement had been made, but that some vital points still remained to be settled.

DAVENPORT HOUSE, POMFRET, BURNED WITH CONTENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 4.—The large two and a half story house on the H. H. Davenport place in Pomfret with its contents was totally destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock this evening, and the home of Albert Day next door and the Polish Trinity church and rectory next to the Day residence were damaged. Those first at the fire say that the flames had spread through every room on the lower floor. The origin of the fire is unknown, as there was no one on the place when it started. Mr. Davenport left earlier in the evening for his summer cottage at Crescent Beach. Although Mr. Davenport had been staying in the house while in Pomfret, it was announced last fall while Mr. Davenport was in Florida that he had sold the place to B. Betterman of Georgia. The household goods were owned by Mr. Davenport and it is understood that they had been made ready for removal from the premises. The fire department from Putnam answered the call for help but when the firemen got there the house was practically burned to the ground. The loss is estimated from $12,000 to $15,000.

PROTESTS RADIO AS USED ON SOUND STEAMERS

Bridgeport, Aug. 4.—Charges that Sound steamers are operating code "spark" transmitters on a wave length within that of the radio concert broadcasting were denied today by Charles J. Fannill of the Independent Wireless Telegraph Company of New York, which controls the radio sending to and from the Long Island Sound steamships.

Fannill declared the sending and transmitting was being done on 600 and 706 meter wave lengths authorized by the department of commerce. To remedy the trouble, he has appealed to the department of commerce to assign higher wave lengths to the marine stations. This will take the spark signals away from the fringes of the broadcast band, he asserted, thereby eliminating present interference.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS COMPLIMENTARY TO HUGHES

Berlin, Aug. 4 (By the A. P.).—Two scores of German newspapermen went to the American embassy shortly before noon today in order to get a "close up" view of Charles Evans Hughes, the American secretary of state.

Mr. Hughes greeted the journalists affably. He assured them that he was happy to be in Berlin, he reiterated his faith in the Dawes plan and said he hoped it would be speedily put into execution.

TRAINMEN HAVE NOT ENDORSED LA FOLLETTE

Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 4.—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen as a national organization did not join the American Federation of Labor in endorsing the presidential cadidacy of Senator La Follette, and almost certainly will not do so, W. G. Lee, grand president of the organization, declared here today.

BRITISH FLIER ABANDONS ROUND WORLD FLIGHT

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 4 (((By the A. P.)—Major A. Stuart MacLaren leader of a flight around the world by British soldiers that started at Calshot, England, March 25, announced in a wireless message received here today, that the venture had been abandoned at Nikolski, Komandorski Islands, Siberia.

STATEMENT ON REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK BY WM. M. BUTLER

New York, Aug. 4.—Chairman William M. Butler of the republican national committee, after conferring with party leaders here today, disputed LaFollette's claim to the northwestern states.

"I do not think there is going to be any LaFollette sweep in the northwest," he said. "I don't get it. I was out there for a week or ten days and I did not get any such impression."

Chairman Butler expressed confidence in the success of the republican national ticket and said not only the words of leaders but the comments of average citizens throughout the country formed the foundation of his belief.

"Our campaign at present may not be quite spectacular, but I cannot say that causes me any regret. From the beginning there has been a general harmony as to our campaign and to our platforms."

Regarding the situation in the northwest, Chairman Butler predicted that the increased price of wheat would have a great deal to do with the success of the republican party.

"There has been a marked change out there," he said, "and the farmers are looking forward with a hopeful attitude toward the future."

Commenting on the American Federation of Labor's endorsement of LaFollette's candidacy, he said:

"I have not got it into my mind that there was any direct endorsement of LaFollette by the federation, but whatever the endorsement of LaFollette might have been, the labor people will continue to separate and choose candidates as they have always done."

During the day Chairman Butler announced the appointment of Helen Varick Boswell to assist Representative John Q. Tilson, who is chairman of the speakers' bureau of the eastern campaign headquarters.

DAVIS IN CONFERENCE WITH GOVERNOR SMITH

New York, Aug. 4.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York conferred here today, but the subject of the governor becoming a candidate to succeed himself was not discussed.

Mr. Smith previously had made up his mind not to offer himself for renomination and with this knowledge at hand, Mr. Davis did not urge him to do so. The nominee had stated beforehand that he decision was one left solely with the governor.

Mr. Davis and Governor Smith canvassed fully the situation in New York state and the east insofar as it relates to the national campaign.

"Mr. Davis and I are in fair accord on the plan of operation to be submitted to the board of strategy," Governor Smith said. He added that he would not begin to campaign for the national ticket until after Labor day and that his plans had not been fully developed.

TO RETURN 100 CASES OF LIQUORS TO DE FRITSCH

New York, Aug. 4.—Prohibition Director Merrick today ordered immediately returned to Hugo Gilbert De Fritsch 100 cases of wines and liquors seized in his East 54th street home last week in a raid by prohibition enforcement agents.

A federal inquiry has been started to determine the steps leading up to the raid on the home of Mr. De Fritsch whose wife is said to be a niece by marriage of Chief Justice aft. It has been charged that the prohibition agents obtained a warrant to search the De Frisch home on false representations.

MAY HAVE BRYAN'S NAME ON LA FOLLETTE TICKET

Great Falls, Mont., Aug. 4.—In Montana, home state of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, selected by Senator Robert M. La Follette, as the latter's running mate in the presidential campaign, the La Follette progressive party will endeavor to have the name of Governor Charles Bryan of Nebraska put on the ballot as candidate for vice president, it was said here today.

The announcement was telegraphed to John M. Nelson, campaign manager for La Follette in Chicago. Circulation of petitions naming Senator La Follette as candidate for president and Governor Bryan for second place, will be begun, it was said.

Disabled Plane May Finish World Flight

Latest Advices Say the "Boston" Might be Rebuilt and Placed in Commission in 48 Hours.

Washington, Aug. 4.—A slight hope was held tonight in war department circles that the trio of American around-the-world fliers might yet be able to complete their circumnavigation of the globe as a unit, despite the mishap yesterday to the "Boston," piloted by Lieutenant Leigh Wade.

Initial dispatches describing the wrecking of the Boston were interpreted as having put Lieutenant Wade definitely out of the flight but later advices that his machine was being taken to Reykjavik, Iceland, was accepted as evidence that a more careful survey indicated the possibility of repairs which would enable that ship to join those of Commander Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik Nelson.

A repair depot, complete in every detail, has been established at the Icelandic capital, against just such an accident as that which befell the Boston. Not only have spare parts been placed there for the engines but complete sets added of specially designed pontoons, wings, rudders and controls used in the Douglas type of airplane which make up the flight group.

As a result, army officers declared that "if the fuselage of the "Boston" is sound, she can be rebuilt at Reykjavik." It will only be necessary, they said, that the body of the plane with its internal struts and braces be available to the repair force for the "Boston" to be placed in commission in forty-eight hours.

Suggestions were made that Lieutenant Wade be issued one of the observation planes carried by the cruisers patrolling the route or that a spare plane be shipped at once from this side, but both proposals were rejected by the army air service after careful consideration. Too much time would be consumed in sending a new plane, it was decided, and the navy type was unsuited because of its limited radius of operation. The navy plane is capable of covering only 480 to 540 miles without refueling. There remains at least one hop of 500 miles in the final lap and army officials decided the "factor of safety" was too small to permit the attempt.

The extent to which interest in the world flight is being maintained was indicated by numerous messages, both telephonic and telegraphic, to the war department today seeking information as to Lieutenant Wade's mishap, his chances of continuing and proffering various suggestions for his assistance.

Citizens of Boston telegraphed President Coolidge, urging that "everything be done to enable Lieutenant Wade to complete the flight, and this request was sent to the war department from the White House. It embodied the suggestion that a new plane be made available but the department indicated that its decision would not be reconsidered, at least so far as the trans-Atlantic section was to be affected. Whether an extra plane from Langley Field might be made available when the fliers reach this side was a question still undecided tonight.

K. OF C. CONVENTION TO OPEN TODAY IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 4.—Twenty-five thousand dollars was appropriated today at the pre-convention meeting of the supreme board of directors of the Knights of Columbus to the disabled veterans of the World war. The money is to be used by the veterans' organization in maintaining its compensation liaison service.

The convention proper will begin tomorrow morning with a solemn high mass at St. Patrick's cathedral. Bishop William Turner of Buffalo will deliver the convention sermon.

"JIM" LUCEY OUT FOR REP. NOMINATION FOR LEGISLATURE

Boston, Aug. 4.—"Jim" Lucey threw his hat in the ring today. Known to the country as the cobbler-philosopher-friend of President Coolidge, James Lucey of Northampton, finally yielded to the suggestion of friends that he enter politics. Today he filed his papers for the republican nomination for state representative from the First Hampshire district.

The present duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston, receives $50,000 by the terms of the will of Mrs. Mary M. Baldwin, widow of Rear Admiral Charles H. Baldwin, who died in New York early this summer and whose will was probated in Newport, R. I.

Pushing the Plea of Childish Phantasy

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(By the A. P.)—Another expert witness for the defense took the stand today in the hearing before Judge John R. Caverley to determine the punishment of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, kidnapers-murderers of Robert Franks, and he stripped from the youths any vestige of soul, interpreted in terms of consideration for society which was left by the first psychiatrist who testified Saturday.

"Loeb told me he could contemplate committing a murder with no more conscience than was necessary in selecting the sort of pie for dinner" said the witness, Dr. William Healy of Boston, Mass. "He told me they had considered kidnaping and slaying members of his own family and that he would delight in killing, for instance Walter Bachrach, of his counsel, if he thought he would gain anything by it in the manner of publicity or pleasure of anticipation or execution of the plan."

"Leopold told me that he revelled in the fact that he had no ground for conscience," testified the mental pathologist. "He said that at an early age he began trying to kill affection, to break down any feeling for his family, and began to develop his selfish, egotistic super-man idea."

The expert was testifying in furtherance of the "childish phantasy" conclusions as set forth by the defense's first alienist, Dr. William A. White, of Washington, D. C., who advanced the idea of a merger of personalities as leading to the Franks murder.

Dr. Healy asserted "an incredibly absurd childish compact" bound the boys together from an early age and "had a bearing on the ultimate acts of the youths."

Judge Caverly refused to permit Dr. Healy to testify as to the conditions of the "childish compact" when the witness hesitated at speaking plainly in the presence of the women who predominated as spectators in the courtroom. The attorneys and judge bent over the court reporters as Dr. Healy in a low voice put into the record an outline of the compact. "This is unfit for publication" the judge asserted sternly as he motioned away newspapermen who crowded forward.

Dr. Healy assumed the witness stand at the opening of court, first going into a detailed analysis of the personality of Loeb and then taking up the mental make-up of Loeb. He devoted three hours to Leopold and still was analyzing Loeb when court adjourned.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, who has contended from the first against admissibility of expert testimony in mitigation of punishment, made only one effort today to have the hearing thrown into a trial by jury on an insanity plea. The move was checkmated by the defense and Dr. Healy's assertion that "insanity" was a legal term and had not been considered in his examination and report on the "mental disability" of the youths.

Dr. Healy's testimony, as was that of Dr. White, was chiefly a contrasting of the emotional and intellectual lives of Leopold and Loeb. With the indicated purpose of swaying the court's judgment toward mitigation in fixing punishment because the undeveloped emotional sides of their personalities had overshadowed their powerful intellects and had made them incapable of resisting putting into action the crime as built up in their childish phantasies.

"It was very clear from a study of the boys, separated, that each had peculiarities in his mental life, that each arrived at peculiarities by a different route, and each supplemented the other's already abnormal needs in a most unique way," testified Dr. Healy. "Their compact, their quarrels and their deeds all went to show a most strange and pathological relation."

"My judgment is that there seems to be some steady impairment of Leopold's judgment concerning himself, particularly his relationship to life," continued the specialist. "His day dreaming or phantasies are very important, not because we are not all subject to them, but because his early life day dreaming was so abnormal and has been carried along so abnormally. He had established a pathological personality when he met Loeb."

As to Loeb, Dr. Healy remarked that his ready acceptance of jail life, jail clothing and discipline of incarceration was indicative of his "living out his phantasy life" in which he had builded himself up as the world's greatest criminal, and, behind jail bars, the object of morbid curiosity.

Intellectual attainments of the youths Dr. Healy referred to as exceptional, particularly those of Leopold. He read into the record various lengthy tests given Leopold and Loeb, Leopold also invariably achieved perfect marks while Loeb's case, his marks in some instances graded as failures.

The boys for the most part were solemn today, smiling and whispering to each other only when the witness would make some pointed criticism of them or praise their intellectual attainments.

However, in an interview in the jail, Leopold said that he would prefer death on the gallows to having to sit and hear alienists analyze his character.

"What's a measly thing like hanging?" he demanded. "What's death, for that matter? Don't you like to go to sleep? That's all death is."

Dr. Healy will resume on the witness stand tomorrow morning with an indicated thirty minutes more of direct testimony. Mr. Crowe said his cross-examination probably would require an hour.

The presidential candidacy of Sen. Robert LaFollette and the vice presidential candidacy of Sen. Burton Wheeler was endorsed in Rochester, N. Y., by the general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, representing about 150,000 clothing makers.

FOREST FIRE CONSUMING GOVERNMENT OWNED TIMBER

Fire is Raging in Thick Timber Belt 60 Miles Southwest of Douglass, Wyo.—Two Crews of Sixty Men Are Fighting Flames, Which Threaten Thousands of Acres—Settlement of Cold Springs Has Been Destroyed.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 4.—The settlement of Cold Springs and neighboring mine buildings have been destroyed by a forest fire which is raging in thick timber in the War Bonnet district, 60 miles southwest of Douglas, Wyo., according to information received at the United States land office here.

Two crews of sixty men, led by Sheriff Albert Payton, of Converse county and Special Agent Kimbal, of the general land office, are fighting the flames, which threaten thousands of acres of government owned timber.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRE ON MT. DESERT ISLAND

Bangor, Me., Aug. 4.—The efforts of a large crew of fire fighters had failed up to this morning to subdue the big forest fire on Mt. Desert Island on the Norway drive between Town Hill and the Breakneck road. This fire was still burning furiously although the wind had shifted somewhat to the westward. No cottages were in danger. A small fire on Bubble Mountain is now under control, while the fire at the north end of the island is yielding to treatment and no houses are now threatened.

There is now considered no likelihood that the fire will reach the settlement at Hull's Cove, as was feared Sunday.

The fire at Brewer Lake is now under control, after 75 men were added to the Brewer fire department in fighting the flames. The blaze at one time reached within 400 feet of the cottages at the upper part of the lake.

ARTHUR SALTER ADDRESSES INSTITUTE OF POLITICS

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 4.—The belief that Europe is progressing and not falling back and that given peace and confidence in peace, the progress will continue, was expressed by Sir James Arthur Salter in an address at the Institute of Politics tonight. Sir James is director of the economic and finance sections of the league of Nations.

After outlining the world's economic troubles he said:

"What is wrong is not inadequate resources of inadequate effort; it is all, in one form or another, a misdirection of effort. There is a maladjustment, seriously greater than before the war, of supply and demand. The links between the producer and consumer have been broken. • • •

"What the world needs, in order to regain and extend the wide range of frictionless interchange of its productions and with it the recovery of its prosperity, is above all peace and assurance of peace. • • • Once settle the German reparation problem and so afford a basis of certainty on which statesmen and traders can build with confidence, and the economic life of the world will attain its new equilibrium."

An era of better feeling in the Americas has begun, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, said as he opened his round table at the institute. There is a growing conviction in Latin-America of the sincerity of purpose of the government and people of the United States, he added.

International loans were considered by Dwight W. Morrow, of New York, at the open conference conducted by William S. Culbertson, vice chairman of the traffic commission. Mr. Morrow stressed the large part which the small investor plays in floating foreign issues.

Mr. Culbertson in his introductory address said that internationad bankers had the responsibilities and opportunities of statesmen and that the American government had an obligation to the people to define a constructive policy toward the export of capital.

Speaking at a round table meeting on "the financial rehabilitation of Europe," Prof. Allyn A. Young of Harvard, declared that the principal ills of Europe were financial.

"As such," he remarked, "they are remedial."

LAFOLLETTE WELCOMES ENDORSEMENT BY A. F. OF L.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 4 (By the A. P.)—Senator LaFollette, in a telegram from Washington to Samuel Gompers, today thanked the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in annual session here, for its endorsement of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket.

"I welcome this endorsement," said the senator. "The importance of the support of the American Federation of Labor cannot be overestimated. I feel confident we will win."

BUT TWO POINTS TO WHICH GERMANS CAN OBJECT

London, Aug. 4 (By the A. P.)—The main German opposition to the program for launching the Dawes plan which the inter-allied conference had ready to lay before Chancellor Marx and his colleagues at noon tomorrow, is not expected to be directed, in the main, against the actual agreements arrived at in the Downing street conference room during the last three weeks but rather against an issue which has been kept entirely outside of the conference—that of military evacuation of the Ruhr.

According to a high American authority, there are but two points in the program to which the Germans can raise even a technical objection. One is the extension of deliveries in kind of coke, dyes and coal beyond the Versailles treaty date of 1930. The other is arbitration of the question whether financial maneuvers are taking place in Germany to defeat the functioning of the Dawes plans.

On technical grounds both of these objections would have to be considered, according to the American expert who is considered to have the greatest knowledge of the Dawes plan. Extension of deliveries in kind beyond 1930 were anticipated neither in the treaty nor in the Dawes plan. Under the new regime, however, such deliveries are to be paid for by the funds of the present general and not by Germany as heretofore so that the German objections could hardly be justified, according to the American authorities.

TOOK SUIT OF CLOTHES BELONGING TO PATIENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Aug. 4.—Lieutenant Frank McLean of the police department received a telephone call from Norwich shortly after daybreak Monday that Lawrence Shriar, an inmate of the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium, had left the place and had taken with him a new suit of clothes belonging to another patient. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell was of the opinion that Shriar was on his way to this city and he had surmised correctly for the man was aboard the trolley car when it reached the Main street terminal. He was taken into custody by Lieutenant McLean and later in the forenoon Chief George Linton came for Shriar and took him back to Norwich. Shriar is 18 and formerly resided in this city. The suit which he had taken and was wearing was measured as being at least six sizes too large for him and it hung from every angle.

JEWETT CITY GIRL IMBIBED TOO FREELY

New London, Aug. 4.—A Jewett City girl of 18 came to New London last night and went to Danceland at Ocean Beach with several companions. During the late evening she went outside the hall and did not return for 15 or 20 minutes, but that was long enough for her to become intoxicated for she met a male companion and the two imbibed from a bottle of "hooch." When the girl returned to the dance hall it was with great difficulty that she managed to ascend the stairs. The girl was refused admission to the hall by an officer on duty there and Policewoman Jane Cassidy took charge of the girl, causing her to be removed to the police station. The girl leased into unconsciousness and it became necessary to summon a physician. The girl was given a place to sleep for a few hours after which she was given over to the care of her companions, returning to her home by automobile.

STONINGTON BOY STRUCK, HAS FRACTURED SKULL

Westerly, Aug. 4.—John Wood, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wood, of Stonington, is a patient at the Lawrence hospital, New London, suffering from a fractured skull, a result of being run into about 3.30 o'clock this afternoon on Cutler street, Stonington, by the automobile driven by William Lamoreux of 55 Morse street, Pawcatuck. Dr. H. T. Thurber of Stonington was called to attend the boy. The case was investigated by Officer Christopher Ledwith.

NORWICH CAR FIGURES IN GROTON COLLISION

New London, Aug. 4.—An automobile, owned by John H. Tefft, 108 Broadway, Norwich, and operated by Mrs. Eva B. Tefft and a machine owned and driven by Patsy Morane, 90 Heath street, Hartford, were in collision this afternoon on Thames street, Groton. Both cars were slightly damaged, but none of the occupants sustained injury. The collision occurred when both automobiles became jammed in traffic caused by an approaching trolley car.

TWO PLAINFIELD YOUNG PEOPLE DROWNED WHILE BATHING IN RIVER AT CANTERBURY

Miss Amy R. Dorrance, 15 Year Old, and Louis MacFarland, 18, Parties in Double Tragedy

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, Aug. 4.—A double tragedy occurred at Babcock's grove this afternoon when Miss Amy R. Dorrance, 15, and Louis MacFarland, 18, both of Plainfield, were drowned while bathing in the Quinebaug river.

The couple were in a party with George Dodge, a cousin of Miss Dorrance, and Miss Iona Barstow.

The couple were about a hundred yards apart in the stream when the tragedy occurred. Mr. Dodge, who was in the party, said that it was a mystery how the pair were drowned. He said that the first he saw was Miss Dorrance struggling to get out of the water. He went to her assistance immediately but she went under before he reached her. He called for help and John Gallup and Harold Randall, who were haying in a nearby field, answered Mr. Dodge's cries and lifted Miss Dorrance out of the water. Miss Dorrance was unconscious when carried to the shore. They tried to bring her to consciousness but were unable, so they summoned Dr. A. A. Chase, who applied the pulmotor, but without success.

Mr. MacFarland, who it was said was a good swimmer, had taken a cramp in the leg a few minutes before the accident.

It is supposed that Miss Dorrance died of fright and not by drowning, as she was in the water a very few minutes before she was rescued from the water. The spot where the accident occurred the water was very low, about three feet deep, with a ten foot channel running through the center.

Mr. MacFarland's body was still in the water at 7.30. About twenty fellows diving around and in boat looking for body.

Miss Dorrance leaves behind her a sister, Joanna, and brother, Samuel. She was 15 years of age. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dorrance, the couple killed in a railroad accident in Plainfield last March.

The parents of the boy could not be located.

WILLIMANTIC

Breach of the peace and resisting an officer were charges preferred against John Laska, of the lower village, in the police court here Monday morning. To overthrow the weight of testimony offered for the state by Officer Fred Coriaty, who made the arrest, Laska said that he would produce over a dozen witnesses. The case was then continued until next Saturday morning. Officer Coriaty testified that after the closing of the dance at the hall on Brook street Laska did not leave with the crowd. He expectorated on the floor and insisted on going into the ladies' toilet room. When told by the officer that he had better go home or he would be ejected Laska bucked up against the officer and said that if there was any throwing to be done he would take [illegible] out at this point Laska's wife, Emma Laska, started a battle with the upholder of the law and order. She possessed herself of the policeman's club which was recovered with difficulty and then came back for another tussle. The cops whistle was blown and within a few minutes a brother cop appeared and the couple were taken to the police station. Mrs. Laska was charged with interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty. Officer Coriaty said that Laska was free with his abusive language and created a breach of the peace in general.

Laska told of going to the dance and having a good time. He was standing quietly in the hallway when the officer told him to get out, using an emphatic h—— in giving the order. He flatly denied expectorating, or attempting to enter the ladies' room. His wife told the officer that her husband was all right and that he should let him alone. Laska did not see any fussing over the club nor did he hear any swearing. He said that Coriaty told his wife that he was going to shoot Laska. He further claimed that the officer called his wife a vile name at the police headquarters. In rebuttal, Officer Coriaty denied some of the statements made by Laska. The court then continued the case. No evidence was taken in the case against Mrs. Laska, charged with interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty, nor was she put to plea.

Storrs has been firmly established, through the success of this year's Farmers' Week, as the one and only place for farmers and rural workers of the state to gather to learn new theories and study methods of practice in relation to agriculture which tend to abolish the old and more primitive methods. During the week Connecticut Agricultural College was visited by over 2,000 and there was something for everybody every day, in accordance with the slogan of the committee in charge. Carl Marks of South Manchester cleaned up the records in the dry picking contest. He plucked two birds clean in 11 minutes and eight seconds. The program for the week came to a close with an inspection of the egg-laying contest and a banquet in the evening to Dr. E. H. Jenkins, director emeritus of the experiment stations. Dr. Jenkins delivered an address on Education—the Old and New, in which the little red schoolhouse of sixty years back was compared to the modern stately appearing institutions of today, with its improvement in methods.

Jake Kresowitz of Post Hill, Columbia, will be charged with assault and battery on Jennie Silverman of Colchester at a session of the Columbia town court to be held at Yeomans' hall, Friday night. Kresowitz was arrested by Sheriff Allison L. Frink of Andover, Saturday night, at the instigation of the Silverman girl Miss Silverman, who comes from New York, and her brother, Harry Silverman, a resident of Colchester, were picking grapevine leaves which they ship in quantity to New York. They had obtained the privilege to pick the leaves on property opposite the Kresowitz land, but they crossed the road and there their work was interrupted by the owner. Kresowitz told the Silverman woman to drop the leaves which she had already picked and which she held in one hand but she refused and he took her arm to make her open her hand and in some manner she was struck in the breast. Harry Silverman came to her rescue and for a few minutes there was a general mixup, which quieted down when Jennie Silverman said that she was in pain. A warrant was made out for the arrest of Kresowitz on the above named charges. It is expected that a counter-charge of trespassing will be brought against the Silvermans. Kresowitz has been released under bonds of $25. The case will be tried before Justice of the Peace H. P. Collins, Grand Juror Joseph M Clark, prosecuting.

Mrs. A. Zegeer and daughters Olga and Corinne and Miss Mariana Kummer, are on a summer outing of two weeks at Portland, Me., the guests of relatives.

A fine house has a family living in it. It is fully furnished, meter was being put in Monday, with electricity to follow. The house is situated in the upper part of the borough. Six months ago, where the pleasant home now stands completed, was a bare lot, with grass growing upon it.

The following scores were shot on the Voluntown Rifle Club range: John Bradford made the high score for the Edmond medal, 92 out of a possible 100 on the N. R. A. target. GeGorge W. Potter of Providence, R. I., an expert revolver shot, was present. Sunday he put up some good scores with a Colt automatic pistol 50 shots on the one-inch ring target, 50 yards: John Kaufmann 496, Geo. Sheldon 487, John Bradford 486, George Krauss 466, Ramson Young 450; Christopher Krauss 442; Cecil Bradford 411. 50 shots on the N. R. A. target, 50 yards: Kaufmann 94 93 97 93 97—473; Bradford, 90 93 88 91 90—451; Sheldon 92 91 88 93 88—447. 22 Colt automatic pistol—George W. Potter 84, Clarence Kahn 73.

People who happened to be at the station Sunday to take the 1.05 trolley, saw a freight train, the like of which seldom is drawn over the local iron. One of the biggest freighters, 3286, owned by the New Haven system, was on the head end. When the engine was around the curve near the upper end of the Aspinook yard, the buggy had not crossed the lower Quinebaug bridge.

A local man who has been accustomed to keep tabs on Griswold flora, for 80 years or more, had his attention called to the great fields of wild indigo near the Westerly trolley track, near midway. There is at one place an expanse of more than 10 acres, a solid mass of the yellow blossoms of this plant. Near Stonington at one place, the local traveler says there were thousands of turk's cap lilly stems, bearing from five to 20 beautiful flowers, all in full bloom. Both plants occur in local fields, but not in such splendid profusion.

Saturday evening about 10:30 the Ku Klux Klan, probably the Plainfield chapter, met on Flat Rock. There were about five hundred present during the evening. A great many cars bearing Massachusetts Rhode Island and Connecticut markers were seen going in the direction of the assembly.

About seven o'clock an old automobile decorated with American flags was parked near Lathron's corner. It was reported that the occupant of that car directed the klansmen as to where the meeting was to be held.

At eleven o'clock it was estimated that there were two thousand cars parked at the meeting. They were lined in two rows with their headlights illuminating a lane that led to the assembly. The news went around the village that the meeting was being held and a great many went up to witness the meeting without any objection of the klansmen so long as the observers stayed within their own limits. After the meeting a cross, nearly thirty feet in height, was ignited and the meeting ended. This was the second meeting held in that section in the past week.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peltier of Pleasant street, Sunday afternoon, an old fashioned clam bake was served out doors in the shade of the trees at the rear of the house. The bake was served by Mrs. Paul Peltier assisted by her daughter Pauline. Those present were Misses Catherine and Mary Moeller of Terryville, Miss Grace Ledoux of Providence, Mrs. David Marshall and daughter Lily of Jamesbottom, Misses Ruth and Eva Higgenbottom and James King of Norwich, Roy Rossignol of Providence, Fred Walsh and Edward Blanchard of Jewett City. Later in the afternoon solos were rendered by Ray Rossignal, Miss Pauline Peltier and Miss Mary Moeller. Entertainment was furnished also by Miss Grace Ledoux and Ray Rossignol of Providence.

STONINGTON

Henry Burbach of Cedar Ledge, was before Judge William A. Wilcox in the Stonington town court Monday morning at 9 o'clock on a complaint of four counts. The session was no sooner begun than a recess of ten minutes had to be declared in order to find the record of the complaint. A thorough search failed to reveal it, however, and a new one was made out. It declared that Burbach was found operating a still at his home, Cedar Ledge, on the Westerly road on Saturday, July 26, by state officials located at Groton. The defendant was charged on the following counts: The sale and keeping for sale of liquor, reputation and manufacturing thereof. The defendant pleaded guilty and no witnesses were introduced. Judge Wilcox imposed fines as follows: For the sale of liquor, $300; for keeping for sale, $150; for manufacturing liquor $200, plus the costs of court which amounted in all to $563.58. Burbach paid the fine and was discharged with the warning that a second offense would bring him no less than 30 days in jail and a heavy fine.

The proprietor of the Eagle Bakery was also before the court charged with running it to an automobile with his car [illegible] stopping. Leaving counsel his case was continued to next [illegible]. He is under a $200 bond.

Carl F. Frensch of Bradley street and three passengers, Henry Lankes, Edward Heiners, and Arthur Rahman suffered slight injuries when their car was crowded off the road at the Poquonnoc race track, on the New London road, Saturday evening by another machine. Frensch's car crashed into a telephone pole and was demolished beyond repair. It was a 1924 Dodge touring car nearly new. The driver of the machine which crowded French off the road did not stop and his identity is unknown.

Work was begun Monday morning on the new cement highway on Water street, at the Trumbull street crossing. Nearly all the equipment of the McGann Bros., which is to be used in the construction of the new highway has arrived here and work progressed Monday at a rapid rate. The cobble stones in the gutters are being torn up and carried to other streets where they will be used and the center of the road is being plowed up by a large plow drawn by a Ford tractor. The roadbed is to be dug up to a depth of seven inches in preparation for the cement work.

AUTO DRIVERS FAIL TO USE EMERGENCY BRAKES

Hearings at the state motor vehicle department as to the circumstances surrounding a large number of automobile accidents have brought out the fact that the emergency or hand brake is seldom set before the collision occurs, according to an article on Skidding and the Use of the Emergency Brake appearing in the 1924 edition of the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Register just issued. "Only one possible reason for this presents itself," it says, "namely this brake is so rarely used for purposes of control of the car while in motion that the driver is not practiced in such use. Consequently when the emergency for which it could be useful confronts the driver, he does not use it because he is not trained and in readiness." Skidding is given as the cause of many of the accidents now reported to the department, and most of such cases are listed under the head, "reckless driving." It being shown frequently that drivers have attempted to coast down hill with the clutch out depending for control entirely upon the brakes, which are powerless against skidding.

Considerable space is given in the register to explanation of driving signals and many illustrations are printed. "It is the very proper tendency of all courts and automobile departments," according to the article, "to place a distinct burden of caution upon every driver of a car which is in good position for observation of signals given by the driver of any other car; that is, a driver approaching from the rear is held to caution notwithstanding a signal from the car in front. The fact that any signal as all is given puts the following driver to a duty of extreme care based upon his knowledge that the leader is about to do something."

The register gives the license number, car style, model, factory number and owner's name of about 80,000 passenger cars and the same information concerning about 2,000 commercial motor vehicles. Subsequent registrations will be listed in three succeeding volumes, one to appear about August 20, one about September 25 and the last about October 30. It is published by the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Register Company of New Haven, and contains, in addition to the registration information, a copy of the state motor vehicle laws, a statement of the motor vehicle department's policy of enforcement substantially as outlined in the July bulletin of the department; illustrations of important rules of the road, Connecticut headlight regulations, signalling directions, and an outline of the state highway department work now under way.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Of interest here is the financial statement of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, covering the first six months of 1924. Net sales for the period were $55,412,035, as compared with $55,439,631 in the same period of last year. Operating profits were $5,544,596 against $7,067,057 in the same period of 1923. After all the charges the company reported a net income of $4,179,190 against $6,314,318 last year.

After allowing for the dividend on the 8 per cent. prior preference stock, which takes preference over other stock issues of the corporation when dividend payments are being considered, the company reports a balance of $5.50 a share on the 7 per cent. cumulative stock, and after allowing a half year's dividends on the 7 per cent. preferred stock there was reported a balance equal to $1.56 a share earned on the no par value common stock.

The operating profits of the California company of $620,392 is not included in the foregoing settement, but was applied in the reduction of the California company deficit and is consequently an addition to the parent company equity, but is not available for interest.

It is of interest that the parent corporation's earnings have been so large during a six months' period when business has been in a slump throughout the nation. The earnings of the period have enhanced the corporation's position, which has grown steadily better since its recovery began following the business upset of 1920. The corporation's plant in Killingly is operating on a full time schedule and promises to continue to do so without interruption.

SUFFERED PAIN FOR YEARS

Mrs. Jahr Finally Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Howard Lake, Minn. — "I write to let you know that I have taken several bottles of your medicine in the last three months, and found it to be very good. I had pains and other troubles women have and was not able to do my work. Seeing your 'Ad.' in the paper, I thought of giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I got good results from it and feel able to do my housework now. I used to have lots of pains, but after taking the medicine I am relieved from pains that I had suffered from for years. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and hope this letter will be satisfactory for you to publish."—Mrs. JESSIE JAHR, R. R. No. 2, Box 81, Howard Lake, Minn.

PUTNAM

Complaint has been made to the police that the driver of a large automobile stopped at the trolley station at West Thompson and asked a young girl waiting for a car to Putnam to take a ride. When the driver of the car reached this city he refused to stop, according to the story told the police, and continued out toward the Grove Street cemetery. The young woman became alarmed and made such an outcry that the man brought her part way back to the business section and left her. The police have no description of the driver of the car and only a meager description of the machine.

A woman representative of a state organization having to do with young women has requested that the matter be made public, as a warning to girls not to accept the offers of rides made by strange men.

All of the furniture and paraphernalia of Putnam Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Woodstock, has been transferred from the top of the exhibition hall on the Woodstock fair grounds, long used as a lodge room by the Masons, to the new Masonic temple on the state highway, just outside the entrance to the fairgrounds. The building now used by the fraternity served as a lodge room years ago but it has been removed from its former site to the new site purchased by the lodge, remodeled and redecorated, and the entire building is now devoted to lodge purposes, including a suite of rooms that can be used for a club room or reception purposes. The new temple will be formally dedicated by state grand officers next October.

S. F. Fannon, considered one of the foremost authorities on business in this country, will address the Putnam Rotary club at its Wednesday luncheon. Some of the topics he will discuss are: Management, The Great Business Fallacy; Why Profits are Not Larger; What Controls Output; Three Types of Producers; The 25 Per Cent. Preventable Loss; What Controls Productive Effort and the Practical Solution. Mr. Fannon has been speaking before Rotarians in many cities and is an interesting talker.

George M. Kent of Manchester, N. H., has retired from the wood working business and purchased a home in Brooklyn where he will soon move. Mr. Kent is an uncle of C. M. and E. B. Kent of Putnam and was at one time a resident of this city.

Misses Rachael and Anna Cain, are spending two weeks with relatives in Brockton and New Bedford, Mass.

Sister Alvarez of Fitchburg, in the world, Miss Mary Louise Dupre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Dupre, Sr., is staying at the mother house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost on Church street, and visiting her parents and friends in the city.

Miss Olive Milet, district nurse at North Grosvenordale, formerly of Putnam, is spending August visiting her sister, Mrs. A. L. Parreault, at Saranac Lake, N. Y. The sister will make a trip through Canada, taking a sail down the Saguennay river.

Camp Woodstock on the shore of Black pond, West Woodstock, changed this week from a Y. M. C. A. camp to a Y. W. C. A. camp. The boys left camp the last of last week and the girls have arrived for the rest of the season. There are between one and two hundred girls in camp from Hartford, Tolland and Windham counties. Their day's program is somewhat similar to that of the boys, with athletic sports, swimming, boating, bathing and canoeing, lessons in woodcraft and the evening campfire. The group of girls now in camp will remain two weeks, when a second group will come on for the balance of the month. The camp is under the supervision of the superintendent of the Y. W. C. A. in Hartford.

Dr. Harry Foster, New York nose and throat specialist, concluded his clinics at the Day Kimball hospital Monday. During the five days he operated upon between 75 and 100 cases of adenoids and tonsils, mostly young people. While others desired his service while in the city Dr. Foster had to refuse those whom he could not operate upon in his allotted time, as he needs a rest from his work before returning to New York.

Dr. Foster was born in Putnam and was graduated from the high school. After his graduation from college he established himself in New York and has become prominent in his special line of work and was one of the first surgeons to operate on tonsil cases without instruments, using the fingers. During his vacations which he always spends in Putnam, he gives a part of his time to performing operations, especially for children.

Mrs. Helen Willey returned Monday afternoon from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and her son Prof. Malcolm M. Willey, in New York city. Mr. Willey, who is a professor of sociology at Dartmouth is substituting at Columbia College summer school for a professor who is ill.

No automobile accidents were reported to the police over the week-end. Two cases of intoxication were disposed of in the city court Monday morning, by payments of fines.

The city highway department is engaged in raising the grade of the sidewalk on the northwest corner of Main and Pomfrets street, whereby several stone steps from Main to Pomfret street will be eliminated. In making the change it will be necessary to raise the curbing and sidewalk nearly a foot from present grade. The corner has long been considered a dangerous one, especially in the winter time when there is snow or ice on the sidewalk and steps.

Players of the Putnam Country club, unbeaten in a golf match this season, will go to Woonsocket Saturday. The local players will meet their hardest opponents to down when they invade the ubber City. Putnam won from Woonsocket in the first match of the season played on the Putnam links, June 7th.

Announcements were received in Putnam, Monday, of the marriage in Boston, Saturday of Thomas W. Dobson of Putnam and Miss Mildred Louise Kuntzmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Kuntzmann. Mr. Dobson formerly lived in Putnam and was graduated from the Putnam high school after which, for a time, he worked in a grocery store on Main street. A few years ago he became identified with summer camps in Eastford and Woodstock. A year ago he leased a place on Cape Cod and started a summer camp of his own. While in high school he was one of the stars of the baseball and baseketball teams and he has a large acquaintances in in Putnam and also in Pomfret, where the family formerly lived.

Some years ago a number of children, girls, formed a society in Woodstock and called it the Pansy Band. These children are now grown to womanhood, some at the head of homes and with children of their own. Some have moved from the town of their childhood. The friendships formed have not and never will be forgotten. A few days ago a member of this band recalled a meeting of the Pansy Band at her home in Worcester. So Mrs. Ida Spalding Masters invited the members of the organization to be her guests. The following from Woodstock responded: Stella Barrett, Louise Howard Clark, Leslie and Susan Sumner, Harriet Sampson, Rilla Child, Mary Chamberlain, Helen Perley and Marion Fairchild. The hostess served luncehon and the afternoon was spent in reminiscences of the days when to each one present the Pansy Band was the most important organization in the town.

Patrolman William Durand of the Putnam police department, Mrs. Durand and Mrs. and Mrs. Emilien Durand left at three o'clock Monday morning on an automobile trip to Canada. During the absence of Officer Durand Officer Earnest Chandler will go on duty.

There are a few new bright spots in the business section. The new parking signs have been given new coats of yellow paint.

George E. Brousseau left Monday morning by automobile for Maine, accompanied by his son Teddy Brousseau. The son, who is a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is to go into the Maine woods with others from the institute, on government work for a number of weeks.

Miss Ellen Wheelock has returned to her home from a trip to New Hampshire with her cousin, Mrs. Rolfe Smith of Leominster, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dresser have gone to their summer home in Vermont.

Mrs. Vida Tetreault and daughter, Miss Juliet Tetreault, are visiting this week with New Bedford relatives.

Continuation schools for dressmakers' apprentices are maintained by the ministry of education in Czechoslovakia. Students may choose one of three courses, each of which requires eight hours a week. All of these courses include drawing and other technical subjects related to the dressmaking trade. Other subjects taught in these courses are hygiene, arithmetic, bookkeeping, and civics.

FRENCH CITIZENS INDIGNANT OVER SLUR IN MAGAZINE

Danielson, Aug. 4.—The August issue of what is known in the vernacular as a "highbrow magazine" in an article on Fifty-Fifty Americans makes a more or less vicious attack on French-Canadians. Before its close it develops into an attack on the religion of the French-Canadians. In this town, with a heavy percentage of French-Canadian residents, it has aroused the ire of numberless good people. Because of that fact, the article becomes a matter of special local interest.

No French-Canadian has solicited the comment to follow here. It is entirely gratuitious. It is written out of the experience of many years of intimate association with thme, after the good part of a lifetime of close intimacy with their ideas, their ideals and their general viewpoint of life. In a word, the article is a rank slander on a people who have done more to develop eastern Connecticut in the past half century htan any other racial group that can be named out of memory. It is an inexcusable offense against a people that furnished more soldiers and sailors for the World war out of this territory—a host of them as volunteers—than any other racial group, including those who reserve for themselves the distinction of being called "real" Americans. The French-Canadians may have their faults—and the racial groups of the United States who have not are not of record—but calling them Fifty-Fifty Americans is untrue, unjust and unfair.

French-Canadians have been severely criticised for years past because of their insistence that knowledge of the French language be a paramount consideration with them in the United States. There is little justice in that criticism. Any citizen who knows two languages is better equipped to meet the needs of life than a citizen who knows only one. If the French-Canadians have been at all in error on this matter of bilingual efficiency, it has been in insisting that people who do not know the French language use it in conversation with them when, on their part, English was not a barrier to conversation. Such occasions, however, are rare.

The implication in the article referred to that French-Canadians come into the United States not with the idea of becoming permanent residents and citizens, but with the hope that they will accumulate enough money here to return to a Canadian farm and live a life of comparative ease and comfort, as a hard worker might view life, is libelous of a race.

He who has the time can find no more convincing refutation of this than is to be found in the assessors' records of the town of Killingly. French-Canadians have acquired more property of a residential and business nature, built more property of the same kind and developed them than any other group of people who make up the cosmopolitan population of this town. Starting from zero a half century ago, they have worked and saved and accumulated more in essential values than any of the other groups of people who have labored with them. Their record in Killingly—and all other sections of eastern Connecticut—cannot be successfully challenged. They have been a hard-working, prudent, peaceful people. Their children and their children's children are among the most desirable citizens, especially when danger threatens the nation. They are Americans, and good ones. If Robert Cloutman Dexter, high paid writer that he probably is, dealt more with facts than fancies when he assails the French-Canadians he would at once offer a public apology for the false impressions he has set up against them and then set out to learn something of theih thrift and what they have done for this nation as good citizens, before ever venturing again to attack them and attribute what he regards as their frailities to the fact that they are members of the oldest Christian denomination in the world.

While not a French-Canadian, the writer pays this tribute to a great people out of a sense of justice.

WESTERLY

The August meeting of Westerly town council was held Monday morning in the council chamber of the Westerly town hall. There were present Council President Clifford W. Campbell, Councilman Morrison, Utter, Rossi, Fowler and Smith and Council Clerk Whipple and Town Solicitor Ferguson.

Charles J. Butler, chairman of the highway commission, after the reading of the minutes of the July session, spoke of the location of poles on Oak street, where the road is being rebuilt, saying that the Westerly Light and Power Co. and the Westerly Automatic Telephone Co. had poles along that highway which would have to be moved. The Westerly Light and Power Co. had put their poles back but the telephone company had poles in the highway and did not want to move them, as they have four arms while they did not want their lines under the 14,000 volt lines of the power company. It seemed almost impossible to place the lines on the opposite side of the street as trees in front of the Coduri, Jolly and Gervasini properties would have to be cut, to which the owners would not agree. Town Solicitor Ferguson suggested that General Manager William C. Clarke of the electric light company be sent for and the matter of the improvement of the condition of the Main street side of Union street was taken up pending the arrival of Manager Clark.

Union street, or "Cookey Hill" as it is called has worn down so that loose stones are thrown against the Girven show window and he is unable to get plate glass insurance. Highway Commissioner Butler said he would have the road fixed if the town would care for the damages. The high curbstone at the Washington Trust building corner was spoken of and it was stated that several parties who had sustained falls there threatened to bring suit against the town. It was decided to leave these matters to the highway commission for early action.

The matter of paying Receiver Perkins of the Norwich-Westerly branch of the Shore Line Electric road for the parcels of land amounting to $925, he having paid taxes due the town as per agreement was taken up. It developed that the deeds were not as wanted with the accompanying plat and Council President Campbell, the committee on the deal had incurred a bill from Rossi and Lewis to the amount of $150 which the council wished the highway committee to pay and it was decided that the council attend a meeting of the Westerly Highway commission, Monday afternoon to urge payment of the bills.

Manager Clarke of the Westerly Light and Power Co. said that his company had been trying to get permission to move its poles, but the telephone company objected to having the 11,000 voltage wires above their saying that although the telephone company might have located their first, as they claimed and the 5,000 voltage was the limit allowed them by state authorities, nevertheless the National Electric Light association and the A. T. and T. engineers were endeavoring to have the limit raised to 11,000 which he thought would eventually be agreed upon. Mr. Clark said that the electric light company raised their voltage on the Oak street poles when it was found that the motors at the Sullivan quarries could not operate on the lower voltage. Solicitor Ferguson said that the telephone company had rights only as far as Haswell street and the regulation of poles was under the jurisdiction of the council. On motion of Councilman Fowler it was voted to leave the matter to the lighting committee of the council to confer with the light and power and telephone company and highway commissioner, for the best way out of the matter.

Arthur N. Nash, accompanied by Andrew W. Fisher came before the council with blueprints for a platform which he proposed to have placed alongside the Stanton Bazaar, without any additional obstructions in the Pawcatuck river. On this platform which would be 10 feet wide on the Pawcatuck river bridge side and extend back about 40 feet, he wished permission to locate his temporary store building, now located between the Rhode Island hotel and new Washington Trust building. He wished to move there in September. As his building was of light construction, it could be moved there after the platform with side supports on the Fisher block were completed, in part of a night. On motion of Councilman Utter, it was voted to refer the matter to the building committee of the council for investigation and report back to the council for action within a week or ten days. In the discussion it was said that the federal engineer in Providence did not approve previous plans for the erection of buildings on either side of the Pawcatuck river, as this had become government water, after the Pawcatuck dam was washed out and it seemed to be the general impression that approval would only be obtained for a temporary time.

Horace E. Burdick addressed the council in behalf of Lewis J. Powers who has recently had a house removed from Springfield, mass., to Watch Hill and re-erected on the Westerly road at the junction of Misquamicut road at the entrance to Watch Hill. Mr. Burdick said that a fountain had been purchased and it was desired to have it erected if a lease could be obtained from the town of Westerly of the unused section of highway at that point, now that the turn had been widened. It would probably be impossible to purchase it outright as the water mains were laid through that section. Mr. Powers stood ready to spend considerable money at that point and Mr. Burdick said that the town would benefit if the lease were granted. The council decided to view the grounds before making any decision.

The following police bills were voted paid: For autos $25.60; special officers, $24.50; motor police $14.13; traffic, $66.68; telephone and telegraph, $38.75; miscellaneous, $12.41; total $182.07.

Town bills: J. M. Pendleton, treasurer, re pay water works bill $3318.94; sewer, $407.73; poor department, $503.30.

Paul McCarthy of Potter Hill was voted a special constable on the recommendation of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. W. Russel Dower was voted a special constable with power to serve papers. The council voted to authorize the issue by Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton of the town's note for $19,000 and another not for $3,805, the interest rate being 4 per cent.

Councilman Rossi took up the matter of sewer drains emptying into brooks not only in the Pierce street section but other brooks about town, and said that on Pierce street conditions were bad. It was [illegible] to draw up an ordinance relative to having sewage connections made by April 1, 1925. Councilman Smith asked about the progress of sewer installation and was told that the filter beds would be completed in about two weeks.

As the September session of the town council would fall on Labor day it was voted to hold the same on the first Tuesday in September.

C. Palmer Chapman was granted a milk license.

A letter was received from a committee, H. D. McParland and Maurice Laing of the Rhode Island Ones Fire Co., asking that the town hall be leased the mat a reduced rate next September and October for their annual fair. The town clerk was instructed to reply to the effect that rate for the use of the hall had already been established.

The following building permits were O. K.'d by the council. Adelaide L. VonGlahn, Beach street; Angelo Parnigoni, Bradford; Mrs. H. Lepper, John street; J. P. Alderman, Pleasant View; A. R. Gavitt, alterations at Bliven Opera House, Main street; and Annie S. and Simon E. Kinney, at Pleasant View.

Intoxication 5, exceeding speed limit, 15; operating automobiles without licenses 5; peddling without licenses 6; peddling without state license 1; illegal possession of liquor, possession of liquor and transportation of liquors 3, passing standing trolley 2 and operating an automobile with cutout open 1.

Two liquor raids were made.

Councilman Charles Fowler asked if the matter of naming a sergeant of police could not be taken up. Council president said it could be taken up at an executive session at the close of the council meeting.

Permission was granted Daniel Larken to run a bowling alley. If the obstructions were removed from windows, Thomas Salemano could have a license to run a pool room at 38 Canal street. Manager Dutton was granted a tavern license for the Plimpton hotel at Watch Hill. A letter was received thanking the town council for their assistance in making the 18th annual state encampment of Rhode Island department, United Spanish War Veterans, recently held in Westerly, a success.

Solicitor Ferguson brought before the council, at the request of Representative Samuel H. Davis, the matter of making an appointment, that the town might receive mother's aid from the state of Rhode Island.

It was estimated that mothers' aid would require from $1,200 to $1,500 for the rest of the year and Westerly was the only town in the state which has not taken advantage of the act. By the act, a committee of not more than three or one director, the latter proving more efficient, is to be named by the town council. Miss Maud Price, in charge of the Community house of the Lorraine Manufacturing company, Pawcatuck, was named as director with salary at $20 a month. She will have weekly office hours and make weekly reports to the state, as well as to the state director. No one who owns property or has $300 in the bank can apply for state aid, all applications having to be sworn to and the families of the applicants have to be visited by the director a certain number of times.

President Clifford W. Campbell then moved that the council go into executive session for the naming of a sergeant of police in Westerly to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Donald Ferguson. The president directed the newspaper reporters to retire and the executive session was on for the next fifteen or twenty minutes and at the conclusion of which at was the general impression that no sergeant had been named and perhaps would not be for another month.

Miss Jessie Aitken of Westerly spent the week end with relatives in Boston and on her return home was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Helen Sharpe.

Edward A. Montague of the West Side, letter carrier No. 3, Westerly postoffice, who has been at the Lawrence hospital, New London, returns to his home in Pawcatuck today (Tuesday) after a successful operation for appendicitis.

Miss Mary M. Lynch of White Rock is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch, in Webster, Mass.

William T. Keleher of New York has returned after three weeks' vacation passed with his sisters in Westerly.

A passenger on the Sunday accommodation train (baggage car), west bound, was a nearly full grown elephant, which occupied the forward end of the baggage car, just back of the locomotive.

After a visit of three weeks with friends in Westerly, Mrs. Mary DiNatalo and her husband, Westerly residents seven years ago, returned to their home in New York city Sunday.

Homer J. Cummings, former chairman of the state democratic committee of Connecticut, and Mrs. Cummings were week end visitors in Pawcatuck.

A New York Sunday newspaper said: Most of his life, Michael Faris, a farm hand, of 151 West Broad street, Westerly, R. I., has driven straight furrows across plowed fields, but when he drove his small car along Eighty-sixth street, near Seventh avenue, in Brooklyn, yesterday, the course was entirely zigzag, according to the police. So he was arrested and arraigned in the Fifth Avenue court on charges of violation of the Sullivan law, violation of the Volstead act, speeding and continuing in a motor vehicle after striking a human being.

His two companions, Joseph Kudahy, 650 Seventy-eighth street, Brooklyn, and Eliah Esper, 87 Washington street, Manhattan, were charged with vilolation of the Volstead act.

Police charge that Faris grazed Joseph Jessup, ten years old, of Seventh avenue and Eighty-sixth street, and threw him to the curb. Faris did not stop, and Patrolman Alexander Moeller commandeered a car, overtaking the other a few blocks away. Moeller said that, in addition to three quart bottles of whisky in the machine there was a 32-calibre pistol.

Faris was held for a hearing Thursday. The Jessup boy was not seriously injured.

According to the Westerly directory 151 West Broad street, is in Pawatuck and the residence of Mrs. Leone Ball Cottrell, widow of Edgar H. Cottrell, formerly president of the C. B. Cottrell & Sons Printing Press works.

Breed Theatre

Closing a three days run at the Breed theatre, where it has shown to enthusiastic audiences, "The Blizzard," a William Fox drama of Sweden, will show for the last time tonight. The picture was adapted from "The Story of a Country House," by Selma Lagerlof. The acting of Einar Hansson and Mary Johnson in the leading role, is superb. A real blizzard scene in which a herd of reindeer stampedes, is one of the most remarkable flashes ever filmed.

Tomorrow and Thursday the Breed will present the greatest double feature program ever offered in this city. Each feature is a star feature in itself. The first feature is Thomas H. Ince's whirlwind comedy drama "Sailoping Fish" with some of the screen's cleverest comedians, including Sidney Chaplin, Louise Fazenda, Ford Sterling, Chester Conklin Lucille Ricksen and a trained seal.

The second offering is Thomas's Dixon's mystery drama, The Mark of the Beast. This is a play with a big theme and tense dramatic action. It is the story of a sub-conscious mind by the author of The Birth of a Nation. Don't miss this big double bill tomorrow and Thursday.

PALACE THEATER

Sills in the role of Perry Jordan loves his wife with every ounce of his being. But, having courted and married her, he rests on his laurels, gives his business the bulk of his attention and accepting his charming wife in a matter-of-fact way.

And so into the neglected life of this wife comes another man. He offers her the love her heart craves. Life becomes a perplexing, incomprehensible tangle to her. And when the hand of Fate intervenes in the form of an accident to Perry the little wife sees the light and rediscovers the love that flames new in her husband's heart.

Single Wives boasts an exceptional cast in addition to Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills, including Kathlyn Williams, Lou Tellegen, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick.

Coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday The Code of the Wilderness with Alice Calhoun and John Bowers, also showing of the local movie stars. New story of the Telephone Girl and Pathe Review.

Popular Excusion to New York Next Sunday

The popularity of the special excursion from this city to New York and return recently operated by the New Haven Railrod has lead the officials to schedule another similar excursion for Sunday, August 10th.

The fare will be the same as for the previous excursion, namely, $3.00 for the round trip which is less than the regular one way fare between this city and New York.

The local ticket office reports that these excursions are proving most popular with the big league baseball fans, who welcome the opportunity to visit New York and take in the ball game in the afternoon. Next Sunday there will be a game between Cincinnati and New York, and St. Louis and Brooklyn which should prove great drawing cards.

Other groups are planning to go on the excursion and spend the day at Coney Island, which with the possible exception of Atlantic City is the largest amusement center on the Atlantic coast.

The complete schedule of the special train is as follows: leave Norwich at 6:30 a. m., New London 7:00 a. m., arriving at New York (Grand Central Terminal) at 10:05 a. m., Eastern Standard Time. Returning the excursion special will leave Grand Central Terminal at 6:30, p. m. and arrive at New London at 9:30 p. m. and Norwich at 10:05 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Special excursion tickets are now on sale at the railroad station ticket office and will be strictly limited to the seating capacity of the special train, the number of tickets being divided equally between Norwich and New London.

BROADWAY THEATER

The title The Spirit of the U. S. A., fits superbly the dramatic photoplay on view at the Broadway theater and revealed for the first time yesterday.

Emory Johnson, creator of such memorable photoplays as In the Name of the Law, The Third Alarm, Westbound Limited and The Mail Man, add further laurels to his record with The Spirit of the U. S. A. It deals in terms of powerful, human drama with which most of us are familiar—that period of stress and turmoil just previous to America's entrance into the great war and thereafter, when our gallant doughboys were fighting the battle of civilization in the shambles overseas.

Written by Mr. Johnson's mother, Emilie Johnson, The Spirit of the U. S. A., is strong in human qualities. Mary Carr is the mother and Johnnie Walker is the son, who goes to the front as a worker in the Salvation Army, rather than stay at home because he has been turned down by the army because of defective eyes.

Good For Children

Oatmeal is one-ninth protein, the body builder. It is a laxative food, and everybody likes its taste. As a food for children, nothing else compares, and as a vim-food it has age-old fame.

Because of these qualities, we recommend oatmeal as a daily part of your household diet. Its low cost makes it highly practical. When you think that a pound box of oatmeal is equal to 25 eggs——you realize how exceedingly economical this strength-food is.

The Quick-Quaker oats, now sold by all grocers, are the same queen oats that the world has been eating for many years. These new oats cook in three to five minutes, no longer than it takes to make the coffee.

There are many delicious dishes that the ambitious housewife prepares with oatmeal. If you are not serving oatmeal in its many tasty forms at your family table, you should begin to do so.

Lyceum Theater, New London

Edgar Selwyn has completed the cast of Dancing Mothers to be produced at the Lyceum theatre New London, Friday and Saturday August 8th and 9th, preliminary to the New York engagement which occurs immediately following the local engagement. It includes Mary Young, Helen Hayes, John Halliday, Henry Shephenson, Elsie Lawson, Anita Booth, Michael Dawn, Authur Metcalfe, Timothy Thomas, Ruby Blackmon, Hugh Brooke, Albert Marsh, Edgar Brooks, Grace Burgess, Rodolfo Baldaloni, Joan Cochran, Adin Wilson, Walter Folmer and Ella Peroff. The play has already had a most successful tryout in Washington and Atlantic City.

The dancing mother of the play is no relation to the artificial, jazz-struck grande dame who recently has become a popular subject with the cartoonists and comic artists. She is the mother who spends her entire time thinking of home. When she has devoted her best years to her task, she suddenly learns that her husband is a gay old boy, inclined to roving from the hearthstone, while her idolized daughter has developed in to a most unlovable, vapid, selfish slave to gayety.

INCREASING GUN RANGES.

There should be no great difficulty in determining whether there would be a violation of the Washington disarmament agreement in the American plan to increase the range of guns on our capital ships over which the British government has made a protest. The good faith of both nations is to be assumed. Certainly the United States, at whose initiative the disarmament conference came into being, should not be the first to attempt what might be called evasion of the treaty terms, and we give the British government credit for sincerity in its representations that the American plan is a contravention of the treaty terms.

One plan that might be followed would be to obtain the opinion of those who played prominent parts in the Washington conference. As far as known they are all still living and it would not be difficult to get their views of the treaty. These men know what they meant and their views would be entitled to serious consideration. At any rate the case is one peculiarly susceptible to arbitration since it involves the construction of a treaty. The language of the treaty bearing upon the American proposal is that "no alterations in side armor, in calibre, in number or general type of mounting shall be permitted." The contention of our naval authorities is that a change in elevation of the guns is not a change "in general type of mounting" and that the treaty does not forbid the improvement of old ships so as to get the greatest efficiency from their existing equipment. It is said on the other hand that the treaty was designed to prevent any increase in the efficiency of these ships since its purpose was to maintain naval strength as it was when the treaty went into effect. It is said that the British have discovered a way to increase the range of guns on certain of their ships by tilting the ships themselves and that American ships are now outranged by the British.

The case is one that calls for the utmost good faith all round. For without such good faith no treaty would be of any value. What is to be determined is the meaning of seventeen words—"no alterations in side armor, in caliber, in number or general type of mounting shall be permitted." These words should be strictly construed as against all the signatory powers.

LEADERSHIP AND THE POPULAR WILL.

Speaking to representatives of the French, British, Canadian and American bars in Paris, Charles E. Hughes, as president of the American Bar association, reminded the sorely perplexed democracies of Europe which are still struggling with post-war problems, that "there is no cure for the distress and unrest that are the natural consequences of the war save as we may find it in the disposition of peoples intent on the interest of peace."

This is a truth that is simple and obvious although often overlooked, but it is worthy of all the emphasis that can be placed on it in current discussions. But there is another equally important truth that can be stressed, namely, that even peoples intent on the interests of peace require and long for courageous, sincere and outspoken leaders to show them the way to tranquility and peace. The spirit is much, but it is not everything. Good will needs the aid of trained intelligence and reason to make it effective.

Democracies are amenable to wise counsel, which is what that keen observer of popular government, the late Lord Bryce, meant when he said, in his latest work, that "democracies are what their leaders make them." A nation, like a smaller community, can be educated upward as well as downward. It can be directed into paths of peace and progress and cooperation, but it may be inflamed by demagogues who know how to arouse the baser and baser passions of men.

True leaders of democracies not only appeal to conscience, justice and humanity, but point out how particular obstacles to peace may be removed, how appropriate peace machinery may be set up and made to work and how steady, if slow and gradual, advance may be made towards the right goal. The people are not to be blamed for the moral and intellectual failures and weaknesses of their leaders, though perhaps they are to blame for not having developed sound leadership by refusing to be content with any other.

WALL STREET HISTORY.

It is a satisfaction that the commercial spirit in New York is not to be allowed to sacrifice a place of great historical interest and that the old sub-treasury is to be kept intact as a "national historical monument." The site is splendidly historical. Here stood the original city hall, on whose steps Washington was inaugurated as the first president. Before the building became the sub-treasury it was remodelled to make a "Federal Hall." It lends a touch of dignity and quaintness to the turmoil of its modern surroundings. The statue of Washington, which stands upon the steps of the building, leaves an indelible impression upon the mind of the beholder for the pose is so majestic, so benignant, that it seems to be uttering at once a benediction and bestowing an admonition upon the abounding and matchless prosperity of America. The statue has stood where it is only since the year 1883, but it has become such a part of the hurrying life of Wall street and the city that it would seem almost sacrilege to remove it to any less commanding pedestal or any other background than the old sub-treasury.

That the material sacrifice involved in the preservation of the building as a historic monument has not been allowed to influence the decision is gratifying. Not only is land space where the building stands fabulously valuable, but every foot of space skyward, within the practicable limits of construction, is almost priceless. This condition makes all the more appropriate such a monument and such a reminder of the heroic past. It represents Wall street's tribute to the spirit of the founders of the republic.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING.

American advertisers who went to London to attend the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World evidently left their mark. The staid and dignified London Saturday Review has taken notice of the convention and Gerald Barry dips a keenly satirical pen in ink to record his impressions and the things that seemed worth noting to him. Under the title of "Spoof In Advertising," he shows that talk of truth in advertising seems to be new to him. So much was said along this line that he formed the impression that the experts who were gathered in this international clinic were spoofing not only themselves but the world in general. To Barry the gathering assumed all the solemnity of a religious service, and he has a good laugh up his sleeve at the fervor of the speakers, the manner in which they dedicate themselves to service and their insistence that no matter what product may be the basis of advertising copy, the truth and nothing but the truth, must be told. To him it seemed the only thing lacking at the convention was the singing of religious hymns at the opening of each session. He reaches the conclusion that "publicity experts are being martyred daily in the cause of 'service' and world betterment. There are sure more saints to the square mile in little old Chicago than in all the Christian calendar."

If Barry could take a short sojourn in America it would convince him that the advertisers are not spoofing. The wisdom of truth in advertising is a lesson that has been learned and has become a habit here, even if it is not noticeable in England. Any man who lies in his advertising in these days is courting disaster because the public has been taught to look for facts. If the presence of the American advertisers at the conference has emphasized that aspect to their associates from other lands, it has accomplished something of no little moment.

SUCCESSFUL EVASION.

On July 31 the reparations commission announced the Germans have thus far been credited with a total of 8,405,922,000 gold marks on the reparations account. Material seized and turned over accounts for 2,834,990,000 marks. Payments in cash and kind add to this 5,570,942,000 marks; but of these payments, the Spa loan and the cost of the occupying armies have absorbed all but 2,540,287,000 marks. Deducting her part of the Spa loan and the cost of her army of occupation, France has received about 500,000,000 paper francs, against which she has expended for the German reconstruction account about 100,000,000 paper francs. It appears that the total cash paid by Germany to the allies is much less than the amount Germany realized by the sale of paper marks in the United States. The grand total of all payments and credits is about equal to the amount of German wealth held abroad as set down by the McKenna experts committee. Five years after the treaty of Versailles became effective, the Germans have a right to point with pride to their record of successful evasion.

ADMIRATION

"I came home from shopping today on the top of the bus," said Loretta. "And there was a youngish woman sitting up toward the front in whom I became very much interested."

"Youngish is a good word," commented her brother. "Through nobody under $5 is oldish nowadays. There was a youngish woman in the office the other day. She must have been 60 but she dressed like 16. Anyway, she looked like 60."

"This girl was very fashionably gowned," said Loretta. "And she had the very latest vanity box with double covers and a triple mirror and everything else."

"I know," said her brother feelingly. "I've seen 'em. There was a girl sitting at my table at the cafeteria the other noon who had one. She also had lemon pie and soda water, but they were side issues. As soon as she sat down she began to make up her face and it took her the whole half hour to get it done to her satisfaction. When that was over she carefully combed her bobbed locks and not until then did she gobble the pie and swallow the soda water hastily and fly back to the office. I wonder how pie tastes when it has face powder spilled on it."

"My son," said Loretta solemnly, "you are very, very old-fashioned and out of date. I shall have to do you up in moth balls and put you away until you come in style again, and I'm afraid it will be a long, long time before I can use you. Well, I was telling you about this woman. She made me quite nervous; she felt of her ears so often because she seemed to be afraid something would fall off and I couldn't make out whether it was her hair or her earrings. There were two men in front of me who were watching her, too."

"Ah!" cried her brother. "Enter the hero!"

"They seemed to be rather nice men, Loretta continued. "I had a glimpse of them when I got on, young men and quite good looking. One of them picked up my purse when I dropped it as the bus lurched, and he was very courteous, even raising his hat when I thanked him, which is most unusual in these days."

"No wonder you admired them," sighed her brother. "I am surprised that you didn't ride up to the end of the line. I suppose you had on that hat with the red flower."

"By the by," Loretta went on, "the young woman began to get ready to get off. It took her quite a while, as she had to feel of her hair and tip her hat over one eye and pull up her gloves tighter, and a lot of other things. The young girls nowadays seem so uncertain as to whether or not their hair and their clothes are going to stay on that they have to keep feeling of them, just that way all the time. Finally she got to her feet and started along the aisle."

"That is some achievement on the top of a bus," said her brother. "She must have had some gray matter if she could balance herself at all as the bus went bounding over the briny deep, or whatever poets call the boulevards."

"She did it all right," acknowledged Loretta. "But it took her quite a while after she discovered those two young men. As she turned we could see she carried a cane and had on a gown embroidered all down the front in King Tut designs, as well as sunburn stockings, slippers that were a gay yellow and nothing but straps, and heels nearly three inches high, a scarf of twenty colors, a fox collar, a bright green hat that fitted like a helmet, henna hair, shaved eyebrows and so much paint she looked like a savage.

"She balanced herself for a long time in the aisle and then, with a fluttering glance from under false eyelashes, she went down the wabbly stairway. All the time she stood there, the two men gazed at her with evident admiration and she was well content. She glanced up from the sidewalk, too, and found they were still looking at her. She probably was sorry that she could not hear what they said about her afterward."

"Yes, poor thing!" sighed her brother sympathetically. "Do tell me what it was, please."

"One man looked at the other very solemnly," said Loretta. "And the other remarked very feelingly, 'What darn fools these women do make of themselves, don't they?' "—Exchange.

Lipton Homesick far from Home

Seeing no opportunity in all Scotland, Thomas J. Lipton came to America, but was so homesick that he overlooked many chances here and went back home.

Glasgow was his birthplace and the little home was a modest one. While attending the public schools he worked after hours at odd jobs, then gave up his studies to be errand boy for a stationery store.

But he could not descry any pathway toward success nearby, and at 15 decided to go to America. In three months he saved enough to buy steerage fare. Landing in this country in 1865 in a period of business depression following the Civil war, he found there was little work even for adults.

Securing a job in a grocery store, he saved enough to go to South Carolina, where he worked in the rice fields. The pay was small and Glasgow was so far away that the boy, still in knickerbockers, grew homesick. But his pride held him from returning until he had funds. He worked in the fields two years, next was a street car conductor in New Orleans and then a traveller for a portrait firm, always sending half of his earnings home.

Finally in New York with $500 saved, he started for home. In Glasgow he opened a provision store, doing all the work, and sleeping under the counter at night. The store flourished and he opened others. He began to buy direct and cornered Ireland's bacon and egg supply, then bought a packing plant in Chicago. Next he acquired fruit farms in Kent and elsewhere and operated canning plants in England and Scotland.

With 420 stores in the United Kingdom, he entered the tea business, and soon was the largest individual land owner in Ceylon.

He became one of the world's richest men, gave largely to charity, at 48 was knighted, and four years later was created a baron. As a representative of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club he tried four times to win the American cup in the International Yacht race but his vessels lost. And today, at 73, he says he will try again some day.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Jonathan M. Davis, who is seeking renomination for the governorship in the democratic primaries to be held in Kansas today, is completing his first term in the gubernatorial chair. Governor Davis is a native of Kansas, born in Bourbon county, that state, in 1871. He graduated from the public schools of his county and later attended the state universities of Kansas and Nebraska. After completing his education he went back to the soil, engaging in practical farming and the breeding of live stock on a large scale. At present he operates a model stock farm of nearly 3,00 acres in his native county. Although actively interested in politics Mr. Davis never sought public office until nominated and elected to the governorship two years ago. He has the reputation of being an earnest, fluent public speaker and a clear, vigorous writer.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

NEWFOUNDLAND

Newfoundland, Canada's sister colony, has a new chief executive, according to reports from St. Johns.

"Contrary to the snap judgment of most Americans, Newfoundland, the plug to the mouth of the St. Lawrence and rocky Labrador, are not part of the Dominion of Canada," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"Despite the fact that most maps color Newfoundland and Canada as if they were one dominion, the first discovered mainland bit of North America is as rigidly independent of the Maple Leaf member of the Commonwealth as Fiji or New Zealand is of Australia.

"Newfoundland can lay just complaint to half of Boston's title, 'the home of the bean and the cod.' If ever a place owed a debt to fish and that fish, cod, it is the seagirt 42,000 square miles of North America lying nearest to England. The word fish means cod to a Newfoundlander. All other marine inhabitants take proper names but are scarcely important enough to merit the name fish.

"One native was asked if there were any fish in a certain stream. 'No,' he replied, 'nothing but trout.'

"John Cabot, when he touched Newfoundland five years after Columbus landed in the West Indies, reported to the English king that cod were so thick they could be literally hailed out with weighted hampers. Even in modern times they are said to have been so numerous dogs could rush into the water and drag them ashore. So thoroughly is Newfoundland reconciled to cod that dogs, cows and bears eat them and when the Newfoundlander is not eating cod he consumes vegetables and crops grown on ground fertilized with cod.

"Cod, however, have this in common with certain other fish; they are sticklers for bait. It is the bait question, chiefly, which gives Newfoundland the reputation of being the cause of many near-wars. Europe's fishermen began sailing to the banks fisheries off Newfoundland the year after Cabot planted the flags of England and Venice side by side and contention over fishing rights raged until 1910, when the Hague court decided a plea of the United States.

"Herring, caplin and squid successively serve for cod bait as the season advances. Squid is highly considered as bait but commands such a high price that it is used chiefly in midsummer when the herring and caplin catch falls off. Squid is a member of the cuttlefish family, whose most widely heralded son is the octopus. When attacked it emits ink to deceive its pursuers. Newfoundland fishermen find it chiefly in the florda of the southwest coast.

"The squid is one of the few representatives of fresh or salt water caught with a baitless hook. 'Jigging,' natives call the process of wiggling the hook up and down in the water until the squid, victim of its own curiosity, rises to inspect the new toy and gets a prong in one of its ten legs.

"At first fishermen of many nations, England, France, Spain and Portugal, sailed to the banks to catch cod and dry it on the shores of Newfoundland. Even before America was discovered cod was a staple in Europe where it was known as stockfish. The value of the fisheries led England to proclaim her right to the island in 1502. Colonization was early planned and on one attempt a company for which Sir Francis Bacon was either press agent or promotion manager, pushed the idea. His rosy pictures did not insure success. The venture failed partly because the 'fishing admirals' who monopolized the fisheries did not wish the island colonized. These daring profiteers are said to have obtained an order to burn houses of fishermen.

"English, Irish and Scotch finally did come to the island and their descendants make up the great majority of the 259,000 population.

"The international struggle for fisheries control finally narrowed to England, France and the United States. France once made an effort to capture St. Johns, the principal port and capital, and many diplomatic quarrels became heated to the flash-point. Through possession of the tiny islands, St. Pierre and Miquelon, France hoped to hold her trade, but an embargo on baith from Newfoundland and other coastal territory enforced to the letter has nearly destroyed the Republic's trade.

"Innumerable lakes are the most notable feature of inland Newfoundland. One sportsman reports he fished in forty different lakes within a half-mile of one camp. They lie among old rock formations and cover one-third of the entire island. Newfoundland's climate is tempered greatly by the ocean but usually snow is on the ground until late spring and winter clothes are often worn through June. Snow remains on the 2,000-foot ridge, which bears the picturesque name, 'Topsails,' until August.

"Of the exports, which totaled more than $20,000,000 in 1923, 'hard' or dried cod represented $13,000,000. This product goes to England, Italy, Spain, France, the United States and the West Indies. In farm climates it is a food which will not spoil and yet is relatively cheap. Much of the paper for some of England's greatest newspapers comes from Newfoundland where it is manufactured in a plant built by the late Lord Northcliffe. Iron ore, seal and cod oil are other major products."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

THE WITCH

You remember what the toad said in the story before this, that everyone who came into their kingdom would lose his fingers, don't you? Wasn't that a dreadful thing for Little Jack Rabbit to hear? Well, I guess it was, and there were so many toads that if he tried to get away he would have stepped on them, and you know what an awful feeling it is to step on a toad.

For a moment, the poor little bunny boy didn't know just what to do, until, all to a sudden, he thought of the magic ring he carried in his knapsack. Placing it on his finger, he turned it about three times. In a minute, a big white goose flew down from the sky and told him to get on her back. And in less time than five hundred short seconds the bunny boy was being carried through the air, over the tree tops and over the mountains, over the valleys and over the fountains. After a while, that good, kind goose set him down in a big farmyard. Hopping up to the Farmhouse, he knocked at the door, which was opened by a kind looking woman in a blue dress and a green apron.

"Please take me in," said Little Jack Rabbit. "I am very tired." And when he was rested, he told the good woman all about the ugly toads and how the kind goose had rescued him.

"You had a narrow escape," answered the good woman, and going over to the cuboard she brought out a little blue glass egg.

"Here," she said, "take this egg for I have heard that it will keep away harm."

Little Jack Rabbit thanked her and hopped away. After he had traveled a mile or more, he met an old witch with a basket of eggs under her arm.

"Good day, bunny boy," cried the crooked little old woman for her back was bent as a bow when a strong man pulls the cord, and her nose as hooked as a scythe, and her chin as sharp as a hatchet and her eyes like two little black beads.

"What have you in your pocket?" she asked. And I might just as well tell you she knew all the time that Little Jack Rabbit had the little blue glass egg, but, of course, he didn't know that. Oh, my no! So he took out the egg and showed it to her.

"What do you want with an old glass egg?" asked the ugly witch. "I'll give you my basket of nice fresh eggs for it."

No sooner had he given her the glass egg than away she flew on a broomstick which she had hidden under her red skirt.

Sorrowfully the little bunny hopped away and by and by he came to a village. As he was very hungry, he hopped into a shop and offered his eggs for bread and milk. But when the kind-hearted shopkeeper learned what the little rabbit had given for the eggs, he said.

And in the next story you shall learn whether Little Jack Rabbit ever got back his little blue glass egg.

Stories That Recall Others

Friendship Strained

There was to be an amateur performance and one young woman did not have a dress she thought suitable for the art of the extravagant wife, which she was to play. Going to one of the girls in the house where she roomed, she asked, "May I borrow your tan and red dress? I want to wear it in the play we are going to give."

The other girl replied, "Why, that is my very best dress. I hate to lend it. Haven't I anything else you would care to borrow?"

"No, that is exactly what I want. I am supposed to look sloppy," the new actress admitted before she realized what she was saying.

Ready to Advertise

Dorothy had been praying each evening at bedtime for a baby sister. The other day her mother while reading the paper exclaimed: I see Mrs. Smith has a little daughter.

"How do you know that, mama?"

It says so in the paper, dear. Read it to me.

Dorothy thought a moment and then said: I know what I'm going to do. I'm going to stop praying and begin advertising.

A swarm of bees lodged on the fender of an automobile owned by a Ringtown (Pa.) farmer, after having followed him for some distance. Obtaining a large packing box, the farmer smeared the inside with molasses. After waiting some time, the queen bee entered the box, followed by all the others. The box was sealed and the owner left for his home with his new acquisition.

POETRY

THOSE EVENING BELLS.

Those evening bells! those evening bells
How many a tale their music tells
Of youth, and home, and that sweet time
When last I heard their soothing chime
Those joyous hours are passed away;
And many a heart that then was gay,
Within the tomb now darkly dwells,
And hears no more those evening bells.

And so 'twill be when I am gone,—
That tuneful peal will still ring on;
While other bards shall walk these dells,
And sing your praise, sweet evening bells!
—Thomas Moore.

PASTORAL.

August:—
What time warm downs lie gold against the sky,
And the whole land with honey-bloom is sweet;
When farmers stand knee-deep in rustling wheat,
Gauging its uncut amber silently!

Still at high tide lies motionless for heat,
Brimming the Rose's cup in Summer's lap,
While she yet lingers in some green retreat,

Now whisper Autumn's lips in Summer's ear—
Now in her hand his unused sickle gleams—
The wave of joy is poised for overthrow—
The flower full-winged has but to sigh and go—
Bid them delay, ye Gods! There's nothing here
So precious as the faltering of the year
Upon the threshold of her gate o' dreams.
—Eleanor Sweetman, in British American.

A big staff of research chemists, investigating the metal at the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington-on-Thames, England, has made several valuable discoveries in a new aluminum alloy. One of the chemists says that aluminum has been slowly replacing copper in electrical undertakings, particularly for high-tension cables, and the discovery will help it to replace it much quicker. This alloy is both cheaper and of higher conductivity than copper, weight for weight.

Paratoluolsulfochloramidsodium — It is a bleaching powder recently introduced in Germany. Rather, it is an organic compound which may take the place of bleaching powder. During the war it was used as a disinfectant and experimental surgery is still experimenting with it. But the German makers see its greatest future in the housewife's washtub. They say it is much less dangerous to linen than the average bleaching powder. Lime salt derived from the compound also is said to have valuable properties as a weed killer on gravel paths. Not being easily soluble in water, the rain does not wash it away easily.

Many specimens of the Chinese wood-oil or tung-oil tree, which was introduced into Florida some years ago by the United States department of agriculture, are now coming into bearing. The oil is expressed from the nuts, and is considered one of the most valuable in the paint and varnish industry. It is one of the best drying oils known and is particularly desired in the manufacture of waterproof varnish. The tree does best in a warm climate and does not bear when frequently subjected to temperatures lower than 20 degrees. It has handsome dark green foliage which it sheds during the winter. It is estimated that there are now more than 30,000 of these trees in Florida, 1,200 of which are in bearing.

SPEAKERS EXPLAIN TAX SYSTEMS TO LOCAL TAX ANALYSIS COMMITTEE

Information and facts of great value and assistance to members of the tax analysis committee were obtained Monday evening at a meeting held at the Wauregan hotel, when T. M. Russell, president of the Russell Mfg. Co. of Middletown, explained the work being done in that city along taxation lines, and Assessor F. C. Burrows of New London explained the working of the taxation system in that city.

The meeting took the form of an open discussion at times and both speakers gave freely of their knowledge of problems such as are being faced by the local committee which had been met and solved in their respective cities.

The first speaker was Mr. Russell, who explained that Middletown realized that the board of assessors were trying to keep the system as fair as possible, but that something must be done. Discontent over the tax situation caused this feeling. People with houses just like their neighbors' houses couldn't see why the tax rate was not alike, and the same situation was general all along the line. The owners of residences then wanted the burden put on the manufacturers and the manufacturers felt that the residences should bear the burden.

Held Special Town Meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce asked that a special town meeting be held and as a result of the meeting a committee of seven was appointed from various walks of life to look into the problem. Later this committee was increased to 15 members and subdivided into three groups of five members each. Group 1 reviewed the situation as it existed; Group 2 investigated the various methods of assessment, and Group 3 took up the study of the situation and advised on assistance.

Mr. Russell then explained how the books in the assessors' office were gone over for three years back, differences noted and fluctuations checked. Houses were then listed in groups of from $500 to $1,000, from $1,000 to $1,500, and so on up by five hundreds until the top figure was reached. It was found that dwelling houses were taxed at about 4½ cents a square foot of floor space and factories at 8½ cents per square foot and that the average dwelling house was in for about $1,200.

Farm Acreages Varied.

The lists showed that farm acreages varied tremendously, all tending to show that it was impossible for the assessors to follow up all lists with the time and money they had at their disposal, although it was recognized that they were doing the best they could with the tools they had with which to do their work.

The second group of the committee recommended that experts be secured, stating that in their belief the board of assessors could not arrive at an equitable assessment on all buildings and property. Middletown then, after the committee had made its report, voted to employ experts and the work was started.

Asked what the cost of installing the system and arriving at a proper valuation, a fair adjustment of all property values, would be, Mr. Russell said that $15,000 would cover the entire cost, including the complete tax map, employment of experts and installation of a system which would insure a fair valuation of all property.

The Card Index System.

Mr. Russell then explained how an airplane map was taken, property lines checked, and then explained the working of the card index system. This card index contains, he said, the measurements of the house, character of the building, value being based on cubical contents. The character of the neighborhood, rental value and mortgage value were also figured in fixing a just and proper value. In fixing land values, said Mr. Russell, the best piece of land on any street or district was priced and the rate fixed. Then using this key piece of land, the values on all sides were computed. Manufacturers were asked to lay their books before the committee, and the same with merchants, and this is being done.

Grand List Doubled.

Asked if the grand list of Middletown is being affected by the readjustment of values to put every taxpayer on a fair basis, Mr. Russell replied by saying that the grand list would about double. Asked if the tax burden would be affected, he replied that the tax burden would work little hardship on anyone because the revaluation simply put an equitable valuation on all property. The tax rate, said Mr. Russell, would go down in proportion to the increase in the list; that is, if the list doubles, the tax rate would be about half what it was under the old system. The tax rate, he said, has been about 40 mills and under the new valuation would be about 20 mills.

Asked how the higher grand list would benefit the city, Mr. Russell said that a high tax rate based on a fictitiously low tax list tended to keep manufacturers and business away. If the grand list was where it should be, the tax rate would be lower and more people would come.

Summarizing his talk, Mr. Russell said that the work of the committee of 15 came down to three important things. Five men examined the abstracts of the tax reports for three years back, arrived at a square foot value of residence property in values at $500 classifications, this work taking about three days. They then reported back to the full committee. The second five men worked out a method of arriving at the best method of revaluing, after hearing the report of the first committee, and, in turn, reported to the full committee. The third five members then investigated methods of keeping assessors' books and reported back. The important points brought out by the committee were: fixing square foot value of property, fixing land values, dividing dwelling houses in classes by values and fixing separate values for land and dwellings.

After getting complete reports, the committee advised securing the services of experts for the work and reported to a special town meeting, and the vote was taken authorizing the selectmen to employ experts.

How New London Did It.

The second speaker was Assessor F. C. Burrows of New London, who has been through the very situation Norwich now faces, and he explained how it was done in New London, stating that 90 per cent. of the people were satisfied that they were in the tax list at a fair and just value, and, like Mr. Russell, said that no suits had been taken to court because of the revaluation.

In speaking of the situation Mr. Burrows said that New London is now realizing what Middletown expects to realize. New London has one assessor, appointed until found incompetent for filling his office. Maps were made of the entire city and the assessors given assistants to keep the work up to the minute. It cost $25,000 to revalue New London property, he said, which included also the remapping of the city, the work being done by the city engineers, as they could do the work much more cheaply, much of the desired information being already at hand.

Mr. Burrows then explained how every building was measured and placed on cards in the assessors' office. A map was made showing all the streets in the town and city, the records in the town clerk's office were gone over, lines fixed properly, necessary surveying done and at last an accurate map completed.

The city was then divided into 15 zones and over 50 meetings were held in various zones, citizens attending and fixing a value on th land they believed to be the most valuable in any district, assisting the committee in establishing land values. This same system was followed out with manufacturers, merchants and holders of property along the waterfront.

Finally a complete check-up was made and values arrived at. Of course, said Mr. Burrows, many people came into the assessors' office with complaints, but, when they were shown that their property was in at a value equal to others, they did not complain.

Tax Rate Reduced.

Asked how the taxes were affected, he said th atsome property owners went in the list for less and others for more. The grand list was increased about 25 per cent., the tax rate reduced about 25 per cent., and the city received more money with which to do business. He agreed with Mr. Russell that the lower tax rate induced people to locate in New London and that there was general satisfaction that the revalued property was fairly entered and taxed.

Chairman James L. Case of the tax analysis committee explained that Mr. Russell and Mr. Burrows had given the committee considerable food for thought and that the information they had given the committee would aid greatly in arriving at an equitable adjustment of values in Norwich. Cards of the system in force in New London were passed around showing how properyt is listed, accurate figures held for permanent file all of which gave the assessor of New London a concrete basis to work upon. Guesswork is now eliminated in New London, said Mr. Burrows, and all that remains for the assessor and his assistants is to keep recording new changes, that the list may be kept to date, allowing no chance for valuation to become unfair in the futre.

The question of new building and and alterations also came up and it was the consensus of opinion that the fire marshal's figures are of great value for city buildings and that some similar arrangement should be made for buildings in the town; that application should be made, that the assessors might have the figures in the towns.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the call of the executive committee, in September, when it is expected that more definite arrangements for th completing of the work will be made. In speaking of the work of the committee, Chairman Case said, that it was not a question of raising the tax list, but solely a question of spreading the burden of taxation, putting everyone in the list on a fair basis.

CHILDREN HELD CIRCUS PARADE IN GREENEVILLE

The children of Greeneville playground showed their originality in producing a circus parade Monday afternoon. As the parade advanced along the street the number of spectators increased, and when the parade returned to the playgrounds the number of children was increased fifty per cent.

All varieties of costumes appeared in the line. Edward Keenan, clad as a policeman, led the parade, followed by Uncle Sam. One hundred other children participated, dressed in all the costumes characteristic of a horrible" parade — monkeys, devils, clowns, hoboes, cowboys, etc. Monk Moran with nine other cowboys furnished the music for the parade on discarded wash tubs and pans. The line of march was as follows: Up Second street to Central avenue, and then to Fourteenth street; down North Main street to the playgrounds.

The children carried various slogans encouraging all their playmates to become members of the playgrounds and news items announcing the coming of the Greeneville Playground Midget Circus. The instructors feel certain that this parade and circus will be an incentive to the children to make the utmost use of the splendid grounds which the city has so generously afforded.

This is only a part of the many surprises in store for the playground children this week. The Greeneville playground has doubled its attendance records and bids fair to run off with the points offered for the playground showing the greatest increase.

STORE OWNER FOUND BAG OF DIAMONDS

A small chamois bag would have been the cause of considerable worry to its owner had not the proprietor of the store where the bag was accidently dropped by a local woman shopper, been found by him and returned to her, before it had become the possession of illegal owners. The local woman had been shopping in a store on Main street. She reached into her pocketbook for money to pay for the purchases and the bag dropped out unnoticed by the owner, onto a stool.

When she had paid for the articles purchased she left the store and went across the street into another store to make other purchases. In the meantime the proprietor who had been rearranging the articles which had been shown her, noticed the bag on the stood. He opened the bag and seeing its contents was amazed. He immediately set out in search of the woman and found her in the store across the street.

The bag contained a number of set diamonds and other set stones valued at several thousands of dollars.

BALANCE OF $606,612.50 AVAILABLE FOR HIGHWAYS

A balance of $606,612.50 is available for federal aid highway construction in Connecticut during the 1924 fiscal year, the Connecticut highway department has been informed by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture. A statement from the bureau at Washington shows that the government has allotted $1,296,614.48 to Connecticut already this year for projects that are under construction, aggregating 61.6 miles. The estimated cost of improvements under way in this state at present in which the government has co-operated is $3,411,072.42, Connecticut's share of this cost being $2,202,457.98.

Further statistics show that from June 30, 1923 to July 1, 1924 the federal aid expenditures in this state aggregated $64,365.21 on improvements costing $138,610.42. The number of miles involved was three and eight-tenths.

On projects completed prior to July 1, 1923, the federal government contributed $1,026,148.85 to Connecticut, its report shows on a total of 60.7 miles.

The federal highway is co-operating on a scale larger than ever before in the improvement of Connecticut and New England highways. In Massachusetts its portion of new construction already approved amounts to $291,788, while a balance of $928,638 remains available for that state for new projects. In Rhode Island $89,147 from federal funds is to be spent, and there remains $287,281 for that state for contemplated improvements.

TWO TELEPHONE CALLS FOR FIREMEN MONDAY

The fire department was called out twice by telephone Monday. The first call came in at 2.38 o'clock in the morning when Officer William Sharvin sent in a telephone call for a chimney fire at No. 98 High street. The fire was in the base of the chimney and the damage was slight. The house is owned by Joseph Chabotte and occupied by Angelo Farellio.

At 4.39 in the afternoon the department was called out when H. G. Peck's automobile caught fire on Sachem street. Two hand extinguishers were used on the blazing machine while the firemen were on the way and the firemen used a tank of extinguishes. A short circuit in the cable from the battery to the ignition system was responsible for the blaze. The insulation had been chafed through by the vibration of the automobile. The damage was slight.

FILES FORECLOSURE SUIT AGAINST GRISWOLD MAN

Asking foreclosure of a mortgage and possession of the mortgaged premises, Charles H. Phillips of Plainfield has filed a superior court action against Joseph N. Duff of Griswold and Beatrice Boisvert, also of Griswold.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that the defendant, Joseph M. Duff, delivered to the plaintiff two notes, one for $1400 and one for $1600, both payable to Charles H. Phillips on order or demand with interest. The defendant mortgaged to the plaintiff a lot of land in Jewett City.

The notes are still owned by the plaintiff and are wholly unpaid. Beatrice Boisvert of the town of Griswold claims to have a mortgage of $900 on land which accrued after the plaintiff's two mortgages.

ACTINOMYCOSIS RARE DISEASE IN CONN.

Two cases of actinomycosis in human beings were reported to the State Department of Health in December, 1923, and two deaths from this cause occurred in February, 1924. These are the only reports of this disease in humans in Connecticut for the past ten years.

Actinomycosis is caused by a kind of plant called actinomyces or ray-fungus. The disease is most frequently seen in cattle where it infects especially the jaw or tongue, producing what is known as "lumpy jaw" or "wooden tongue." While actinomycosis in man is a rare disease, it may sometimes exist unrecognised. One large clinic in the country has treated fourteen cases during the past four years.

WEDDING.

Reed—Powers.

In the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Michael J. Reed, son of James J., and Jane Quinn Reed of 40 Maple Grove, and Miss Loretta Catherine Powers, the daughter of Richard and Catherine Shea Powers of 5 Cliff place, were united in marriage Monday morning at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church. In the nuptial solemn high mass Rev. William A. Keefe was celebrant and was assisted by Rev. William H. Kennedy of South Coventry, as deacon and Rev. Myles P. Galvin as sub-deacon. Rev. Frederick M. Coholan was master of ceremonies.

The wedding march was played by Henry LaFontaine who presided at the organ during the service. The couple was attended by George S. Reed of Cohoes, N. Y., cousin of the groom, as best man and Miss Louise Prendergast of Munson, Mass., a cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid.

The bride was prettily gowned in white georgette over satin, with a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white gladioli. The bridesmaid was gowned in yellow georgette trimmed with silver lace, over peach color satin. Her bouquet was of pink gladioli tied with blue ribbon.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a platinum bar pin set with diamonds and that the bride to the groom, a silver license case.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents on Cliff place, about 60 relatives and friends being present.

The bride received many beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass, china, linen and other articles. She is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and was recently a teacher in the Apprarag High school. The groom served in the U. S. navy during the World war.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed left Norwich shortly after noon Monday and will spend their honeymoon on an automobile tour. They will reside at Benefit street, Providence, R. I.

Schafer—Olin.

The marriage of Harold A. Schafer and Miss Hazel Olin, daughter of Riley Olin, all of Ledyard, took place at the parsonage of the Ledyard Congregational church Saturday morning, the Rev. G. F. Goodenough, pastor, performing the ceremony.

Guardsmen Damaged Bridge.

When the national guardsmen camped at Ameston one day recently, they took one of the large trucks in the evening and motored to the lake, having a swim. The truck broke through the bridge and so badly damaged the structure as to necessitate building a new one. Nothing was said by the soldiers to any of the town officials about the broken bridge and a few boards had been thrown over the hole. The next morning Mrs. Parks drove over the bridge and broke through, but escaped without injury.

MORE FINES FOR TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS

There were a number of cases for Judge Arthur F. Libby to dispose of in city court Monday morning. The continued case of Harry Lepp, who was charged with reckless driving several weeks ago, was again continued, this time until Aug. 25. Lepp comes from Buffalo, N. Y.

Fred E. Gould, 21, an employe of the state highway department, was charged with two motor violations, for not having a license issued to him and for going to the left of the flashing beacon at the intersection of Market and Water streets. On the first count he was fined $25 and costs, totalling $33.50 and on the second count was fined $3. He pleaded guilty to both counts and paid his bill.

Thomas Chase, Samuel Gutherts and Wansell Laudagh, charged with going to the left of the beacon on Market and Water streets, paid $3 each.

Lafayette F. Caswell charged with defrauding a garage keeper, had his case nolled on payment of $5. Caswell claimed that he laid a $10 bill on the counter in payment and that it may have been taken by someone else.

Charles L. Gammon, 21, U. S. N., whose ship is in Portsmouth, N. H., was charged with driving without a license. He paid $25 and costs, totalling $33.50 for his ride from Portsmouth to Norwich.

Mrs. Gammon, formerly of Fitchville, also appeared in court, for having too much to say about the Norwich police in general. Her case was nolled.

NEW REGULATIONS GOVERN USE OF WATERSHEDS

New regulations for the sanitation of watersheds the water from which is used as a public water supply unfiltered went into effect in this state August 1st. The regulations, which were adopted by the public health council of the state department of health in June are as follows:

That no cesspool, privy or other place for the deposit or storage of human excrement shall be located within 50 feet of the high water mark of any reservoir, stream, brook or watercourse, flowing into any reservoir used for drinking purposes.

That no cesspool, privy or other place for the deposit or storage of human excrement shall be located within 250 feet of the high water mark of any watercourse or reservoir as above mentioned unless such receptacle is so constructed that no portion of the contents can escape or be washed into the stream or reservoir.

That no house slops, sink wastes, or other polluted water shall be discharged on the ground or into the ground within 50 feet of the high water mark of any watercourse or reservoir as above mentioned, and no house slops, sink wastes, or other polluted water shall be thrown on the ground within 250 feet of such waters.

That no stable, pigpen, chicken house, or other structure where the excrement of animals or fowls is allowed to accumulate, shall be located within 50 feet of the high water mark of any watercourse or reservoir as above mentioned, and no structure of this character shall be located within 250 feet of the high water mark of such waters, unless provision is made for preventing manure or other polluting materials from flowing or being washed into such waters.

The term high water mark as used in these regulations, applies to any depression into which water may flow at any time during the year.

SUIT AGAINST NEW LONDON MAN WITHDRAWN

A suit for $100,000 instituted in 1920 in the United States district court at Boston by Edward Hamlin against J. N. LaPointe of New London has been withdrawn by the plaintiff. Hamlin purchased the controlling interest in the La Pointe company from J. N. La Pointe in 1917. One of the conditions of the purchase was that La Pointe should not interest himself in a similar business for a certain period. Hamlin, in his action, alleged that La Pointe financed competing concerns, thereby violating the terms of their agreement.

HEAVYWEIGHTS AND MIDGETS PLAY TO TIE SCORE 9 TO 9 IN FIRST GAME

It was a night of surprises at the Dewell Field last evening when the Heavyweight team and the Midgets met to settle an argument for their respective managers, Ralph Patrick and Jackie Wilson, and yet the controversy remains unsettled, for the game was a draw, both teams scoring nine runs each. In speaking of surprises, the Heavies surprised themselves, as well as the several hundred spectators; the Midgets were surprised at not being able to win and the Heavyweight players pulled a number of fielding surprises as well as at bat. On the whole it was a real interesting game to watch and the fans were reluctant to leave the field at the end of the fifth inning.

To begin at the beginning both teams weigher in at three o'clock and only two were disqualified, Jim Hayes and George Madden, both failing to make the required weight of 200 pounds. It was strongly rumored that both these players had deliberately lost weight so as to be disqualified, fearing that they would be ludicrous in the field. Benny Madell of the lightweight team has a narrow squeeze to make the weight but finally after some hard road work got down to 139 3-4 pounds. Benny had sent Manager Wilson a telegram earlier in the day that he could not possibly make the weight.

The Heavyweights were the first to arrive on the scene of battle, the Midgets holding back so that their opponents could get some practice and maybe tire themselves out. This however was not the case for instead of becoming tired they improved with work. The Heavyweights had their batting eyes with them and demonstrated that although they were slow on their feet there was nothing the matter with their arms and shoulders.

In the first inning they started right off and two-baggers by Ed Harris and Oney scored two runs. Continuing their hitting in the second inning they piled up four runs. These came on a double by Bull Wilcox, who taunted Woodmansee to put one over the plate, and then when he did crashed it out into the swamp. "Mystery Jack" followed Wilcox with another double made out of self defense. The ball was high and was sailing straight for Flynn's head when he brought up his bat to ward off the blow with the result that it was a two base hit. Ralph Patrick, trusting to Dame Fortune swung blindly and also crashed out a hit. Texas Callahan not to be outdone by his corpulent teammates duplicated the feat. When this wrecking crew were through the Beef Boys were far out in front with six healthy runs.

The Midgets taken by surprise by the heavy assault started, to hit Al Pineault the recruit pitcher for the Heavies and scored two runs on hits by Coleman, Bullet Peduce, Benny Mandell and Bob Woodmansee. Mystery Flynn put a stop to the scoring by his catch of Yank Hyman's high fly. Mystery lived up to his name for it is a mystery whether he caught the ball to prevent getting hit in the head or whether he is a real honest to goodness ball player. Either way it was a good catch.

The Fatties were not to be denied however for they added three more runs to their total in the third inning. The crowd was with them from the start and urged them to great things and they responded nobly. Bull Wilcox, who bats with as many funny motions as a traffic officer, was the leading light when it came to hitting and he started the rally in the third. Soup Charron also contributed in this frame. Soup, by the way, caught a very active and graceful game for the heavies. If he couldn't catch them he smothered them. His graceful sliding was also a revelation.

The Midgets started their barrage in the third frame and tallied five runs on hits to Texas Callahan and into the swamp. Coleman, Peduce, Riley and Rambler connecting for hard hits that meant runs. In the fourth inning the Midgets made it nine runs all by scoring two runs. This ended the scoring as both teams were put out in order in the last inning.

Thus the argument is still on and neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Patrick being willing to concede an inch to the other. Manager Wilson maintains that his team was slow in getting started or there would have been a different story to tell. Manager Patrick on the other hand claims that the game was called just as his heavy hitters were coming to bat. He also says that his team played better ball, hit harder and fielded better than the lightweights. However as there was no official scorer at the game nothing can be proved either way so the argument is still on.

The lineups for the teams were: Heavyweights—Soup Charron, c; Al Peanute, p; Ed Harris, 1b; Slim Slosberg, 3b; Windy Oney, ss; Hippy Calahan, 3b; Mystery Jack Flynn, lf; Bull Wilcox, cf; Sunny Patrick, rf.

FAST GAMES IN N. L. CITY LEAGUE THIS WEEK

New London, August 4.—Another busy week of baseball faces the teams in the City league, and with a few weeks more of playing the remaining games will be hotly contested. This (Tuesday) afternoon, the Knights of Columbus nine, leading the league, will oppose the lowly Tabs, and on Friday of this week the Fort Trumbull Stars will battle with the Corticelli Silk for second place. The games in the past few weeks have been both close and well played, consequently the fans are once more picking up interest and attending in larger numbers. With the teams bunched as they are, the outcome of the league is very much in doubt.

The Knights hold a commanding lead over their nearest rival, the Fort Trumbull Stars, while the Corticelli Silk are close behind the Stars. The Tabs are hopelessly out of it and cannot finish better than last place. However, this team is in a position to put a crimp in the K. of C. aspirations for the top position. The Corticelli Silk has three more games remaining to be played, and two of these games are scheduled with the Fort Trumbull Stars. All games must be won and if the Stars are able to turn the Knights back in one of these two contests scheduled between these teams, the Silkmen will have a chance to finish out on top. One defeat for the Silk men will probably put them out of the running.

The Tabs will use either Toolin or Posick on the mound Tuesday and Douton will be back of the plate. The Knights have either Cranker or Joe MacInnes. Cranker recently turned back the Fort Trumbull Stars and he may start against the Tabs. Coyle will be on the receiving end if Cranker gets the assignment, and providing Joe MacInnes receives the pitcher's burden, Reagan will catch him.

GIANTS AND CUBS DIVIDE HONORS IN DOUBLE HEADER

New York, Aug. 4.—The New York Giants and Chicago broke even in a double-header here this afternoon New York with Bentley in the box, scored an easy victory in the first game by a score of 5 to 1.

LUQUE POUNDED FOR 14 HITS BUT CINCINNATI WINS

Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Cincinnati opened its series in Philadelphia today with a 6 to 2 victory. The Reds confined their scoring to two innings, the third and eighth, gathering a cluster of three tallies in each. Luque was pounded hard but with men on base he tightened up. Errors by Parkinson and Williams paved the way for the winning runs in the eighth. Williams had a home run in the first inning with one on base. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

With a runner on first base the batter hits a high bounder to the third baseman.

Should the third baseman wait for the second bound or go in fast and play the ball on the short hop?

It's a good rule for a third baseman to wait for a ball unless it is hit quite hard and he has no possible chance of going in to take it. Thus in a situation as is outlined above the third baseman should go in on the ball and field it on the short hop. It he waits for it, he cannot hope to make a double play. Those third-sackers who wait for such a ball to take a second hop not only lose the man at second but even fail to get a putout at first. Double plays are never made by waiting for the ball to come to you. Go in and catch it.

PIRATES SCORE 5 TO 2 VICTORY OVER DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., August 4.—Pittsburgh made it two straight from Brooklyn by winning today's game 5 to 3. Pittsburgh has won nine of ten in the east and ten of its eleven. Four singles, a pass and a wild pitch, all off Osborne gave the Pirates two in the second. He was relieved by Ehrhardt in the third after a single and a pass. Carey hit a home run off Ehrhardt in the seventh after Gooch had singled and stolen second. Score:

Married vs Single

The Married Men and Single Men will clash at the Lake Street playgrounds Friday evening where a very exciting game is expected and the public is invited to witness the game. The batteries for the Married men are Simcox on the mound and Jack Carbray behind the bat, the Single men are keeping their batteries a secret till the night of the game.

Burke Gets Homer in Fifth

Waterbury, Conn., August 4.—Waterbury took the series from Hartford by winning today's game 5 to 3. Both teams had won two games each. A home run by Burke in the fifth inning with Conway on first base, put the locals in the lead which they maintained thereafter.

PLAYGROUNDS BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS WITH THREE FAST GAMES

Three games marked the opening of the Playgrounds baseball league Monday evening at the Fairgrounds, Academy Campus and the Lake street Playgrounds. At the Fairgrounds the Nutmegs defeated the Arrows 8 to 3; at the Campus the Braves opened the league with a 22 to 2 victory over the Walnuts and at Lake street the Valiants defeated the Yantic Rubes 14 to 5. A fourth game between the Rosedales and the Tigers was not played owing to a misunderstanding regarding the grounds to be used. This game will be played at a later date.

Nutmegs 8; Arrows 3

Before a large crowd the Nutmegs in the American league earned a decisive victory over the Arrows in the first game of the league last evening at the Fairgrounds. Siegal, pitching for the Nutmegs allowed but four hits while his team mates collected a total of 14 safeties. Donegan led the attack with three safe hits while, Brewer, Burke and Seigal were tied at two each. The lineups were:

Braves 22; Walnuts 2

The Braves opened their schedule with a one-sided victory over the Walnuts at the Academy Campus, winning 22 to 2. The Braves played excellent ball both in the field and at bat. The feature of the game was a home run by O'Neil with two men on base. Rankin pitched a good game and should have been credited with a shutout but for two errors by the outfielders. E. Busch played a fast game at short, getting a double play unassisted. Red Fidell featured for the Walnuts getting a triple and a double in two times up.

The lineups were:

Valiants 14; Yantic Rubes 8

In a slugging contest at the Lake Street grounds Monday evening the Valiants outslugged their Yantic rivals winning out, 14 to 8. Mozsy Ruffo pitched for the Valiants while Ike Steinman was on the mound for the Rubes. Mingo caught for the Valiants and Homack for Rubes. The Valiants touched Steinman for 13 hits while Ruffo allowed but 11. The lineups are as follows:

ROOKIE PITCHER PITCHES GOOD BALL AGAINST BOSTON

Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.—After Boston had hammered Messenger, the Saginaw pitching recruit, for four earned runs, including a homerun by Ike Boone, in the first inning, the youngster settled down and held the Red Sox to one run in the remaining eight innings, Cleveland winning 14 to 5. It was Messenger's second victory in two trips to the box. The score:

BROWNS MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT FROM SENATORS

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—The Browns made it two straight over the Washington Senators by winning today, 5 to 1, in the second game of the series. This gave Sisler's men six victories in their last seven games. The locals took the lead in the second inning by bunching hits off Marberry for two runs. The score:

Profs Blank Ponies

New Haven, August 4.—The Profs blanked the Springfield Ponies, 5 to 0 here this afternoon. The hurling of Sam Hyman in the pinches coupled with the brilliant fielding of the locals held the visitors in tow, while the Profs took advantage of Olson's offerings in the 6th and 7th. Jeffries, former Princeton player, secured from Reading in the deal for Snooks Dowd, made his debut today and secured a double and single in four trips to the plate.

Sullivan to Box Martin

Voluntown Seats Yantic

In a one-sided game in which the visitors were outclassed in all departments of the game, Voluntown on Sunday sent Yantic back home with the small end of a 13 to 2 score. Liberty pitching a great game kept the 6 hits of the visitors well scattered except in the 1st inning when with an error a passed ball and a couple of singles gave them 2 runs, after which they were held scoreless.

Liberty sent 11 men out on strikes.

Lamphere for the visitors pitched a good game but received poor support only 2 men being thrown out at first, although there were many chances.

Voluntown connected for 11 safe drives and 7 were retired on strikes. The score:

ALL STARS LOSE TO FITCHVILLE

Sweeney's All Stars journeyed to Fitchville Sunday afternoon and departed sadder but wiser men. The cause of this pessimistic feeling was an 8 to 6 defeat at the hands of the local nine. Although they came out on the short end of the score Manager Sweeney's All Stars went down fighting and the new pilot left town confident that he knows where a worthy successor to McGraw can be found.

The visitors scored in the first when Hewitt, the initial man to toe the plate, connecting with one of the winning pitcher's offerings for a healthy two-base hit. Sam Slavkin brought him in with a single to deep right. In the second, Hoxie, the star second baseman of the Fitchville clan, robbed Sweeney of what appeared to be a sure hit by as pretty a piece of sensational gelding as has been seen in these parts this year.

Fitchville took the lead in the third. Kane made first as Smith was being tagged out at third. Hoxie singled and Cummings was safe when the visiting third baseman fumbled his scratch hit. Sweet walloped the sphere for a two bagger to deep left Kane and Hoxie scoring.

Paul, the first man up in the fourth, singled to center and later scored when Manager Sweeney dropped a high fly from Smith's bat. This ended the tallying until the sixth when the invaders tied the score. Chafetz walked and L. Slavkin hit into a snappy double play from Cummings to Hoxie to T. Sweeney. E. Hoxie attempted to show that runs can be made with two down and crashed out a double to left and eventually scored on a clean single by McCall.

The seventh proved to be the proverbially lucky inning for both teams. At the beginning of this spasm the score was tied at three all. Fields, who had replaced the All Star mentor in left field, singled, was advanced to second when the local first baseman let a peg from home get away and scored on a hit by Sullivan. Hewitt fanned. Sam Slavkin singled bringing in the pitching ace and made second on Chafetz's sacrifice. L. Slavkin added to the excitement by knocking out the single to left upon which his brother tallied. The local fighters came to bat in the last of the seventh with fire in their eyes and a determination in their hearts to even the count. Hoxie singled, Cummings fondled the leather globe for two bases, both players taking a base on a wild pitch. Sweet reached first when an attempt was made to get the man going home. Jones made the initial sack when an effort to get Cummings advancing from second to third proved futile. With the bases full the visiting right fielder caused his manager some anxiety by misjudging Paul's high fly which went for two extra bases. With the game already won Paul put the game on ice when he made the plate on Hewitt's error, Sweeney reaching first safely. Smith struck out, McManus filed out to the second ba

RESOLUTION.

At a meeting fo the Directors of The Merchants National Bank of Norwich held Aug. 4, 1924, the following resolution was adopted and ordered spread upon the record.

Mr. Lucius Brown was elected a Director of this bank on Jan. 11, 1876, and served continuously in this capacity for a period of over forty-eight years, being senior Director at the time of his death.

He performed legal duty for the bank on many occasions, and gave valuable service and advice on such matters during the past years. His sound judgment was sought by the officers and directors of all times, and was freely given for the welfare of the bank and its affairs.

He was a man of firm convictions, a staunch advocate of conservative policies, and altogether a suitable man to serve on the board of a financial institution. His presence at our meetings during these many years has been protective of lasting results, and his absence will be truly felt.

It was voted: To devote a page in the records to his memory and that these minutes be spread thereon, and that a copy be sent to his family.

Voted: That the officers and directors attend the funeral in a body.

Attest: H. F. POWERS, Clerk.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of The Norwich Savings Society held July 2d, 1924, action was taken as follows:

Resolved, That the loss which has befallen this community in the death of Honorable Lucius Brown is felt with peculiar sorrow by The Norwich Savings Society.

A Trustee since 1874, a Director since 1877 and a Vice President since 1895, he has for fifty years given generously to this institution of his time, shrewd judgment and mature wisdom.

Of Puritan stock and deep religious feeling, he had the courage of his convictions and was outspoken in support of what he believed right and in condemnation of wrong. As a tribute to his worth—as of character and high ideals of life, we enter this resolution on our permanent records and direct that a copy be sent to his family with expressions of our sympathy.

COSTELLO LIPPITT, Secretary.

U. S. STEEL FEATURED MARKET

New York, Aug. 4.—Establishment of a new high record for the year by United States Steel common at 110 featured today's stock market, the beginning of the ninth successive week of rising prices. Sales exceeded the million share mark for the fifteenth consecutive full session.

Heavy profit taking, which was urged by several commission houses on the theory that the technical condition of the market warranted at least a temporary reaction, gave the general list an irregular appearance most of the day. Bullish sentiment was encouraged, however, by favorable trade reports, Secretary Hughes' prediction of success for the Dawes plan and the departure from Berlin of the German envoys to the London reparations conference.

Twenty-one stocks established new high records for the year. They included American Can, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Union Tank Car, American Radiator, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Chino Copper, Schulte Stores, Associated Dry Goods, Famous Players, United Fruit, Mack Truck, American International Corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette pfd. and Pittsburgh and West Virginia. Federal Light and Traction dropped one point to 76, the year's low.

Buying of Steel common, about 190,000 shares of which changed hands, was influenced to some extent by increased sales of pig iron in the local market last week and reports of increased mill activity in various steel centers. General Electric was another outstanding feature, jumping nearly 11 points to 281, a record high for all time, and then slipping back to 277.

Speculative interest in the railroad group was confined largely to the so-called Van Sweringen stocks. Pittsburgh and West Virginia sold as high as 82 1-4, but later reacted two points from its high.

Oils and motors again came in for considerable speculative attention. Motor truck stocks were strong on the theory that the revival of prosperity in the agricultural region would stimulate sales. Oils, with few exceptions, showed fractional changes. Revival of activity in the Barnsdall issues was based on reports of a substantial reduction in funded debt, together with predictions that the net earnings for the second quarter would equal or exceed those of the first three months.

Commercial Solvents issues broke about seven points each in further reflection of a closing of the company's plants. The "A" stock recovered half of its loss and the "B" closed only a point under Saturday's final quotation. Heaviness cropped out in Atlantic Coast Line, National Lead, Pullman Company, United Railways Investment common, American Agricultural Chemical, Air Reduction and Pan-American B, off 1 1-2 to 3 points. S. S. Kresge broke 13 points on two sales.

Call money again ruled at 2 per cent. A few 60-day time loans were reported at 3 per cent., a new low for the year, but other rates held steady. The commercial paper market was quiet with no change in rates.

Strength of sterling exchange, which advanced 2 cents to a new 1924 high at $4.45 5-8, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Other European rates also improved.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 4.—Stock prices displayed a strong tone in today's curb market, which was featured by a series of bullish demonstrations in the oil, motor and radio shares.

Buying of the oils was influenced by recent statements of leaders of the industry that the period of depression was over, gains of 1 to 2 points being recorded by Standard Oils of Kentucky, Kansas, Nebraska and Ohio, Prairie Pipe and Cities Service, while a number of other active issues improved fractionally.

General Motors new stock crossed 60 for the first time. Advance in the radio shares was led by Dubilier, which touched 47 3-8 and then eased to 46 7-8, where it was up 2 3-8 on the day. Ware Radio closed nearly 2 points higher. Glen Alden Coal advanced 2 points to 113 but Lehigh Valley coal certificates declined fractionally in active trading. Other strong spots in the industrial group were Ginter & Co., Midvale Steel, Singer Mfg. and American Light and Traction, up 1 to 3 1-2 points.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Aug. 4.—Establishment of new high records by several foreign and United States government obligations imparted a generally firmer tone to bond prices today, although the volume of trading declined with the transfer of further speculative interest to the stock market.

The departure of German envoys for the London conference inspired confidence in the outlook for a European reparations settlement and led to additional accumulation of foreign bonds. French and Belgian issues sold at the year's highest levels, with other continental loans scoring substantial gains.

Price changes in the Liberty bond group were small, but were sufficient to carry the first and fourth 4 1-4s to 1924 top prices. Increased institutional buying was reported.

New financing absorbed most of the interest in investment quarters. Subscription books were closed early in the day on the most important offering—$10,000,000 Canadian Pacific 4 percent debenture stock and $15,000,000 Commonwealth Edison bonds.

Offering of the $35,000,000 Norwegian loan will be made tomorrow by a banking syndicate headed by the National City company. The bonds, bearing 6 per cent. interest, will be priced around 97 1-2. Listed Norwegian issues were slightly heavy today in anticipation of the new financing.

An advance in Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5s to above 103, a record price, featured the trading in domestic issues. Improvement in the bonds followed the steady rise in the stock based on progress in the Van Sweringen merger plans.

Predictions were made by bankers today that the forthcoming German loan would carry a 7 per cent. coupon and be sold at a discount as attractive as the Austrian financing last year.

NORWICH TOWN

Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, president of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, is in reciept of the following letter of acknowledgment frmo the International Grenfell association, St. Anthony, Newfoundland:

My dear Mrs. Yerrington and ladies of the First Congregational church: Your very kind gift of clothing and magazines has recently reached us and we wish to express our sincere thanks for your interest and help. Such gifts as yours are a most welcome assistance to the mission in its work among the people of the north. Please accept our gratitude for your generous contribution.

Yours sincerly,
Dorothy Sterling
Director Clothing Department

Clyde M. Beebe was the leader at the mid-week prayer service of the Congregational church. The topic was Faith. The meeting was most interesting.

At the prayer meeting service this week Thursday evening Deacon Henry T. Frazier is to be the leader. There will be further discussion on the topic Faith.

A former Norwich Town resident, Miss Julia A. Hoffman, daughter of a former rector of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, has been visiting relatives and friends in Norwich this week. For the past several years, Miss Hoffman has been in Washington, D. C., where she is an auditor and translator of languages for the government. Miss Hoffman whose vacation extends some little time longer, came by way of the St. Lawrence river and Niagara Falls. The Hoffman family for many years owned and occupied the residence at 14 West Town street.

Miss Maud Smith and little daughter Beatrice, returned to their home on Town street, following a visit of five weeks with relatives in Massachusetts and Maine. They at first went to Marshfield to visit Mrs. Smith's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Friable. The remainder of the time was spent at the home of Mrs. Carrie Frisbie of Dry Mills, Me., mother of Mrs. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Park of Preston City, were callers Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Park's father, Edwin R. Scott of Town street.

Stewett Collins, who since returning from a school in Vermont, has been visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Collins o East Lyme, has been the guest for several days of Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull of Wauwecus Hill. Mr. Collins expects to enter college in Ohio this fall.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, had as callers Saturday, Curtiss Armstrong of Pasadena, Cal., and Orville Reeder, of Seattle, Wash., who have been spending a few days in Norwich. Both young men enthused over Norwich, its beautiful residences, foliage, business enterprises, etc.

During the past eight years Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Reeder have been associated in musical circles, having at first met in Honolulu.

Gustave Bochman of Hartford, secretary of the Connecticut Temperance union, was the speaker at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. At the introductory Thomas H. Bacheler presided. He read the Scripture lesson from the sixth chapter of Matthew.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Edward H. Smith of Ing Hok, China. For an anthem the choir sang, Come Unto Me, by Henderson. At the offertory, Dr. Charles H. Lamb, tenor, gave a fine interpretation of Jesus, Lover of My Soul, by Thomas, accompanied by the organist, Herbert L. Yerrington.

Mr. Bochman, after briefly addressing the congregation in a personal vein announced that his subject would be "The Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law." In the course of his address, Mr. Bochman said: There is nothing to be discouraged over during the past four years, rather much to be encouraged about; but the work must go on. Bootlegging and rum-running are fast becoming a most dangerous and unpopular pastime. Where at one time liquor was transported by the car load, now it is carried in a suit case. The saloon is a thing of the past. Drunkenness is on a very noticeable decrease.

There have been 500,000 less arrests for drunkenness than there were in 1919.

The speaker at one time a teacher in Wethersfield, cited 20,000 fewer prisoners than in 1919.

Foreign countries are trying to break our prohibition laws, so as to continue traffic in their own countries; but 59 bills at the last legislature for light wine and beer died on the table, never having been brought before the committee. More than 2,000 buildings a day are being constructed in our own country. Church memberships have grown, for many men and women are thinking more clearly and are more receptive to the Gospel message of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Mr. Bochman who has given shop talks of 25 minutes, before many thousands of people from time to time, expressed the thought that it was a good showing when as many as 67 people had yielded at one time, seeking the Gospel. We as Christians are thankful for the multitude of blessings that God bestows upon us, and it is our delight to obey the law, and to obey God, he said.

At the conclusion of these shop talks the speaker said, people thank him for the message he brings them. For the many benefits children have received from prohibition—better homes, better clothing and plenty of food—have made the fight worth while. Whole families have also benefitted greatly, if only by being protected with insurance. $11,000,000,000 worth of insurance was the record for last year. Alcoholic insanity has been cut in two the last few years. For all these achievements the speaker said: We ought not to consider any modification of the Volstead law. Enforcing it is not an expense, it is an asset. Mr. Bochman, who is touring Connecticut to get dry senators and representatives in the legislature to enforce the law the coming year, is one of the many who are trying to create Christian citizenship.

Following the church service, Mr. Bochman was the guest of the Sunday school, before which he gave a most helpful and instructive talk.

Miss Mabel Corrigeux, was the leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service, when the topic was, How Jesus Treated Enemies. Scripture references were in Luke and Matthew.

Mr. Bochman who is a representative of the Connecticut Bible society attended the C. E. meeting and brought a message from the State Society of Christian Endeavor of which he is a member and chairman of the committee on political organization.

At the First Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, chose for his Sunday morning text, Matthew, 13:15. Therefore speak I to them in parables, because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, when the topic was How Jesus Treated Enemies, the leader was Miss Florence M. Brown.

George F. Hyde of Washington street, accompanied by his sister, Miss Jessie E. Hyde, left Friday to pass a vacation of two weeks at Niantic. Miss Lissie Coffee of Peck's Corner, who is passing a few days at the Hyde home, is to leave for Niantic, Wednesday, to be the guest of Mr. Hyde and his sister for a number of days.

COMMON COUNCIL NAMES COMMITTEE TO REVISE TRAFFIC ORDINANCES

Following a recommendation by Mayor Milo R. Waters that the local traffic ordinances be revised owing to the greatly increased traffic congestion, the court of common council at its August meeting Monday evening appointed the mayor, Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., and the board of police commissioners a committee to revise the ordinances and present them in revised form to the council for action.

The council appointed Abraham Siegal, a supernumary officer to the regular police force. Mr. Siegal was recommended for the appointment by the board of police commissioners and his election was by ballot. The ballot count showed that Mr. Siegal had received nine of the twelve votes cast. One member of the council voted "no" another deposited a blank ballot and a third voted for Supernumerary William Sharvin for the appointment.

Should Increase Water Supply.

The council meeting was called to order about 7.30 standard time, by Mayor Waters and the minutes of the last meeting were accepted without reading, according to custom. Mayor Waters then addressed the council as follows:

Again I desire to call to your attention the need of additional or extension of the reservoirs of our water system. At the present time we have enough water stored to last us from three to four months. This is due to the heavy rainfall of the past spring, at which time much water ran to waste over the spillway at Stony Brook. It is now planned by the board of water commissioners to raise the dam at Stony Brook five feet, which would give us additional storage capacity for 113 million gallons of water or about one month's supply, and give us approximately the same storage capacity at Stony Brook as at Fairview reservoir. This addition will cost from $50,000 to $60,000 and while it will not increase the amount of water to be drawn from our Stony Brook water shed will enable us to store another month's supply of water when the rainfall permits.

This matter will probably be brought to the attention of a city meeting in the near future. The increased consumption of water in the city of Norwich is about 10 per cent each year or approximately 300,000 gallons of water daily. It is evident to the most casual observer that steps should be taken at once to increase the area of our water sheds or provide new ones as a dry spring followed by a dry summer as in June and July of the present year would mean another water famine as in 1910.

Traffic Ordinances.

I desire to call to your attention the increased traffic congestion in the business part of the city, especially on Main and lower Franklin streets. It seems to me that the need of a revision of our traffic ordinances is urgent. The following suggestions have been made to me:

1—To make Main street a one way street going west and Water street a one way street going east.

5—More traffic officers.

There are doubtless many changes that could be made in the ordinances that would add to the safety and convenience of our citizens. I believe a committee should be appointed to consist of the mayor, the corporation counsel and the board of police commissioners to revise these ordinances and present them to the council and have public hearings thereon.

Petitions Received.

Petitions were received and disposed of as follows:

From Charles W. Anderson, et al., asking the acceptance by the city of Carver avenue as a public highway. Referred to the public works committee.

From Fred Holdsworth, et al., calling attention to the poor condition of Boswell avenue and asking that it be repaired. Mayor Waters stated that the repairs to Boswell avenue had been started before the petition was received. It was referred to the public works committee.

From L. Henry Saxton asking that two trees in front of No. 327 Broadway be trimmed. Referred to the public works committee and tree warden with power.

From J. D. Hall, et al., asking for a light at the corner of Boswell avenue and Russell road, a light at the corner of Bushnell road and Boswell avenue and a light on Bushnell road between Boswell avenue and Hadley avenue. Referred to the police commissioners with power.

From John Antonacopoulos asking the removal of two trees, which are in a dangerous condition, near his property on Laurel Hill, and also asking that a young tree be planted to replace one of the trees. Referred to the public works department and tree warden.

From the board of fire commissioners asking that an arc light be placed in front of the new fire station on the Joseph Perkins road.

From John Ilohowski and Steve Magalevich asking permission to connect their premises on Golden street extension with the sewer in Hickory street. Referred to the public works committee, which committee later in the meeting recommended that the permission asked for be given. The committee's recommendation was adopted.

From A. H. Lathrop for permission to construct an addition to his building on Shetucket street. Referred to the fire commissioners.

The annual report of the city treasurer and the auditor's report of the water department were all accepted by the council.

To Accept Frances Place

In response to a petition referred to the public works committee at the last council meeting, that committee, through Alderman Henry Gebrath, recommended the acceptance of Frances Place as a public highway when the proper layout of the street and the necessary deed are receivd. The report was accepted.

With the regard to the Connecticut company's pole in front of the Jacobson house on West Main street, Alderman Gebrath stated that the public works committee had looked into the matter and recommended that the Connecticut Company be requested to move the pole west for a distance of 12 feet. The report was accepted.

Regarding the street crossing at 8th street and North Main street, which had been called to the attention of the council and referred to the public works committee, Alderman Gebrath stated that the committee had investigated the matter and are of the opinion that it is a very dangerous crossing. He stated that with the cooperation of the police commissioners it had been decided to replace the old style traffic light now in the center of the crossing, with two of the new flashing beacons, set in position on 8th street so that the beacons will be visible by autoists on North Main street as they approach the street intersection. This plan will be given a trial, he said. He asked that his report be accepted as one of progress, and it was so accepted.

New Lights Granted

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney, reporting for the police commissioners, stated that the commissioners, in response to petitions, had granted an arc light, instead of a bug light, on Clairemont avenue, at the foot of the stairs; at Valley Gas station committee decided to move one light down one pole and install a new arc light; committee granted a bug light on Geer avenue near home of Fred Clarke and also granted an arc light for the new fire station on the Joseph Perkins road. The report was accepted.

Claims were ordered paid as follows: $11.90 to John H. McDougall, in settlement of his claim against the city; $3.94 to J. H. Whitney in settlement of claim against city.

On motion of Alderman Edward Crooks, Mayor Waters, Corporation Counsel Shields and the police commissioners were appointed a committee to revise the local traffic ordinances and submit the revised ordinances to the council for action.

Appointed Regular Officer

Alderman Sweeney recommended for the police commissioners, that Supernumerary Police Officer Abraham Siegal be appointed a member of the regular police force. The result of the ballot was as follows: Number of votes cast, 12; for Mr. Siegal, 9; for Supernumerary William Sharvan, 1; one vote "no" one blank vote. Mr. Siegal was declared elected to the regular force by Mayor Waters.

Alderman Sweeney brought up the matter of the purchase by the city of a pulmotor for emergency use, the pulmotor to be kept either at police headquarters or at the central fire station. He said that recent drowning accidents had caused people outside the city government to make such a suggestion to the police commissioners.

City to Buy Pulmotor

Alderman Crooks moved that a sufficient sum be appropriated from the contingent fund to purchase a pulmotor and that it be kept at the central fire station. The motion was adopted.

Claims were received and disposed of as follows:

From Henry E. Tubbs, claiming $25 for damage to his motorcycle on Laurel Hill avenue, below Walnut street, owing to the defective condition of the street. Referred to the finance committe.

From Mrs. Emma M. Therrien, claim for injuries received in a fall on Bath street, July 22nd, owing to the unsafe condition of the sidewalk where she fell. Referred to finance committee.

Bills Approvd

Department bills were approved as follows: Finance department, $2,055.20; department of cemeteries, $1,179.18; police department, $5,412.22; street lighting, $1,351.47; gas and electric department, $58,046.87; water department, $4,558.72; recreation commission, $1,433.88; park department, $592.16; public works department, $26,921.91; permanent street improvement, $7,155.97.

The meeting adjourned shortly after 8 o'clock, standard time

NORWICH REPORTS SIX ACCIDENTS FOR WEEK

There were 226 automobile accidents during the week ended July 26 in the 14 cities making reports to the motor vehicle department. Hartford led all cities. New Haven was second and Bridgeport third. Applying the percentages of late reports to these cities Hartford had approximately 60 accidents, New Haven 55 and Bridgeport 49. The numbers actually reported were: Hartford 53, New Haven, 37; Bridgeport 37.

Accidents were reported from other cities as follows: Waterbury 28, New Britain 5, New London 11; Stamford 11, Danbury 10; Norwich 6, Middletown 5, Norwalk 5, Meriden 4, Greenwich 2, Winsted 1.

NEW LONDON DIVER, HURT AT BEACH ASKS CITY COUNCIL FOR DAMAGES

New London, Aug. 4.—William J. Tracy served notice on the city, through the council this evening, that he claims damages for injuries he sustained by diving at Ocean Beach when he came in contact with a sunken pile that was and had been submerged in the water some time. Mr. Tracy was injured and he demands of the city a sum that will compensate him for surgical attendance and the loss of time occasioned by his injuries.

The colored branch of the order of Eastern Star has applied for and been granted by the council the privilege of holding a block dance on Hill street, from Schoolhouse lane to Huntington street, from 9 to 12 o'clock on the evening of Aug. 11—one week from tonight. Block dancing is something new for this city, but the colored folks say they are going to introduce it. The street is macadamized.

It was reported to the council this evening that Truman's brook had been cleared of all obstruction. The matter was acted upon in response to a petition presented to the council a week ago.

The Connecticut company has been given leave to withdraw its petition for the privilege of laying a spur track on Mohegan avenue. This action is taken because there was some objection on the part of the council to permitting the laying of the track.

Daniel C. Beckwith, a youth, residing at 69 Willetts avenue, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with burglarizing the Atlantic Lunch room, 346 Bank street. When a part of the plunder that was stolen from the restaurant was recovered, Beckwith admitted his guilt. The restaurant was looted on the night of July 30th when entrance was gained through an open widow wire screen. The plunder obtained included a Corona typewriter, watch, revolver and about 100 pennies. This morning Motorcycle Officer Babcock ascertained that Beckwith had attempted to dispose of a Corona typewriter at the Kozakow store and recovered the typewriter. Beckwith was taken into custody and after a long grilling admitted having burglarized the place. He also returned the watch, but the small amount of money and the revolver were not recovered. Beckwith is believed to have perpetrated other burglaries, together with other youths of about his age.

Capt. Kelly of the local staff of special agents of the New Haven railroad, today complained to the New London police that youths were damaging a dwelling owned by the railroad at 65 Crystal avenue, hurling stones through the windows.

Dr. Gerald Jensen, an instructor at Connecticut College, residing at 51 Hall avenue, complained to the police today because of the annoyance he is alleged to experience frequently. Prof. Jensen stated that his neighbor, Lieutenant-Commander Comstock, residing at the corner of Hall avenue and Chapel street, maintained a dog and kept the animal housed in the cellar and as a result of the dog's confinement the neighborhood was unable to sleep because of the dog's continual yelping.

Frank Jones, 7 Union street, complained to the police Sunday forenoon that the operator of one of the coupes owned by the P. Berry & Sons company, Hartford, was intoxicated earlier in the day and in handling the car in front of Jones' home the machine was driven against the steps of the house and the steps were damaged. Jones did not know the operator of the car, but he did obtain the registration and supplied it to the police. This afternoon the Hartford concern was notified to cause the driver to appear in the police court, as Jones had lodged a complaint.

Some auto drivers are to be subjected to humiliation, next Wednesday night, for several have been summoned by state police officers to appear in the Waterford town court, charged with violation of the automobile law in parking their cars alongside highways without lights being displayed. Throughout the summer it is common to observe cars parked along the highways and without a light of any description showing. Sunday night, the state police were active in scanning the country roads for such violations and a number of cars with "spooners" occupying them were detected.

William T. May and Attorney C. A. Gallup today acquired the dwelling at the corner of Blackhall and West Coit streets, the house being purchased for John K. Foran. It was until recently owned by Mrs. Ellen Burke.

Mrs. Edward Karp and infant daughter, 199 Huntington street, Mrs. Theodore Wise and infant son, 12 Tenth street; Mrs. James Powers and infant son, 144 Crystal avenue; Paul Atamin, 39 Jefferson avenue; Jeremiah Mercy, 29 Garfield avenue; Mrs. Thomas Manice and infant daughter, 36 Center street; Walter Atwood, 76 Riverside Heights and Joseph Kaplan, 28 Truman street, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

Attorney and Mrs. Thomas E. Troland of Colver Heights are to move into their new home on Ocean avenue the latter part of the month. The house stands on the west side of the avenue, facing the residence of William Z. White.

An automobile owned and driven by Benjamin W. Humphrey, Waterford, and a car owned and driven by Harry T. Bartlett, U. S. N., of Washington, D. C., and Lyme, were in collision late this afternoon on State street. Bartlett's car was damaged.

Samuel Kaimanowitz of Colchester was taken into custody this evening by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock charged with violation of the automobile law. Kaimanowitz was operating a truck about the city without the marking of the maximum capacity of the truck being revealed. Kaimanowitz will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

The automobile owned and operated by Thomas A. Miller, 61 Maple avenue, struck an unidentified youth this evening on Main street at the corner of Masonic street. The identity of the child was not established because the youngster ran away before Miller could alight from his car to determine whether the lad had been injured. Evidently the youngster did not sustain injuries more serious than bruises.

An automobile truck owned by Cosfey & Co. and driven by John Loftus, 17 Cole street, was struck by a truck owned by Roy Abate of Noank and driven by Ross Nigrelli, Mystic, this evening on Bank street. Nigrelli was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning for violation of the automobile law in not providing himself with an operator's license.

The case of John Sereghini, charged with violation of the liquor law, was continued a week because of the accused's counsel not being able to be present today.

The case of Antonio Mamolna of Niantic, arrested last week when the machine he was operating collided with a car driven by William Nagle, New London, was also continued a week.

The petition nominating George Haven for the office of selectman was filed with City Clerk Julian D. Morar today. The petition was circulated by Frank Sugrue. Lawrence S. M. Cook, George Goss and William L. White are the retiring members of the board, and petitions renominating them are now being circulated.

Early this morning a car operated by Joseph Gilmore, 13 Hope street, this city, and a machine operated by Augustine C. Skelly of West Thames street, Norwich, collided on Williams street near Gallows lane. Both cars suffered damage, Gilmore's car losing a front wheel, but the occupants of both machines luckily escaped injury. The accident happened just after the Gilmore machine, heading towards this city from Norwich had passed Gallows lane. The Skelly machine was heading toward Norwich, according to the report made to the local police, and in rounding a slight curve both drivers were blinded by the lights on each others' machine. No arrests were made, neither claiming negligence on the other's part.

William Z. White has acquired a tract of land on Ocean avenue formerly owned by Richard Mansfield, well known actor and for many years a summer resident here. The land has a frontage of 75 feet on Ocean avenue and a depth of 475 feet. The price paid was $2,100.

Mrs. Martha Perkins, 69, died Saturday night at Lawrence hospital, where she had been under treatment but a short time. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Durfee, 98 Mitchell street, Groton.

Nelson Robinson, Mystic, was before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court this morning upon complaint of his wife, who charged that Nelson had failed to support her and his nine children for a period of eight months. Judge Costello ordered Nelson to pay his wife $30 monthly for a year; also ordered him to pay the officers' fees in the case.

Mrs. Hattie Crouch, Pleasant Valley, was presented on a charge of breach of the peace. The case was continued a month. Mrs. Crauch and William Perkins engaged in a quarrel relative to the drawing of water from a well, the ownership of which is not claimed by anyone, so far as can be determined, but which Perkins has maintained.

Charles A. Yerrington of 412 Laurel Hill avenue, Norwich, contradicts the report that his automobile was seen at a Ku Klux meeting at Fishtown last week as he says he has absolute proof that neither himself nor his car was out on that date.

The police court started the week and the month with a docket that made a record. There were fourteen cases and they covered a wide range of offense, though the automobiles had the place of distinction, or rather of dishonor, as they outnumbered all other misdemeanors. Arthur Murray, who a week ago is coming from the clubhouse of the Allen Hook and Ladder company up the Norwich road about 11 o'clock, ran into a car driven by Charles Ramage, of Uncasville, was heard, but a judgment of not guilty of reckless driving resulted. Murray had four companions with him. The claim was that the party had been drinking home brew, which claim was not far out of the way, but that did not, in the opinion of the court, indicate that Murray was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. They brought Dr. Frank Dunn into court to declare that when Murray and James Shea, his companion in the car, came to him early in the morning after the accident, Sunday, they were absolutely sober and gave no sign that they had indulged in home brew. Ramages's car was badly smashed in the collision and that of Murray, a Ford, was turned upside down. The occupants of it were taken from beneath it. Ramage was driving to his home and met the Murray car coming to this city. Ramage declared that he saw the Murray car some distance away from him and that suddenly the Murray car swerved from the right side of the road and smashed into his car. Ramage, State Policeman Anderson, who was called on the phone, Policemen Sloan, Allen and Perry and others testified that they got the odor of beer on the accused man and his companions and that there were bottles found under the Murray car that had contained beer. The defense was that when Murray was driving along he saw three cars approaching, that the first one passed him so closely that he was forced off the concrete road. Before he could get the car back on the concrete the second car came upon him and sideswiped his car, so that it was forced against the Ramage car, which was on the other side of the road. Mr. Murray admitted that he had drank a couple of bottles of home brew, but they were taken he said early in the evening, several hours before the collision occurred. He declared that he knew nothing of the bottles that were found under his car. None of the parties who were called or who were present at the location of the collision would testify that the occupants of the Murray car were under the influence of intoxicating liquor, though they all said they smelled beer. Shea's collarbone was broken, Ramage was so injured that he was in the hospital several days. Murray sustained cuts about the head and face, his legs were bruised and he has been unable to appear in court at any time since the 19th till today. It is understood that a civil suit is to grow out of the collision.

Francis H. Gallegher and Robert Brennan were charged with violation of the rules of the road in not reducing the speed of their autos in passing intersecting streets. Had they barked their horns they would have escaped arrest, but when they didn't do that and went by street after street at speed, Officer Babcock arrested them. They got away on suspension of judgment.

Albert Turgeon of Manchester was arrested for the same offense by Officer Babcock Sunday. He is yet to come to trial.

James Miller was prosecuted for failing to give warning that he was to operate his car away from the curbing. Because he gave no warning a car driven by Mrs. Ralph Keeler, passing along Truman street, came in collision with a trolley car that was moving in the opposite direction. Her car was damaged considerably. On the testimony presented the court found that Miller was not guilty.

Udolph McDonald, who has resided with his parents at Oswegatchie, drove a car into New London from there this morning and was apprehended by Policeman Thomas Cavanaugh. McDonald is only 16, but a big fellow who might be taken for an adult. He had no operator's license, but thought he would take a chance and come to New London without the necessary paper. His home is in Montclair, N. J. Because of his youth the court suspended judgment, but McDonald was told what would happen to him if he offended again and was apprehended.

Fred R. Swanson, who runs the dance hall at Ocean Beach, was charged with reckless driving. He was accused by Mrs. A. B. Holmes, a resident at Ocean Beach, but today when the case got into court she failed to appear and accuse Swanson on the witness stand, so he was declared not guilty. He could not be convicted without evidence.

Andruch Burnett was charged with a breach of the peace in offensive conduct, noise and behavior. He admitted that the charge was proper one. It was made by his wife because Burnett went home and threw furniture around as though it were of no value. Mrs. Burnett called an officer and Andruch was put where the furnishings are made of steel so he could not smash them. He was sentenced to spend thirty days in jail, but then he was placed on probation as his earnings are needed by his wife more than they are by the county. Burnett resides on Blinman street. He is a bit "thick" as well as ugly when he desires to be.

Mrs. Alba Beebe, of Niantic, Mrs. Edward Hunes and infant son, Belden street, Mrs. Benjamin May, Groton, Miss Marian Smith, Pequot avenue and Miss Katherine Avery, Eastern Point, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Lieutenant of Police Benjamin Beebe is having his vacation of two weeks. During his absence from duty, Desk Sergeant James D. Gaffney is in charge of the night force and Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan will be acting desk sergeant.

The funeral of Jesse J. Rowley was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home on Broad street extension, Waterford, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. Mr. Rowley's four sons-in-law acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Keane of New York, are the guests of Mrs. Keane's mother, Mrs. Hannah Leary, of Blydenburg avenue. Mr. Keane, who is now employed as instructor at a New York high school, is a former New London ball player, having been a member of the New London team when that club was owned by Charles H. Humphrey and a member of the Eastern league.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Dickinson Millard of 184 Pequot avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Lillian Millard to Ambrose Lester Osborn, also of New London. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Thirty one years ago Saturday at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, Miss Lottie Cronin of this city became the bride of Attorney Thomas F. Dorsey. Rev. T. P. Joynt, late pastor of the church, officiated as celebrant; Rev. Eugene O'Connell, was deacon; and the Rev. John Coyne, sub deacon, and the Rev. Paul McAllenny was master of ceremonies.

Saturday at their Ocean Beach residence, Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey surrounded by their children, and a few intimate friends, observed the anniversary. They have nine children, Helene, now Mrs. Frank McDuff of Providence, R. I.; Charlotte, now Mrs. Frank Morrison, Los Angeles, Cal.; Thomas F., Jr., Edward, Valencia, Lillian, Peter, Loretta and Leo.

Harvey F. Dee has resigned as instructor of civics and science at Bulkeley High school and will shortly take up his new duties as an instructor in mathematics and science at a school at Montclair, N. J., Mr. Dee has been at Bulkeley for two years.

Clinton Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie, of East Northfield, Mass., and Miss Doris Saxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Saxton, 44 Raymond street, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Second Congregational church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee in the presence of relatives and friends. Harold Frane, of New York, was best man and Mrs. Howard A. Johnson, Chicago, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Phyllis niece of the bride, was flower girl. Henry Saxton, brother of the bride and Jerome Searraves were ushers. Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Leslie will reside in Paterson, N. J.

A Sunday paper pictures the crack troop Boy Scouts of America, St. Mary's church, New London, winner of pennants, cups, etc., for the troop appearing the greatest number of times before the Court of Honor for perfect attendance and athletics With the boys were Scoutmaster H. W. Ryan, chairman of troop committee, J. D. Burnes and Depy. Commissioner Joseph McDonalld.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Labensky of No. 39 Blinman street, New London, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Marion Labensky, to Max Jagolinzer of New York. Miss Labensky is a graduate of Williams Institute and of the New London Business College.

FATE OF LEOPOLD AND LOEB TO BE WITHHELD FROM JURY

Judge Caverly Maintains That He is Fully Within His Rights in Hearing Testimony From Experts on Mental Diseases in Mitigation of Punishment—Court Accepts Full Responsibility For Deciding the Fates of the Slayers of Young Franks—Prosecutor's Cross-Examination of Dr. William Hearly, Boston Pshchiatrist, Failed to Shake His Direct Testimony—The Defense is to Use Two or Three More Alienists.

Chicago, Aug. 5 (By the A. P.)—Punishment of Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard A. Loeb for kidnaping and murdering 14-year-old Robert Franks will be determined as a result of the present hearing before Judge John R. Caverly, and the proceedings will not be turned into a trial by a jury with a plea of legal insanity, the court ruled today.

Judge Caverly emphatically asserted that he was fully within his legal rights in hearing testimony from experts on mental diseases in mitigation of punishment; in tones that rang throughout his courtroom, he said:

"These boys are sane so far as this court is concerned. They have accepted responsibility and the only thing to be determined is their grounds for mitigation. The Illinois supreme court has said that it is mandatory for me to hear any evidence in mitigation."

The court several times previously, in perfunctory manner, had turned aside demands by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, that the hearing had reached a point where it was proper only that the court summon a jury. In disposing of the matter today Judge Caverly accepted full responsibility for deciding the fates of the youths.

Dr. William Healy, Boston psychiatrist, was being cross-examined when the highly pertinent ruling was made. A dialogue between Mr. Crowe and the witness resulted from the prosecutor's demand for a definition of the word "Abnormal." In pursuing it Mr. Crowe again brought up "insanity" and the defense objected "that we are getting onto ground that we have been keeping off."

"If that is the way this thing is going all we can do is to call a jury," Mr. Crowe insisted.

Dr. Healy, who had been on the stand giving direct testimony for five hours, retained his composure under a terrific two and a half-hour cross-examination by Mr. Crowe, who tried to break down the value of the expert's conclusions that Franks' murder grew directly from the youths' diseased motivation." "boyhood phantasies" and an "absurd childish compact" in which perversion was a tie.

"Fear and caution, the instincts of self-preservation," governed the actions of the boys at times, both in planning the murder and in seeking to evade responsibility for it, were qualified admissions the prosecutor succeeded in forcing from the mental pathologist. The state's attorney went over the details of the youths' confessions, step by step, attempting to show that the crime grew from the youths' admittedly high intellects, rather than from their immature emotions.

Mr. Crowe also tried unsuccessfully to bring from the expert an admission that boys of the intellectual attainments of Loeb and Leopold could have deceived him as to their undeveloped emotions, it having been testified that they were below seven years in emotional age.

The prosecutor, not satisfied with the judge's ruling on the insanity angle, hammered away at it throughout the cross-examination. Dr. Healy admitted that "psychosis" is a new medical term for insanity, and Mr. Crowe asked if "psychosis", "insane" or "bughouse" did not mean the same, but without obtaining a satisfactory reply.

Judge Caverly told newspapermen, after adjournment, that he would turn over to postal inspectors some of the 300 to 400 letters regarding the case that he receives daily. He declared many of them were of a threatening nature.

The hearing promises to continue at least a fortnight longer, in the opinion of Clarence S. Darrow, chief of defense counsel. "And then I am making a conservative estimate," he said.

The defense will use two or three more alienists, Mr. Darrow indicated, with an undetermined number of other witnesses, some of whom will probably be members of the families of the two defendants.

Upon completion of Dr. Healy's testimony, Dr. Bernard Glueck of New York was called as the third defense alienist, despite the fact that there was only twenty minutes of the session left and the attorneys were hinting broadly for an adjournment because of the intense heat. Dr. Glueck got only as far as his qualifications as an expert before adjournment.

TEXT OF POPE'S MESSAGE TO KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

New York, Aug. 5.—(By the A. P.)—The apostolic benediction, in the form of a letter signed by Cardinal Gasparri, the secretary of state of the Holy See, was bestowed upon the international convention of the Knights of Columbus, which opened here today with about 5,000 members attending.

The pope's message, sent through Edward L. Hearn, past supreme knight of the order expressed the "sentiments of paternal benevolence with which the supreme pontiff follows and favors the work that the Knights of Columbus are doing, in the first place for the good of their own countrymen and then for their co-religionists in Rome."

The pope's letter, signed by Cardinal Gasparri, follows:

"On the occasion of the supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus, it is a great pleasure for me to fulfill the high duty imposed upon me by the holy father of signifying to you and through you to all members of the order, the sentiments of paternal benevolence with which the supreme pontiff follows and favors the work that the Knights of Columbus are doing, in the first place for the good of their own countrymen and then for their co-religionists in Rome.

"The holy father, who highly appreciates the valuable contribution that the Knights of Columbus are making to good cause, also here in Rome, by the work under his own eyes and placed under his own protection, vows that the generous impetus with which the Knights of Columbus hastened to respond at all times to the confidence imposed in them, may receive new strength from this convention.

While he gives deserved praise to the officers and directors of the Knights of Columbus and in a particular way to their commissioner, Edward L. Hearn, he prays the Lord that he may cause to descend copious graces on all members of the order in order that in consonance with ecclesiastical authorities they may continue to diffuse in their own country and throughout the world the beneficent impetus of their work.

"As an auspice of such graces his holiness sends with all his heart to the officers, directors, members and families of the Knights of Columbus the apostolic benediction."

"P. CARDINAL GASPARRIE"

Mayor Hylan of New York opened the meeting with an address to welcome after the Knights had attended a solemn high mass celebrated by Bishop Curley of Syracuse. Bishop William Turner of Buffalo delivered the sermon.

Reviewing in his annual report the activities of the knights in seven countries Supreme Knights James A. Flaherty dwelt upon the assistance the order had given to ex-soldiers in hospitals and through its correspondence school. "We shall remain with them," he said, "until every penny entrusted to us by the American public is expended.

FRANCE EAGER FOR PARLEY ON INTERNATIONAL DEBTS

London, Aug. 5.—With the reparation question well on the way toward solution through the inauguration of the Dawes plan, France now is pressing for a parley to consider the debt question. The British government has been reported as sympathetic toward the French views on cancellation of war debts within certain well defined limitations, which, of course, would have to take into account Great Britain's obligations under former Premier Baldwin's settlement of Great Britain's debt to the United States.

As the question of war indebtedness to the United States is considered a delicate political question in that country, none of the American delegates attending the conference tonight would venture an opinion upon a subject concerning which the American congress laid down very definite instructions in which the American debt commission had to circumscribe its dealings with Premier Baldwin in arranging the British settlement.

It is therefore taken for granted here that the British settlement with the United States will serve as a precedent in dealing with the war debts of other nations to the United States, at least until the American congress shall again express itself.

In American circles tonight it was said that with the United States engaged in a presidential campaign it was no time to indulge in any prophesies as to what will be the position of the United States if the debt question becomes the subject of early discussion in another conference.

ADDISON BARNES GATLING MARRIED FOR THIRD TIME

New York, Aug. 5.—Addison Barnes Gatling, grandson of Dr. Jordan Gatling, inventor of the rapid fire gun that bears his name, was married for the third time six weeks ago to Miss Helen Ryan, said to be a motion picture actress, formerly of Rochester, it was learned tonight. They had known each other two months.

Mr. Gatling, who is well known in society, is 30 years old. His bride is 26.

HEAT PROSTRATIONS AND DROWNINGS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 5.—With the thermometer here surging over the 90 mark today, several persons were overcome by the heat, two youths who sought relief in the lake were drowned and three women seriously hurt when the porches collapsed on which they were sitting to escape the heat.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Irish Boundary Controversy.

Dublin, Aug. 5.—(By The A. P.)—At the close of the conference which lasted throughout the day the Free State government issued a communication announcing that after full discussion of the question of putting into operation Article 12 of the Anglo-Irish treaty, dealing with the boundary between North and South Ireland, a statement will be made in the house of commons in London tomorrow, after which Premier MacDonald will send a communication to the Free State government.

REVIEW OF RACIAL AND ECONOMIC FORCES IN INDIA

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 5.—The solution of the color question threatens to become the acid test of occidental civilization, said Sir Valentine Chirol, director of the foreign department of the London Times in the second of his lectures at the Institute of politics tonight.

He reviewed racial and economic forces at work in India and added:

"It is not by the sword that England can hope to rule India. What is to be feared at present is not overt belief against English rule but a sturdy estrangement of the best elements of India itself, without whose cooperation the whole scheme of reform many languish and perhaps perish and the whole weight of India be thrown into the scales in favor of final breach with occidental civilization.

"It will be an evil day for the occident if all the other political, social and economic problems with which it is faced in the orient come to be merged into one comprehensive color problem which must irresistibly unite against the west all the different races and creeds of the otherwise disunited orient."

Continued progress in Europe depends on the acceptance of the Dawes report, according to Col. Alan G. Goldsmith, chief of the European division of the United States department of commerce and a technical adviser of the Dawes commission.

"There is no alternative," said Col. Goldsmith, who spoke today. "If the report is not accepted, he declared, "there will be nothing to fall back upon except the status quo which "at the very best would mean continually multiplying obstacles and obstructions to economic progress and at the worst, perhaps, financial chaos and economic collapse in Europe with its inevitable re-percussion on the world in general."

PLAN COOLIDGE CAMPAIGN IN NORTHWESTERN STATES

Washington, Au. 5.—The republican national committee has before it for decision, President Coolidge let it be known today, the question of establishing a reginal headquarters at Minneapolis as the base for an intensive campaign in the northwestern states.

For some time advisers of the president have urged that an active campaign be conducted by the republican party in the states regarded as the stronghold of Senator LaFollette, independent candidate for president, and the word from the White House was taken as indicating that the advice was regarded favorably enough to have it placed before the national committee for action.

Additional encouraging reports were received by the president today on the campaign outlook in western territory, Representative Johnson of South Dakota, calling upon the executive and saying that the republican ticket would prevail in that state in November.

Mr. Coolidge spent another busy day, meeting this morning with his cabinet and holding several conferences on government business. Later in the day he resumed work on his speech of acceptance which he said had reached the stage of "editing down."

7-YEAR-OLD GIRL ILL FROM ALCOHOLIC POISONING

New Haven, Aug. 5.—Jenny Maffy, 7 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Maffy of 446 East street, is in grace hospital in a serious condition, suffering from alcoholic poisoning. The little girl drank a quantity of raw alcohol from a one-gallon can which she found in the rear of a place at 442 East street. She was still unconscious late tonight and may not recover. The girl was taken to the hospital by her father after she had complained of serious pains. An investigation was started by the police and the place where the girl said she found the can was raided. The officers found the can but the owner of the place denied ownership and said he had never seen it before. Coroner Eli Mix will make an investigation tomorrow morning.

BISHOP SAYS TEMPERATE USE OF LIQUOR NOT A VICE

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 5.—The declaration that the temperate use of liquor is not a vice was made by Bishop Thomas J. Walsh, of Trenton, before the annual conference of the Catholic Total Abstinance Union opening here today.

"Total abstinance is an absolute necessity for some men, a heroic sacrifice for tohers, and a virtue for all," said Bishop Walsh, but the temperate use of drink is not a vice."

In presenting the key of the city to the conference, James Carberry acting for Mayor Edward L. Bader, said: "The mayor would like to see Atlantic City just as dry as you are now."

BODY FOUND FLOATING IN WATER OFF THE BRONX

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 5—State police here tonight were informed that the body of a woman answering the description of Mrs. Lena Ericson, 65, missing from this city since July 24, is being held for identification at Bellevue hospital morgue in New York. The body, is was said had been found floating in the water off the Bronx.

AN IMPRESSIVE ADVANCE IN STERLING EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 5.—Gathering momentum as the London conference progressed, the advance in sterling exchange today carried the rate to a new high record for the year at $4.46 3-4, French francs jumped about 15 points, crossing 5 1-2 cents, and Belgium francs rose 28 points to 5.03 cents. Profit taking, however, caused a late reaction to $4.45 1-4, for sterling and 5.42 cents for French francs.

Collision of Trains Coney Island Bound

Wooden Car Was Telescoped —One Person Was Killed— Four Critically Injured.

New York, Aug. 5.—One person was killed and eighteen injured, four critically, late today when a wooden train on the elevated divosion of the Brighton line of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company ran into the rear end of a steel subway train at the Ocean Parkway station.

Both of the trains were bound for Coney Island. The steel subway train was just pulling out of the station as the wooden train, composed of six cars, entered it. The motorman of the wooden train, whose name was given by the police as McNicholas, stated, according to them, that his air brakes failed to work and he jumped from his compartment to the platform station, leaving his train running wild.

Mayor Hylan, who rushed to the scene of the accident, gave out a statement immediately afterward in which he said that the blame for the deaths and injuries rested in the use of wooden cars.

A panic was caused on both trains by the collision, according to witnesses, with passengers in both trains frantically endeavoring to make their wya to the platform.

The killed and injured were in the first car of the wooden train, which was telescoped by the impact. Police who investigated the accident stated that portions of a side of the car fell to the street, carrying some passengers with it.

Physicians were rushed to the scene of the accident from the Coney Island hospital, a few blocks away. They administered first aid to the injured, twelve of whom went immediately to their homes. The remaining six were taken to the hospital, where four of them were pronounced in a critical condition from internal and other injuries.

John McNicholas, motorman of the wooden car, in a second statement to Mayor Hylan, stated that the handle of his air brake control slipped off as he tried to apply his brakes, and jammed when he tried to replace it. He told the mayor that in his excitement he then jumped from a window.

Between fifty and sixty passengers were said to have been in the first car, where all the injuries occurred. In addition to the eighteen treated by physicians, it was estimated by the police that thirty others were slightly bruised or cut and taken to their homes in private automobiles.

Police reserves and firemen were summoned to the scene, in addition to ambulances. The firemen used extension ladders to remove passengers in cars of the wto trains which were beyond the ends of the platform.

POLITICAL STATEMENT BY THE A. F. OF L. COMMITTEE

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 5.—(By the A. P.)—An appeal to 30,000 affiliations of the American Federation of Labor was framed today by the executive council of that organization, urging immediate organization of campaign headquarters and personnel, accumulation of funds and mobilization of forces in support of Senators La Follette and Wheeler and such congressional, state and local candidates in the fall election as the federation may designate.

The council, in annual session here, also adopted a hands-off policy toward the National Defense Day issue at the same time advocating that, since such a day had been officially set, labor should join in observing it.

A statement issued, concluded with these words:

"We will announce our list of acceptable conditions for the senate and house. We are not concerned and will not be guided by what Morris Hillquit of the socialist party or any other group leaders may do.

"If they run counter to our campaign that is their responsibility. We will not subordinate our program to that of anyone else."

BODIES OF COUPLE FOUND UNDER OVERTURNED AUTO

Fort Worth, Texas., Aug. 5.—The bodies of DeWitt Gooch and Miss Charlie Reece, were found under an overturned automobile on the Lake Worth road early today. They had left a party near the Lake at midnight, given as a farewell to Gooch who was to have left them for California.

Miss Reece was a niece of Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the K. K. K.

The district attorney's office later today began a search for the big automobile, which, it was reported had knocked the small Gooch car from the roadside and caused the accident.

COMEDIAN TINNEY FAILED TO DODGE PROCESS SERVERS

New York, August 5.—Frank Tinney, stage comedian sailed for London today after a worried 12 hours spent in futile dodging of process servers who managed to hunt him up aboard the steamship Columbus and serve him with papers in a suit for separation to be filed Friday by his wife and by other legal representatives who handed him papers in a damage suit filed by a newspaper photographer.

RECTOR SHOT BY MEN CLAD IN KLAN REGALIA

Eagle Lake, Texas, August 5.—The Rev. F. M. Johnson, Jr., Episcopal rector, was shot through the arm last night while driving past an automobile occupied by two men clad in Ku Klux Klan regalia, it was learned today.

The rector said he had been outspoken against the Ku Klux Klan but said he knew of no enemies in or out of the organization who want to take his life.

Airplane at Milford Nearly Submerged

Was Forced Down in River By Break in the Gasoline Pipe —Pilot Was Not Injured.

Milford, Aug. 5.—An airplane of the Pride Aero Corporation, Woodmont, and piloted by John Weslocke, 21, of New Britain, was wrecked this afternoon when it made a forcee landing in the water at Oyster river. Pilot Weslocke was not injured and after sitting in the fallen plane for a few minutes scrambled out as its nose sunk in the water.

According to Weslocke, the gasoline pipe broke soon after he had left the ground and he found that a forced landing was necessary. Because of the crowds on the landing field and the highway and carrying out instructions of the corporation officials he selected the water, and landed about 300 yards off shore.

Swarms of canoeists and boatmen immediately put out to his rescue but found that he was not injured and before they had reached the plane Weslocke had climbed out and had started for the shore. The plane was nearly submerged an hour later when the incoming tide covered all but the tail of the machine. Officials of the corporation said tonight that they would be able to salvage the machine.

GERMANS PARTICIPATING IN LONDON CONFERENCE

London, Aug. 5 (By the A. P.).—The inter-allied conference on the Dawes plan today officially changed its name to "international conference" when German representatives, headed by Chancellor Marx, took places at the foot of the big table in the ambassador's room of the foreign office. This was the first appearance of German plenipotentiaries at a full dress European conference since that held in Genoa.

Although they sat at the foot of the table, with Ramsay Macdonald at the head and the French and American delegates on either side, the Germans participated as full partners in the effort to work out a program for putting the Dawes plan into operation.

After a formal session this morning, the conference adjourned until the Germans are ready to express their views on the work accomplished by the inter-allied delegates during the past three weeks.

Chancellor Marx, Dr. Stresemann and Finance Minister Luther were in conference all during the afternoon and until late tonight with various German experts discussing the protocols, and it seemed unlikely that the German delegation would be ready to make a statement tomorrow of the points they desire to discuss in the altered Dawes plan. As the "big seven" has worked three weeks in preparing the protocol, the German delegates feel that they should not be expected to state their attitude in twenty-four hours.

It will not be known before noon tomorrow whether the conference will have a session, and should it meet tomorrow it is thought the Germans will make only a partial statement on their position. Thus Mr. Macdonald's desire that the conference should be completed Friday seems unlikely to be fulfilled, as there is no disposition on the part of anyone to appear to be unnecessarily hurrying the Germans.

AIRMAN, HERO IN WAR, KILLED IN NOSE DIVE

Cleveland, O., August 5.—Harold A. Kullberg, one of the best known airplane pilots in the country and who during the World war, as a lieutenant in the British Royal Flying Corps, bagged 14 German planes, and Henry Dunker, 34, of Hudson, Ohio, were killed tonight when a commercial airplane in which they were flying went into a nose dive and fell 2,000 feet near Hudson, Ohio.

Dunker was a pupil in Kullberg's plane, so built that men in both seats could control it. Kullberg lost control of the machine and Dunker was unable to right it. Both men were buried in the wreckage.

Kullberg was born in Somerville, Mass., and attended Wentworth Institute, Boston. He was trained in flying in Canada, Texas, France and England, and joining the Royal Flying Corps in August, 1917.

He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Royal Flying Cross.

CALL FOR MEETING OF DEM. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

New Haven, Aug. 5.—A call has been issued for a meeting of the democratic state central committee to be held in this city next Saturday to ratify the action of Chairman E. M. Yeomans and Secretary A. Sidney Lynch in setting September 17 and 18 as the date and Footguard Hall, Hartford, as the place of the democratic state committee. Selection of a keynote speaker for the convention details will be considered. Chairman Yeomans, who was to have had a conference with Mayor David E. Fitzgerald of this city last week relative to the latter's candidacy for the governorship, will confer with the mayor at the conference Saturday. Should the mayor state at that time that he will not be a candidate, party leaders say he will be chosen as the keynoter. Congressman P. B. O'Sullivan of Derby, who this week declared himself in the race for renomination, is said to be the second choice for the convention post.

DAVIS WORKING ON BROAD ASPECTS OF HIS CAMPAIGN

Among other things he is revolving in his mind the sequence in which he will present the arguments in his case in a more extended manner than he will find it possible to do in his first address.

More substantial progress is being made now in the selection of those who are to have the more important places in the campaign organization. The chief one of these, that of chairman of the finance committee, has been made, but announcement is being withheld for the present.

DEADLY ACID IN CAN BEARING "DENATURED ALCOHOL" LABEL

Nine Persons Were Injured When Stopper Flew From Can in Subway Train, New York—Three Persons Were Seriously and Two Badly Burned—Three Overcome By Fumes—Man on Whose Lap the Can Reposed Escaped in Crowd That Fled From the Train at Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, Aug. 5.—Nine persons were injured, three seriously, when a stopper flew from a can of what was marked "Denatured Alcohol" in the lap of a subway patron on a train of the Interborough Rapid Transit company today.

John Christian, 26, of Brooklyn, was painfully burned on the back and arms. Two others, badly burned, were taken to hospitals. Six others suffered from the escaping fumes three of them being unconscious.

Officials disagreed on the nature of the contents of the can, reported to have contained a deadly acid. Its owner escaped in the milling crowd that fled from the train at Brooklyn bridge.

A number of women fainted as the crowds fought to get through the car doors when the train, a local, pulled into the Brooklyn Bridge station.

Members of the train crew summoned police and the panic-stricken crowd soon was quiet. Ambulances removed Christian, Miss Ethel Woodroll, 21, and Elizabeth Carey, 16, to hospitals. Miss Woodroll and the Carey girl, both of whom live in Brooklyn, did not recover from the fumes until an hour later.

Three others overcome by fumes were revived by physicians in the crowd and it was not necessary to remove them to hospitals.

Frank Hedley, president of the subway company, said he had received a report to the effect the contents of the can were nitric acid while an inspector of the bureau of combustibles of the police department declared the fluid to have been acetic acid.

ARMY WORLD FLIERS MAKE 300 MILE FLIGHT

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Skirting the southeastern, southern and southwestern coasts of Iceland, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik Nelson today drove their round-the-world planes from Hoefn, Hornafjord, to Reykjavik, a distance of some 300 miles, in four hours and fifty-eight minutes.

The take-off from Hoefn Hornafjord was made under good weather conditions, and these continued throughout the journey, except for a heavy head wind encountered by the planes as they turned northward from the southern point of Iceland. The winds buffeted the fliers considerably, but nevertheless they were able to make a splendid landing at the spot assigned to them in the bay here.

Virtually the entire population of the quaint little hamlet of Reykjavik assembled on the pier to greet the two great planes as they circled above the harbor inside the sea wall, searching for their buoys. As the machines hit the water, with Lieut. Smith leading the way, a small boat put out from the shore and took off the fliers.

Arriving at the pier the lord mayor of the town and the members of the town council welcomed the Americans, and women presented each of them with a bouquet of flowers.

KILLED NOTED SURGEON, THEN COMMITTED SUICIDE

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Dr. Duncan L. Despard, noted surgeon, shot in his office today by a man believed mentally unbalanced, who then shot and killed himself, died tonight at the Polyclinic hospital while surgeons were about to operate on him.

The assailant's bullet pierced the physician's shoulder and lung. The dead man was identified by police as Alfonso Masi, 40, a tailor. Dr. Despard is said to have operated on Masi a year ago.

Dr. Despard, a distant relation of John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, was associate professor of gynecology at the Polyclinic hospital and clinical demonstrator of surgery at the Jefferson Medical college. He was also noted as a nerve specialist.

Masi, married and father of three children, is said to have been a hypochondriac, having been operated on a number of times at various hospitals.

Masi fired twice at Dr. Despard. One shot struck the physcian. Masi then fired three shots into his own body.

Relatives who came to claim the body of Masi at the morgue expressed the belief that he must have become suddenly insane from worrying over his health and financial troubles.

LEGACIES IN WILL OF LATE PROF. J. M. HOPPIN

New Haven, Aug. 5.—Yale university receives $60,000 in cash, under a decree entered by Judge John L. Gilson today in probate court accepting the account of Henry W. Farnam and George D. Watrous as executors of the will of the late Professor James Mason Hoppin.

A legacy of $40,000 is directed to be paid to Edith Rockhill and collateral heirs share in the residue. A total fund amounting to $164,113, all invested in bonds, has been held for the life use of Benjamin Hoppin, recently deceased, and the court directed that the funds be converted into cash, according to the terms of the will.

PRIMARIES IN MISSOURI, KANSAS AND OKLAHOMA

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 5.—Voters in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma today nominated their party standard-bearers for the fall elections.

The polls closed late in all the states, and indications were that the balloting had been heavy. Long ballots were expected to slow up the gathering and tabulating of returns.

The Ku Klux Klan issue bobed up in all the states and to observers was regarded as the big factor in Oklahoma where J. C. Walton, deposed governor, and anti-klan foe, sought the democratic nomination for United States senator against a strong field.

FUGITIVE SHOT WHILE ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 5.—Suspected of being a fugitive, a man who gave his name as Arthur Johnson was shot in the leg tonight by Detective James Carey, Jr., when he fled from the detective and Patrolman Sties, who stopped him in the Greenville section and began searching him. Police say the man's fingerprints correspond with those of a man by the name of Phillips who was arrested for robbery and burglary in Stamford, Conn., in June.

MANY CONTESTANTS FOR BAY STATE PRIMARIES

Boston, Aug. 5.—Filing of nominations for the state primaries next month in the last hours before closing tome at 5 o'clock this afternoon disclosed a large number of contests in both the republican and democratic parties but no surprises in the candidates for the principal renomination by the democrats. The republicans seeking the senatorial nomination are Speaker Frederick H. Gillett, Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger and Louis A. Coolidge.

The republicans will have congressional contests in eight of the sixteen districts and the democrats in ten. In the sixth and sixteenth districts, where Congressman A. Piatt Andrew and Charles L. Gifford respectively have no opposition for republican renomination.

Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston is the only democratic candidate for governor. For the republican gubernatorial nomination those who filed are Lieut. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, State Treasurer James Jackson and State Auditor Alonso B. Cook also has filed for renomination as auditor and it is expected that before the time for withdrawals expires on Friday afternoon he will have his name dropped from one of the contests.

The only contest on the democratic state ticket is for lieutenant governor, with Thomas J. Boynton, Arlington, John J. Cummings, Boston, and William A. O'Hearn, North Adams, as the candidates. No name was filed for the democratic nomination for auditor.

On the republican state ticket the contests in addition to that for governor are for treasurer and auditor. The seven candidates for treasurer are Otis Allen, Lowell; William A. Allen, Boston; James W. Bean, Cambridge; Harry N. Brown, Reading; former treasurer, Fred J. Burrell, Medford; Horace A. Keith, Brockton; and William S. Youngman, Boston. For auditor cook is opposed by Robert W. Burr, Boston, and Harold D. Wilson, Somerville.

SCHENNANDOAH TO MAKE FLIGHT TO NARRAGANSETT BAY

Lakehurse, N. J., Aug. 5.—The dirigible Shenandoah is to be taken from her hangar tat 3.45 o'clock, standard time, tomorrow morning, in preparation for her flight later in the day to Narragansett Bay, R. I., where for the first time in the history of dirigibles a specially constructed mooring mast aboard a ship—the Patoka—is to be tried out. The Shenandoah is expected to leave the naval air station here at 10.30 standard time and to reach Narragansett Bay between one and two o'clock.

Should the Patoka's mooring mast prove unsatisfactory, it was understood here tonight, the dirigible proceed to St. Louis, Mo., before returning to her home station. Commander Zachary Lansdowne, will be in charge of the craft.

MEXICAN REVOLUTIONARY FORCES ARE BEING DISARMED

Mexico City, Aug. 5.—(By The A. P.)—Federal forces under General Roberto Cruz, chief of military operations in the state of Puebla, today began the disarmament of volunteer and agrarian forces raised during the recent revolution. The disarmament was begun in the district of San Martin where Mrs. Rosalie Evans, American born wodow of a British subject was killed and robber by a band of unknown persons Saturday night when en route to her Hacienda.

MOTION TO REPEAL "DRY" LAWS IN NEW FOUNDLAND

St. John's, N. F., Aug. 5.—Repeal of the New Foundland prohibition laws was moved in the legislature tonight by Premier Monroe, who introduced a bill permitting the sale of alcoholic beverages under definite restrictions.

The proposed regulations are based on the laws for government control of liquor traffic now in force in Quebec with modifications made necessary by local conditions.

LA FOLLETTE HAS GREATER NEW YORK COMMITTEE

New York, Aug. 5.—Leaders in the campaign on behalf of Senator La Follette today organized a Greater New York campaign committee, which will bend its efforts toward carrying this city for the progressive candidate for president.

Gilbert W. Roe, campaign manager for the northeastern states, said that nominating petitions to put the names of La Follette and Wheeler on the ballots in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and the New England states, would be in circulation within a week.

WILLIMANTIC

Miss May Agnes Cheney, daughter of Mrs. Phillip R. Cheney of 178 Valley street and Attorney Harry S. Gaudreau, son of Henry A. Gaudreau of 228 Windham road, were united in marriage at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The ceremony, which was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon, and the wedding was one of the outstanding social events of the season here. The Wedding March from Lohengrin was played on the organ by Mrs. J. F. Gaudreau as the bridal party entered the edifice. Leonard's Mass in F was sung by the St. Cecelia quartet, Mrs. L. Fortier, Mrs. M. Goodwin, Edward Rocheville and J. B. Gaudreau. Arthur Roy, brother-in-law of the groom, sang O Promise Me, and Miss Florence Coutu sang Rosario's Ave Maria. The recessional was Mendelssohn's wedding march.

Dr. George P. Cheney of New London, brother of the bride, gave her in marriage. The best man was Dr. Eugene Beauchamp of Chicopee Falls, Mass. Miss Florence Bernadine Hevrin was maid of honor. Dr. F. J. Keegan of this city and Phillip Dean of Glastonbury were ushers. The bride's gown was white crepe-de-chine with Chantilly lace. She wore a veil with real lace cap and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas. Her traveling suit was of tan Rajah silk, with hat to correspond.

Miss Hevrin, the bridesmaid, wore a frock of turquoise chiffon and a leghorn hat with trimmings of old fashioned flowers which her Colonial bouquet matched. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast served at the home of the bride. Intimate friends and members of the families and of the club of which the bride is a member were present. Attorney and Mrs. Gaudreau have gone to Canada on a short wedding trip, after which they will reside at 179 Valley street to await the completion of an apartment. The bride attended St. Mary's parochial school here and was graduated from Windham High school in the class of 1917. Up to recently she was assistant city clerk. Attorney Gaudreau is a graduate of the Boston University Law school and has been practicing in this city about two years.

A fire department for South Coventry. A dream which is now on the verge of becoming a reality through the solid backing of the members of Hart W. Green post, No. 52, American Legion. A committee of twelve, including six members of the post and a like number chosen from the citizenry of the village was appointed and the body met Monday night at the office of Town Clerk Louis W. Daniels to discuss the subject. Commander Howard W. Daniels of the post made known the purpose of the meeting and remarks were made by Postmaster Walter Hoff. The committee's viewpoints were expressed through Ernest H. Woodward and First Selectman Dr. W. L. Higgins. There appeared to be a genuine feeling of sympathy with the movement and a committee of three, Howard W. Daniels, Ernest H. Woodward and Dr. Higgins, was appointed to investigate the feasibility of establishing a department for the village. The committeemen will study the costs of equipment, building or renting a firehouse and headquarters, the purchase of a set of by-laws, etc. A report will then be made to the general committee after which the entire proposition will be laid before a mass meeting of the people of the town. The type of apparatus to be secured and the raising of money for establishing the department are still under consideration. A chemical wagon such as was recently acquired by the South Windham fire department has met with the approval of a number.

In the only fire-fighting apparatus is a sadly dilapidated pump of the "breaker down" style now collecting cob webs at one of the mills. The South Coventry Water Supply company furnishes water to the village from Lake Wangumbaug. The mains run through the principal streets of the town, over a mile and a half in length. There are several fire hydrants in various locations. The general population of South Coventry has endorsed the new movement in hearty manner and pledges of cooperation have been offered from every side.

Motorists coming into Willimantic after the next few days will be greeted with pleasing welcome signs, which are to be suspended by the local Rotary club. Present plain wooden signs will be removed to make room for the new. The action was taken at the weekly luncheon and meeting of the club, Tuesday noon, when President Harry W. Standish appointed a committee to have charge of placing the signs. The committee comprises: A. E. Greene, chairman; Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, Walter Abbe, Ellison S. Smith and Charles W. Hill. With the hand of Rotary always extended for a warm clasp with that of a stranger, it is deemed fitting that the Rotary welcome be posted at every entrance to greet visitors coming to the city. Guests of the club were Harry Hedley Smith, member of the New Haven club and state secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Howard Bradford, a Putnam Rotarian. A bass solo, Voices From the Pasture, was rendered in popular manner by President Standish and John F. Ahern, song leader, played for the footlights in a tenor rendition. It was announced that the local club would have charge of the arrangements for the August 26th meeting of the Hartford club in that city. Speakers representing the club will be Charles W. Hill and Acting Mayor George Hickey.

The sixth annual County Fair of Willimantic Lodge, No. 1214, B. P. O. E., is a little over three weeks away. To say that the Elks' Country Fair this year will excel in every way its predecessors is as safe and sane as saying that the democrats had a hot time in New York. A committee of 31 with Joseph M. Berard as general chairman controls a small army of workers who will continue to be as busy as bees to make 1924 the banner year in the local Elk history. The Elks' park, once a patched section of marshy land, is steadily being improved. Elaborate redecorating work is being carried out this year. The country gates have been repainted and have been placed at the various entrances to the city. To accommodate the special vaudeville attractions during the fair the large stage has been further enlarged so that it now covers 900 square feet.

Mrs. Mary H. Dennehy, widow of Michael Dennehey, died early Tuesday morning after an illness of several weeks, at her home, 50 Winter street. She came to this country in May, 1855, having embarked from an Irish port on April 9 and due to primitive modes of transportation did not arrive here until May 13. She was influential in having her father, mother and brothers and sisters come to this country. There are now 18 members of her family buried in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mrs. Dennehy was the mother of ten children, two of whom are living, Miss Margaret H. Dennehy and Michael F. Dennehy of this city.

At Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, the season is now at its height and all the cottages and bungalows are occupied. A large percentage of them are owned or have been rented by residents of towns from every part of the state. The concessionists at the lake short report business excellent. The casino is popular with dance and music lovers. The boating and fishing facilities are being taken advantage of by hundreds.

Mildred Irene Moriarty, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Moriarty of 204 Jackson street, died at her home Tuesday afternoon after a lingering illness. The deceased was born in this city and was a graduate of Windham High school. Besides her parents she is survived by a sister, Miss Bertha Moriarty of this city; and two brothers, Dr. Clarence Moriarty and Attorney Edward Moriarty of New York city.

James Fallon, 3, son of Harold Fallon, residing at the old Babcock house, 89 Mechanic street, plunged through a plate glass window and fell a distance of 19 feet Tuesday about noon. The child, tearing itself from its mother's clasp and shutting his eyes, ran blindly across the room directly through the second story window. The child escaped serious injuries by just missing the asphalt walk and landing on his stomach on the grass plot below. Injuries sustained were a bump over the right eye, a bad cut on the little finger, cuts and bruises on the right knee and a cut lip. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called to give the injured boy attention.

Owen Armstrong, 22, "on my way to Pennsylvania" appeared in Pawcatuck Tuesday evening in cowboy costume, which he procured in Cheyenne Wyoming, while visiting his uncle's ranch. Armstrong figures that it will take him safely on his jaunt from Portland, Me., which he left last Saturday, to York, Pa., hoping to reach there and be the guest of relatives in the Keystone state. He is not adverse to catching a ride and his trip has taken him to Worcester, Woonsocket, Providence, East Greenwich, Wakefield and Westerly. He carries a sixty pound pack on his back with the above inscription and says that his outfit attracts more attention in the east than it did in Wyoming.

The first August meeting of Watch Hill Improvement society was held in the Memorial House, Watch Hill, Tuesday noon. Among business and other matters taken up was that of soliciting from the cottage colony for the support of the Bay Street club. This club is located in the Columbia House and is equipped as a rest and recreation room for the chauffeurs and other employes of the Watch Hill people. It has been suggested that the Coast Guard men might want to avail themselves of its privileges. Assurances have been given that a subscription sufficient to cover the expenses involved will be forthcoming.

About two o'clock in the Memorial House, consideration was given to the matter of the pollution of the waters of Little Narragansett Bay. Mrs. Davis C. Anderson, president of the Improvement Society has made an endeavor to remedy the situation and the Rhode Island state board of purification of waters has been invited to look over the situation. Engineer Gates and Sec. Frost, of the board, visited Watch Hill to look into the matter Tuesday. Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., and Engineer Thomas McKenzie of the Westerly water works together with Harbor Master Daniel F. Larkin looked into the situation. In the hearing at the Memorial house, it developed that there were two methods of obtaining the desired relief—one was to prefer formal complaint in which an engineer would have to be secured to determine the extent of the pollution. The other way was to go at the matter informally and endeavor to come to an agreement with the parties concerned.

Not only is rubbish dumped into the bay, but sewerage from the various building blocks and hotels finds its way into the waters of the harbor. This condition which is growing continually worse constitutes a menace to the public health and welfare of the resort. A young man a year ago was said to have gone bathing in the bay and later was taken ill with typhoid fever, it being thought to have been contracted from its polluted waters.

Among those present at the meeting were, Mrs. Henri Desrochers Anderson, Mrs. G. Richmond Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme, Mrs. Thomas Louden, Archibald H. Davis and Walter S. Price.

THE YEARLY REPORT OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

The annual report of the Congregational church in the United States is just off the press. A summary made by Rev. Charles E. Burton, the secretary, shows a notable tendency towards "Fewer churches but better." The denomination reports a loss of one hundred and two churches, but an increase of 8,323 members. The average membership per church, taking the country over, increased from 147 per church to over 150 members per church. This is accounted for by reasons:

First, the concentration of population in cities from the country thus making the continuance of rural churches impossible.

Second, the wide use of the automobile allows many country dwellers to go to the town church.

Third, the growing spirit of church union, or federation which brings about the union of two or more small churches of various denominations into one strong church.

All this movement is for the good and Congregationalists are most willing to enter into any plan which will bring about better churches. During the year just closed, 33 new churches were organized, and 143 were closed or merged into churches of other denominations.

Property values have increased by $8,412,461, bringing it up to $132,388,237. Invested funds of the churches amount to $15,243,948, being an increase of $524,550 in the year.

The annual budgets of the churches reporting amount to $13,261,691, which is $1,379,936 more than for the preceding year. This does not include the benevolences of the churches, which total $5,366,181, or $153,965 more than the preceding year.

The pastors' salaries are evidently growing better. Not including parsonages provided for a considerable proportion of the ministers and exclusive of various perquisites the average salary is shown to be $1,854 as compared with $1,778 one year earlier. The value of free house rent and other perquisites would probably bring this average up to approximately $2,200 a year.

The benevolences of the church show an increase for the regular causes of approximately 180 per cent over the amount of money raised in 1918 at the close of the Great war.

63,680 new members were added to the rolls, 37,305 of these being on confession of thir faith and the rest by letter from other churches of all denominations.

The Sunday school enrolment is shown to be 780,375, a gain of 622 in the year. The membership of Young People's organizations totals 119,809, an increase of 3,407.

The Congregational church came to America in the Mayflower in 1620 and maintains today a most vital interest in the practical application of religion to every day personal and public affairs.

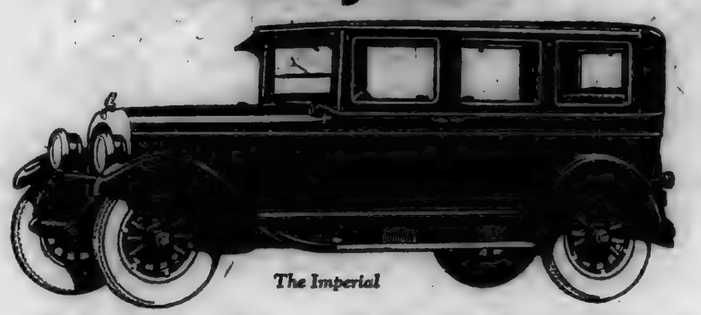
A Joy of Motoring That's Wholly New



The Imperial

Chrysler has pioneered the way to an entirely new degree of performance and economy in motoring—a high speed range from 2 to over 70 miles an hour, combined with gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon, and extraordinary oil economy, due to the Chrysler oil-filter which cleanses and purifies the oil in the crankcase once in every 25 miles of driving. Furthermore with a touring car weight of 2700 pounds, ready for the road, and an over-all length of 160 inches, the Chrysler Six rides even more comfortably than cars of twice its weight because of the Chrysler spring suspension and the use of six-ply special high-speed balloon tires.

The Chrysler Six

Pronounced as though spelled, Crysler

No matter how wide and varied his motor experience, the Chrysler Six owner finds himself taking his place behind its steering wheel with all the glow of pride and anticipation that come to a boy driving his first car.

Men and women who for years haven't had a thrill out of driving, discover in the Chrysler Six a joy of motoring heretofore unknown.

Owners will tell you that Chrysler smoothness is the nearest approach to frictionless motion—that it is difficult to realize its speed, its power is so easy and effortless. Its remarkable ease of handling, its phenomenal pick-up, its powerful braking enable you to drive through heavy traffic with safety, and without tension or nervous strain.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan.

Bread Theatre

One of the cleverest comedy casts ever seen is in Thomas H. Ince's latest production, an uproarious comedy special entitled "The Galloping Fish," and heads the double feature bill at the Bread today and Thursday. Instead of being satisfied with one comedian to amuse his audience, Ince signed up Louise Fazenda, Syd Chaplin and Ford Sterling for the leading roles of the picture.

"The Mark of the Beast," by Thomas Dixon, author of "The Birth of a Nation" and many other notable stage plays and novels, will be shown for the second feature. "The Mark of the Beast" is the first of a series of motion pictures to be produced personally by Thomas Dixon. Feeling that many of the modern films offered the public have been clothed with the usual moving picture "hokum" and audience appeal, and which is entirely different to what the author intended, Mr. Dixon in order to give expression to his own thoughts without the influence of other minds and ideas, has produced and directed "The Mark of the Beast" himself.

Mr. Dixon worked for six months on the preparation alone in order to insure a photodramatic achievement that would appeal to the intellect of motion picture patrons through their emotions.

The Fox news completes the bill for today and Thursday.

The National Colonial Archives in Seville, Spain, contains original documents relating to the early history of Texas and other Spanish colonies of North America, according to an official report of Frederick C. Chabot, charge d'affaires ad iterim, to the Department of State. This provides a fertile field for historical research work.

Lewis and Clark Cavern

The Lewis and Clark cavern of Montana was discovered in 1895 by D. A. Morrison of Whitehall and was established as a national monument in 1908 by President Roosevelt. It takes its name from the fact that it overlooks, for a distance of fifty miles, the trail of Lewis and Clark along the Jefferson river. Vandalism and lack of funds to put in a proper lighting system keep the cave closed to the public at present. The entrance to the cavern is bauot 1,500 feet above the river and about 500 feet below the rim of Cave mountain. The general shape of the cave is that of a fissure in a steeply inclined bed of limestone. Its maximum measurements are, length, 600 feet; depth, 400 feet. Its numerous passages and rooms make it appear miles in extent.

AFTER BABY ARRIVES

Many Mothers Weak, Nervous

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps to Restore Health

A great many letters similar to the following recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a wonderful medicine for bringing the new mother back to normal health and strength.

It is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by a nursing mother.

Thousands of mothers who have regained their strength by taking it are its best recommendation. Why not take it yourself?

Now Well Again

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"After I had my second child I felt sick and nervous and could not do much. Then after the other baby came I was worse than ever. I suffered this way for a long time and did not know what to do. I was looking over my cook books, and found one of your little books and I sat down and read every page. Then I bought a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took four bottles of it before I stopped, and now I am well again. I always recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. John Mitzker, 778 8th Ave., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"My health got worse after my little girl's birth, and my mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had done her so much good. I had headaches and tired feelings, with no ambition, also pains at times so it hurt me to walk. With the Vegetable Compound I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I have been greatly helped. I do hope you will use my letter as a testimonial as it will help other women."—Mrs. George Shoemaker, 349 Emslie St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Followed Friend's Advice

Vienna, South Dakota.—"After my second child was born I was completely run-down and didn't care for anything. I had sharp pains in my sides and a white discharge and was nervous and weak. I didn't seem to care how I neglected my work. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it for two months the first time and one month the last time. It has helped me in a great many ways and the pains have left me entirely. I certainly wish you to know how much benefit I have received."—Mrs. G. W. Freeman, Vienna, South Dakota.

Such letters and a successful record of fifty years should convince every ailing woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine she needs. For sale by druggists everywhere.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CIRCUS DAY IS DRAWING NEAR

Educated ponies are still featured with the Gentry Bros.-James Patterson Circus, which will be here Monday, Aug. 11. Citizens of Norwich are receiving word today to the effect that once more they can have the opportunity of seeing a circus and one which many of the old time "big top lovers" will remember as one of the best on the road, one which always lived up to advance advertising and never allowing any swindling games, short changing or immoral dancing exhibitions. This clean, moral policy, during their thirty-seven years has earned them the title "Cleanest Circus in America."

Twenty-five bill posters and other advertising men arrived in the city last week and have spent the day posting the flaming twenty-four sheets, bannering and programing the surrounding country by which means the country side for a radius of thirty miles will know of the coming of the circus on Monday Aug. 11.

This should be a great day in town as there is nothing that will draw the rural population to town quicker than "Circus Day." It will be a great day for visiting and, no doubt, a great deal of trading will be done at the local stores. Circus men are always out bright and early so as to get their duties through as soon as possible, and Mr. Sam Gosman is no exception. He arrived in the city Sunday morning and before noon had completed all the advance arrangements for the Gentry Bros.-James Patterson Circus, which will give two performances here on Monday, August 11, on the Fair grounds.

According to Mr. Gosman, the show has been having capacity crowds at every stand and his newspaper clippings show that the show is all that they claim it to be, one of the best and cleanest on the road.

Broadway Theater

The management of the Broadway theater has another treat in store for the patrons of that popular playhouse for the last half of this week.

Two acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville is the main attraction.

Melody Land as Gus King is both vocal and instrumental and in this land of song and music dwell both classical, and modern jazz melody. Five people are the inhabitants of Gus King's musical land: two strikingly pretty girls carefully and tastily gowned and three dapper young men. The setting is rich and novel. The instruments played are the violin, piano, cornet, trombone and saxaphone and the vocal honors are equally distributed.

Other acts include Walter O'Keefe, The Hellback of Notre Dame; Marjee Clifton and Partner in classical poses and balancing; George Mack in Songs and stories. Jack Wells and Joe Boggs in Uncle Sill and the Law.

Sessue Hayakawa, the celebrated tragedian, adds new laurels to his fame by his masterly interpretation of the leading role in The Danger Line, and F.B.O. production which will be seen at the Broadway theater beginning tomorrow in addition to the vaudeville.

Its a thrilling picture that revolves around a Japanese naval officer, his beautiful wife, and a handsome, gallant and clever Englishman. Set in the picturesque and romantic Orient. It abounds in vivid action, a swift moving plot, thrills, pathos and romance!

PALACE THEATER

Last showing today, Corinne Griffith and Milton Sills in Single Wives with an all star cast. It's a great drama, great stars, too, something you won't easily forget.

Added attractions, The Spat family in their latest and best two reel comedy Help One-Another, Pathe news, and Palace orchestra.

It is not often that a motion picture company traveling to location experiences the sensation of passing through three climatic zones on the way. During the making of The Code of the Wilderness, which will be shown at the Palace theater, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the company faced three sorts of weather on the way to location. The company, including Alice Calhoun, John Bowers, Alan Hale, Kitty Bradbury and Otis Harlan, left the studio during a rain storm which traveled with them during their drive through the southern part of the state. Then as they mounted El Cajon Pass, through the mountains that separated them from the Mojave Desert, the company experienced three changes. The rain at the foot of the pass changed to hail as they climbed. On the summit the hail changed to snow and they drove through a heavy fall. Soon they were at work on the famous Mojave Desert facing an intense heat that made them wish they could return to either one of the three zones through which they passed.

Added attractions, showing the local movie stars on the screen, scenes that were taken in the audience, see yourself on the screen.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

When scores of housewives about the borough attempted to use their gas ranges Tuesday morning they found that they would not serve at all, or were serving badly; that there was a rush of air instead of gas from the outlets and that the consarned contraptions as they were called for the time being, weren't performing in their accustomed way.

The difficulty was all due to the fact that gas from the new high pressure mains running down from Putnam had been turned on the evening before—for the first time—and the difference in pressure was such as to temporarily put the gas service out of kilter in homes in Danielson.

There was prompt adjustment of the trouble in numbers of homes, householders who are familiar with the mechanism of gas ranges making the necessary changes in some cases, while employes of the gas company made it in others.

From now on there is no reason why Danielson should not have better gas service than ever before. This will be particularly true at meal preparing time, for what may be termed a 4.3 pressure at the gas holder on Hutchins street has been increased to 6, and the capacity load will now rarely ever draw it down below 5, a higher point than the old maximum.

During Monday night air was being forced out of the ten miles of new mains between Putnam and Danielson, Dayville and Elmville are now getting gas service for the first time in their history, and it is appreciated.

The gas from the high pressure mains does not feed unrestricted into the the distribution mains in Danielson, but comes in through a governor that regulates the pressure down to such a degree as is required in passing it on for consumption in homes.

Auction notice: The auction sale of the Judge Pond residence located in Brooklyn Village, Conn., on Tuesday, Aug. 12th, at 1 o'clock p. m., will afford an excellent opportunity for home-seekers to secure a beautiful home from which it is easy to commute to Danielson; one tax and a low rate; four miles over a fine state road. The entire contents of the large nine-room house, including many valuable pieces of antique and modern furniture, will be sold at 10 o'clock a. m. Witter Bros., Auctioneers, Office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Here's a little story about a fox hunt, a bit early in the season, perhaps, but that doesn't spoil the story. We'll have to call the hunter Bill Jones, because his real name is something different.

Bill went hunting very early Tuesday morning to try out a new foxhound he has acquired against the coming of the season when the frost is on the pumpkin and the foxes' coats are prime. Bill didn't expect to get a fox, of course, but he toted along his gun against the chance that he might have an opportunity to bump off an odd one.

This all happened a little distance outside of Danielson. The dog picked up a hot trail and the manner in which he bayed, it is said, would warm the heart of any hunter. The chase grew hotter and hotter and aventually the hound and his quarry hove in sight, both traveling at top speed. Bill shot. It was a good shot, too, and the hound came to a stop, panting, beside the chase. Bill went down to look over his kill and got one of the surprises of his life. He had put away a big tan-colored tom cat that had been roaming the woods.

Bill, with more or less appraising eyes, surveyed his new foxhound. "You'll be chasing chippies next, I reckon," was Bill's only comment. The hound said nothing.

According to requests from many quarters, the Connecticut company has agreed to furnish additional trolley service to East Killingly Thursday, which will be Old Home day up among the hills of the town. It was announced Tuesday that cars for East Killingly will leave here at 11.10 a. m., 12.10 and 1.10 p. m. Thursday. This will get the people who use them to East Killingly in time to participate in all the events of the day.

An advertisement that appeared in this paper Tuesday morning—a help wanted adv.—brought replies from all over eastern Connecticut, an evidence that numbers need employment this particular summer.

Fifty-one prizes totalling $335 have been arranged by the Danielson Rod and Gun club shoot planned to be held Labor day at their shooting place in the Allen Hill section. This shoot will attract attendance from all over southern New England.

Up to Aug. 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year for the town of Killingly, Tax Collector James R. Walsh had collected $128,378.64. Of this amount $132,154.05 was on the current tax list. The remainder, something over $16,000, represents back taxes collected. Mr. Walsh now has collections on the current list slightly in excess of 93 per cent. of the total possible, this being a splendid record indeed.

Little less than amazing is the frequency with which one now hears the remark "I don't care who is elected president in November—it won't make any difference to me." In other presidential years one occasionally heard this remark. This year it is so common as to excite comment. One interpretion of it is that it expresses a loss of confidence in parties. It is deplorable, nevertheless.

Many of the horses that are racing in the Bay State circuit events at Norwich this week were transported from Massachusetts and Rhode Island points through Danielson in big motor vans, now a favorite method of getting the racers from one track to another.

PUTNAM

Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, general chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the coming of the children of the East Side tenement districts of New York, as the guests of the New York Tribune's Fresh Air Fund, stated, Tuesday, that the time has been extended for receiving donations of money and offers to take one or more children into the home for a two weeks' period. The date for the arrival has been set for Wednesday, August 20th, so that nearly two weeks remain for the reception of donations. The result to date has been gratifying to the committee, as a total of $278 has been pledged, with others to be heard from. The board of a child is $4 a week, so that it takes $8 for each child for the two weeks' outing where board is paid. Children are not placed in homes where the money consideration is the chief concern, but there are many people willing to take one or more children who do not feel that they can afford the extra expense. It is in homes like this that the committee places the children, after investigation. It is also desired to have not more than four children in any one home.

One Putnam bachelor was approached to subscribe for the fund and said he would adopt a girl for the two weeks and paid $8. The idea thus suggested, of looking upon the matter as adopting a child for two weeks, has appealed to the committee and the committee makes its appeal to other bachelors to adopt one or more children that these little ones may be given a glimpse of real country.

The donations to date are as follows: Putnam—Putnam Lodge of Elks, $40; Miss Ellen Wheelock, $4; Miss Constance Russell, $8; Miss Helen Sharpe, $10; Mrs. M. R. Joy, $8; Ralph Thurston, $8; W. S. Johnson, $8; Miss Rosamond Danielson, $8; W. C. T. U., $8; the King's Daughters, $8; Miss Harriett Brown, 8; Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett, $8; Mrs. S. Nikoloff, $8. Total $134.

Pomfret—Mrs. L. B. Winton, $4; Mrs. Katherine Noyes, $10; Mrs. Thomas Lowell, $4; Mrs. Benjamin Adams, $4; Mrs. H. H. Davenport, $4; Mrs. Louis DeFlorez, $4; Mrs. L. L. Lorillard, $12; Mrs. S. B. Overlock, $8; John J. Whitehead Jr., $8; Mrs. J. A. Porter, $24. Total $82.

Thompson—Miss Harriett Lewis, $16; Miss Wiley, $2; Miss Augusta Elliott, $8; Miss Sheldon, $2. Total $28.

Brooklyn—Mrs. W. H. Bishop, $8.

The list of those who have offered to take one or more children into their homes without board being paid has not yet been completed but the committee feels confident that between 50 and 75 children will be given an outing in this corner of Windham county during the month, through the generosity and kindness of its people. Those assisting Mrs. Bartlett as chairmen of town committees are: Putnam, Miss Gertrude Perry; Thompson, Mrs. Frank Decker; Woodstock, Mrs. Lelia Holt; Pomfret, Miss Eleanor Mathewson.

Putnam friends of Major Ambrose I. Moriarty, U. S. A., retired, who, for the past twenty-five years has been unable to move hand or foot because of disability incurred during the winter of 1892-93 while on frontier duty in the west are interested to know that he has been transferred from the hospital at the Boston army base to Fort Rodman, near New Bedford. He was accompanied on the journey by a former classmate at West Point, Brig. Gen. Mark L. Hersey, now commander of the coast defenses of New England. The general's automobile followed the automobile containing Major Moriarty but the general rode in the ambulance with his old friend.

Major Moriarty was born in Putnam November 5, 1863, and was graduated from the Putnam high school. Learning that an examination was to be given in Norwich for entrance to West Point he took the tests, passed and entered the U. S. Military academy and was graduated in 1887. He served as second lieutenant of infantry until the following December when he resigned to enter civil life. He returned to the army as a lieutenant of the Ninth infantry in 1889 and retired on account of disability in 1894. Within a few years he was a helpless invalid and has since been in the constant care of a nurse. Up to a few years ago he lived in Putnam, but the advanced cost of living made his lieutenant's pay inadequate for his needs and he was removed to Camp Devens. Since that time friends have interceded for him and — the result of their efforts he was raised to the rank of major with a retired major's pay.

People of this city are anticipating Major Moriarty's return to Putnam to again make this city his home.

The reappointment of Byron D. Bugbee by Governor Templeton to a full term of six years as a member of the state board of finance is gratifying to the people of Putnam. Mr. Bugbee is a retired business man and has the time to devote to his duties. He is experienced in business affairs and of sound and careful judgment. Whenever Mr. Bugbee accepts a trust he devotes the best he has to the work to be done as evidenced by several public services rendered this city, notably the recent addition to the Israel Putnam school, to which he devoted a great deal of time, as a member of the building committee.

Citizens of Putnam have no need for fear that the water supply will give out. There is a steady and plentiful flow of water coming to the intake at the pumping station in Harrisville and the water in Roseland Lake, the source of the supply, has not apparently lowered during the present drought. C. Dwight Sharpe, superintendent of the city water department, says that the supply of water is adequate. While some of the cities in the state are alarmed because of the lowering of reservoirs and fear of a serious situation unless relief is given by a hard rain, Putnam has no such situation threatened. People who have inquired relative to the situation can be reassured by the statement of Superintendent Sharpe.

Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, have gone to Swarthmore, Pa., where they will begin rehearsals with the Festival Ladies' Quintette. The Quintette is an organization of high grade musicians and will open on the Chautauqua circuit, August 22nd, at Stockton Springs, Maine. It is a coincidence that that is the date that the Chautauqua season opens in Putnam. Their routing calls for 150 cities and towns, including several bookings in Canada.

The Misses Bartlett are graduates of Putnam High school and of the New England Conservatory of Music. Miss Ruth is a soprano singer, pianist and harpist while Miss Dorcas has a mezzo-soprano voice and is a pianist. Both young ladies play the banjo and ukelele.

In making their debut on the professional stage they have a background of many successes as amateur entertainers. From the first coming of Chautauqua to Putnam they became interested in this form of entertainment and decided that they would prepare for work under the big top. Hardly had they graduated from the conservatory when opportunity offered to enter the field that they coveted. Putnam people who know their talents have no fears as to their success and regret that they are not to visit Putnam.

Mrs. E. M. Wheaton and daughter, Miss Mary Wheaton, are guests of Mrs. Wheaton's son, William E. Wheaton and family at Pleasant View.

Postmaster Archibald Macdonald left Tuesday by boat from Boston to Yarmouth. From there he will go by rail through the valley of the Evangeline up to Cape Breton where he will visit relatives in Sydney and Mira, Nova Scotia. Postmaster Macdonald's old home.

A number of Putnam people motored to Abington Tuesday evening to attend the social and sale on the lawn of the church. The affair was arranged for the benefit of the Sunday school.

Through the receipt by the police of a circular offering a reward of $25 for the capture of Leo Vannose, it has become known that the former well known Putnam boy escaped from the state reformatory at Cheshire, July 11th.

Vannose, who is now only 19, has been in the hands of the police many times, not only in Putnam but in Hartford and Springfield also. His specialty is thievery and petty burglaries. He was first convicted in Putnam when scarcely in his teens. The charge on which he was sentenced to the reformatory June 6th, 1923, was breaking and entering the Bradley theatre. Vannose has never stood trial, for whenever arrested he has admitted his crime.

Mrs. E. H. Burt of Grove street, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Thayer, of Chapman street, motored to Willimantic, Tuesday. Mrs. Burt called on Mrs. H. L. Burt's niece, Mrs. Lucy Moore, while Mrs. Thayer called on her relatives.

Elbert Kinney, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Humes and two children, Miss Phoebe Beard and Mrs. H. J. Thayer, motored to Worcester, Monday, and called on Mrs. F. D. Sargent and daughter, Miss Bertha Sargent. The late F. D. Sargent was pastor of the Putnam Congregational church for many years. Mother and daughter are living in an apartment of a house owned by Mrs. Sargent's son, Harold Sargent, while Mr. Sargent and family occupy the other apartment.

The Mechanicsville A. A. baseball team is winning games consistently from strong semi-professional teams that Manager King has booked. Sunday the local aggregation slugged its way to a 16 to 6 victory over the Hamiltons of Southbridge. In the one-sided contest Mechanicsville ran up a total of 14 hits off the two pitchers used by the team from the Optical City. Mast and Bikee. Every man on the Mechanicsville team was credited with at least one hit, Caffrey carrying off the honors with a long circuit clout to deep right field. McCoy and Kiley also hit for extra bases. Next Sunday the A. A. is to line up against the Thompson town team.

EAST WOODSTOCK

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Upham with their daughter, Constance, motored from West Newton, Mass., spending the week-end with G. L. Upham and family. Everett Upham Jr., returned with them after spending a month with his grandparents.

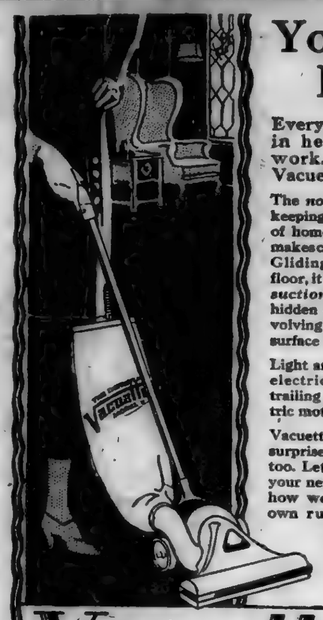
Misses Arnold and Holland of Providence, R. I., are guests of Mrs. J. E. Aldrich at Maplehurst for the month.

Mrs. Joseph Le Mountain and three children are spending a week with Mrs. Harley Foster, at Wakefield, R. I.

Ezra Pike, 17, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Pike, died Monday at the Day Kimball hospital. He underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago last Saturday and peritonitis developing has been on the dangerous list for a week. He had been in poor health for three years. Besides his parents he is survived by five brothers and two sisters. He had completed his second year at the academy.

Mrs. Flora Witter, her son Elton and family moved back to their farm last week from West Hartford where they went last spring. They find there is no place like Woodstock.

Mary Miles Minter, former motion picture actress, who for the last several months has been living in retirement in Pasadena, left Los Angeles for New York with the reported intention of re-entering the films there.



You Need Help!

Every woman needs it in her daily cleaning work. And that's the Vacuette's job.

The Car of the Year

SOUND VALUE

Sound products evolve from sound principles.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car is the product of an institution whose principles have always been conceded to be pre-eminently sound.

Sound manufacturing methods that place infinitely more importance on quality than quantity.

Sound financial standing, which permits uninterrupted development and adherence to the policy of constant improvement—

A sound method of selecting dealers, from which an organization has grown that enjoys the complete confidence of the public—

A sound sales and service policy, through which buyers are assured full value for their investment—

These basic principles being sound, it follows as an obvious consequence that Dodge Brothers Motor Car represents sound value.

THE CASE IN CHICAGO.

The direct plea of guilty of murder in the first degree, which has been entered by Leopold and Loeb in the Chicago court, has not operated to relieve the public of the tedium of a long drawn out trial with its befogging cloud of expert testimony. The case is proceeding almost precisely as if twelve men sat in the jury box and listened to witnesses, for the ruling of the presiding judge has opened the door to testimony that is offered in mitigation of the responsibility of the two men for their atrocious crime because of their abnormal mental condition.

The public reaction to this spectacle is almost uniformly unfavorable. A fear is felt lest the issue of criminality may be obscured by that of mental unbalance. There is no blood-thirst in the hope that the punishment decreed will be the extreme prescribed by the law for the taking of life. Rather is the public mind set upon the preservation of the safety of others by the administration of that ultimate punishment. There is a decided impatience with the fine-spun differentiations that are sought by the defense counsel respecting the responsibility of the two accused men. In earlier times there was no such splitting of hairs. A man knew the penalty of crime and was punished accordingly. Today much is tolerated that would previously have been immediately punished.

Fortunately in this case there is no jury to be confused by the technicalities of professional and scientific witnesses. An experienced jurist alone sits in judgment. The question arises, is he permitting this testimony simply that there may be no ground for an appeal in case he concludes to impose the extreme sentence of death? It is not in any manner a prejudgment of the case to state that the public hope that this is the situation. Without punishment to the limit of the law, the fear exists that the Leopold and Loeb crime will encourage further horrors by sophisticated, idle and overeducated youths and this prompts the belief that despite the maze of hyper-scientific speculations the fullest and most solemn warning will be given that those who deliberately take human life must pay for it with their own.

The hanging of the picture of Lady Astor on the staircase of the house of commons in London alongside the portrait of Queen Elizabeth bids fair to become an issue in England. The picture was paid for by Lord Astor and is presented by the Earl of Balfour and Lloyd George. Art, feminism and history are involved in the question of whether the picture of the first woman to take the oath in the house of commons ought to be given the place that has been bestowed upon it. A hundred members have signed a protest on the general ground that no pictures of living subjects should have a place such as has been accorded to this one.

What Queen Elizabeth would think about it if she could express herself is an interesting speculation. She was a patron of art. She made much history. And she was an expression of the feminism of her day, although she probably never heard that term applied. Her opinion of the modern feminism would be worth having. Raleigh, Drake and Grenville had named Virginia after the Virgin Queen, but the permanent Jamestown settlement wasn't made until after Elizabeth's death. Now a Virginia girl, the former Miss Nancy Langhorne, is portrayed side by side with the queen herself.

As for Lady Astor, she says that she doesn't "give tuppence whether it stays up or not. My husband consulted with the speaker of the house and they arranged the matter before I heard of it." Lord Astor discreetly adds no word to the controversy. But women of English-speaking countries, we believe, will regard such a recognition of such a historical event as the entry of their sex into the governing body of the British empire as vitally fixing the trend of modern civilization.

AMERICA AS UMPIRE.

Through the agreement that was signed at London by the interallied conference America is given a staggering measure of "unofficial" power. First as arbitrator of the allied quarrel, she has been brought on, unofficially, to referee, umpire and further arbitrate the weary business of carrying out the settlement she unofficially proposed.

In the clash of national interests between Great Britain, France and Germany for the past five years, a deadlock had been reached and nothing could be settled. There had to be an arbitrator and that was the American role. That was the real business of the Dawes committee and its report was not pro-British, pro-French or pro-German; it was pro-settlement. So vital will American money and American influence be to the workings of the Dawes plan, now ratified by the London conference, that Americans have been placed at the keypoints of decision on four of its settlement boards.

If the reparations commission declares a German default without appeal, whose vote is necessary to make it unanimous and, therefore, final? It must get the vote of the American member. If that vote is not unanimous? Then the question goes to three arbitrators, whose decision is final and whose chairman must be an American.

Who is to be agent general of reparations with vast powers over the economic and industrial life of Europe? Presumably some American. And who the trustees of the holders of German loan bonds? Presumably another American.

Suppose the Dawes plan's workings are to the disadvantage of some nation and a change is asked? That problem must be referred through the reparations commission to a committee of five, including ex-officio the agent general of reparations and the bondholders' trustee. An American, also, will be chairman of the board given the power, on appeal, to review any decision of the "heart of the Dawes plan," the transfer committee.

"Unofficially" we have assumed enormous responsibilities, making ourselves the umpire of Europe's worst quarrel and we may as well make up our minds to face the pains and penalties that come with that task.

LABOR AND LA FOLLETTE.

Election figures of the past tend to show that most union workers are either democrats or republicans and that there is no union labor vote to be delivered, so that just how much strength is to be added to the candidacy of La Follette and Wheeler by the endorsement given them by the American Federation of Labor is problematical. Those who have been marked as labor's special friends have not in other years had special reason to congratulate themselves upon this support. When Bryan's candidacy in 1908 was endorsed by Mr. Gompers and his colleagues, Bryan lost all the states in which the A. F. of L was strongest. Approval of the Wilson candidacy in 1916 did not bring any appreciable strength for Wilson lost all the big industrial states except Ohio while the states that elected him were those in which the national labor organization was the weakest.

In the endorsement now given to La Follette, the leaders of the Federation abhor association with the mixed following flocking under the La Follette banner and announce their support of him as an individual, not as the head of a new party movement that has no existence outside of newspaper headlines. As the La Follette ticket consists of candidates for president and vice president, but not for congress, it is stated that organized labor will support whatever republican or democratic aspirants it pleases, just as La Follette will do. The tenuous distinction between a third ticket and a third party is not one, however, that will make much impression upon the public at large, who will consider that the American Federation of Labor, for all practical purposes has abandoned its attitude of nonpartisanship as far as our two major parties are concerned, one of which is called arrogant and the other evasive towards the desires of labor.

AMERICA'S "LOOT."

The American navy dirigible Shenandoah, which the navy department proposed to dispatch on a voyage to the north pole, presented a pathetic picture last week, when, after a short cruise from her base at Lakehurst, N. J., she returned to land at her home station, where every facility for landing was available. In heavy cross winds, which at no time reached a dangerous velocity as winds are commonly rated, her commander dared not attempt a landing, and when a thunderstorm blew up, he retreated in something like disorder to the safety of proximity to the open sea. Officers in charge feared both a landing and the possibility that lightning might strike their ship. While the Shenandoah's crew stood helpless in what one correspondent described as a "playful" wind, the Zeppelin factory in Germany was putting the finishing touches to the ZR-3, described in army and navy circles as America's war loot. The ZR-3 is a present from the Germans to the United States, but it was not offered until the United States explained to Germany that this country would like a little something in the way of reparations and one airship would fill the bill. Inasmuch as 88 of the 100 airships built for Germany for war use were lost before the armistice, and European countries spoke for those which were not destroyed by their officers after the armistice, the Germans had to build a new one for the United States. If the ZR-3 is ever delivered at Lakehurst by her German crew, as agreed, the United States will have another Shenandoah on its hands. Its war reparation will consist of one huge and very expensive toy for the army and navy to take turns playing with in favorable weather. The country will follow the career of the ZR-3 with great interest.

FORCE OF EXAMPLE

"I know what you're going to say," declared Bobby hastily. "There's things about that report card I don't like myself, so I ain't blaming you."

"I'm glad you feel that way," said his father gratefully; "it saves my having to say a number of things I have in mind at present."

"There's one thing you gotter know, though," said Bobby. "And that's that these here teachers a'int always so awful right as they think they are. Sometimes they act just like Mamie Kelly, you know; sort of smart and so terrible sure they're the whole show.

"You just wait till I get back to school and the very first chance I get I'm going to stand right up and tell teacher she don't know a blamed thing about spelling some words. I got my paper back and there's two words I know of that she don't know how to spell."

"Of course there are some very brilliant people who never get to be perfect spellers," said his father calmly. "And there are some words that may be spelled two ways and both be correct. Take my advice and go slow on calling the teacher down, for she may be right after all."

"Well, she ain't," said Bobby positively. "I went way over to Broadway just to see and she's all off. The way I knew about it was that I went with Stubby to the beauty parlor to get some cold cream for his aunt and that's where I first saw it. You see, Stubby's aunt ain't so awful old as most aunts, and she uses an awful pile of things they get at the parlor. I ain't never been to one before. Gee, they smell sweet! I wonder don't they cut boy's hair in those places, like girls?"

"I'm afraid not, son," said his father. "There's nothing for us but the commonplace barber shop, I fear."

"Oh, well," sighed Bobby. "Anyway, there was a lady all dolled up who waited on us and her hair was something swell. Why, I'll bet you there ain't a lady on our block what's got hair that sticks out so far as hers. It curls something fierce, only on the back it look like she'd been lying on it, you know, what they call shingle-bob, I guess. Anyhow, that's what Stubby says, and his aunt she's got everything that's going, you bet. Stubby says he'll bet a nickel his aunt's got the raddest lips in Chicago, but I ain't seen her yet, so I ain't saying. Anyhow, there was a swell picture on the box of cold cream and it cost a dollar."

"Yes, I imagine so," said the father. "It costs to be so beautiful."

"Then there was another day," Bobby went on, "when I went downtown with Billy. He had to get him a pair of shoes and his mother said he could take me along, so I went, seeing she gave him the money for my fare. Leastways, it wasn't money, but a car ticket, you know, on the elevated road. "I'll bet if she had a-given him car fare he wouldn't 'a' asked me to go along on account of him being so crazy over chocolate bars, but you can't spend tickets, so he might's well take me along with him. I had 2 cents left from last week's allowance, the only time in a coon's age I had a bit left."

"I realize that," agreed his father. "You usually are using next week's allowance ahead of time. You have extravagant tastes, young man."

"Well, I had 2 cents that day and we got weighed and I bet you can't guess what we was weighing, me and Billy," Bobby continued. "We tried to do it for 1 penny, you know, first one get on what's heaviest and then the other got on what's smallest and that's the way, but it don't always work, so I had to use both of the 2 cents."

"All very interesting," said his father. "But I can't see that it has anything to do with your low mark in spelling."

"Well, it has," said Bobby, stoutly. "It just shows teacher don't know so much after all, that's what. That's where I learned how to spell two words right and she marked 'em wrong, both of 'em, yes, she did. One was the word 'shop' that was on the outside window of the parlor, and it was spelled just like I spelled it, 's-h-o-p-p-e.' And the other was on that there penny-in-the-slot weighing machine, just the way I spelled it, 'w-a-t-e,' just like that. Aw, teacher may be all right sometimes, but in spelling she's way off."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Radio Club.

Mr. Editor: May I take a little of your valuable space in reply to the letter signed Radio, and dated July 20th.

Radio makes reference to the local club in rather a slighting way. The Norwich Radio club was founded by several of an experimental nature for the purpose of investigating the phenomena of radio telegraphy and telephony. Time and again we have invited the broadcast listener through the medium of your columns and through personal contact to join us or visit us. We have a pleasant room centrally located.

We have had out of town speakers of authority here, we have sent code practice, we have had short courses of instruction for the layman, we have offered our combined skill and knowledge, we have offered to repair or fix their sets if they would bring them to the club, and we have had pleasant social occasions and outings. What more can we few do?

The broadcast listeners have not to date availed themselves of the opportunity, and yet they complain. They seem to harbor a feeling of resentment and enmity toward the amateur and club (and fifty per cent. of our present membership are broadcast listeners). The present club is composed entirely of business men of our city, it is not a boys' club.

Let Mr. Radio and other broadcast listeners join hands with us, come to our club and become a member, and give us a little more moral and financial help, and the club will become a healthy, helping force in the community, just as others have in many other cities.

We will surely meet him more than half way, and let them remember that even the amateur likes to listen to a good radiocast occasionally. However, I think you will agree with me that it is not fair to expect a few amateurs to clean up this interferance condition all over the city while the broadcast listener enjoys most of the benefits therefrom.

Let Mr. Radio remember that we have many expenses to the running of the club and many things we would like to do are impossible. Below are the present members of the club.

Yours truly,
LOUIS J. SMITH.

Aug. 4, 1924.

Why Is He Progressive?

Mr. Editor: Several times in the last few days it has been said in my hearing that "Raymond J. Jodoin of Colt is the right man for congress because he is Progressive."

Progressive how? Progressive where, progressive in what? Was his joining the House of Morgan to nominate John W. Davis of New York city, formerly of West Virginia, progressive?

The democrats had at least one progressive—so-called, candidate — McAdoo, of California. Was it an act of progress to vote 103 times against him, most of the time for a man who was not even a candidate, and who the great New York World spoke of the day after Davis was nominated as having done well in defeating McAdoo? I mean Smith, the Morgan catspaw.

Has he in his entire career shown any signs of being what most people think "progressive" means? Has he ever shown himself to be a vote getter? If so, where outside of Colt? The republicans of this district have in Richard P. Freeman a genuine progressive to a certain extent, and the followers of Robert M. La Follette have a man that spells progressive with a big P, namely, Dr. Frank O. Downing, of Plainfield, so why should any one consider a man who does not even know the meaning of the word progressive when considering a candidate for congress in the second district this year.

Murray of New London, Fenton of Windham, Mullin of Putnam, Noone of Tolland county, Waters of Norwich, might any of them lay claim to being progressive with some reason, but not a man who votes 103 times against the genuine progressive candidate in the last democratic convention at New York and also flopped about until no one appeared to know where he was going next.

Genuine progress means the reelection of Richard P. Freeman, genuine progress means the overwhelming defeat of John W. Davis, the candidate of the Home of Morgan and to bring this about all you have to do in Connecticut is to vote the straight republican ticket. La Follette is all well enough, but who wants him in Connecticut under a socialist standard, and thats where he stands.

Barrymore Chose the Wrong Profession

Descendant of the distinguished family of actors, John Barrymore wanted to be an artist, and after years of study and self-denial found that he had made a mistake.

Born in London, he grew up a happy-go-lucky boy, and after attending elementary school he decided to study art. His father, Herbert Blythe, known on the stage as Maurice Barrymore, and other members of the family wanted John to be an actor, and frowned on his course. His father cast him in one of his productions, the lad jokingly appeared on the stage made up as his parent, and was allowed to follow his career as an artist.

Keenly sensing his family's disapproval, he endeavored to make his own way, and often went hungry. He entered Slade's School of Art and after years of study and self-denial went to New York, where using his small bedroom as a studio, he tried to be a cartoonist, and was chronically hard up.

Life on the stage was a joke to him, and when his sister, Ethel, induced him to take part in Captain Jinks, he forgot his lines, responded to the encore intended for her, and was shipped backed to New York.

Needing funds he took the part of Max in Magda, and within a few weeks was cast as Corley in Glad Of It. Still care-free, he became "Jack" Barrymore the comedian, and for years acted in musical comedies and other light productions. Later as star he won success in buoyant parts on the stage and the screen.

His ambition grew and he wanted to appear in serious plays. Managers considered him an irresponsible matinee hero, and laughed at him. When finally A. H. Woods gave him the part of the young crook in Kick In, the producer was criticised for "making a fool of himself and Barrymore," but Barrymore, now 35, was successful, and soon became "John" Barrymore, star of Peter Ibbetson, Justice, and other noteworthy productions.

At 38 he appeared as Richard III, and won fame as a Shakespearean actor. As Hamlet his interpretation was so great that he broke the world's record for consecutive performances of the classic.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Ernest Rutherford, whose address as retiring president will open the meeting of the British Association for advancement of science in Toronto today, is one of the best known physicists in the world, holding degrees from upwards of a dozen universities in the old and new worlds, and having received medals from a number of institutions of higher learning. In 1908 he was the recipient of of Nobel Prize in chemistry. Sir Ernest, who is a New Zealander by birth, was formerly professor of physics at McGill University, Montreal. In 1907 he became Langworthy professor and director of physical laboratories at the University of Manchester, and in more recent years he has been connected with Cambridge university. Today he is recognised as the world's leading authority on atomic structure. Atoms were thought indestructible, but Sir Ernest has shown that they may be pulled apart. He has also transmuted one element into another, thus again shocking the old orthodoxy. In fact he is a modern alchemist.

Stories That Recall Others

Between Fellow-Motorists

A woman motorist was attempting to drive her car from a space which, since she had parked, had been made smaller by the man who had parked his automobile behind here. After several vain trials she had almost given up, when the owner of the other car saw her plight and hurried from his office and moved his car back several yards without letting the woman know of it. She did not look behind, but kept on trying, with the smallness of the space firmly planted in her mind and with no idea of the room behind her. Finally she was able to get her car out and turned around in such manner as to see the broad grin that spread over the face of her fellow-motorist. Without the slightest hesitation, she stopped her car in the center of the street and went over to the gentleman in question and "bawled him out" to such an extent that the motorman of a passing street car held up traffic to "listen in."

Force of Habit

A city dweller visiting a farmer friend at his home was mystified to see in the fields a drove of pigs running first in this direction and then in that direction without apparent purpose. The puzzled urbanite found the farmer in his barnyard, and asked an explanation of the strange activity of the porkers. "Well," said the farmer huskily, "I used to call 'em. But when I caught cold and lost my voice and they couldn't hear me, I trained 'em to come when I knocked on a post with a hammer. And now the woodpeckers have 'em crazy."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Niagara: An Hour Glass of Geology

When the fall of a huge piece of rock recently threatened to turn the honeymooners' Horseshoe Falls of Great Niagara into a mere spillway, the peril to the Falls' beauty brought forth the proposal to hire engineers to patch up North America's outstanding natural wonder.

By dropping a keystone out of its Horseshoe arch, Niagara was merely performing its duty to the ages.

For 30,000 years the Falls has been the geologic hour glass for much of North America. By reading the record of the rocks that go through the neck of the gorge, as grains of sand slip through the hour glass, scientists stopwatch the glacier sheets, which were the first plows to furrow the fertile midwest. In the sermons of the cataract's stones lies the chronology of Lake Algonquin, the predecessor of Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron, and of Lake Iroquois, the sprawling progenitor of Lake Ontario. Their dates are fixed almost as accurately as history books report William the Conqueror's arrival in England in 1056.

The story that is told by Niagara (95.17 per cent. Canadian) is related in the following bulletin by the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"Niagara is the North American champion in one of the greatest battles Nature ever umpired. Literally scores of challengers sought her crown. More than once Niagara fell almost lifeless on her water-worn rocks. But finally the seekers for her crown gave up; the last not many centuries ago than the days of Tutankhamen.

"Niagara is said to take its name from the Indian title nee-agg-arah, which appropriately means 'across the neck.' The Niagara River cuts across the neck of land separating Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. Just east of Buffalo the river collects the entire natural discharge of the four upper Great Lakes, pushes it through a narrowing river for 16 miles, pushes it over a sheer drop of 212 feet, churns it seven miles through a canyon, and then carries it gently by seven miles of lowland to Lake Ontario.

"Our Niagara was born when the glaciers melted back, exposing the ridge the water now tumbles down. Like the glaciers of the Rockies, these enormous sheets of ice moving down from Labrador poured out streams of water. These streams collected ages ago at the foot of the huge ice lobes in depressions extending into Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Accumulated water sometimes rose hundreds of feet higher than the present level of the great lakes and poured out into the Mississippi over the present site of Chicago and through outlets in Ohio and Indiana.

"Finally, as the ice melted northward, prehistoric Lake Tonawanda formed on the edge of the plateau over which Niagara pours. There were then five outlets from this lake—at Holley, Medina, Gasport, Lockport and Lewiston. The spillway at Lewiston, Niagara, Won out. Lockport gorge now contains a flight of steps for the New York barge canal.

"About the time Niagara was beginning to triumph, the melting glacier moved back to Lake Simcoe, Ontario. The fickle waters of the upper lakes lost little time in finding the Trent Valley, a ragged series of lakes and rivers leading into Lake Ontario. Trent Valley gorges tell of many early Niagaras. At this time only 16 per cent. of the present flow went over Niagara, forming the narrow lower gorge. Nature came to the rescue, tipping a great block of land, ever so slightly, but enough to shut off the Trent faucet and make even more water go over Niagara than the spectator sees today. But the Chicago outlet, predecessor of the drainage canal now before the United States Supreme Court, again cut down the flow. The Whirlpool was made at this time.

"Once again Niagara was flouted when the outlet shifted to North Bay, Ontario, sending the waters down the Ottawa over the portage which Champlain was to take to discover Lake Huron. The upper narrow gorge was then carved but again the huge rock saucer, which has the Great Lakes puddles in the bottom, tipped, leaving Niagara triumphant.

"Niagara started to spill over the bank at Lewiston about 30,000 years ago. In 300 centuries it has shoveled its way seven miles. At its present rate of excavation, more than four feet annually, Niagara will dig back the remaining 16 miles to Lake Erie about the year A. D. 21,924. Before this time, however, man may take a hand since the peril to the famous Horseshoe Falls, by the recent erosion, has brought forth the suggestion of reinforcing the lip of the Falls."

By DAVID CORY

The Beautiful Peacock.

Now in the story before this I left off just as the little baldheaded shopkeeper was explaining how foolish the little rabbit had been to give the magic blue glass egg to the old witch. And pretty soon you shall hear why.

For, no sooner did the old witch reach her house in the woods than she went out to the little shed where she kept her chickens and placed the blue glass egg in a nest. Then, calling to a little black hen she told her to sit on the egg. By and by, the little black hen began to cackle and there in the hay, instead of the blue glass egg, was a beautiful peacock. At once he began to grow larger and larger, until, in a short time, he was a great big magnificent bird. Pretty soon he walked over to the old witch's house and tapped on the little glass pane until the old witch opened the door.

"Ha, ha, my beauty," she cried in a high cracked voice, happy to see such a beautiful bird you can well imagine. "What can I do for you, my fine Peacock?" But the beautiful bird only drooped his wings and looked very sad indeed. I guess he knew that he was in the power of that wicked witch.

"Go back to the shed," commanded the old witch, "and I will bring you some corn and barley.

Sorrowfully he did as he was told, fearing the wicked witch might cut off his head with her sharp ax which was hidden behind the door.

And now I suppose you are wondering what had become of Little Jack Rabbit all this time. I'll tell you right away, for he's going to do something to help that beautiful peacock, although he doesn't know yet what had happened to the little blue glass egg.

Well, as soon as the little old man stopped speaking, the bunny boy put on his cap and started off for the forest. By and by he came to the old witch's hut. But of course she had seen him coming and had locked the peacock in the shed.

Well, after the bunny boy had knocked on her door maybe a dozen times or more, she opened it, saying with a horrible grin: "What do you want?"

"Give me back my little blue egg. Here is your basket of eggs." And he looked straight at her, for he wasn't afraid—not when angry; anyway.

"I will not," answered the wicked witch, with such a horrible screech that all the little birds in the forest were frightened nearly to death.

"Then I will burn down your hut," bravely shouted the bunny boy, and touching the wooden door with his flaming gold feather which I told you about some 'umpty-leven stories ago, flames began to creep over the roof. And if I had any more room in this story I'd tell you what happened after that, but I haven't so you must wait until next time.

"Unbreakable" Pottery

"A man selling pottery came to Salem and rapped at a certain lady's door," says the Boston Globe. "He was asked in. Just as he got inside the door, he dropped one of the bowls, supposedly by mistake, and it did not break. When in the kitchen he dropped another, and then remarked to the lady that his bowls were guaranteed not to break. She bought some, to be paid for when delivered. When they came she put them away to wait until some of her friends would appear and she would drop one for a surprise. A friend finally arrived. The lady took a pot from the shelf and dropped it accidentally on purpose. It shattered into a thousand pieces—quite unlike the rubber samples."

Tell Girls

And women what I do for you

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My office sends me countless letters which thank me for new beauty and new youth. Please don't do that. Just tell other girls and women what you've found.

I am simply passing on to others what great scientists gave me. The helps that made me a famous beauty, then kept my youth and beauty to my grand old age.

Those helps number 53, but I have 4 four preparations. And them combined When you use any one of them you apply a number of the best beauty helps in existence

Cone is a cold cream which I call my Youth Cream. It combines products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster, feed and protect the skin. I use it as night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. I have never heard of a cream which does anything like its results.

STORRS HENS COME THROUGH WITH BIG YIELD

The hens held steady in spite of one of the unfavorable conditions incident to the farmers meetings at Storrs last week. A large number of visitors inspected the laying houses and hens do not relish too many grange faces. Furthermore, extending courtesies to visitors nearly always means just a little time and attention devoted to the actual care of the birds. In spite of these facts, however, the hens came through with a total of 2617 eggs a yield of nearly 52 per cent or one in eight eggs of their performance of the previous week. This score is 264 eggs more than for the corresponding week last year.

The outstanding feature of the week was Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass. It was the first pen in the contest to pass the 3000 egg mark. Other pens are sure to follow shortly and with some slightly prospect perhaps of overtaking the reds. Purdue University's pen of Barred Rocks from Lafayette, Ind. also desires special mention. Their score of 59 eggs jumped them from third place to first in a class of 24. Two Connecticut pens of Leghorns owned by Andrew L. Ohr of Wethersfield and Hilltop Farm at Suffield tied for second place for the week with 56 eggs each. The Storrs Experiment Station's non-competitive pen of Barred Rocks made third place with a mark of 55 eggs. C. T. Darrow's pen of White Leghorns from Bethel Branch, N. J., followed closely with a yield of 54 eggs.

Mrs. Shubael Holmes

The of B. Angeline Gray, 90, widow of Shubael Holmes, came to a close Saturday evening, Aug. 2, at her home in Preston City, following an illness during which she was tenderly cared for by loved ones. Mrs. Holmes was nearly 91, being born in North Stonington, Conn., Dec. 16, 1833. She was united in marriage with Shubael Holmes of Mystic Sept. 4, 1864. Three children were born to them, Mrs. Nellie M. Main and Rensalaer W. Holmes, both residing at home and Mrs. S. E. Holdirge of Ledyard. There are six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Her early married life was spent in Mystic. Mr. Holmes died in May, 1916.

She was a member of the Preston City Baptist church. Of kind and loving disposition she gathered about her many friends who learned of her death with profound sorrow. She was always ready to serve any worthy cause.

She will be greatly missed by those acquaintances who have enjoyed her companionship for years and those who are left mourn the love of a beloved mother and grandmother.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. John Thomas.

Funeral services for Mrs. John Thomas were held Tuesday morning at 8.15 o'clock from her late home, No. 89 School street, relatives and friends attending. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, a silent testimonial to the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

A requiem mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church by Rev. Rocco Guerriero and during the service Prof. F. L. Farrell presided at the organ. For a waiting hymn Mrs. Farrell sang Lead, Kindly Light.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. M. H. May. The bearers were Austin Furlong Jr., Patrick Donohue, Clarence Valentine, Carl Johnson, William and Michael Shea.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

Mrs. William A. Aiken.

With relatives and friends in attendance from a number of cities, funeral services for Eliza Coit Buckingham, wife of Gen. William Appleton Aiken, and only daughter of Connecticut's Civil war governor, William A. Buckingham, were held Monday afternoon, at her home, 157 Washington street. The services were conducted by Rev. Alexander Mewes Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, who was assisted by Mrs. Aiken's son-in-law, Rev. Professor Benjamin W. Bacon, of Yale. Professor Bacon read Mrs. Aiken's favorite selections from poems of Whittier, also made the prayer during the services. All were preferably simple, in accord with Mrs. Aiken's expressed wishes. In making the arrangements for the funeral the family was represented by Frank L. Woodard.

The flowers were exceptionally beautiful. Burial was in the family plot in Yantic cemetery, where the committal was by Rev. Mr. Abbott. The honorary bearers were Oliver L. Johnson, B. P. Bishop, Henry A. Tirrell, Dr. Edward H. Linnell, Robert W. Perkins, Walter M. Buckingham, Richard S. Gernon and Charles Colt. The burial services were private.

HELD PARTY FOR HER SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

A delightful birthday party was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McMahon, No. 10 Kinney avenue, in honor of the seventh birthday of their daughter Elizabeth. The young people played games and had a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon. Refreshments were served by Mrs. McMahon. The color scheme used in the decorations was blue and white.

SMALL CHILD RECEIVES FRACTURED SKULL WHEN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Knocked down on North Main street, about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, by an automobile driven by John B. Tumicki of Yantic, Frank Chorsepa, 7 years of age, whose home is at No. 7 Golden street, lies in a critical condition at the Backus hospital. The child received a bad fracture at the base of the skull.

The accident happened at the junction of North Main street and Erin street. Mr. Tumicki, in reporting the accident to the police, said the boy was crossing the street and after another automobile had passed by the child ran in front of his machine. He was hit by the left front mudguard and knocked to one side.

Dr. John W. Callahan was called and the injured child was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. An examination showed that the child has a bad fracture at the base of the skull.

In an effort to avoid hitting the child Mr. Tumicki drove his machine on to the sidewalk and knocked down Peter Kozlowski of No. 247 North Main street. Mr. Kozlowski was only slightly hurt and was able to get to his feet unaided. He did not require medical attendance.

PAINFULLY HURT IN ATTEMPT TO CLIMB ON TO TRUCK

While attempting to climb on to a moving truck on Norwich avenue, near Tafts station, about 4.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, a man by the name of Turcotte lost his hold and fell down between the wheels. The rear wheel pushed him ahead for about two feet. The truck, one of Max Gordon's auto trucks, heavily loaded with cotton, and driven by Andrew Bredoski of No. 27 Cove street, was quickly stopped.

Turcotte, whose first name and address could not be learned, did not go undre the wheels, but suffered very painful injuries. He was taken into Tafts station and Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called. Dr. Cassidy had the man removed to the Backus hospital in the ambulance. While very painful, the man's injuries are not considered serious and unless he was injured internally he will be able to leave the hospital within a short time.

As the truck, headed for the city, was passing Tafts station, Turcotte, who was standing near the trolley station, ran into the street and tried to climb on to the truck. He lost his hold, slipped, and went down between the wheels.

LOCAL WOMAN LEAVES FOR TRIP TO EUROPE

Mrs. Caroline Lackenbach of No. 3 Washington square sailed Tuesday from New York for a three months' visit to Europe. Mrs. Lackenbach will visit relatives and friends in Hungary and Germany and on her way home will stop off at Berlin and Paris.

It is an astonishing fact that Indian children, even babies, seldom cry unless they are in physical discomfort or frightened. They are consistently well behaved and obedient.

BRINGS $10,000 SUIT AGAINST UNCAS PAPER BOARD CO.

John Slaga of this city, administrator of the estate of William Slaga, has brought suit for $10,000 damages against the Uncas Paper Board Co. of this city as the result of the death of William Slaga, who was killed in the paper making machinery at the paper board plant. The suit is returnable to the superior court on the first Tuesday in September.

The suit is the outgrowth of the death on Aug. 7, 1923, of William Slaga, seven-year-old son, who was cut to pieces when he fell into a vat where a beater machine equipped with huge iron knives was in full operation, the knives traveling at the speed of 150 revolutions per minute. The boy had taken his father's supper to him at the Uncas Co.'s mill, after which, together with several other children, he went to the third floor of the mill building where, according to complaint of the plaintiff's attorneys, comic sections of newspapers and periodicals were scattered about, available for feeding into "shoots" leading to the beating machine vats. In reaching for a comic sheet the boy fell into one of these "shoots" and was catapulted into the beating machine.

The plaintiff alleges that his death was caused entirely through the recklessness, carelessness and negligence of the defendant company in failing and neglecting to maintain guards on openings of such "shoots"; in failing to keep someone stationed about said openings; in failing to warn children who were in the habit of playing about the "shoots"; and in failing and neglecting to keep the "shoots" securely covered during the time the beater machines were in operation.

Property of the Uncas Co., has been attached in the sum of $12,000.

WILL HOLD QUARTERLY MEETING AT THE BEACH

Members of the Connecticut Veterinary Medical society will meet at Ocean Beach today (Wednesday) for a shore dinner and business session. It will be the quarterly gathering of the association, and some thirty to forty members from all parts of the state are expected. Representative Daniel M. Cronin and State Senator Ernest E. Rogers have accepted invitations to be guests of the society at the dinner. Papers will be read on veterinary topics and a general discussion period will feature the business meeting which follows.

James M. Stocking Fatally Injured.

James M. Stocking of Simsbury, assistant state forest fire warden and well known, died at the Hartford hospital Thursday evening from injuries received when his automobile was struck at a grade crossing. He was born in Simsbury and had been interested in fire fighting for a number of years. He was the designer of several special fire fighting pumps.

Mr. Stocking's brother is Rev. M. F. Stocking, of Westerly.

COUNTY FAIR PRESIDENT RECEIVES OLD POSTER

Eighty-five years ago this coming October a big cattle show and fair was held in the town hall in Norwich. One of the posters made for advertising the fair has been found by John Post of this city and presented by Elmer R. Pierson, president of the New London County Agricultural Society. The poster is of considerable interest and shows how fairs were conducted in those days.

The heading reads "Cattle Show and Fair, at Norwich. The Agricultural and Manufacturing Institute of New London and Windham Counties" and this is followed by the announcement:

"Propose to have a cattle show and fair at the Town Hall, in the City of Norwich, on Thursday, October 8th, 1840. All persons are invited to offer for exhibition any rare or valuable specimens of agricultural, horticultural, manufacturing, mechanical or domestic productions. After the fair there will be a public sale of the cattle, goods, etc., exhibited, if the owners thereof wish, free of expense.

Then follows the list of exhibits wanted and prizes to be awarded, some of them as follows: For best bull over 1 year old, $10; three other prizes; best cow $6; best cows, not less than five, $10; best lot not less than ten, $10; prizes for heifers, oxen, teams, steers, stud horses, colts, saddle horses, Bakewell buck, Southdown buck, bucks of other mutton breed, ewes, sows and fat hog.

The premium on best butter, not less than 20 pounds was $8, with five other prizes for lesser grades. Best old cheese, 100 pounds, drew a prize of $7, as did best new cheese, 100 pounds.

On silk the best specimen of the best kind of mulberry tree brought a premium of $5; best samples of cocoons $3; best samples of raw silk $4 and best samples of sewing silk $2.

Best Virgin honey in boxes or other vessels brought a premium of $5, and on horticultural productions premiums amounting to $50 were offered.

On manufactured goods, mechanical productions and fancy articles, viz., including woolen cassimeres, broadcloths, satinets, forest cloths, yarn, Kentucky jeans or jerseys, woolen carpeting, 4-4, brown sheeting 7-8 or 4-4, cotton twine and cording, cotton jeans, etc., $150 or more was to be awarded in premiums.

On grain and roots, best corn brought $8, best wheat, not less than 20 bushels $5; greatest quantity of potatoes on an acre, not less than 400 bushels, premium $8. Ruta bagas, beets, carrots, parsnips and roots for feeding also brought premiums of $8.

In closing, the poster reads that a "deduction of 20 per cent will be made from all premiums awarded to persons (females excepted) who during the current year have not contributed to the funds of the institute, previous to October 1st."

The committee on arrangements for the fair comprised Henry Carpenter, William A. Buckingham, Benjamin Huntington, Horatio Willes, Lewis Edwards, Charles Spalding and H. C. Beardslee. The poster was the work of M. B. Young, printer & bookseller and although the paper is somewhat discolored the ink is perfect and every word is clearly printed, making interesting reading for those who are conducting fairs of the present day.

LAKE ST. GIRLS DEFEAT GREENEVILLE TEAM

Tuesday evening the Lake Street girls invaded the Greeneville playgrounds and in a spirited contest beat the Greeneville girls in field hockey by a score of 10 to 1. The game was much more exciting than the score indicates, each team showing the result of excellent training. Several pretty team plays were made by Greeneville, but were broken up by the fast and clean stick work of their opponents.

Captain Edith Coletti was easily the star of the game, her faultless aim and quick work being largely responsible for Lake Street's victory. During the first half Lake Street scored seven goals, five of which were made in quick succession by Captain Coletti during the first five minutes of play. Greeneville then realized what a dangerous opponent they had in the plucky Lake Street captain and bitterly contested her succeeding efforts to run up Lake Street's score. Only once was the Lake Street goal tender caught napping when Greeneville made a goal. The hockey game was followed by a dodge ball contest where Lake Street was once more victorious by the decisive score of 12 to 4. A commendable feature of the games was the splendid sportsmanship shown by both victors and vanquished and the girls of both teams hope to meet again in the near future when Greeneville promises to give Lake Street another exciting Match.

Though only a practice game, the two teams, both of which lead their respective sections in the Playground Girls' League fought hard and Lake Street is justly proud of its victory over such worthy opponents. The Lake Street girls have yet to suffer defeat in field hockey. The Lake Street lineup was as follows:

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT AT UNION SQUARE

Another band concert is to be given this (Wednesday) evening on Union square, by Swahn's Military band, under the direction of John M. Swahn. McCOSKRY BUTT HEIRESS TO GET LEGACY IN GOLD

As the McCoskry Butt family are Pequot residents, there is interest in the following from a New York paper:

William Allen, referee in an accounting by the Chemical National bank as executor under the will of Brig. Gen. McCoskry Butt, who died in 1921, filed a report in the supreme court Monday upholding the contention of Mme. Madeleine Renard Roger, wife of General Joseph Roger of the French army, that a bequest of 15,000 francs a year is to be paid to her in gold and not at the valuation of paper francs.

The referee finds that the value of the estate is $1,000,000 and that trust funds of $257,859 were set aside for May Frances Butt, widow, and Robert McCoskry Butt, son, and a half of a similar sum each for two grandchildren, Lawrence Havemeyer Butt, Jr., and Madeleine F. Butt.

When the executor filed the accounting, Mme. Roger objected to payments made in francs at the value of paper money, contending that one payment, which should have been valued at $4,342, was worth only $1,815. The referee took testimony which showed that Mme. Roger, who is now about 40, was General Butt's second cousin. The refree states in his opinion that General Butt's affection for his cousin was so great that "he attempted to express it when his bodily infirmities were such that it was almost impossible for him to pen a line."

The testimony showed that the gold franc is worth 19.3 cents, but that the paper franc fluctuated to 3.42 cents in March and rose to 5.3 cents in June. The referee states that General Butt left the bequest to his cousin for her personal expenses and to improve conditions. The opinion continues:

"This permits the conclusion that an annuity to a beneficiary of whom the testator was very fond could not reasonably mean 15,000 francs of a fluctuating and depreciable value, which one year might pay $2,884 and in the next year only $513, sums representing the extreme actual fluctuations proved upon the trial. If the paper franc should fall again, as it has quite recently, there is no violence in considering the possibility that it might fall to nothing, as has the German mark. The testator did not mean that the legacy should become worthless."

General Butt's son testified that his father got his military title through commanding the First brigade at Camp Black, on Long Island, during the Spanish-American war. His death resulted from shock due to the death of a son a few weeks before.

DELIGHTFUL BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MARGUERITE HAWKER

An enjoyable birthday party was given Tuesday afternoon, to Marguerite Hawker, at her home, 49 Franklin street, in honor of her fifth birthday. Nine of her little friends were entertained at games of various kinds and there was singing and selections on the piano. In the peanut hunt first prize was won by Margaret Payment and second by Mary Donnelly. Later in the afternoon ice cream and other refreshments were served by Mrs. John A. Hawker, assisted by Mrs. Victor Payment.

Those present were the Misses Helen and Margaret Payment, Madeline and Mary Donnelly, Margaret Kennedy, Alice Driscoll, Edith Blackburn, Tessie Blackburn and Master George Hawker.

MONTVILLE TOWN MEETING TO VOTE ON FIRE ENGINE

There is to be a town meeting at Montville Friday to vote upon the advisability of purchasing a fire engine for the protection of town property, and to devise means for its upkeep. Also, to vote upon a salary for the first selectman so that he may give his entire time to the work.

OFFER REWARD FOR FINDING MAN'S BODY

A $200 reward for recovery of the body of Edward S. Riconda, captain of the Seawanhaka Boat club of East Elmhurst, L. I., has been offered by that club, in the belief that Riconda, together with Harold D. Hudson of Flushing and John Roden of Brooklyn, perished at sea from the 32-foot sloop Amateur, which left Block Island on July 17 for New London, and which has mysteriously disappeared.

WEDDINGS

Bailey—Heintz

Miss Esther Heintz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heintz of 63 Francis avenue, Hartford, was given in marriage by her father to Floyd S. Bailey, son of Mrs. Ivy S. Bailey, formerly of this city and the late Frederick R. Bailey on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 2 at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march, played by Clayton Heintz, a brother of the bride. The Rev. Archibald F. Campbell, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church officiated, using the single ring service. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Madeline Heintz and Le Roy S. Bailey, brother of the bridegroom as best man. The bride wore a poudre blue gown of canton crepe with bead trimmings and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaid was dressed in tan silk with blue ribbon and lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of carnations. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold ring with ruby setting. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a gold coin. A wedding dinner was served after which the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to New York city, up the Hudson River to Albany, N. Y., returning by Pittsfield, Mass., where they will visit relatives.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are employed by the Royal Typewriter Co.

Won't Sell Property.

At Old Saybrook, at a special town meeting, held in the town hall, was attended by nearly one hundred and defeated the resolution to sell the land known as the green in front of the Coulter house property, which was to be used for the purpose of distributing or an oil service station. The promoters probably learned of the sentiment against the sale and were not represented. William H. Smith was chairman and Charles S. Gates, clerk. The resolution was presented by Selectman Frederick Stokes and met its Waterloo right off, all present voting against it.

Towed Up Barge.

Tug Miles Standish towed barge Virginia Palmer from New London to Norwich Tuesday morning and returned to New London with scow James F. McGuire.

THAMESVILLE ATHLETES PROVE TOO STRONG FOR THEIR LAUREL HILL RIVALS

In a loosely contested meet the athletes of Miss Hyman asserted their supremacy over their Laurel Hill rivals at the Thamesville grounds Tuesday afternoon. It was a complete reversal of form from their showing in the track and field meet last week, when Laurel Hill on its home grounds overwhelmingly crushed their visitors.

The day was sweltering, so much so that in traveling from Laurel Hill to far distant Thamesville several of the members of Miss Sullivan's team were forced to halt at a wayside pharmacy, and there under the sheltering canvas awning were revived sufficiently to permit a continuance of their dusty march. The result of the meet demonstrated that the soothing refreshments partaken of during that brief interval of rest and protection from the merciless rays of the torrid sun were highly beneficial both in spirit and body to the Laurel Hill aggregation.

Results of the meet:—

BROWNS HUMBLE SENATORS TWICE IN DOUBLE BILL

St. Louis, August 5.—St. Louis won two games from Washington today, making it five straight. Stocker, pitching in good form held the Senators to three hits in the first game, which he won 2 to 0.

Danforth allowed eight hits in the second contest, winning 4 to 2. Jacobson and Judge drove out home runs in the night cap. Both games were played before an overflow crowd. The score:

BERNSTEIN TO SUE N. Y. ATHLETIC COMMISSION

New York, August 5.—Phil Bernstein, manager of Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, today filed suit against the state Athletic commission and Chairman George E. Brower to force the commission to recognize his contract with the pugilist.

The commission, at a recent meeting, refused to declare the existing contract void due to a clause in the contract which stipulated that the boxer's ring earnings were to be split with Bernstein on a fifty per cent. basis where as the commission has ruled that a manager can deduct only thirty three and one per cent. as his share.

WHITE SOX TAKE TWO GAMES FROM ATHLETICS

Chicago, August 5.—Good pitching by Urban Faber and Hollis Thurston enabled Chicago to win both games of a double header from Philadelphia today, by scores of 5 to 2, and 6 to 3. In the first contest Chicago bunched hits in two innings, driving Harris off the hill in the third inning. In the aftermatch the White Sox hit opportunely behind Rommel's wildness. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

Where should the second baseman place himself to receive a throw from the catcher in order to putout a base runner coming from first?

The most important move in a play of this kind is for the second baseman to follow the ball. If the throw is good, he should try to catch the ball close to the bag near the front of it, so as not to let the runner slide behind it in front of the base and as soon as the second baseman gets the ball he should instantly tag the runner as good base runners are apt to slide by them, if they do not do this.

FAST RACING EXPECTED TODAY IN FIRST DAY'S PROGRAM OF BAY STATE MEET

Some of the fastest horses on the half-mile oval will go to the wire this afternoon when the Bay State Short Ship circuit opens a three day meeting here. Fast racing has featured the meetings along the loop and it is expected that the meeting in Norwich will be no exception. Several track records have been smashed during the season and those in Norwich are in danger of falling when the Bay taters start their romping today.

The track this year is exceptionally fast and is in the best of condition although lack of rain has made the continual use of the sprinkler necessary. Track Superintendent Elmer R. Pierson has put in a strenuous week in bringing the oval up to the best possible condition. At the present time there are over 100 horses at the Fairgrounds, some of the best looking horses ever seen within the enclosure being included in the number. Among the horses are a number of the old favorites that raced here last season, including, Mauna Loa, Silk Leader, Hum D, Plain Mary and Peter Look. Guesswork, Bill Fleming's bay mare, that made a good showing last year is entered in the 2.16 pace for the $2,000 stake race. Other familiar horses out for this purse are Hum D, Peter Boreal, Robert W., and Baron Forbes. There are other fast horses entered in the classes which are not familiar to local people but which have shown their heels to many fields on the circuit this season.

Yesterday all the horses were quartered at the grounds and from the appearance of the animals all are in first class condition. Many followers of the light-harness horses were attracted to the stables Tuesday afternoon inspecting the horses. When such drivers as Billy Fleming, Aubrey Rodney, Jack McGrath, Ed Gillis, Martin and others get together there is certain to be action for those who like real horse racing. The Bay State is noted for its clean racing and without doubt it ranks second to none of the half-mile circuits.

If the weather man continues to hold back the rain as he has done during the past few weeks Norwich people can expect some of the best racing ever seen in this section fo the state. The purses this year have been raised so that they are attractive to fast horses that in years past have passed up the Norwich meeting. It is expected that a banner opening day will result today and with Thursday as the feature day it is certain that all records for race crowds will be broken.

KACES TAKE CLOSE GAME FROM TABS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 5.—The Knights of Columbus nine had a close call from defeat at the hands of the lowly Tabs at Morgan Park this evening in a scheduled City league contest. The final count was 5 and 4 with the K. of C. on the long end. It was a good game throughout and some fast playing helped the Knights gain a victory.

Cranker and Posick were the opposing pitchers and one bad inning for both pitchers gave both sides a fighting chance. In the second the Kacey batters got to Posick for a quartet of runs taking the lead, but they were forced to go into a tie when the Tabs scored three runs in the third inning and one in the previous frame gave them enough for a tie. In the eventful third frame for the Tabs, Hewitt poled a home run. He hit the ball and it hugged the ground and went under the score board in right center field and then took a hop over the fence. This homer helped the Tabs tie up the contest.

Coyle, who are hitting safely, purloined both third and home for what proved to be the winning marker.

There was no more scoring after the third and both teams settled down to play ball of the good kind. This victory gave the Knights a more firm hold on first place in the standing.

SOUTH WINDHAM WINS BOTH WEEK END GAMES

The South Windham town team continued its winning ways over the week end by annexing two more games. Saturday South Windham subdued the Yantic Team by a score of 9-3 in a farcial game which terminated in the eighth inning when some of the Yantic boys who were slightly under the weather claimed that the South Windham pitcher was making a balk, their claim not being upheld by the umpire they walked off the field thus showing their poor sportsmanship and forfeiting the return game which was to have been played in Yantic on Aug. 17.

Sunday at Sterling Mathewson had things his own way allowing only two hits and striking out thirteen men while his team mates gathered in ten runs. The feature of this game was two sensational catches on third base by Tommy Mielkle and the pelting of Jimmy Adams who had a perfect day with the willow connecting for three safeties in as many trips to the plate. The final score was 10-0 favor South Windham.

This leaves South Windham still undefeated and with an open date Sunday Aug. 17 for any fast team.

GOLF CHAMPS SURVIVE FIRST ROUND AT CHICAGO

Chicago, August 5.—Both the defending champion, Miriam Burns of Kansas City, and the national champion, Edith Cummings of Chicago, survived the first match round today in the women's western golf championship at Onwentsia club today.

Virginia Pep of St. Louis had to go an extra hole to defeat Madge Miller of Grand Rapids, Virginia Wilson won from Mrs. Howard O'Brien on the 18th green and Catherine Walsh of Grand Beach, Mich., had a margin of only two up in defeating Mrs. Fred Jackson of Seattle.

Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhart of Dallas, twice holder of the title and once runner up in the national championship, lost to Dorothy Klotz of Chicago, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Perry Fiske of Aurora, a former western champion, was defeated by Mrs. Stuart Hanley of Detroit, 4 and 3.

Thormahle Deserts Albany

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Lefty Thormahlen, the leading hurler of the Albany eastern league baseball club and reputed to be one of the best southpaws in the league, has left the club and is now believed to be playing with the Sherbrooke, Quebec, semi-pro club Thormahlen jumped to the Sherbrooke team last year but was re-instated. This season he had won twelve games and lost eight.

Doc Shanley, who was placed on the voluntary retired list recently by owner Hawkins went with Thormahlen.

Garry Fortune Injured

Waterbury, Conn., August 5.—Pitcher Fortune injured his left knee in the 5th inning of the game with Waterbury today as Jiggs Donohue made a successful diving try for an out on a grounder away from the bag, nipping the batter on the ankle as he ran by on the path and he was forced to retire from the mound after putting the winning runs on the paths in the last of the fifth, Waterbury winning from Springfield 5 to 3. The touch on the ankle caused Fortune to trip on first base and when he attempted to pitch, the leg gave him such pains that he walked the first two batters. Best following on the mound.

SUB BASE AT NEWPORT THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, August 5.—The second game of the five game series between the Submarine Base and the Newport training station nines will be played on foreign territory and that foreign territory is Newport. The first game of this series was played at the Sub Base and turned out anything but favorable to the local gobs. With an exotic atmosphere which is supposed to prevail at this (Wednesday) afternoon's game the gobs are expected to bring back with them more than a relic of the battle.

EAST SIDE TEAM WINS 10-INNING GAME FROM HOBART

In a ten-inning slugging match between the East Side playgrounds team and the Hobart avenue team at the Academy Campus on Tuesday afternoon the East Siders won out 14 to 10, scoring four runs in the tenth inning. The score was tied in the 7th at 8 to 8 and again in the ninth at 10 to 10. Errors cost the Hobart avenue team the game. P. Yeitz pitched for the winners with Arthur Nader doing the catching. The losing pitcher was Riley. The instructors in charge of the game were Miss Viola Walz and Miss Catherine Farrell.

GENARO GETS DECISION OVER IRISH JOHNNY CURTIN

New York, August 5.—Frankie Genaro, New York American flyweight champion, went out of his class to win a judge's decision over Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City, a bantamweight, in a 12 round bout in Brooklyn tonight. Genaro weighed 112 1-2 and Curtin 118.

It was Genaro's first bantamweight match.

The main bout overshadowed by a 12-round preliminary between Mike Ballerino of Bayonne, N. J., and Johnny Leonard of Allentown, Pa. Ballerino repeated his victory of several weeks ago by winning the battle on points.

WEST ENDS FORFEIT GAME TO BATTERY B

The West Ends-Battery B game for Tuesday evening in the Norwich Twilight league did not materialize as the West Enders failed to put in an appearance and the game was claimed by the Battery on a forfeit.

This evening the Hardigs and Nuggets will meet for the last time this season. The Nuggets have yet to win a league game and Manager Madden intends to put a crimp in the winning streak of the Hardigs who are struggling to hold second place in the league. Madden will place a good team in the field and the Hardigs will have Jones in the box for them.

GOWDY IS PUBLICLY HONORED BY GOVERNMENT

New York, August 5.—Before a crowd attending the Chicago-New York baseball game at the Polo Grounds today Hank Gowdy, Giant catcher, was presented by Gen. Briant H. Welles, with an engrossed copy of the order naming the army athletic field at Fort Denning, Ga., after him. As a preliminary to the presentation a platoon of infantry marched in review before a group of high ranking officers.

Gowdy was the first major league ball players to enlist when America entered the World war and took part in many major engagements. He was mustered out with the rank of sergeant.

ELIZABETH ST.-GREENEVILLE GAME RESULTS IN A TIE SCORE

In a game featured by hard hitting and fiery word battles Elizabeth St. and Greeneville playgrounds teams fought a nine inning battle to a 6 to 6 tie Tuesday evening at the Academy Campus. In the seventh inning Greeneville was leading Elizabeth street by two runs, the score being 6 to 4. After a consultation of coaches the Greeneville coach consented to play ball until darkness terminated the game. When announced that the game would go nine innings pandemonium broke loose and all kinds of abuse was hurled at the umpire and the Elizabeth supporters and team. In spite of the undue criticism the Streeters forced the game to a draw.

For the wearers of the Green and White, the masterly pitching of "Scrappy" Ferguson featured along with the brilliant work of his team mate Smith, at short. Scrappy outpitched Elizabeth's ace, Kampf, throughout the game. Smith of Greeneville probably played the best ball of the evening, hitting and fielding like a big leaguer, and was the largest factor in tallying up the six runs for his team. Elizabeth street had a fine team on the field but they failed to deliver the goods as well as usual. Poor judgment of flies, sluggish base running and inability to support their hurler resulted in a near catastrophe for the Purple and White. The lineups:

In a losely contested meet the athletes of Miss Hyman asserted their supremacy over their Laurel Hill rivals at the Thamesville grounds Tuesday afternoon. It was a complete reversal of form from their showing in the track and field meet last week, when Laurel Hill on its home grounds overwhelmingly crushed their visitors.

The day was sweltering, so much so that in traveling from Laurel Hill to far distant Thamesville several of the members of Miss Sullivan's team were forced to halt at a wayside pharmacy, and there under the sheltering canvas awning were revived sufficiently to permit a continuance of their dusty march. The result of the meet demonstrated that the soothing refreshments partaken of during that brief interval of rest and protection from the merciless rays of the torrid sun were highly beneficial both in spirit and body to the Laurel Hill aggregation.

BERNSTEIN TO SUE N. Y. ATHLETIC COMMISSION

New York, August 5.—Phil Bernstein, manager of Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, today filed suit against the state Athletic commission and Chairman George E. Brower to force the commission to recognize his contract with the pugilist.

The commission, at a recent meeting, refused to declare the existing contract valid due to a clause in the contract which stipulated that the boxer's ring earnings were to be split with Bernstein on a fifty per cent. basis, where as the commission has ruled that a manager can deduct only thirty three and one per cent. as his share.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

Where should the second baseman place himself to receive a throw from the catcher in order to outsmart a base runner coming from first?

The most important move in a play of this kind is for the second baseman to follow the ball. If the throw is good, he should try to catch the ball close to the bag near the front of it, so as not to let the runner slide behind it in front of the base and as soon as the second baseman gets the ball he should instantly tag the runner as good base runners are apt to slide by them, if they do not do this.

Some of the fastest horses on the half-mile oval will go to the wire this afternoon when the Bay State Short Ship circuit opens a three day meeting here. Fast racing has featured the meetings along the loop and it is expected that the meeting in Norwich will be no exception. Several track records have been smashed during the season and those in Norwich are in danger of falling when the Bay taters start their romping today.

The track this year is exceptionally fast and is in the best of condition although lack of rain has made the continual use of the sprinkler necessary. Track Superintendent Elmer R. Pierson has put in a strenuous week in bringing the oval up to the best possible condition. At the present time there are over 100 horses at the Fairgrounds, some of the best looking horses ever seen within the enclosure being included in the number. Among the horses are a number of the old favorites that raced here last season, including, Mauna Loa, Silk Leader, Hum D, Plain Mary and Peter Look. Guesswork, Bill Fleming's bay mare that made a good showing last year is entered in the 2.16 pace for the $3,000 stake race. Other familiar horses out for this purse are Hum D, Peter Boreal, Robert W., and Baron Forbes. There are other fast horses entered in the classes which are not familiar to local people but which have shown their heels to many fields on the circuit this season.

Yesterday all the horses were quartered at the grounds and from the appearance of the animals all are in first class condition. Many followers of the light-harness horses were attracted to the stables Tuesday afternoon inspecting the horses. When such drivers as Billy Fleming, Aubrey Rodney, Jack McGrath, Ed Gillis, Martin and others get together there is certain to be action for those who like real horse racing. The Bay State is noted for its clean racing and without doubt it ranks second to none of the half mile circuits.

If the weather man continues to hold back the rain as he has done during the past few weeks Norwich people can expect some of the best racing ever seen in this section fo the state. The purses this year have been raised so that they are attractive to fast horses that in years past have passed up the Norwich meeting. It is expected that a banner opening day will result today and with Thursday as the feature day it is certain that all records for race crowds will be broken.

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 5.—The Knights of Columbus nine had a close call from defeat at the hands of the lowly Tabs at Morgan Park this evening in a scheduled City league contest. The final count was 5 and 4 with the K. of C. on the long end. It was a good game throughout and some fast playing helped the Knights gain a victory.

Franker and Posick were the opposing pitchers and one bad inning for both pitchers gave both sides a fighting chance. In the second the Kacey batters got to Posick for a quartet of runs taking the lead, but they were forced to go into a tie when the Tabs scored three runs in the third inning and one in the previous frame gave them enough for a tie. In the eventful third frame for the Tabs, Hewitt poled a home run. He hit the ball and it hugged the ground and went under the score board in right center field and then took a hop over the fence. This homer helped the Tabs tie up the contest.

Coyle, who are hitting safely, purloined both third and home for what proved to be the winning marker.

There was no more scoring after the third and both teams settled down to play ball of the good kind. This victory gave the Knights a more firm hold on first place in the standing.

SOUTH WINDHAM WINS BOTH WEEK END GAMES

The South Windham town team continued its winning ways over the week end by annexing two more games. Saturday South Windham subdued the Yantic Team by a score of 9-3 in a farcial game which terminated in the eighth inning when some of the Yantic boys who were slightly under the weather claimed that the South Windham pitcher was making a balk, their claim not being upheld by the umpire they walked off the field thus showing their poor sportsmanship and forfeiting the return game which was to have been played in Yantic on Aug. 17.

Sunday at Sterling Mathewson had things his own way allowing only two hits and striking out thirteen men while his team mates gathered in ten runs. The feature of this game was two sensational catches on third base by Tommy Mielkie and the pelting of Jimmy Adams who had a perfect day with the willow connecting for three safeties in as many trips to the plate. The final score was 10-0 favor South Windham.

This leaves South Windham still undefeated and with an open date Sunday Aug. 17 for any fast team.

GOLF CHAMPS SURVIVE FIRST ROUND AT CHICAGO

Chicago, August 5.—Both the defending champion, Miriam Burns of Kansas City, and the national champion, Edith Cummings of Chicago, survived the first match round today in the women's western golf championship at Onwentsia club today.

Virginia Pep of St. Louis had to go an extra hole to defeat Madge Miller of Grand Rapids, Virginia Wilson won from Mrs. Howard O'Brien on the 18th green and Catherine Walsh of Grand Beach, Mich., had a margin of only two up in defeating Mrs. Fred Jackson of Seattle.

Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhart of Dallas, twice holder of the title and once runner up in the national championship, lost to Dorothy Klotz of Chicago, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Perry Fiske of Aurora, a former western champion, was defeated by Mrs. Stuart Hanley of Detroit, 4 and 3.

BEER SEIZED AT NEW LONDON SHOWS 3.24 ALCOHOL PERCENTAGE

New London, Aug. 6.—The beer, 25 barrels, or 6,250 bottles, seized on Montauk avenue last Saturday morning by the local police when the truck containing its cargo was found parked there, contained an alcoholic percentage of 3.24. This was determined today when the Newlands laboratory at Hartford, notified the police here of the result of the analysis. The two colored men who were found with the truck, Wesley Howell and Theodore P. Hogan, both of New Haven, will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning on a charge of transporting liquor. The beer was consigned to the Acid Manufacturing company, this city, having been shipped here by the Starin Transportation company, New Haven. There is no such concern in New London as that named on the beer way-bill, but it is known that the beer was for a New London dealer.

A married man the father of 8 children, ranging from 7 months to 7 years, was in the police court this morning as a robber. He got into the Atlantic restaurant and there he stole a Corona typewriter, a revolver, a watch and chain, about 100 pennies and a few other things. When he attempted to dispose of the articles he stole he was trapped. When the prosecutor told his story in the police court today Beckwith was fined $50 to which was added the costs. He was given a year in which to pay the fine and costs.

John McDonough, who has been before the police court 28 times since 1911, principally charged with intoxication, was there today as a common drunkard. He admitted his guilt and was sent to the work house to stay 60 days.

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, Aug. 5.—Reactionary tendencies developed in today's stock market when it was unable to absorb the large volume of profit taking sales. Recessions in active issues ran from 1 to 3 points with trading in reduced volume although total sales exceeded the million share mark for the sixteenth consecutive full session.

While many observers stated that a reaction was warranted because of the weakened technical condition of the market after eight weeks of steadily rising prices, it undoubtedly received added impetus from the announcement of another cut in Eastern Crude Oil prices and the omission of the common and preferred dividends on Pressed Steel Car. Apparently little attention was paid to favorable trade news while included reports of increases in the mill activity from steel centers, publication of excellent earnings statements by chain store and public utility companies and an increase in car loading on the western railroads.

U. S. Steel common fluctuated within a narrow range of one point, closing 3-4 lower at 108 1-2. Baldwin, American Can, Dupont, American Tobacco B, Gulf States, International Paper, Maxwell Motor A, Savage Arms and several other popular industrials showed net losses of 1 to 3 points.

Eighteen issues established new 1924 highs during the session. These included American International Corporation, Associated Dry Goods common and preferred, Fleischmann, Colorado Fuel and Iron, United Fruit, Foundation Company, Marine preferred, Mack Truck and Jordan Motors.

Rails were mixed, strength of Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson and the Wheeling & Lake Erie issues, all of which broke through their previous high prices of the year, being counteracted by the heaviness of Rock Island, Great Northern preferred, Nickel Plate and Missouri Pacific preferred, all of which showed losses of a point or more.

Special weakness cropped out in Atlantic Refining on rumors of unfavorable dividend action when the directors meet next week, the stock closing nearly two points lower at 96 3-4. The Pressed Steel Car issues touched new 1924 lows.

Call money again ruled at 3 per cent. Time money was obtainable from 3 to 3 1-2 per cent., depending upon maturity. The commercial paper market was fairly active with the bulk of the business being done at 3 1-2 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates continued to strengthen in anticipation of further favorable developments at the London reparations conference. Demand sterling advanced more than a cent to $4.46 5-8, a new high record for the year, and later reacted to $4.45 1-2, and French francs sold above 6 1-2 cents for the first time in nearly two months but failed to hold their full gain until the close. Swiss francs advanced within a few points of par.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Aug. 5.—Despite the establishment of several new high records by foreign and United States government obligations today, the general trend of bond prices was downward in reflection of increased profit taking.

Price movements mainly were limited to fractions but they were sufficient to carry three Liberty issues and the treasury 4 1-4s to 1924 high levels, although closing quotations failed to hold at the top. Presentation of the Dawes plan to the German envoys and the buoyancy of the European exchanges exerted a favorable effect on foreign bonds, the Austrian 7s and French governmental and municipal issues establishing new 1924 records.

The $25,000,000 Norwegian loan, offered today, was oversubscribed. Investors showed considerable interest in the six per cent. bonds offered at 97 1-2 and subscription books were closed at noon.

Trading interest in railroad bonds again centered in the Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s which have reflected the progress made in the Nickel Plate merger negotiations. The bonds hovered around 106 today with one block of $400,000 changing hands.

Because of the current high levels of Liberty bonds it was reported today that government sinking fund operations would be suspended indefinitely.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 5.—Stock prices lost ground in today's curb market under the weight of a large volume of selling in the oil group, inspired by another cut of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania Crude prices. Good support was provided, however, losses being held to fractions except in Prairie Oil and Gas, Standard Oils of Kansas and Nebraska, Imperial of Canada, and Vacuum, which closed 1 to 2 points lower.

Reactionary tendencies also developed in the industrial group. National Tea dropped 2 points on a few odd lot sales and Ginter Company, Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe and Durant Motors each closed about a point lower. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates yielded fractionally on a large turnover, little speculative interest was manifested in the public utilities, which showed mixed changes.

Trading in the mining shares was quiet after recent unsuccessful attempts to attract a public following into these issues. The feature of trading in bonds was a break of nearly two points in Pure Oil 6 1-2s of 1923.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Severe breaks in the price of wheat took place today, heavy marketing of newly harvested wheat together with profit taking sales proving too heavy a load for the immediate demand. Closing quotations for wheat were weak, 2 7-8c to 3 3-4c net lower, September $1.33 to $1.28 1-4 and December $1.33 to $1.33 1-8. Corn finished 1 5-8 to 2 5-8c down, oats 7-8c to 1 3-4c off, and provisions at 20c to 30c decline.

Specially toward the last the wheat market gave evidence that it was in an overbought condition. Increased movement of wheat from farms tended to make new purchases cautious, primary domestic receipts today totalling 3,023,000 bushels as compared with 2,337,000 bushels a week ago, and being more than double today's aggregate shipments from the same terminal centers. Largely in consequence of this showing, the active buying of wheat which has recently been a market characteristic for a much longer period than usual was displaced today by a selling movement that in the end carried prices off in a decidedly rapid way.

Black rust reports from Manitoba and from the northern counties of North Dakota failed to check the price declines in the wheat market, owing to doubt that actual damage would amount to as much as some predictions assumed would be the case. On the contrary, estimates from other sources that the Canadian crop would total about 250,000,000 bushels had some bearish influence. Despite gossip that a good export business was in progress, the market closed at the day's lowest figures.

Corn and oats as well as wheat were depressed by selling on the part of holders who were seemingly unprepared for a pause in new buying, besides that, the weather today was of a kind to favor corn growth.

Provisions declined with grain.

Several member of the Episcopal church residing in Columbia, attended a special church celebration of the Holy Communion at St. Peter's church, Hebron, Sunday morning, the beginning of a summer school to be held there during the next two weeks. Matins will be said at 9 a. m. and vespers at 5 p. m. each day. Rev. Theodore D. Martin, rector of the parish preached an able sermon on the Transfiguration of Christ, applying it to our own earthly lives with a desire for a holy life and a blessed immortality. The music was by artists from Hartford. There was a large attendance at the dance Saturday evening at Utley's hall.

The counter complaints of Henry Goldstein and Mike Neumax of Hop River for $55 each which had been previously twice continued, were brought to trial Saturday evening before Justice Raymond Clarke and a jury at the town hall. The members of the jury were Fred L. Greene, Charles H. Palmer, Edward P. Lyman, Conrad Schriefer, Madison Woodward, and William M. Wolff.

Goldstein was represented by Attorney Frank H. Foss of Willimantic, and Neumax by Attorney Thomas J. Kelly, also of Willimantic.

The trial lasted five hours, from 7:30 p. m., to 12:30 a. m., a large audience of residents and summer visitors being present. As some of the witnesses were Poles and did not understand English well, the court appointed an interpreter, who was charged during the trial with not correctly interpreting the proceedings, but giving his own answers, the charge however, being withdrawn.

Goldstein claimed $18 for room and board for Mrs. Neumax and three children, aged respectively one, two and three years, for two and a half week, while Neumax was engaged in a former trial. Mrs. Neumax denied the charge, stating that she stayed at Goldstein's house only one and one-half days, returning to her own home at night, and bringing her food with her.

Charges and counter-charges regarding building a fence, payment for labor and posts furnished also a load of wood and a bushel of potatoes, covering a period of two years, occupied much time and bitter debate. Goldstein testified that he had sent his girl "every two days" for a long time to Neumax to collect the amount due him. At midnight the case was given to the jury who after half an hour's deliberation brought in a verdict that $15 was to be paid by Neumax to Goldstein, and that each should pay half the costs of court, which were $37.62.

There is to be a pot-luck supper at Yeomans hall at which the Rev. Elliott O. Foster, a former pastor of the local church will be a guest. There will be a short program after the supper.

The Rev. Elliott O. Foster, a much esteemed pastor of the local Congregational church for several years, is spending his vacation at the home of his successor, Mrs. Abbott Little on Woodward Hill. Mr. Foster is now pastor of a church at Athol, Mass.

BOZRAH

Rev. Edward H. Smith of China was the speaker at the missionary meeting held at the home of Mrs. O. A. Bishop hursday. Mr. Smith's daughter and his father, Owen B. Smith of Norwich own, accompanied him. Besides the most interesting talk given by Mr. Smith there were Chinese songs and recitations by the daughter and many curios were shown. In spite of the thunder showers of the afternoon there was an excellent attendance, forty-three being present. There were guests from Jewett City, Montville, New York, and Norwich. Mrs. Herbert Wightman and Miss Olive Bishop gave solos. Cake, ice cream and iced cocoa were served.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Maples have been spending the week in Massachusetts.

E. E. Lathrop and family spent Wednesday and Thursday on Lathrop Hill.

Miss Mary Daley has been visiting Miss Maude Lathrop.

When a woman of 40 laughs heartily she usually means it.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Wednesday, Aug. 6, 1924.

THE WEATHER Conditions

Pressure was high Tuesday night over the northern states along the north Pacific coast and from the East Gulf states eastward to Bermuda, and it was low over practically all other regions with centers of minimum pressure over Quebec, Kansas and southern Arizona. This pressure distribution has been attended by local thundershowers within the last 24 hours in the North Atlantic states. The temperature continued to rise Tuesday in the north Atlantic States.

The western disturbance will move eastward and will be attended by local showers and probably thunder storms almost generally over the states east of the Mississippi river within the next two days. There will be little change in temperature in the Washington forecast district Wednesday but lower temperatures will prevail in the north Atlantic states Thursday and Thursday evening.

Forecast

Northern New England: Increasing cloudiness followed by local showers Wednesday afternoon or night and probably Thursday; Cooler Thursday.

For southern New England: Partly cloudy Wednesday followed by local thundershowers Wednesday night or Thursday; cooler Thursday.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION APPOINTS COMMITTEE ON REORGANIZATION

A very enthusiastic meeting of Norwich central Labor Union was held Tuesday evening in Carpenter's hall with representatives present from every union in the city, with the exception of one. William Donohue of the Cigar Makers Union called the meeting to order shortly after 8:30 o'clock.

The matter of a reorganization was discussed by the delegates and many helpful suggestions were presented, after which the chairman introduced as the speaker of the evening, Ira M. Ornburn, of New Haven, secretary and treasurer of the state branch of the A. F. of L.

Mr. Ornburn in his clever and convincing style, presented the cause of harmonious action among the Labor forces, pointing out that this is important if the work is to be successful, and covering his subject from every phase.

Mr. Ornburn concluded his remarks by recommending the appointment of an organization committee to formulate some plan to be presented at a meeting to be August 19th. The present central body constitutes itself into an open forum until the plan of reorganization is worked out by the committee of five who were chosen by the chair.

Mr. Ornburn promised to be present when the committee makes the report on August 19th and also on September 6th. Following a vote of thanks to Mr. Ornburn for his enlightening remarks the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

CAMP TIPPECAN CLOSES MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Captain Guy Winkler of Washington, D. C., National Red Cross representative of the Life Saving Department spent the last two days at Camp Tippecan training scouts and officials in life saving. Victor Davis qualified as examiner in life saving and Lester Pingree, Robert Schmidt and Jack Houston qualified as junior red cross life savers.

Camp Tippecan closed Monday after its most successful season.

Visitors Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Jewett City, Prof Read and Mrs. Read and Mr. Bellsley of Wheeler school, Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Whipple of Providence, Father Kane of Westerly, Dr. L. L. La Pierre and son of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins of Jewett City, Mrs. Davis of Taftville, Harry Prentice and George Young of Taftville, Mrs. Murphy and sons of Voluntown, Mrs. Talbot of Norwich, Mrs. Morris and Orrin Talbot and others.

The log cabin is well on its way in construction and many scouts received their camp letters at Sunday colors. The camping season was almost perfect and many camp and scout tests were accomplished. Five scouts were advanced to first class, four to second class and two to tenderfoot rank.

About 20 merit badges were earned including, pioneering, bird study, forestry, swimming, life saving, stalking, masonry, craftsmanship, and other subjects.

The scouts are indebted to George T. Briggs for the camp site and courtesies extended to the camp committee by Harry Prentice, Lincoln Crawford, L. M. Carpenter, George T. Ingalls and others for the aid given in various ways.

In a finding filed with the clerk of the superior court, Compensation Commissioner James J. Donahue of this city has awarded a lump sum of $300 to David Smith, Hallville, for injuries received by Mr. Smith while in the employ of Hall Bros., at their mill in Hallville.

In his findings the commissioner says in part:

On April 21st, 1922, David Smith met with personal injuries arising out of and in the course of his employment. The average weekly wages of the claimant, computed in accordance with the terms of the workmen's compensation Act, were $15.12. An agreement for compensation was approved on May 17th, 1922, which provided for payment of a medical, surgical, hospital bills and weekly compensation at the rate of $7.56 during the period of total incapacity and it is found that the terms of said agreement have been fully carried out up to this time.

The claimant is a man of 77 years of age and his physical condition at the present time is unquestionably due as much to his age as to any disability attributable to his employment. He is desirous of making a final disposition of his case, which season to be for the best interest of his mind as well as his body, whereby an agreement has been reached by claimant and respondent, insurer, whereby the sum of $300 is to be paid to the claimant in full and complete settlement of his case.

COPIES PLAN CARRIED OUT IN THIS STATE

A highway traffic survey modelled after the recent transportation census conducted in Connecticut by the Bureau of public roads of the U. S. department of agriculture and the Connecticut Highway department, is being carried out in Pennsylvania. It is similar in purpose and general methods to the Connecticut study, which required a year for fulfillment. The object is to ascertain the exact type of road construction best suited to particular sections of states, based on density of population, volume of traffic, and the character of production activities in the vicinity.

Connecticut was the working area for the first survey ever made in the country of highway traffic conditions, and was chosen because of its heavy transportation systems and its geographic location in the heart of New England. The investigation here brought to light much needed statistics regarding the density of commercial motor car transportation between New York and Boston.

It is anticipated that as a result of similar surveys in typical well-populated states it will be possible in the future to design roads built to withstand the particular traffic demands of certain areas and bring about large reductions in construction cost.

The proper width of roadways of the future, the effect of congestion at intersections and the extent to which new traffic routes are required are points which the surveys are expected to assist in developing. The cost of various types of improvements, such as relocations, grade reductions, elimination of grade crossings and traffic "bottle necks", with saving in transportation costs resulting from such improvements are matters which road designers are seeking to learn. Observations are also being made to learn the proper relation which motor transportation would have with mail and water freight haulage in sections like Connecticut where all three systems present great possibilities.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM WIFE INCURABLY INSANE

Percy Riley of Stonington has filed suit in the superior court for divorce from Sarah Jones Riley of this city. The plaintiff alleges the defendant has become incurably insane and has been an inmate of the Norwich State hospital for insane since August 27, 1918. The plaintiff and defendant have one minor child, Percy William Riley, aged 15 years. They were married in April, 1907. The plaintiff seeks a divorce and custody of the child.

Annual Report of Fire Department

The annual report of Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich fire department has been published in booklet form and has been distributed. The report is very attractively gotten up.

There are chilly nights for the campers, who count on comfortable sleep but do not relish conditions to set their teeth chattering. Again Monday morning the mercury was low, following a cool night.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND IN PRISON

Frances W. LeVaughn of this city has brought divorce proceedings against John D. LeVaughn, now of Leavenworth, Kansas. The papers in the action have been filed with the clerk of the superior court. Before her marriage Mrs. LeVaughn was Frances E. Wells and she was married to LeVaughn June 15, 1917.

She charges in her complaint a statutory offense committed between March 11, 1924 and May 13, 1924, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Oklahoma City, Okla. She also states in the complaint that her husband has been sentenced by the U. S. district court in Oklahoma to two years in federal prison for violation of the white slave traffic act. The couple have one child, Ruth Wells LeVaughn, aged 4 years. Mrs. LeVaughn asks that a divorce be granted her and that she be given the custody of the child.

KNOCKED DOWN AND INJURED BY AUTO

Cornelius Driscoll, one of the oldest employes of the street department, received cuts and bruises, when he was struck Tuesday afternoon by an automobile operated by Kurt Seifert, who was backing his machine out of a garage. Mr. Driscoll did not hear the machine approaching and Mr. Seifert did not know that Mr. Driscoll was in back of the machine until he was struck and knocked down.

Mr. Driscoll was taken to the Backus hospital where his injuries were cared for. He will probably be out in a few days as the injuries are not of a serious nature. He is suffering from minor cuts and bruises.

POETRY

EVOLUTION.

As in the monkey's mazing eye
There broods a sort of muddy green
Upon the brink of consciousness,
Our human visions may descry:

So will the rare, transfigured face
Of man or woman, when it gleams
With selfless thought, or saintly dreams,
Shadow a first, proleptic trace.

And harbinger of those to be:
Who, in a nobler pattern wrought
Through aeons of creative thought,
Smile back on us with sympathy.
—Edgar Phillpotts, in the Spectator.

MUSIC AT TWILIGHT.

O Twilight, Twilight! evermore to hear
The wounded viola pleading to th heart;
To dream we watch thy purple wing depart;
To wake, and know thy presence alway near!

What dost thou on the pathway of th
sun?
Abide thy sister Night, who's grave
pure
Makes heaven and all its beauty seem too sure,
And all too certain her oblivion.

One star awakes to turn thee from th
South.
Oh, linger in the shadows thou has drawn,
Ere Night cast dew before the feet o
Dawn,
Or Silence lay her kiss on Music's mouth
—George Sterling.

DAVIS, DEM. PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE, SOUGHT CONFERENCE WITH LABOR LEADER GOMPERS

President of the A. F. of L. Declares the Conference Was Impossible Because of a Conflicting Engagement—Later Mr. Davis Requested Gompers to File With Him "a Statement of Questions Which Labor is Chiefly Interested in."—Request Was Denied.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 5.—(By the A. P.)—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, stated tonight that John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, sought a conference with the labor leader in New York, July 17, and later requested Mr. Gompers to file with him "a statement of questions which labor is chiefly interested in."

"The conference was impossible," said Mr. Gompers, "because of a conflicting engagement." The request was denied because Mr. Gompers could not submit questions to Mr. Davis, which would not be submitted to other candidates for the presidency."

That Mr. Davis had communicated with Mr. Gompers was revealed in a letter the federation leader wrote William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor and present staff member of the democratic national committee at Washington.

The letter was in reply to the one received from Mr. Wilson by the executive council of the A. F. L., urging that it defer endorsing LaFollette until Mr. Davis delivered his notification speech.

W. B. WILSON SENT GOMPERS LETTER IN BEHALF OF DAVIS

Washington, August 6.—Writing under date of August 2, William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Wilson and for years active in the organized labor movement in this country, suggested to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the executive council of the federation refrain from making any "definite political action" until after John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, delivers his acceptance address at Clarksburg, W. Va., August 11.

The text of the letter was made public tonight by the democratic national committee. In it, Mr. Wilson, reviewed the labor record of Mr. Davis and praised him for his position in years past, and announced that he had accepted an invitation from the democratic national committee to assist in the campaign for the election of Mr. Davis.

Speaking of Senator LaFollette in his letter, Mr. Wilson said "he has allowed himself to be placed in the position in this campaign where he is being used as the auger to bore the labor organizations of the country from within."

PLANS FOR HOME COMING AND NOTIFICATION TO DAVIS

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 6.—Plans for the combined home coming celebration and notification to John W. Davis of his nomination to the presidency by the democratic party were outlined today to the Davis home coming committee by Louis A. Johnson chairman of the local notification committee, who cooperated with the democratic national committee in shaping plans fo rthe event.

The homecoming celebration will begin when Mr. Davis steps from a Baltimore and Ohio train Saturday morning at 9.15 o'clock. Two bands will play at the stations and will head a procession to the Davis home on Lee avenue. There welcoming addresses will be made by Harrison G. Otis, city manager, and Samuel R. Bentley, president of the Clarksburg chamber of commerce, to which Mr. Davis will make a response. A home coming parade will be held Monday afternoon in which virtually all organizations in Clarksburg will be represented.

Star Spangled Banner Clarksburg bands.

Invocation, the Rev. C. A. Engle, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church

Notification address, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, chairman of the presidential notification committee.

Acceptance address, John W. Davis.

America, Clarksburg bands.

DAMAGE SUIT FOR $100,000,000 AGAINST N. E. RAILROADS

Boston, Aug. 6.—Damages aggregating $100,000,000 are asked in a suit filed today against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company, The Boston Railroad Holding company, the Boston and Maine railroad and a score of individuals and trustees of the estates by Edward F. Brown of Ipswich, president of the Boston and Maine Sotckholders' Protective Association in the United States district court here.

The bill alleges that the Boston and Main railroad "has been despoiled, defrauded and injured to the amount of $100,000,000 and the stockholders of the Boston and Main have been defrauded to a like amount." The bill declares that the railroad had been paying regular dividends until the defendant, the New Haven and ohter through the Holding company, gained control of the road from 1909 until 1914.

Among the defendants named are Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven; Lewis Cass Ledyard of New York; George F. Baker of New York; J. Pierpont Morgan, Herbert L. Satterlee, William P. Hamilton and Lewis Cass Ledyard as executors until the will of J. Pierpont Morgan; Percy A. Rockefeller and John A. Barber, executors until the will of William Rockefeller; the executors of the estate of Theodore N. Vail, and of Thomas DeWitt Cuyler.

NEW AUTO DAMAGED WHEN DRIVER WAS TAKEN ILL

Ansonia, Aug. 6.—Christopher Band of Westley street is in the hospital in Derby as the result of an automobile accident this afternoon, when a new machine which he was driving was wrecked. It is believed that Band was taken ill and that he removed his hands from the steering wheel, losing control of his machine. It crashed into a tree at the side of the road and was badly damaged. He is suffering from a bad cut in the face and probably internal injuries.

TO HALT REVOLUTIONARY MENACE IN BENGAL, INDIA

Calcutta, Ind., August 6.—(By the A. P.)—The British authorities will use every means in their possession to defeat the revolutionary menace in Bengal, the Earl of Lilton, governor of Bengal declared in an address at Dacca yesterday. The governor said there was an exceptionally difficult and anxious time ahead, adding "we are quite strong enough to deal with the revolutionary menace and we shall be remiss from using fearlessly and unhesitatingly all the weapons necessary for its defeat."

THREE HEAT PROSTRATIONS REPORTED IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 6.—A high humidity accompanying a temperature above the 90's resulted in three prostrations in this city today, the first of the summer. At 4 o'clock the thermometer at the United States arsenal registered 94, two degrees less than the record for the season.

General Plutarco Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico, arrived in New York en route for Europe with member of his family. They will sail Saturday on the steamer Deutschland for a tour of England, France and Germany.

MASS. BRANCH OF A. F. OF L. ENDORSES LA FOLLETTE

Boston, Aug. 6.—The Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor endorsed, with but two delegates in opposition, the candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette for president and Burton K. Wheeler for vice president and voted to appoint a committee to assist their campaign in this state.

Although much opposition to the adoption of this policy had been expected no one spoke against the recommendation of Frank H McCarthy, chairman of the resolutions committee and the question was carried by all but two votes of the 118 delegates to the 39th annual convention.

The resolution declares that the state branch "hereby records its cordial approval and support of the national American Federation of Labor executive council in its endorsement as printed in the daily press . . . And be it further resolved that a campaign committee be elected by this convention to take such steps as may be legal and necessary to secure cooperation of citizens of the state in behalf of the above candidates and the principles for which they stand.

This was the second political action of the convention during the day, it having at the morning session condemned Lieut. Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who is seeking the republican nomination for governor, as being unfriendly to organized labor in the industries in which he is interested.

U. S. REPRESENTING BRITAIN IN EVANS MURDER IN MEXICO

Washington, August 6.—A communication from the British government in connection with the killing of Mrs. Rosalie Evans in Mexico has been received in Washington and forwarded to Mexico City for presentation to the Mexican authorities by American Charge Schoenfeld. The impression prevails that the British communication was of the usual character in such circumstances and contained representations as to the steps the London government deemed it necessary that the Mexican authorities should take to apprehend and punish those responsible for the murder of a British subject.

In view of Premier MacDonald's statement in London yesterday it was regarded as probable that this communication was more than a preliminary to further representations which undoubtedly will be made dealing with the question of redress and the safe guarding of British lives and British owned property in Mexico hereafter.

GWATHMEY MUST PAY $750 A MONTH TO HIS WIFE

New York, August 6.—Archibald B. Gwathmey, wealthy cotton broker, must pay alimony of $750 a month to his wife, Mrs. Isabelle C. Gwathmey, pending the result of her action for a judicial separation, under an order issued today by Supreme Court Justic Thomas W. Churchin. Mrs. Gwathmey's appeal in her divorce suit is also pending.

NEW YORK REPORTS TEN HEAT PROSTRATIONS

New York, Aug. 6.—There were 10 heat prostrations here today, according to police reports. Thousands of New Yorkers sought relief from what the weather bureau gives as the hottest day of the summer in public parks throughout the city, where many of them are sleeping tonight.

Today's highest temperature was 92 degrees at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The thermometer registered 86 degrees late tonight.

TO QUESTION NEARLY 1,000 VOTERS OF PORTLAND, ME.

Portland, Me., Aug. 6.—An innovation in more than a century of election proceedings since Maine became a state—an inquisition to ascertain for whom near 1,000 voters of Ward 4 cast their ballots on June 16, in the republican gubernatorial primary—was established by the governor and council here today.

Upon the result will depend the decision of that body, which has been conducting a state wide recount the past month.

WALTON STILL LEADING IN OKLAHOMA PRIMARY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6.—(By the A. P.)—J. C. Walton, former governor, continued to forge ahead of E. B. Howard, congressman from the first Oklahoma district, for the democratic senatorial nomination as returns were tablated here early tonight.

With 1,918 precincts out of 2,996 in the recorded, Walton's total was 57,816 as compared with Howard's 56,264.

ASSASSINS OF MRS. EVANS HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

Mexico City, Aug. 6 (By the A. P.).—The assassins of Mrs. Rosalie Evans have been captured, according to a report given out this afternoon at the war department. The report came from Gen. Roberto Cruz, military commander in the state of Puebla, where Mrs. Evans was shot and killed near her hacienda last Saturday.

FALLON SAYS TRIAL WAS OUTGROWTH OF PLOT

New York, Aug. 6.—William J. Fallon, on trial before Federal Judge McClintic for alleged jury bribing, today testified that his trial was the outgrowth of a plot by William Randolph Hearst and Victor Watson, assistant publisher of the New York American, a Hearst paper, to ruin him.

The indicted attorney, quoting an alleged confession of Ernest Eidlitz, a former employe, told the jury his destruction had been planned because Eidlitz had revealed to Watson Fallon's possession of birth certificates of the children of a certain motion picture actress.

The defendant quoted the alleged Eidlitz confession as reputed to have been made in the apartment of Billie Bennett, actress, in the presence of Miss Bennett, Fallon, Walter O'Neil and Mrs. Mona Lewis, who lived with Miss Bennett. Fallon is charged with bribing Charles W. Rendigs, a juror in the Durrell-Gregory mail fraud case, where Fallon represented one of the defendants, but he answered this charge today with the assertion that he did not meet Rendigs until after the trial of the mail fraud case. He immediately afterward accused Ernest Eidlitz, former investigator of Fallon, telling Mr. Watson of Fallon's possession of the papers.

SHENANDOAH TO MAKE EXTENDED TOUR OF WEST

Washington, August 6.—The naval air cruiser Shenandoah will be sent on an extended tour of the west beginning about August 25, Secretary Wilbur announced today.

While the itinerary has not been approved it has been decided that the cruiser will be at Des Moines on the occasion of the state fair and that her trip will take her as far as Denver.

Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis also have been practically determined upon as other points in the itinerary.

COLORADO REP. ASSEMBLY FAVORS R. F. ROCKWELL

Denver, Colo., Aug. 6.—Robert F. Rockwell, lieutenant governor, was high man in the designations for governor made by the republican state assembly late today. Rockwell received 684 votes.

Clarence J. Morley, judge of the Denver district court, the reputed Ku Klux Klan candidate, received 512 votes. Earl Gooley, of Trinidad, who attacked the Ku Klux Klan in his announcement for governor, failed of designation, receiving only 57 votes.

HEAT EXHAUSTION CAUSED MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

Bridgeport, Aug. 6.—Heat exhaustion is blamed by the police and Dr. Louis Cohen of the Emergency hospital for an accident that occurred at Koesuth and Pembroke streets when the motorcycle of Angelo Yena, 30, got out of control as Yena fainted and first struck an automobile, then swerved to the right and hit a tree, throwing Yena about 10 feet. He was taken to the hospital. He was only slightly hurt.

Capt. J. E. Whitebeck, commander of the revenue cutter Comanche, denied reports that his vessel which is stationed in Galveston, would proceed to Tampico, ostensibly for the purpose of taking on board a party of American refugees.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Decision to hold the American world fliers at Angmaghalak until weather and ice conditions assure a reasonably safe landing on Greenland coast was announced today by the army air service.

The proposal that a 1,000 mile hop from Iceland to Ivigtut be attempted, if efforts failed to establish a base at Angmaghalik, was rejected after careful consideration as subjecting the remaining two shifts to the possibility of almost certain injury.

"Should temporary weather and ice conditions on the Greenland coast preclude immediate landing of the expedition there," a statement from the department said, "the flight will remain at Iceland until conditions improve. It is not contemplated that an attempt will be made for a non-stop flight from Iceland direct to the coast of Labrador.

A wait of several days at the Iceland capital was admitted by officials ensuing because of the advanced season but hope was expressed for an "open spell," which would be the signal for the next advance toward the goal of aerial navigation of the globe.

The ice pack reported to have formed around the Greenland coast is not considered in itself an impossible barrier to the continuance of the flight, army experts said, because it has been proven entirely feasible for the planes to land beside vessels at sea and re-fuel, while the ice itself is no barrier, however, should a forced landing be necessary, rescue of the fliers would be difficult.

Apparently abandoning the long held hope that the Boston, accidentally wrecked at sea last Sunday, might be salvaged and repaired, the air service today ordered a substitute plane sent to Indian Harbor so that its pilot, Lieut. Leigh Wade, at least might accompany his comrades on the cross-country trip to Seattle after they have made the Atlantic flight. The plane, a Douglas of the same type as those used in the flight, will be flown from Langley field, Virginia, as soon as the date of arrival can be approximated.

The cruiser Milwaukee, waiting at Ivigtut to supervise the final trans-Atlantic route, succeeded today in establishing direct radio communication with Washington. The army advance under Lieut. Schulten which has been striving to reach Angmaghalik to land fuel and spare parts was blocked 15 miles east of that port, the dispatch said, but was "struggling determinedly" to reach its objective.

WILLIMANTIC

Grand Army veterans from this section of the state will embark at Willimantic station to attend the 58th annual G. A. R. encampment at Boston next week. The start for the Hub will be made at 9.45 o'clock Monday morning and every veteran has been assured that when he once reaches the location of the encampment he will receive every accommodation possible and by making himself known can also attend the entertainments to be provided. T. G. Brown Post, No. 70, Chaplin, will be at least one of the posts to be represented by a 100 per cent membership. The reason for this is that there is only one surviving member of that former active post. He is Russell M. Ellsworth. Robert B. Remington of this city and father of Robert G. Remington, will also attend. He is a member of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Post No. 92. Members of the local post, Francis S. Long No. 30, who will attend the encampment are: Commander A. P. Benner, Senior Vice Commander Timothy Gillon, Officer of the Day Adam Duntz and Past Post Commander James Haggerty. Past Commander Haggerty is judge advocate general of the Connecticut state department staff. He will be at the state headquarters in the Arlington hotel.

Mrs. Jane Dimock Holland, 90, the widow of Goodrich Holland, died at her summer home in Hanover, Mass., Tuesday morning. Mrs. Holland had a wide acquaintance in this city. Her husband erected a silk manufacturing plant on Church street in 1850 and it still retains the name of the Holland Manufacturing company. He died ten years later, leaving Mrs. Holland owning a large block of stock in the concern, she taking no active part in the business since 1906. Mrs. Holland had been living in Boston for about twenty years, having a summer home in Hanover. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John L. Gutterson of Hanover. Burial is to be in this city.

The death of Mrs. Catherine Hayes Shannahan, widow of John Shannahan, took place at her home, 46 Lewiston avenue, Tuesday night, after a long illness. Mrs. Shannahan leaves a daughter, Mrs. Mark H. Harrington of Detroit, Michigan; two sons, Timothy E. of this city and Daniel J., of Newark, N. J.; and five grandchildren, Anthony, Henry and Francis Harrington of Detroit and Audrey Victor Shannahan of Newark.

Miss Mildred Eleanor Moriarty who died Tuesday, was popular with her friends in this city. She completed her elementary course at St. Joseph's parochial school, in 1910, and was graduated from Windham High school in the class of 1914. Miss Moriarty then attended Hunter college in New York and during the World war was enlisted in student nurse work at Camp Upton, N. Y. When the armistice had been signed she became connected with the board of education in New York city in semi-welfare work, teaching crippled children in the metropolis who could not attend school. She was born in this city, March 21, 18995, a daughter of Patrick F., and Margaret Grady Moriarty.

Farmers in Ashford, Chaplin, Scotland and Hampton have been hard hit by the drought which has held out since July 4. Water is being hauled on several of the farms, as wells have dried up or are so low that the supply is conserved for household use. Streams in the surrounding country have dwindled down to rivulets and in many cases the Ole Swimmin' Hole is bone dry. Twenty-seven inches below normal was a report of the depth of the water at the pumping station pond given Wednesday. The steam pumps are doing their bit the greater part of the day to force water into the distribution reservoir on Hosmer Mountain. Strict observance is being paid the order of Mayor George W. Hickey and Superintendent of Water Works Henderson S. Moulton that people should refrain from using water to spray lawns. Main street has not had its Sunday morning bath since the order went into effect.

A two-story brick building, just west of the Dubreuil block, known as the Central building, on Union street, has been sold by Salvatore and Carolina Porcaro to Oliver L. Willard of this city. The building contains two stores and two flats and has a frontage of 30 1-2 feet and depth of 82 feet. The leases held by the present occupants of the stores, Mrs. Harry Chasen and Prosper Veglard, are still existing.

For a century or more a source of good drinking water which has been sought by hundreds as the years passed on, the Bridge street spring, on the south shore of the Willimantic river, across from the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company mill, went dry Tuesday afternoon, for the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Early risers who visited the spring Wednesday morning found that the spring had again started functioning but was flowing in small volume, about a quart to the minute.

Motorists were heard to complain Wednesday of annoyance caused them at various times and places when stopping at country stores for gasoline or soft drinks. Practically every rural town has its quota of young braves who make country stores and gasoline stations a gathering place in the evening. For want of something more to do many of them have acquired the habit of addressing the occupants of automobiles who stop and then giggling at their own wise cracks. One party stopped at Sherman's station on the Chaplin road Tuesday evening and was immediately assailed by the banter-ons. Their remarks were not vile, according to the driver, but they made things rather uncomfortable for anyone attempting to keep out of trouble.

Miss Anna Trieger was tendered a shower by Mrs. E. Bailey and Mrs. J. Webster at the home of the former, Tuesday evening in honor of her approaching marriage with David T. Light. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. The gifts were in a pink basket hung from the center of the room. The future bride was also given a pyrex set. Others attending the affair were Mrs. D. Trigger, Mrs. D. Light, Mrs. A. Sonnichsen, Mrs. W. Jacobs, Mrs. G. Sandstrom, Mrs. G. Potter, Mrs. A. Potter, Mrs. J. Potter, Mrs. L. Oehrig, Mrs. D. MacDonald, Mrs. G. Richmond, Mrs. H. Wood, Mrs. J. Wilcox, Mrs. William Light, Mrs. L. Tompkins, Mrs. . Smith, Mrs. Tresseit, Mrs. H. Moseley, Mrs. Wallen, Mrs. E. Bailey, Mrs. J. Webster and Misses Beth and Doris Webster and Marion Bailey.

When Andrew J. LaFleur of Springfield, Mass., clamped on the brakes of his automobile, at noon Wednesday, while going down Dugway hill, the car skidded and rammed a fence, smashing off two of the scantlings and damaging the machine so that it had to be hauled to this city for repairs. LaFleur was attempting to get out of the way of an approaching machine when he set his brakes.

The temperature took another rise Wednesday. A slight shower in the forenoon left the atmosphere sultry and oppressive. Those able to spare the time went to Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, and to Columbia Lake. One man who was standing quietly in the water said that he did not swim around as he was afraid he would sweat.

Civil proceedings have been instituted by John F. McQuillan, manager of the Willimantic ball team, against David Peacock, of this city. The case is returnable before the Windham county superior court in September. Papers in the case were served Wednesday by City Sheriff Thomas J. Killourey. The plaintiff claims damages of $200. The action is the result of an alleged outstanding promissory note for $150.

A car driven by Charles Miller, of Eagleville, and another machine driven by George H. Hollister of Westland street, Hartford, collided at the Jackson-Union street crossing late Tuesday evening. The drivers agreed to settle their own damages.

William J. Sweeney, member of the town school committee, who was stricken with heart trouble July 4th, underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday noon when his left leg was amputated just above the knee. Drs. O'Neill of this city and Daniel Sullivan of New London performed the operation, Mr. Sweeney stood the operation well and, according to reports from his bedside he was doing well in the afternoon and was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Attending the funeral of Mrs. Angeline Holmes in Preston City Wednesday were G. Raymond Young, Mrs. Ora Bill, Mrs. Harry Brown, Mrs Cora Young, Mrs. L. M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Russ, Mrs. H. J. Hall, Mrs. M. Grace Blish of this city, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Latham of New Haven, Mrs. B. L. Dorman, of Cheshire.

About 150 officials of all the mills of the American Thread company from Willimantic, Holyoke and Fall River, Mass., Westerly, R. I., Montreal, Canada, and Milo, Maine, are to meet at the Warwick club, Warwick, R. I., Saturday, Aug. 17, for a real Rhode Island clambake. The affair marks the annual outing of the officials of the company. Over 60 of the Willimantic heads will be present. Several of the New York officials of the headquarters department have signified their intentions of attending the bake.

Personal Jottings.

Miss Irene Vanderman has returned home, after spending a week at Atlantic City.

Cyril Blackmar has returned from a few days' trip to New York.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. White have as their guest, Mrs. F. P. White of Needham, Mass.

Francis Lewis has returned from a short visit in Glastonbury.

Misses Margaret and Grace Lewis are in Glastonbury for the week.

Homer M. Harrington and Leo Climmings, the latter of Springfield, Mass., are in Maine for a week's fishing trip.

Edith Mary Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman, is with friends in Norwich for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Gilman of Coventry attended the Social Corner picnic in New London Wednesday.

COMMITTEE GIVEN POWER TO PURCHASE WATER FOR CITY

Willimantic, Aug. 6.—The water committee of the board of aldermen was given authority, at a special meeting of the board Wednesday night, to purchase water to replenish the city supply which is badly depleted, due to the drouth which has prevailed here for well over a month. It was pointed out by Chairman Buck that the supply was going fast. Although the pumps kept the distribution reservoir on Hosmer mountain filled, the water in the pond at the pumping station in Mansfield is receding at least one and one-half inches a day and within three days will be so low that it will be unfit for drinking purposes. Without being replenished through rain or some other source the stream will be dry as Sahara within a week. At a cost of $300 the water in one of the E. A. Buck storage ponds in Westford was released to flow through tributaries into the pumping station pond and this has assisted materially, but the committe has now forced to lose about for an additional supply.

The water in the Hall estate pond in Chaplin district has been offered the city free of charge with a proviso that all damages, if any incurred, be settled by the municipality. It is expected that this source will be utilized first. If rain still fails to put in an appearance the committee will resort to the second Buck pond in Westford, at the same price as paid for the water from the first. Since the recent issuance of an order by Mayor George W. Hickey and Superintendent of Water Works Henderson S. Moulton that people refrain from wasting water and that none should be used to water lawns or for any other purpose not a necessity, residents have cooperated heartily and as a result the water in the reservoir has raised over 2 1-2 feet. Mayor Hickey expressed himself as very grateful for the part the citizens have taken in preserving the supply. Corporation Counsel T. J. Kelley, Mayor Hickey and Supt. Moulton motored to the ponds mentioned Tuesday evening and conducted a thorough investigation of the water situation. As the city is steadily growing and the water demand is increasing, Counsel Kelley is of the opinion that the city should take immediate steps to purchase a storage pond which could be used in case of an emergency, such as in other drouths or a severe fire. Others present at the meeting were Alderman P. J. Laframee and Eugene M. Lewis and City Clerk James S. Donohue, Jr.

Mrs. W. J. Pettus, of San Francisco, sister of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, who was shot and killed by a band of armed men near San Martin, state of Puebla, Mexico, last Saturday, left San Francisco for Mexico for the declared purpose of taking over her sister's estate.

Honest Pride in their fresh clean clothes
-so easy now to keep them spotless!

SCHOOL dresses, party frocks, even everyday rompers and playthings—you love to have them spick and span looking, clean and dainty when the children are under the friendly but critical eyes of neighbors.

Today you do not have to pay the price you used to pay for cleanliness—today you can have a snowy wash and still keep your energy, your spirit.

A new kind of laundry soap that millions of women are now using saves them the hardest work of wash day, the constant rubbing that was so harmful and tiring.

Now, just soaking in the suds of this new soap loosens all the dirt so that getting it out is easy—it simply floats off.

The grimiest of play clothes and the meanest of cuff-edges need only a light rubbing between your fingers with dry Rinso.

Then a thorough rinse carries away the loosened dirt and all the soap solution, too. No bits of soap left to stick to your garments.

Women have found that the qualities that make Rinso so wonderful in the laundry also make it a splendid household soap.

Dissolves completely!

"The magic-like way it cleans paint" says one; "wonderful for scrubbing floors" says another. "At last something that does not hurt my hands", writes a third. A fourth says, "the most satisfactory thing for washing pots and pans. I use it, too, on walls and woodwork and for general cleaning."

RINSO is not "just a new soap"—it is an entirely new kind of soap—creamy white in color, fine and made especially to do the family wash more quickly and easily than ever.

It dissolves quickly and completely in boiling water, and gently penetrates every thread of the clothes with its rich soapsuds.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

At the meeting of the court of burgesses Tuesday evening an ordinance was adopted making Church street from High to Main street a one-way street and Fisk street from Hicks avenue to Main street a one way street. he new ordinance provides a penalty of not over $25 for its violation. Recently an autoist was arrested for coming down Fisk street to Main street, but as there was no penalty attached to the ordinance he was discharged.

Fisk street extends from Main to High street and Gold street extends from Fisk street to High street. Gold street does not come down as far as Main street as many people erroneously believe.

The borough ordinance adopted Sept. 9, 1876, provides that Fisk street shall be from Main street north and northeast to High street." And Gold street "from Fisk street High street." The sign "Gold St.", which has been on the side of the shoe shine parlor is to be replaced by a sign reading "Fisk St." which is the proper name of the street extending northerly and northeasterly from Main street to Hicks avenue.

The fall term of the local public schools will open Sept. 3rd, the Wednesday after Labor day. The complete schedule as adopted by the town school committee follows:

New German Oil Sold Under Written Guarantee Rubs Out Rheumatism

A remarkable new discovery of German chemistry, called Buhler Oil, for the relief of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, is astonishing the medical world. This marvelous oil seems to kill rheumatic pains just as effectively as these other German pain killers—Novocain for painless dentistry and Aspirin for headache pains.

Rheumatism in very many cases is due to internal abscesses (such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth) which give off poisons, and which are carried in the blood to the joints and muscles. Buhler Oil when applied to the affected parts, seems to quickly penetrate and be absorbed by the body tissue. Even in the most severe and stubborn cases almost instant relief has been obtained.

So remarkable have been the results from the use of Buhler Oil that the American distributors have authorized druggists to dispense it to rheumatic, gout and neuralgia sufferers in this city with a positive written guarantee to return the full purchase price of the first bottle if it does not bring wonderful relief. All sufferers should promptly take advantage of this gufrantee. For sale at

PALACE THEATER

While at work near the base of a huge rock in the ridges bordering the Mojave Desert in California, making sequences for The Code of the Wilderness, a David Smith production which will be shown at the Palace theater today, Friday and Saturday, Alice Calhoun, who has the leading feminine role, had a thrill not in the picture.

Above the rock near which the company worked was one of the balancing type, weighing approximately half a ton. It was discovered and admired during the preparation for the scene, and forgotten during rehearsal. It was brought vividly to mind again when one of the property men climbed near it to arrange the reflectors that furnish light for outdoor scenes. In some manner he overbalanced it, and before anyone could shout a warning, it crashed down, just touching the broad brim of Miss Calhoun's felt hat, knocking it askew. Fortunately the ground sloped sharply from where she was standing. The company lost two cameras which the rock crushed in its path; and from which Director Smith and the two cameramen had leaped to save their lives.

Local movie stars in a delightful comedy drama entitled A New Star in Hollywood a special story arranged for the Norwich movie stars. Actual scenes taken on the stage, in the audience, Franklin Square, and other parts of the city. The local cast includes Miss Viola Martha Allyn, Mrs. A. Agnes Ray, Harry Caswell, Winifred Kelly, and a host of others. Come and see yourself on the screen. Also new Telephone Girl story. Pathe review and Palace orchestra.

BREED THEATER

Satisfied with nothing less than the best, Thomas H. Ince has just completed a new laugh special said to be, even funnier than his famed Hottentot. It is The Galloping Fish, a screen adaptation of Friend Wife, a magazine story by Frank R. Adams, who holds the reputation of America's most expensive writer. Louise Fazenda, who plays a leading role, is declared to be type perfect in her character of a pampered, daring and altogether adorable diving Venus, a stellar aquatic attraction of vaudeville circles. With a trained seal and an all-star cast to assist her, Miss Fazenda has put over the funniest characterization of her career.

For the second feature the Breed will offer the unusual attraction of The Mark of the Beast, written and produced by Thomas Dixon, author of The Birth of a Nation and many other popular novels and stage plays.

The Mark of the Beast is a story of the sub-conscious mind. Following along the line of advance thought, Mr. Dixon has appealed to the intellect by stating that the power of good and evil rests in the sub-conscious mind, which is only held in check by the power of the will. In the story Mr. Dixon has taken three characters, a doctor, his fiancee and a convict. The girl, who has been subject to sleep-walking, suddenly meets the convict and is propelled by an irresistible force within to marry him. How the doctor follows them and is able to save the girl from her impulsive marriage, forms one of the most logical and tensely dramatic stories that has been presented to the motion picture public for some time.

This mammoth double bill will be shown for the last times today.

Broadway Theatre

Starting Sunday and continuing for four days the Broadway theatre will present The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

Only recently the Norwich public paid as high as $1.75 to see this masterpiece. Those who have not seen it will have a chance to see it at live and let live prices, for the Broadway theatre management will present this great photoplay at the regular prices being, matinee 25c; evening 35c and 55c.

It is easy to understand the appeal that Universal's production, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," has to women because it has probably the most thrilling of all romances interwoven throughout its stirring action. In each city where it has been presented the matinee business has been a revelation and a careful check up among patrons of the fair sex proved that it was because all were familiar with the love theme of the great Victor Hugo classic. The local engagement of the production starts at the Broadway theatre Sunday. The engagement is limited to four days.

Broadway Theatre

Yes! Another all star program for Norwich patrons. The management of the Broadway theatre is to be complimented on giving its patrons such big shows at so small a price of admission. The program as arranged for the last half of this week will fulfill all expectations.

Topping the five acts of Keith vaudeville is Gus King's Melody Land. This company is composed of five soloists who present a dainty musical offering of classical and jazz, much to delight all Norwich.

That well known funster, George Mack, offers songs and stories that made him famous.

Joe Wells and Joe Boggs have a real funny skit in Uncle Ellis and the Law.

On the screen will be seen the triumphant return of that famous Japanese actor Sessue Hayakawa in The Danger Line.

You have to see this picture to appreciate its strong drama, its unusual plot construction, its beautiful romance! You're going to love every second of it!

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Of special interest is the following communication, addressed by Captain Frederic O. Armington of the Service battery to the Danielson chamber of commerce, dealing, as it does, with a matter of current discussion of an important issue:

In his first annual address to congress, President Washington said: "Among the many interesting objects that will engage your attention, that of providing for the common defense will merit particular regard. To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Many people today gravely doubt the truth of this statement, but the fact remains that, until the rest of the world relinquishes a large part of its militaristic ideas, this country must provide adequate means of defense in case of international difficulty. Our policy has never been to maintain a large standing army. Consequently, an organized and trained militia is a necessity. A pamphlet, "The Work of the War Department," issued by the United States government, contains the following statements concerning the importance of the National Guard:

"With the lessons of the World war still fresh in mind, attention was directed again to the establishment of an adequate military policy. The act of 1916 was amended June 4, 1920, incorporating the lessons of the war experience and providing for effective cooperation between the states and federal government. It is now possible to develop in time of peace a citizen army that is adequate for protection in times of war, yet wholly democratic. Such an army of the people and controlled by them is the best security against aggression from without and against autocratic, militaristic usurpation from within.

"The National Guard of today evolved from the militia of earlier days. The defects which warranted criticism of its predecessor have been so thoroughly remedied that it occupies in the present scheme for national defense a position of importance next to that of the regular army. The National Guard exists for the local use of the states in time of peace, but in a national emergency it joins with the regular army and together they constitute the first line of defense."

With the National Guard assuming such an important part in the protection of our land, it behooves every citizen to give it his active support, whenever possible by enlisting for service, or, indirectly, by encouraging others who wish to do so. Within the past few months there has been a stronge movement under way, sponsored by civic and business organizations, to do everything possible to support the national guard. In our own state there has been considerable unfavorable publicity relative to employers not permitting men to attend the annual encampment. It has been found, however, that in almost all cases of this nature the employers will do everything within reason to make it possible for the men to leave so long as it does not actuall effect an injury to their business.

One method of encouragement which has been inaugurated by many corporations and individuals in Connecticut is to reimburse the employee for the difference between his camp pay and regular salary. This step, excellent as it may be, is not urged upon the employees of this vicinity at the present time, owing to the general unsettled condition of the industries which support the Town of Killingly.

The request made of local manufacturing and business concerns is that the men who are devoting their time to National Guard work be permitted to go to camp without fear of losing their positions on their return. A few apparently do not realize the importance of this training, but when they know the part which militia units play in the scheme of the war department for national safety, they will certainly be willing to make a small sacrifice to do their share.

Leaving out of consideration the welfare of the state and country, there is another aspect of the matter which calls for the support of the guard by Danielson business men. The national guard is not a liability to the community but a valuable asset, while it removes a compartively small amount of productive labor for a short period each year, it brings in, with no expenditure except of time, approximately $10,000 each year in pay checks, and practically the entire amount and practically put into circulation in this borough.

The 192nd Field Artillery is one of the leading artillery outfits in the United States, and, according to statistics, the Service Battery of Danielson is about the livest unit of this regiment. The cooperation of the chamber of commerce and individual business men is earnestly desired to help keep this organization at a high standard.

FREDERIC O. ARMINGTON,
Captain, F. A., C. N. G.,
Commanding Service Battery.

In a communication to Chairman E. L. Darbie, of the republican town committee, Congressman Richard P. Freeman of this district makes known that John J. O'Neill, of Dayville, Frank L. Bennett of Ballouville and George W. Kent of Elmville, in the order named stand, following civil service examinations for the place, best qualified for appointment as postmaster at the Killingly (Dayville) postoffice. This report follows the second examination held to fill the office. Mr. Kent, who stood the highest of all the candidates on the first examination, allowed his mark to stand. Congressman Freeman's communication would indicate that Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Bennett have achieved still higher passing marks.

The announcement is taken as forecasting an early change in the postmastership at Dayville. Postmaster Patrick Riley's second term expired in February of this year. He has served as a democratic appointee. A practice sometimes adopted—that of making a temporary or recess appointment—may soon bring Mr. O'Neil into the postmastership, this on the assumption that his mark was the highest achieved in the examinations, this temporary appointment to be followed by a regular one at the next session of congress, opening in December. Mr. O'Neil is engaged in business in Dayville.

Delinquent taxpayers who have neglected to pay assessments owed to the town of Killingly notwithstanding that repeated demands have been made upon them by collectors were appearing in numbers Wednesday to make settlement and thereby avoid having liens placed on their property, as they were notified by Town Counsel E. L. Darbie would be done today (Thursday) in case they failed to pay by that date. These payments brought a considerable sum in overdue taxes into the hands of representatives of the town.

The body of Leo Turcotte, who died of injuries received when he was struck at Taftville, by an automobile, was brought to his home in Plainfield Wednesday in charge of Undertaker E. E. Kennedy.

Mrs. Orville Baker, 26, died Tuesday at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. She was a native of New Rochelle, N. Y. The body was removed to her home in Wauregan. Mrs. Baker leaves her husband, who was formerly employed as an automobile mechanic in Danielson, and a son five years of age.

Approximately 120 pople have disappeared from Danielson this week—gone no one knows where. At least this may be assumed on the basis that the sweltering heat has caused an average loss of about 2 pounds in weight for each 3,000 persons of an average weight of 150 pounds. Now isn't that a terrible thing to think of, when the mercury stands at 96? But they will all come back from nowhere when cooler weather returns and people get to eating and sleeping normally again.

A large order received by the Quinebaug company for yarn, in addition to what it manufactures for its own use, will keep the carding and spinning departments going at capacity for ten or twelve weeks. Sales of cloth up to the present week do not forecast any increase in production as yet in the weaving department.

Clean up the number plates on your automobiles! Chief John McFarland said Wednesday that special attention is to be given to the inspection of plates. Many cars are running about with the registration markers obscured by mud and dust and other accumulations of obscuring matter. Motor vehicle regulations says these numbers must be kept clean.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Warren are to motor to the Rangeleys later in the month for a vacation station in that section of Maine.

Dr. George M. Burroughs will spend Sunday with his mother, resident at Chautauqua.

Ethel R. Gallup, 72 Broad St., has a cottage for sale or to rent at once.—adv.

Rev. Raymond Veigard, M. S., was greeted by many friends Wednesday after an absence of six years in Europe. He has studied in Italy, France, Switzerland and Belgium.

Tuesday of next week Henry W. Babson, Benjamin E. Rapp, Vine R. Franklin, Francis Jaegar, George Whitman, and R. R. James, veterans of the Civil war, will be in Boston for the National encampment of the G. A. R., an event that will bring together revered soldiers from about every state in the Union.

Martin Wolfe, night officer for the Goodyear Mills company, is at Savin Rock and Ansonia for the convention of policemen representing all parts of the state of Connecticut, Officer Wolfe being an official of their organization.

L. M. Chapman and family of Danbury have been visiting Mr. Chapman's mother, Mrs. F. E. Chapman of Winter street. Mr. Chapman is agent of the Fairfield county farm bureau. He is a graduate of Killingly High school and of Connecticut Agricultural college, where he was an instructor in the dairy department for a period of five year. Mr. Chapman was on the list of speakers during Farmers' week at Storrs the past week.

Numbers of lovers of horse racing from Danielson and vicinity were at Norwich Wednesday to attend the racing at the fairgrounds.

PUTNAM

The first public band concert of the summer on Union square Wednesday night attracted many people to Putnam. All the streets near the square were solid with parked automobiles, the weather being such as to attract many from neighboring towns.

The Putnam band furnished music. At 8:45 a concert of several numbers was given. The large audience grouped about the square was generous with its applause.

The cement square was covered with a layer of meal and after the last number of the concert program hundreds of couples enjoyed the dancing.

These concerts are furnished by the merchants' committee of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce and will be continued Wednesday nights throughout the month. The Grosvenordale band and the Putnam band will give the series of concerts.

S. F. Fannon, considered an authority on commercial methods and progress, was the guest of the Putnam Rotary club at its luncheon at the Putnam inn Wednesday. Mr. Fannon gave an interesting business talk stressing the relation between employer and employe. He was given a rising vote of thanks by the Rotarians.

The weekly payroll in Putnam is increasing. Last week, it is stated, that the payrolls of the manufacturing plants and other business institutions was the largest since the general depression began, several months ago. With the large number of mills shut down and on short time, the increase in the payrolls cannot be large, but the fact that it is increasing at all is a hopeful sign for better business.

The Putnam headquarters company of the 43d division will hold its first field day Sunday, Aug. 24th, and the affair is public. The place selected is on land of Henry Keech, near the swimming hole known as Tourtellotte's.

While the committee of arrangements has not perfected all plans for the day's outing, there will be pitching of tents, army games and contests, athletic sports including running, jumping and boxing exhibitions. Besides attending the company field day people will have a chance to see the swimming hole, which is under the supervision of Putnam lodge of Elks, and to use it if they desire.

Every member of the common council except Alderman Larose was in his seat at the August meeting Tuesday night, and from the mayor down every one in the council chamber, including those outside the rail, except a cub reporter and Putnam's captain of police, was, by common consent, in his shirt sleeves, and uncomfortably warm at that. The only air that invaded the chamber was from the Putnam band, which was holding a rehearsal in the city court room in the basement of the municipal building. When the band played A Hot Time in the Old Town it took a chance on losing its license to rehearse, or having the city sheriff serve an injunction.

Only routine business was transacted by the city fathers. Several permits for small buildings were granted. The report of the captain of police for the month of July showed but 17 arrests, with but three prisoners taken to jail. Only six tramps were lodged during the month. Fines and costs collected totalled $139.66.

Joseph Henderson Hall appeared on behalf of Mrs. Mary Johnson, who lives on Maple street. Mrs. Jones has a cesspool that is about to run over and the city sewer comes within 100 feet of her premises. She claims that she could not get anyone to clean the cesspool.

Alderman Richards told the council that the cesspool had not been cleaned in eight years. He stated that he saw the health officer made an investigation and even went so far as getting a man who would do the work.

Mr. Hall said that the woman pays taxes, in fact, had had them raised in the past year, and thought that in view of this the city ought to pay her some attention. "What I want to ascertain," said Mr. Hall, and several times reiterated, "is what you are going to do."

Mr. Hall was told that the appropriations for sewer extensions has been used up and that nothing could be done at present.

"Does that mean nothing will be done in a year or in ten years?" asked Mr. Hall.

Mr. Hall was told that there could be nothing done until there was a further appropriation and, telling the council and mayor that he understood matters and had ascertained what he wanted to ascertain, he bowed himself out.

The matter of painting the police station and varnishing desks, etc., went over to the next meeting. Two bids were read for doing the work, one from S. E. Watson, $67, and the other from Gagne Bros., $69.

Eugene Dumas appeared and urged that electric lights be placed on Mill street, saying there are forty tenements on the street and not a light. The matter was tabled until the next meeting, as the city is willing to take over the street if put in proper condition for acceptance.

A representative of the American Gas Accumulating company of Elizabeth, N. J., urged the council to place two trafficlights in the ciyt, one at the corner of Front and South Main streets and the other at the corner of School and Providence streets. The lights are the same as the one now at the junction of Main, Front and Pomfret streets.

The representative offered to install the two light upon approval, and not to be paid fro until after the annual meeting in March, when, if the necessary appropriation was not voted, the city would not be bound to take them. The cost of the lights is $265 each. This was referred to the highway committee to investigate and report.

Alderman Rogers started the most lengthy argument of the session when he stated to the council that he had been approached by S. E. Heath, as abutter on Walnut street, with the grievance that he had not been used as well as some of the other abutters on the street during the recent improvement of the street.

Alderman Richards took exception to Mr. Heath's complaint and said that the city had done all it agreed to do under a deed of a strip of his land from Mr. Heath to the city. While admitting that a retaining wall had not been built at the Heath property as had walls in front of other abutters who had given land, Alderman Richards stated that the city had excavated a ledge for Mr. Heath at a cost of as much, if not more, than building a wall. After some further discussion of the matter, it was left for the highway committee to investigate the complaint.

The street light committee reported that in their opinion a light was not necessary at the junction of Woodstock avenue and the Senexit road.

After approving the current monthly bills, the council adjourned, while the band in the basement played on.

Funeral services for Ezra Pike, 17, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Pike, East Woodstock, were held at the East Woodstock Congregational church Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Henry D. Baker officiating.

The death of the boy was entirely unexpected. Saturday afternoon, July 26th, he was taken suddenly ill and the ambulance from Putnam hospital was summoned and the young man was taken to the Day Kimball hospital, where an operation was per-

NOTICE TO GAS CUSTOMERS

Danielson is now being supplied with high pressure gas from Putnam and the increased pressure may make it necessary to re-adjust your gas range and water heater.

Your stove needs adjusting if from apparently too much pressure, the gas is difficult to light or burns with a yellow flame.

To adjust your stove or water heater, loosen screw in air shutter just behind burner handle, closing the opening, thus shutting off the air supply until gas ceases to blow and burns with a blue cone shaped flame, without yellow tip. Then tighten screw in shutter.

WILL WE WAKE UP?

Approximately twenty years ago the city embarked upon the enterprise of conducting its own gas and electric plant. Today two offers, one to sell the city electric power and the other to buy the plant, invite the citizens to consider whether our experiment is one to encourage us to continue in it. Wherein have we benefitted in lower rates or in better service than our less favored neighbors who were unfortunate enough not to own their own electric power plants? A committee of which the mayor is head has been discussing the propositions and has had the assistance of the members of the gas and electric commission. Is it too much to expect that they will treat the city's business as each would his own private business? The proposition to sell the city electric power represents that this would be an annual net saving of approximately $29,657.94, the difference between what it costs the city to manufacture electricity and what it could buy the same amount of power for. Would any of the commissioners, would the mayor or any member of the common council or of the citizens' advisory committee insist upon conducting a department of his own business which would cost him at least $296,579 more for the next ten years under his own management than if he ceased to operate it and procured its product from some other source? Would any of them let their pride of possession lead them to shut their eyes to an economy running into thousands of dollars annually?

So far as known, the gas and electric commissioners have yet offered no opinion as to the advisability of accepting or rejecting either offer made. After having them under consideration for several weeks the net result of their deliberations was to discover that they were not empowered to sell the plant or to buy electricity elsewhere and the commissioners passed the proposals along to the common council without advice one way or another. But from who else, if not from the commissioners, would the public expect to receive advice on the propositions that have been made?

Twenty years ago we had held before us the rosy tinted dream of municipal ownership and operation of our gas and electric plant. Do we want to dream on or are we willing to be waked up?

ONE YEAR OF COOLIDGE.

A few days ago President Coolidge completed his first year in the White House to which he came amid the country's sorrow over the death of a beloved predecessor. For one safe and sane year, President Coolidge has made his fellow citizens pretty constantly glad that he has held the position. Denial of such a simple fact exposes the objector to suspicion of partisanship or prejudice. President Coolidge has not been a worker of miracles, but he has "measured up" every day and he has given an example of strength and firmness, uncompromising honor and strong common sense that is rarely to be seen in the administration of a public office. He has revealed a broadening and a deepening capacity in relation to the great duties and responsibilities that the office brings. Endowed by character, by inheritance and through experience and training with powers of clear thought as well as unusual capacity for hard and diligent work, he has first thought out every question that confronted him and then has promptly settled it. The people have noted in him a man who makes up his own mind and says and does what he thinks is right.

Such a man deserves to be called, in plain English, the right man in the right place. Calvin Coolidge could have had no higher ambition than to justify the words of the philosopher, "The officer and the office, the doer and the thing done, fit so exactly that we can say that they were made for each other." It was his Yankee nature and ambition to fill that bill as far as faithful effort could make that possible.

OUTGROWING THE CANAL.

On August 15th the Americans in the Panama canal zone will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the opening of the giant waterway, now an enormous factor in world commerce and destined soon to be overtaxed by prodigious increases in shipping movements between the Atlantic and the Pacific. By the estimate of Capt. Arthur W. Hinds, marine superintendent of the canal, more than 25,000 ships will have passed through its waters by the time of the anniversary date, representing 25 per cent of all the marine traffic of the world, and when the chaos in Europe is settled the transits through the canal will have so stupendously increased that steps must be taken to increase its facilities if not by building another canal along the Nicaraguan route. From 1915, when 1,676 ships went through the canal, there was a constant increase till the total was 3,907 in 1923, and so heavy has been the increase in tolls, from $4,367,550 in 1915 to $17,508,199 in 1923, that Col. Morrow, the Canal Zone governor, predicts that further increases in tolls will pay for the necessary enlargements of the waterway by the time they are needed without costing the American taxpayers an additional dollar. His estimate is that for the next five years the receipts will be from 24 to 25 millions yearly, about two-third of which will be net profit.

Proponents of the new canal across the Nicaragua route base their support for it chiefly upon the vulnerability of the Panama canal to attack in war time, both from the air and from naval forces, as they claim that there are no really adequate defensive vestibules, in the shape of outlying islands and headlands, at either end of the "big ditch." In this respect the Nicaraguan site is better because it could be adequately defended by fortifications on the Corn islands in the Carribean and on the bay of Fonseca on the west coast. The commercial advantage of having two routes from ocean to ocean and developing trade with the Central American states is another argument for the second canal and it is prophesied that there would be business enough to make both profitable enterprises.

WAR AND PEACE.

There should be nothing but commendation for any movement the object of which is to mold public opinion to stop war, and the more widespread the movement the better. The question of methods is one about which there may be a difference of opinion. Some of the methods that have been suggested seem to us unwise. But that is another story.

We were all pacifists a few years ago when we thought and spoke of the World war as a war to end war. But now there appear to be a few men who think that peace and not war is the danger against which nations must protect themselves. But the people generally have other ideas. It has been proved that war brings debt, high taxes, demoralization and an unsettlement that lasts for generations. Of the killed and maimed, or of the sorrow, misery and suffering, it is hardly necessary to speak for these are so obvious that no one can miss them. The horrors of the "next war" would be far more dreadful than those that marked the last one—may it be the last.

We say nothing of means, methods or machinery—these are fair subjects or discussion, but of the duty of all nations to do what they can to prevent war, and with honor, there can be no doubt. If war is not stopped it may stop civilization, which is worth thinking about.

This does not apply to peace at any price. When slavish oppression or unbearable injustice is imposed on a people, there must remain freedom of action in fighting the wrong. True pacifism should direct its effort towards the education of the oppressor and the tyrant so that they may no longer crush the innocent.

DESERTING "WHITE COLLAR" JOBS.

The lure held out in New York by high wages in the building trades is said to be threatening a shortage of men for the so-called white-collar positions. The pay envelope on a "job" as carpenter, bricklayer, mason, plumber or the other manual trades, is more than double the salary in a clerical "position" and the trend of the latter class is to take courses in trade schools that shall qualify them for the fatter envelope. As an example of the greater rewards for the manual laborer, the regular wage schedule of bricklayers in New York city is $1.50 an hour for a forty-four hour week, with $3 an hour for overtime and work on holidays or Sundays. On this scale, the least that a bricklayer working steadily receives is $66 a week, but a large proportion of them are paid above the union scale up to $1.87 an hour and there is often enough overtime work to make their week run up to $80 or $90 or more in wages. This wage scale is also in force in many other cities, including Baltimore, Richmond, Va., and St. Louis. Plasterers in New York are paid from $1.25 to $1.50 per hour, with generous allowances for overtime work, and similar high wages prevail for the other building trades.

According to the New York Sundal Tribune along this line, reports from trade schools indicate that many young men, clerks most of them, have deserted after measuring in dollars and cents the pay envelope of the "white collar" job and that of the "overall" job. A similar trend is reported in Chicago and other large cities, but it should be a cause for rejoicing rather than of alarm.

The greatly increased wages in the building trades are said to be due in large part to a scarcity of skilled workmen. To this cause and the high cost of building materials much of the present high cost of living can be traced. The cost of products from factories gets a boost because factories cost more to build. An increase in rents and the cost of homes arises from the increased cost of labor and materials in building those homes. When the supply of skilled labor equals or exceeds the demands the inflated wages ought to begin to drop, except, of course, there is always reluctance on the part of the worker to have wages go any lower, once they have been raised. At any rate it is a hopeful sign to see young men turning from clerical positions to manual trades where they are more needed. To a large extent their "white collar" places can be filled by young women.

ENTIRELY WAISTED

"What's wrong here?" bluntly demanded the best man when he discovered the bridesmaid with the biggest eyes and cutest way all by herself behind some draperies in an obscure co—— "What have you got against the crowd?"

"Oh," quavered the cute bridesmaid, shaking her head daintily and fingering her lace handkerchief, "I'm such a silly little thing! Herbert and Genevieve are so-o-o absolutely happy standing there with everybody saying nice things to them that I just couldn't stand it! I slipped away to cry a little bit—"

"Are you saying that you are jealous?" exploded the surprised best man. "Girls never cry any more unless they are mad or jealous and you certainly aren't mad and I can't believe you are jealous!"

"What horrid things you say!" the cutest bridesmaid told him reproachfully. "It is just that I am so sympathetic and emotional! It is so beautiful to see the way Herbert looks at Genevieve and the way Genevieve looks at Herbert! You can see that they simply adore each other."

"Well, that does happen sometimes," admitted the best man genitlly. "Just try to imagine how they will be looking at each other five of six years from now and you'll cheer up. Herb will be raising cain over the month's bills and Jen will be telling him to take his clothes to the tailor's if he expects to get them mended. Just pump your mind ahead to that cheerful time and come on and dance this jazz!"

"Oh, I couldn't!" sighed the cutest bridesmaid, making her eyes look very large and wistful. "I don't at all believe that you are as cruel and cynical and—and heartless as you make out, Mr. Switch! I know that you are exactly as touched as I am when—"

"Well, I'll be darned!" cried the best man in extreme surprise. "You don't mean to tell me that I look like that sort of goof? With a lily in my hand and everything? Say, I roomed with Herb for two years and if you'll point out to me a bonafide individual who could be induced to choke all up and tremble with emotion over his roommate you win the silver-plated custard pie!

"Of course, he looks happy and I never yet saw a bride who did not wear that trusting look of Genevieve's. It comes with the tulle veil and she took it out of the box at the same time. I can't for the life of me see why contemplating them should drive anybody to seclusion and weeps. You know you'll have to waste half an hour doing your face all over again—"

"Oh, do I look awful?" cried the cutest bridesmaid in great alarm, dashing for her vanity case. "I just forgot all about myself, Mr. Switch! When Genevieve and I were mere children — at least I was, for Jen is four years older than I am, you know—we used to wonder which one of us would marry first. It seems too odd to think that Jen—not that she isn't perfectly dear and terribly attractive—still—"

"Oh, of course!" said the best man understandingly. "Every girl always feels that way at another girl's wedding. It may be that you really were a little mad because she had beaten you to it."

Oh, I knew you are just joking!" the cutest bridesmaid insisted, giving her face a final dab and looking up through her lashes. "I knew you were awfully witty when we first met the other night. But it all came over me that Jen and I would now go separate ways and I was wondering if I ever—you see my ideal man is so splendid and exceptional that sometimes I feal I'll never meet him—or if I did meet him that he wouldn't care a bit about a foolish little thing like me! Do—do you think he—he would, Mr. Switch? Don't you think these cases of instant attraction are the real, true love affairs? It is just the last few days that I have been positive that this must be so! I can't imagine why I'm telling you all this—"

"Oh, people tell me everything and I don't mind!" the best man assured her genially. "Excuse me, I think Herb wants me for something!"

The cutest bridesmaid shut her vanity case with a click, her teeth with a snap and nearly cracked her spine tossing her head. She uttered one word as she stalked forth from her seclusion.

"Prune!" she said.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Losing Our Jobs.

Mr. Editor: Mr. Cheaper Rents and Electricity should take into consideration that there is a lot of us taxpayers and rent payers that are getting a good fat living out of our municipal plant and would not like to lose our jobs.

Just think of the able bodied men peddling gas bills around town. Some job, I'll say, and we don't want to lose it. Perhaps the postal authorities are not able to handle the traffic.

Now, Mr. Cheaper Rents, don't bear down too hard. If our plant should get into private hands about three-quarters of us would lose our jobs and have to go to work and not stand around and watch George do it.

ANOTHER TAX PAYER.
Norwich, Aug. 6, 1924.

Lights in Baltic.

Mr. Editor: Those who walk in darkness through the unlighted streets of Baltic, realize that electric meters have been installed in the different residences and business places, and as is the custom in other towns and cities where meters are used, Baltic people are practicing economy inso far as saving on their electric light bills is concerned. Gone are the days when the Baltic Mills company furnished the electricity at a flat rate—which was considered very, very cheap for the volume of service it rendered. During that long term of years the power was put on (during the winter months) at 5 o'clock each morning and shut off at daylight, and started again at dusk and continued until midnight.

On dark days the juice was kept on all day and in the homes electric flatirons and other electrical appliances could be put to use without an additional charge.

But now a noticeable change has taken place. As the hour of darkness approaches one has only to walk through the different sections of Baltic to note the difference. Only a few lights are visible in 97 per cent. of the homes, where these same residences were previously brilliantly lighted. Upon retiring the people extinguish the lights and certain sections of the village are thrown into darkness.

Baltic consumers of electricity have long since come to the conclusion that when the meters begin to exercise, it means a steady vaulting in their light bills, and the majority of users are more cautious than they were in the old days of the flat rate system. The officials of the Baltic Mills company have kept the lights burning at different points opposite their tenements on Main street, High street, Depot Hill and on the Little Flats, but other sections of Baltic remains dark. A story is being broadcast to the effect that Baltic will have street lights in the near future.

At a special town meeting the voters authorized the selectmen of Sprague to spend a sum not to exceed $500 each year for the purpose of maintaining street lights, and it is expected that the Eastern Connecticut Power company, whose lines furnish the illuminating fluid in Baltic will soon have men erecting the light poles upon which will be placed the new 60 watt arc lights, and then Baltic, for years known as the "Bright Light" village, will once again come into its own. The Eastern Connecticut Power company is giving its customers a 24-hour service, but the street lights will be kept on from dusk until dawn. Thus ends the true facts concerning the darkened conditions which exist in Baltic at night.

By DAVID CORY

Fighting the Witch

Well, the flames crept higher and higher, until the hut of the wicked witch looked like a big bonfire, and if she had waited as long as you have to hear what happened after reading the story before this, I guess she would have burned to a cinder.

But, all of a sudden, she opened the door and rushed out. My, wasn't she a dreadful sight. Well, I should say she was. For witches are more afraid of fire than anyone else. She was so frightened that her long hair stood right up on end, and her high peaked hat fell off and bent itself double, just like her ugly chin. All of a sudden, the little hut fell in with a crash, leaving nothing but a heap of red hot ashes.

"Oh, please don't burn up my chickens," begged the ugly witch.

"If you don't give me my blue glass egg, I'll burn you up," shouted the bunny boy, and when he started to touch her with his flaming gold feather she was so frightened she almost dropped to the ground.

"I haven't got your glass egg," she shouted, throwing open the door of the shed. "That's what came out of it," and she would have flown off with the peacock if Little Jack Rabbit hadn't been too quick for her. Before she could mount her broomstick, he touched it with his flaming feather and it burned up like a piece of tinder, being a very old broomstick and dry as a bone, you know.

"Now will you give me the peacock?" asked the brave bunny boy, and before she could strike him, he touched her red skirt with his gold feather, and away she went, up in the air, like a Fourth of July rocket, to break into a thousand green stars which fell all over the earth and afterwards grew into beautiful green pine trees.

"Come with me!" said the little bunny to the beautiful peacock who was really a prince under a spell, you know. And away they went together. And the little black hen who had hatched the wonderful blue glass egg was so proud that she crowed like a rooster from that day.

Well, after Little Jack Rabbit and the peacock had gone for many a mile, they came to a stately house. "I once lived here," said the peacock, "but don't tell anyone." And Little Jack Rabbit promised although he thought it very strange. But if he had known that the peacock was a prince under a spell, he wouldn't have thought it strange at all. And perhaps you think it queer the peacock didn't tell the little bunny, but it's a rule that you mustn't tell secrets. If you do, nothing comes true. And in the next story you shall hear what happens next.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

John K. Shields, who is seeking renomination for United States senator in today's primaries in Tennessee, is completing his second term in the upper house. At the time of his first election to the senate, in 1912, he had a wide reputation as a jurist, having served for some years as chief justice of the Tennessee supreme court. Senator Shields is a native of Tennessee and is now in his sixty-seventh year. After completing a common school education he took up the study of law and in 1879 was admitted to the bar. For many years he held a law partnership with his father, who was one of the leaders of the Tennessee bar. In 1902 John K. Shields was elected to the supreme court of his state and a few years later attracted wide attention by his successful fight for a free judiciary in Tennessee. In 1912 he was elected to the United States senate to succeed the late Robert Love Taylor.

Underwood, The Small-City Lawyer

Oscar W. Underwood was born in Louisville, Ky., and was three years old when his parents moved to the then frontier town of St. Paul.

Indians and cowboys roamed the main street and the boy grew up and learned to shoot, to tame horses and live the pioneer's life until, at 15, he returned to Louisville with the family. His father was an attorney, and Oscar prepared to enter the profession so that he could go back to St. Paul and be a leading citizen.

Attending Rugby School, in Louisville and then the University of Virginia, he became interested in athletics and debating clubs and gained popularity.

Immediately after he was graduated from the University of Virginia, he started for St. Paul and, at 22, was admitted to the bar and opened an office. Clients were not numerous in that scrambling Northwestern village and few came to him. His brother in the steel business in Birmingham, promised him legal business if he would make his home there.

Birmingham with only 5,000 population, was the southern steel city. Underwood went there and soon had a good practice. At 24 he ran for congress against the incumbent who was an "old timer." Alabama believes in returning men to office, but Underwood was nominated and elected.

As there were only 13 other democrats in the house at Washington, he had little chance, and made but one speech. His opponents back in Birmingham protested the election claiming that all the negro votes had not been counted, and three days before his term expired, Underwood was unseated. Returning home, he started to campaign, was elected and served eight terms in congress.

Slowly he made his way upward and when the democrats, in 1910, had a majority in the house, he was their leader, and also chairman of the Ways and Means committee. He was mentioned as a presidential possibility. Then came the split with Bryan, and the nomination of Wilson.

Chosen United States senator in 1915 he served six years, was elected democratic leader in the senate in 1920 and commissioned plenipotentiary for the United States at the International Conference for the Limitation of Armaments in 1921.

And he was a candidate for the democratic nomination for president of the United States.

Stories That Recall Others

That Depends

A certain Englishman on a visit to America was asked what he thought of the country.

"Oh, on the whole, rather tiresome," he said.

"Can't say I've been particularly impressed."

"Well," said his host, "you astonish me. We thought there were a few interesting sights over here. Have you seen Niagara falls?"

"Oh, yes. Spent half a day there."

"Well, isn't niagara worth looking at?"

"From the Canadian side—yes."

What Nuxated Iron Is Made From

Sworn Statement of Composition of Its Formula

It increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

The proprietors have authorized the broadest publication of the sworn statement of the composition of Nuxated Iron, one of the most widely used tonic, strength and blood builders in the world, so that the public may examine it for themselves and judge as to its merits.

It is conservatively estimated that this remarkable formula is now being used by millions of people in America alone. Among those who have used and strongly endorsed it are many physicians formerly connected with well-known hospitals, former United States Senators, members of Congress, and former Health Officials.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and file it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to anyone who desire such. It is as follows:

Sodium Glycerophosphates U.S.P. (Monsanto.)
Calcium Glycerophosphates U.S.P. (Monsanto.)
P. E. Nux Vomica. U.S.P.
Cascarin Bitter
Magnesium Carbonate
Fe. Ginger U.S.P.
Oil Cassia Cinnamon U.S.P.
Calcium Carbonate Precip. U.S.P.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special scientific standard which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By using other makes of Iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metalic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have most certainly impaired their therapeutic efficacy. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as Glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorous in a state very similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of man.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, is very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labeled "Nuxated Iron," by the Dae Health Laboratories, New York, N. Y., and that every tablet is stamped with the initials N I, as only the genuine article is thus labeled and stamped. If you have taken other forms of iron without success, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you. We guarantee satisfaction to every purchaser or your money will be refunded.

Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to doctors everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for use in cases of acute illness, but only as a tonic, strength and blood builder. If in case of illness always consult your family physician and be guided by his advice. If in doubt as to whether or not you need a tonic, ask your doctor, as we do not wish to sell you Nuxated Iron if you do not require it. If you should use it and it does not help you, notify us and we will refund your money. As is said by all druggists.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Charles G. Pierce.

The life of Eliza Davidson Peale, beloved wife of Charles G. Pierce, came to a peaceful end at her home on the Scotland road at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, following a serious illness of some two months. Mrs. Pierce, however, had not been in good health for four years.

She was born in Norwich June 4, 1873, the daughter of the late Charles S. and Deborah Jewett Welch Peale. Mrs. Pierce received her early education in the grammar schools of Norwich, later taking a course in the Norwich Business school and spending one year in California, where she completed a musical course at the University of California. She was united in marriage in Norwich with Charles G. Pierce June 1, 1898.

Mrs. Pierce was a member of the First Baptist church on the West Side, where she was a singer in the choir for 15 years. She was a woman admired by all with whom she came in contact and one who was at all times willing to give a helping hand. She devoted most of her time to her home, her choir and her music. There are many in Norwich and vicinity who will be grieved to learn of her death.

Mrs. Pierce is survived by her husband, two sisters, Mrs. L. A. Huribut and Mrs. Charles S. Burke, both of this city; one brother, Charles H. Peale, of Lynn; three nieces, Mrs. William McGuiness, Mrs. Clarence Sholes and Mrs. Harry McGlone, all of Norwich; and three nephews, Wallace Potter of Uncasville and Richard Potter of Charlestown, N. H., and Robert Burke of Norwich.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Shubael Holmes.

Funeral services for Mrs. Shubael Holmes were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home in Preston City, the service being conducted by Rev. Frank A. Robbins, assisted by Rev. Joseph C. Harrison. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service from Willimantic, Mystic, North Stonington, Norwich and other places. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Burial was in Preston City cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Robbins, prayer being offered by Rev. Mr. Harrison. The bearers were Ernest Main, Archie Holdridge, Raymond and Carroll Holdridge, grandsons of the deceased.

Arrangements were by the Henry Allen & Son Co.

Isabelle M. Green.

Funeral services for Miss Isabelle M. Green were held at 8.30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Green, of 423 Main street, followed at 9 o'clock by a requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service and the floral tributes sent by loving friends were many.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Keefe conducted the committal service. The bearers were four playmates, Russell Aldrich, Samuel Barlio, Anthony Golembieski and Tony Hincvinski.

The funeral arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

The child was taken ill last Thursday morning at her home, although she had complained of something wrong with her throat previously. When Dr. H. E. Higgins was called he immediately ordered the girl to be taken to the Backus hospital, which was done Saturday morning. Death followed shortly afterward of paralysis of the muscles of the throat. Her death came as a shock to her parents and many friends. Her tonsils had been removed about a month previous.

She had completed her third grade work in school and was to enter the fourth grade in the fall. She was a kind and loving playmate and will be missed by all who knew her.

Surviving besides her parents are two brothers and two sisters—Anita, Joseph, Shirley and Ernest Green. The deceased was 8 years, 10 months and 26 days old.

Mrs. Anna Carney

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Carney, 84, formerly of New London and Black Point, was held Tuesday morning in New York city. Requiem high mass was celebrate at St. John's church and burial was in St. John's cemetery, L. I.

Mrs. Carney died Monday at St. Rose's hospital where she had been taken several weeks ago from her home at Black Point, Niantic. She had been an invalid for the past eight years. She was born in South Haddam, Mass., but had lived the greater part of her life in Connecticut and at one time made her home on Ocean avenue, New London. She leaves three daughters: Mrs. Lloyd Gray of Groton, Mrs. Walter Terry of Bayonet street, and Miss Viola Carney of Shaw street, New London.

LOCAL ROTARIANS PAY INSPECTION VISIT TO SEASIDE SANATORIUM

Few of us realize how really fortunate we are when we have our good health until it is brought home to us by the striking misfortunes of others. The fact that good health is a blessing to be valued above riches was forcefully brought home to 40 members of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday afternoon when the members were the guests of Dr. John F. O'Brien at the Seaside sanatorium at Crescent Beach, Niantic. The meeting was for the purpose of inspecting the sanatorium where a wonderful work is being done by Dr. O'Brien in the cure of tuberculosis of the bones among the children by the use of the sun's rays upon the naked body.

The Rotarians arrived at the sanatorium about 1 o'clock where they were greeted by Dr. O'Brien and his staff. After a tour of inspection of the sanatorium, where 80 children are being cared for, the guests were served a delightful luncheon prepared by the culinary department of the sanatorium. The menu served was clam chowder, crackers, lobster salad, apple pie and ice cream, coffee and rolls. Young women members of the staff acted as waitresses.

Upon the motion of Arthur M. Brown the Rotary club made a voluntary contribution to Dr. O'Brien to be used for the purchase of things for the enjoyment of the doctor's family of crippled kiddies. About $50 was raised. Dr. O'Brien in thanking the Rotarians for their gift said that while the institution was supported by the state there was always a use for money to provide the little things that so delight the hearts of the children, things that the state would consider foolish but yet are so all-important to the child.

After the luncheon the Rotarians went to the beach where the kiddies spend most of their time. Here Dr. O'Brien, surrounded by children from the ages of 3 to 16 years browned as a North American Indian from the rays of the sun, gave a very interesting talk on his work. The doctor told of the discovery of the healing powers of the sun rays and how it was becoming more and more popular as a cure. He also told of how various plaster braces were used on the children to relieve their pain and how gradually they were able to discard these heavy casts and play about as normal healthy children.

From time to time during his talk Dr. O'Brien would illustrate his talk by calling one of the children to him. The doctor knows every one of his little charges by name and the youngsters simply adore Dr. O'Brien, realizing in their small way what he is doing for their little misshapen bodies. It was noticeable how happy these youngsters seemed about their play on the beach. Perhaps not really happy for it would seem impossible for a child to be really happy with their misfortunes, but cheerful and sunny. There was not a note or a sign of distress on the faces of this little nut-brown brood of youngsters. Even those lying on their formboards wore sunny smiles and beamed cheerfully at the Rotarians. Some of the youngsters who will be forced to remain on these boards for nearly a year take their hardships with a cheery smile realizing that some day they will be able to get about as other people. An hour's stay with these youngsters makes one wonder how anyone can be so hard-hearted as to want to send these little misfortunates away to some out of the way place with a stony beach and no delightful sand to play in. If more people would visit the sanatorium and see the work that is being done there would be no opposition to enlarging the sanatorium as is being planned. Dr. O'Brien in his talk said that it was the hope of the commission to enlarge the sanatorium so that a hundred or 150 patients could be cared for. Already there is a large waiting list and the sanatorium is filled to capacity.

After Dr. O'Brien's talk the Rotary club ball team challenged the ball team at the sanatorium to a game. The youngsters were quick to take up the challenge and the game was on. It was a real game, too, the youngsters stepping out in real style and trimming the Rotarians 6 to 3 in two innings. The youngsters were real ball players and performed even better than some of the old timers on the Rotary team. One decided advantage that the youngsters had over the Rotarians was their ability to stand the heat. After two innings the Rotarians were ready to give up in an exhausted condition, but the boys were as fresh as daisies and ready to go a full nine innings.

Following the ball game the Rotarians went swimming and spent a very enjoyable afternoon at the beach. This visit to the sanatorium has won forty strong advocates of the place and all have pledged themselves to the support of this great work that is being done by Dr. O'Brien.

WILL MOBILIZE NATIONAL GUARDSMEN AT ARMORIES

With two members of the committee in charge of the Connecticut observance of national defense day on September 13 away, Brigadier General George M. Cole, adjutant general of the state, is drawing up a program alone. Lieutenant Colonel Orville A. Petty of the 169th infantry is traveling abroad and Colonel Emerson G. Taylor of Hartford is on a vacation to return Thursday, however, to help General Cole plan the observance.

General Cole said that progress is being made and that the program for the mobilization of the military forces of this state will be that required by the war department with additional features and details to be arranged later.

At 3 o'clock every national guard unit will meet at its armory for an hour and a half of drill. Where there are no national guard units, the commander of the American Legion will be in charge. Organized reserve skeletons will be recruited by their officers as if for national defense. Local enlistments to the organizations will be obtained for the day only. Mass meetings of civilians may be held and Spanish war camps, G. A. R. posts, former state guard organizations and draft boards are being asked to take part in the patriotic demonstrations. Parades may be held where desired. The number of persons who participate is to be reported to the adjutant general.

PRODUCTION OF ELECTRIC POWER IN THIS STATE

The production of electric power in Connecticut, which showed a decided decrease in June over the preceding month, has declined steadily since January, says a report of the department of commerce, which adds:

The average rate of output for May and June clearly indicates that there has been more than the usual seasonal decline in demand for electricity during these two months. The output for June of this year was only a little more than 1 per cent. greater than the output for the corresponding month of 1923. No indication of the trend of the remaining half of the year will probably be available until the output for August has been determined as the output for July, judging from records of previous years, is subject to a peculiar decrease for which there is no apparent explanation."

Connecticut's total electric power production, by fuels and water power, had dropped from 69,756 thousand kilowatt hours in May to 68,372 thousand in June. The larger part of this output was by fuels, which increased from 45,462 thousands of kilowatt hours in May to 51,680 thousand in June, while the production of water dropped from 24,305 thousand kilowatt hours to 16,692.

DAVIS THANKS NATIONAL DELEGATES FROM CONN.

Connecticut delegates and alternates to the democratic national convention held in New York which nominated John W. Davis as candidate for the presidency, have received letters from the candidate expressing his appreciation of the honor conferred on him.

WEDDING.

Peacock—McNamara.

At St. Mary's Memorial church rectory Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Allen Leon Peacock of the submarine base, son of George and Lola O'Quinn Peacock, and Miss Mary Teresa McNamara of 243 North Main street, daughter of George and Mary Coughlin McNamara, were united in marriage by Rev. William A. Keefe. The couple were attended by William Sugar and Miss Catherine McNamara. The groom is a member of the U. S. navy and is stationed at the submarine base.

Hubbard—Edgerton.

Mrs. C. M. Edgerton of 3 Sumner street, Hartford, Conn., announces the marriage of her daughter, Leola V. Edgerton, to A. R. Hubbard of Hartford Aug. 2d by Rev. Dr. F. A. Campbell. The attendants were the bride's mother and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norris of Hartford. After a wedding tour they will be at home at No. 2 Sumner street, Hartford.

REPRESENTED LOCAL FORCE AT POLICE CONVENTION

Chief George Linton, Sergt. John Casey and Officers Peter Driscoll and Michael Carroll, represented the local police department at the annual convention of the State Police association at Momaugnin, New Haven, Wednesday. Martin Wulf of Goodyear was also among those present at the convention.

Reports of officers and committees, discussion of matters of interest to the various department and election of officers constituted the program for the business session which opened at 10.30 in the forenoon. Following the business meeting there was a dinner. Chief Garrett J. Farrell of the Hartford police department presided at the business meeting as president. Other officers are: Vice president, Chief Philip T. Smith, New Haven; secretary, Chief James Landrigan, Meriden, and treasurer; Superintendent George M. Beach, Waterbury.

Following the dinner the officers and delegates of the association went to Lighthouse Point, where the second annual field day and track meet under auspices of the New Haven Police Athletic association was held.

LOCAL HARBOR INSPECTED BY ARMY ENGINEER

Wednesday afternoon a strange craft cruised about the harbor for some time, finally docking at the foot of Market street. It was learned that on board the craft was Col. H. C. Newcomer, division superintendent of the U. S. army engineering department, who was conducting a private investigation of the Thames river and the local harbor. It is probable that Col. Newcomer was seeking first hand information to present at the hearing of the committee of the local chamber of commerce in Washington when the local chamber will plead its case for a deeper channel in the Thames river before the army board.

Col. Newcomer has opposed the project from the start and it is hoped that through his survey of the river and harbor that he will come to realize the need of a deeper waterway. Col. Newcomer was accompanied by Major Powell also a member of the board.

HAS TAUGHT SCHOOL FOR HALF CENTURY

Miss Imogene Bacon, perhaps the oldest active teacher in the state, has returned to her home in South Glastonbury after visiting friends in New London and Groton. Miss Bacon, who still teaches in the South Glastonbury schools, has followed that vocation for nearly a half century and now at the age of 72, is about ready to retire.

Miss Bacon taught in the Groton Heights school at the beginning of her career. She later taught in Mystic and then on Long Island for several years. After she had been teaching for 15 years she entered Mount Holyoke and studied there until she received her degree, subsequently resuming her work as teacher.

CONNECTICUT BOYS TO RECEIVE COMMISSIONS

Three Connecticut youths are about to receive appointments as commissioned ensigns in the United States Coast Guard, it is understood from an authoritative source. Their assignments will be indicated when formal announcement of the appointments is made.

The appointees are: Leroy M. McCloskey, No. 1523 Chapel street, New Haven; John P. Crowley, No. 48 Howard street, New London, and Kenneth S. Davis of Greenwich.

RESIGNS CONN. FISH AND GAME POSITION

Eben W. Cobb, who has been field supervisor for the state fish and game commission for the past year, has resigned to accept a position with a Wisconsin commercial fish hatchery. Superintendent John W. Titcomb has arranged with the United States Bureau of Fisheries for the temporary services of J. P. Snyder, until a qualified supervisor can be secured to succeed Mr. Cobb.

LOCAL VETERANS ARE FILING BONUS APPLICATIONS

Many Norwich ex-service men and women are availing themselves of the opportunity to secure aid in filling out their bonus applications at the headquarters of R. O. Fletcher Post No. 4, American Legion, on Main street. Blanks are kept on hand at the Legion rooms and members of the Legion are ready to assist the veterans in filling out the applications.

Along with the application blank the applicant is given an addressed envelope in which to mail the application. Space is provided on the envelope in which the individual will complete the address by filling in the department which will handle his application, according to his branch of service in the war. Here is the information to be filled in on the envelope: In case a man's last service was in the army, "The Adjutant General's Office"; in the navy or coast guard, "Bureau of Navigation"; in the marine corps, "U. S. Marine Corps."

At the top of the form the applicant will show the branch of service with which he was last connected. For example: A man who enlisted in the marine corps and later was transferred and was in the army at time of discharge, will show "Army" in the space provided.

Practically all of the information required can be obtained by the veteran from his discharge certificate or his certificate in lieu of lost or destroyed discharge. If you do not have either of these available, answer the questions on the application blank from memory as correctly as possible. If an applicant does not remember the information asked in any one question he should write "I do not know" in the space provided for the answer.

Some of the questions in the application form may seem farfetched to the individual, but the number has been reduced to a minimum and the information asked is absolutely required by the governmental agencies which will check up the records of veterans.

When the veteran himself makes out the application form, it is necessary that he answer only items No. 1 to No. 20, inclusive. It is not necessary to have the application sworn to before a notary. The signature of two witnesses who are personally acquainted with the applicant must, however, be obtained. Items No. 21 to No. 26 are filled out only in case the application is filed by a dependent of a deceased veteran.

It is required that the grade or rank of the applicant at the time he entered service be given. In case a man enlisted as a private and later was commissioned, he should write in the word "private" in the space provided. National Guard men are in some cases vague as to the date on which their actual federal service began. This class of men can count service from the date they reported under the call of the president. On July 3, 1917, the National Guard was officially called to service. On Aug. 4, 1917, the National Guard was mustered into federal service. In cases where a service between April 5, 1917, and November 11, 1918, was not continuous, dates of both inductions or enlistments must be shown.

The names of all organizations or vessels with which a man served, with the dates or approximate dates of such service, must be entered. If any time was spent in hospital, the name or names of hospitals and dates should be listed. The names of transports on which a man sailed for overseas shore duty are not to be included. Navy men and army or marine corps men assigned to duty on vessels or transports will give the names of such vessels. In case there is not space enough in this item, the balance of organization or vessel service may be entered under Item No. 18.

Only marine corps men who sailed for overseas duty will fill in Item No. 19. They will show the names of transports, dates, and names of ports of embarkation and debarkation.

It is not necessary that the beneficiary of an adjusted compensation policy be the nearest relative or the person named in an application for war risk insurance. Any person is entitled to receive the benefits of compensation in case of a veteran's death. If a friend is designated as beneficiary the word "Friend" should be inserted in the line "Relationship of beneficiary."

As this is the year to elect a representative as well as president, all republicans are discussing the desirability of the different candidates. Phoenixville being a suburb of Eastford has not had a man in the assembly since 1904, although the opinion of some in regard to this is different. At any rate, the residents of the locality are being urged to get busy and elect a man who is able to cast a vote for the good not only of the state but of the county and town in which he resides. Important changes in school matters are pending and every point ought to be brought to bear on said issues.

SANDE, FAMOUS AMERICAN JOCKEY, MAY NEVER BE ABLE TO RIDE AGAIN

Saratoga Springs, N. H., Aug., 6.—Earle Sande, ons of America's best jockeys, who was seriously injured today, will ride no more this year and may never again take the saddle, according to local physicians.

In a mixup in the first race today, in which four horses fell, Sande sustained two fractures of the left leg, one just below the hip and the other below the knee. One of his ribs also was broken and he was unconscious for an hour.

Sande has found it increasingly difficult to keep down to riding weight this season and more than once remarked that he would give up riding after this year unless he decided to go abroad, where the scale of weights is higher. By the time he has recovered completely he probably will be far too heavy to resume his vocation.

Sande rode Zev in the international race at Belmont Park, October 20, 1923, in which the American horse defeated Papyrus, the English entry. He also established a new money winning record last year when he rode horses to victories which netted his employes a total of $449,125.

BROWNS BEAT SENATORS AND ADVANCE TOWARD TOP

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—The Browns made a clean sweep of their five game series with Washington by winning today's game, 6 to 5, thus moving within three and one half games behind the leading Yankees, who were defeated by Detroit today. Today's victory was the sixth straight for the locals.

Dixie Davis who won for the Brown's Sunday, was back in the box, but was batted out in the ninth inning, after Matthews and Leibold had pounded out doubles for one run. Ernie Wingard the Browns' sensational southpaw, held the visitors safe for the last two outs. Jacobson pounded out a home run in the sixth inning, with the bases unoccupied. The score:

VANCE WINS HIS 16TH GAME BEATING PIRATES

Brooklyn, August 6.—Vance won his 16th game of the series when Brooklyn beat Pittsburgh today by 5 to 3 after Pittsburgh had taken the first three games of the series. The Robins twirler struck out 10 men. He has beaten the Pirates nine straight games. Beginning late in the 1923 season. His total strike outs now are 160. Stone started for Pittsburgh but was knocked out in the second inning.

RAIN HALTS GAME WITH REDS LEADING PHILLIES

Philadelphia, August 6.—The Cincinnati Reds won today's game in Philadelphia before a heavy rain storm stopped the fray in the fifth inning as Walker sprinted and caught Williams' drive for the third out with the tying run on second. Four solid hits scored the Reds' three tallies and gave them the lead in the third inning after Harper had made a home run in the locals' half of the opening round. Score:

GIANTS GET EARLY LEAD AND BEAT CUBS

New York, Aug. 6.—The New York Nationals again defeated Chicago here today, the score being 5 to 2. The league champions won in the first inning, when they scored five runs on three hits, two errors and two bases on balls. Wheeler held the Giants to one hit in the remainder of the game. McQuillan pitched a strong game for New York, home runs by Cotter and Grantham giving the visitors their two runs. Jack was out of New York's line-up with an injured leg, and Kelly with an injured wrist.

AMERICAN RUNNERS TAKE MANY EVENTS IN GERMANY

Berlin, August 6.—Charles Paddock, the American running star, today ran 200 meters over a curved track in 21 2-5 seconds, defeating Houben, the crack German champion of Crefeld. Houben, however, took the 100 meter race from Paddock and Loren Murchison in the time of 10 4-5 seconds.

The American athletes, who stopped here enroute from Sweden, captured most of the events on the program of a special meet held under the auspices of the Berlin Athletic club. The showing of the Americans is considered remarkable because they had traveled all night and entered the meet shortly after their arrival here. The visitors were cordially applauded by a large crowd of spectators.

Hugh Nehring of New York defeated Louis Dailey by default. Dr. William Rosenbaum of New York defeated Donald Straien of Pleasantville, N. Y., 6-4, 6-4. James Calder, Jr., of Montclair, N. J., defeated Earl Backe of Bay Shore, Long Island, 6-2, 7-5.

In the third round A. F. Von Bermuth defeated Ralph Baggs, 6-2, 7-5. Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated Hugh Nehring of New York, 8-6, 6-4.

Nuggets-Hardigs Game Cancelled

The Twilight League game between the Nuggets and Hardigs for Wednesday evening was cancelled by Manager George Madden of the Nuggets who found it impossible to play.

The game tonight will be between the Yantic Grain and the East Ends. This game will be fast as the East Siders, although they have clinched the league title are out to keep their slate clean for the remainder of the season. The Millers are just as determined to smear that slate all over and will put the best team of the season into the field.

Bearcats Challenge

The Bearcats of Taftville would like to hear from the Norwich Town Warriors for a game for Saturday at the Green. They would also like to hear from the Valiants for a game for Sunday in Taftville. The Bearcats claim they are past waiting to take a crack at Shea, the no-hit wonder of the Valiants. Answer through Friday's paper.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Should the pitcher or catcher field the ball?

This play causes a great deal of trouble and big leaguers spend a great deal of time perfecting it. Both the pitcher and catcher should start as soon as the ball is bunted and the one who gets there first should yell and make the play in order to prevent the other fellow bumping into him. Collisions of this kind also cause injuries. If the third baseman cannot make the play he can help out by calling the name of either the catcher or the pitcher, that is the name of the man whom he thinks can field the ball first. This play needs a lot of team work to be pulled properly, otherwise many blunders will result.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Arrows 10, Walnuts 0.

The Arrows shutout McLaren's Walnuts at the Academy Tuesday. "Solemn" Edwards the Arrow twirler narrowly missed pitching a no hit,no-run game being nicked for only one hit.

The Walnuts used three pitchers, who were bumped for 11 hits. The Arrows will play the Braves at the Academy Monday. Greene, Edwards or Couture will pitch for the Arrows.

Braves 6, Nutmegs 2

Before a large crowd at the Fair grounds Wednesday evening the fast Braves pushed the Nutmegs into second place in the American division of the Junior league, winning by a 6 to 2 score. Ellie Seigal, pitcher for the Nutmegs pitched a good game getting twelve strikeouts while Rankin his opponent secured 10 strikeouts. It was a fast game no one reaching first until the fourth inning when the Braves found Ellie's hooks for three runs. Rankin held the Nutmegs scoreless until the eighth inning when the Nutmegs scored their two runs on errors. Coughlin caught a good game for the Braves. The lineup:

Tigers 7, Rubes 5

The Tigers took a close game from the Yantic Rubes Wednesday evening at Yantic 7 to 5. The game was fast and close the Tigers clinching hits at opportune times for their seven runs. Bull Steinman pitched for the Rubes and Pete Franiski for the Tigers. Franiski struck out 6 while Steinman had two strike out victims. The lineup for the winners was:

Rosedales 4, Valiants 3.

In an interesting and close game at the Greeneville playgrounds Wednesday evening the Rosedales beat the Valiants 4 to 3. The game was one of the best played so far in the Junior league being close and exciting from the start to finish. Tenant pitched for the Rosedales and was in good form and received good support. Jim Shea pitched for the Valiants and was also well supported. The feature of the game was the hitting and base-running of Crabby Carroll and Goofey Goldblatt. About 300 spectators were at the game. The lineup:

New Haven Nosed Out Albany

Albany, N. Y., August, 6.—New Haven beat Albany 4 to 3, today in a game that was called in Albany's half of the ninth inning after Ritchie and Hager, who batted for Spates had singled with nobody out and drove Bendar from the box. A heavy shower flooded the field and prevent resumption of play.

Hartford Divides With Penies

Hartford, August 6.—Hartford and Springfield divided two tight games today, the champions taking the first, 2 to 1 and the visitors the second 5 to 4. All the scoring in the opening contest, was done in the first four innings, Mayberry and Owen pitching good ball. Triples by Duffy and Pott in the ninth inning of the second game brought victory to Springfield.

TRACK RECORD EQUALLED BY PONYWOOD IN FIRST DAY PROGRAM OF BAY STATE

Billy Flemming had a good day Wednesday in the opening day of the Bay State Circuit in this city, driving to win in two of the three events on the card of the day, taking the 2.15 trot with Peter Whitlock in three straight heats and winning with Al Kahria in two straight heats in the two year old trot.

The day was a hot one even for the horsemen but in the 2.08 pace A. B. Martin sent Capt. Stanford's Ponywood over the line in the second and final heat in 2.0 1-4, equalling the Norwich track record.

The first race of the day was the 2.15 class trot for a purse of $1,000, best three out of five. Eight horses were entered for this race which proved the best of the day. Peter Whitlock, owned by Frank Burke of Ipswich, Mass., and guided by Flemming had things his own way throughout the race after the first heat. Jack Des Saules, b. g., owned and driven by T. Ashworth of Sturbridge, Mass., gave the winning horse a go in the first heat. Holding the pole throughout the race it looked as though Peter Whitlock was to place second but in coming down the home stretch Jack Des Saulles broke, landing in eighth position. The second heat saw Dagastan, driven by E. Butler, distanced, after placing second in the first heat and from that time on it was a race been Jack Des Saulles and Brandywine, H. Erwin, driver, for second money.

The third and final heat in this race gave the railbirds the action that they liked when Ashworth pulled Jack Des Saulles out of fifth position and sent him out around the field, to fear down the home stretch landing in second place.

The money in this event went to Peeter Whitlock, first; Brandywine, second; Jack Des Saulles, third and Rockbridge, fourth.

In the second race for two year olds Al Kahria, owned by Butler and driven by Billy Flemming, carried off first money in two straight heats. Flemming took the lead in the first heat and held it throughout. In the second and final heat Viola Sunshine, driven by R. Nickerson, got away and grabbed the pole. Flemming let Al Kahria out a bit on the back stretch and when the horses came up the stretch for the half mile he was leading Viola Sunshine by a length. Bob Ortolan driven by E. McGrath pulled out and followed and finished second. First money went to Al Kahria. Bob Ortolan and Viola Sunshine splitting second and third money. May Cromwell finished a poor fourth in each heat taking fourth money.

In the 2.08 pace the crowd looked for a new record for the track and they nearly got it in the second and final heat when Ponywood, the Worcester winner was pushed to win. Robert M., driven by A. Wilson got the turn and held the lead until the second turn. Coming up the stretch on the first half mile A. B. Martin, driving Ponywood pulled out and headed Robert M. at the upper turn. Logical, driven by E. Butler, followed suit and on the back stretch went into second place, the horses finishing in that order, money going the same way.

The card for today, (Thursday), calls for three fast races with interest centering in the 2.16 pace for a purse of $2,000, seven entries, the three year old race, first division, for a purse of $800. The races for the day also includes the 2.20 trot with eleven entries.

FOUR SURVIVE IN N. Y. WOMEN'S TENNIS

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The women's New York state tennis championship narrowed down to four survivors on the courts of the Westchester-Biltmore Country club today when Miss Mayme Macdonald, national clay court champion, Mrs. Edwin Falk of New York, Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., and Mrs. C. V. Hitchins, champion of Mexico, reached the semi-final round With the exception of Mrs. Hitchins, the semi-finalist scored in straight sets, but every one of them encountered stern opposition.

Under an exhausting sun Miss Martha Bayard fought a gruelling, sharp-hitting duel with Miss Katherine Gardner of Boston before she won at 6-3, 6-4. Miss MacDonald defeated Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., 9-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Falk, who as Miss Helene Pollock formerly rated in the first 10 nationally, outlasted and outsteadied Mrs. Samuel Waring in a swift back court affair at 6-4, 6-2.

In doubles, also, the semi-final round was reached, the winners being Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Bronson Batchelor, Miss Bayard and Miss Gardner. Mrs. Hitchins and Mrs. Waring, and Miss MacDonald and Mrs. Edward Raymond. In the doubles feature of the day Mrs. Hitchins and Mrs. Waring defeated the Youthful Boston pair, Miss Anna Fuller and Miss Margaret Blake, at 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

DANIELS PITCHES GOOD GAME FOR SHIPPERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, August 6.—Tillie Daniels held the Robert Gair batsmen to two singles and the New London Ship and Engine by bunching hits in the seventh and final stanza copped what may be the deciding game of the Industrial league. Daniels was complete master at all times, and had the box makers doing all kinds of tricks. The box makers were lucky to score their only run. The final standing was 3 to 1 in favor of the league leaders. Shanan was pitted opposite the Bulkeley luminary and he would have had little or no difficulty in returning victorious if his mates were in a hitting mood. But as it happened, they were not and then Daniels was a little to strong for them. The best they could do was garner two lone singles, while the Ship workers were out getting five for themselves. It was a close battle and was not decided until the final round. In this final round with an error by Joe Murphy, the Ship and Engine just about clinched the top position in the dusty circuit. Only sometimes unforseen, that befalls a team at some unlooked for moment will budge the team from across the river from the top position.

There were not so many strike outs during the contest—only six by Daniels and four by Shanan—but still the game was a battle worth seeing. Daniels had some good batsmen to dispose of and did this with an ease that would do credit to a more experienced twirler. He was unhittable in the pinches, and while we are on that subject it might be added that he very seldom got himself into tight holes. He was a master of all masters and had complete control of the ball, putting it where the Gair batsmen could not touch it. Daniels received support too, and while Shanan's failed him at a most trying time, he allowed a single in this same inning and this had something to do with the scoring in the proverbial lucky seventh.

EASTERN CONN. TENNIS TOURNAMENT, AUG. 30 TO SEP. 1

The Norwich Golf club plans to hold its second annual tennis tournament for the championship of eastern Connecticut, preliminary matches beginning Saturday, August 30th, and continuing through the list with the finals to be played on Labor Day at the Norwich Golf club.

It is the intention of the club under the scheme of expansion to add new courts and make this as large an affair as possible in years to come. They have chosen this particular time of the year because of the added attraction of the Norwich Fair in an effort to centralize affairs of this kind at this time.

The club is putting up a cup this year which will be known as the "Willow Brook Cup" for the men's singles to be won three times for permanent possession. his will be a handsome trophy suitable for the magnitude of the occasion. There will also be appropriate prizes for the men's doubles which will be the other event of the contest.

The tournament will be open to tennis players irrespective of their membership in the club, upon the payment of $1 entrance fee. The courts will be open for such entries for practice on Thursday and Friday preceding the preliminary matches. Last year the tournament was a success in every sense and there is every reason to believe it will reach even further popularity this year. The club has become a member of th eNational Lawn Tennis Association and is endeavoring to build up this sport in this section.

The matches to be played will be men's singles and men's doubles. If there is an opportunity to put on an exhibition match or two in mixed doubles the club will attempt to arrange this on the final day. Drawings for the early stage matches will be arranged Thursday, August 28 at the club and made known through the medium of the newspapers. Entries therefore will close Wednesday afternoon, August 27th.

Entries should be mailed with the remittance to Russell A. Clapp, Jr., 93-95 Water street, Norwich, Conn.

SUB BASE TEAM EVENS SERIES WITH TORPEDOES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Newport, R. I., Aug. 6.—The Submarine Base evened the series with the Newport training station here this afternoon, winning from the latter by a one-sided score of 11 to 3. It was an easy matter for the gobs from the Whaling City to take the second game of the series for they went right after the contest from the first inning. The home team failed to display the same brand of ball that they showed in the first game of the series played at New London on Saturday. Poor work on the field by the training station and hard hitting by the visiting gobs gave them a commanding lead in the early innings which they never relinquished.

AUSTRALIAN READY TO MEET MEXICAN STARS

Baltimore ,Md., Aug. 6.—The Australian Davis cup team, Gerald Patterson, Pat O'Hara Wood, and Frederick Kalms, arrived here tonight for its match with Mexico tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday, at the Baltimore Country club.

The Mexican players, Ignacio Borbolla, Francisco Gerdes, and Manuel Allano, reached Baltimore on Monday and have been practising daily on the Country club courts.

Two singles matches will be played tomorrow. The first, starting at 3 o'clock probably will be between Patterson and Borbolla. Wood and Gerdes are expected to meet in the second.

TWO NEW LONDON YOUNG MEN FINED FOR UNLIGHTED CARS AT WATERFORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 6.—The Waterford town court room was well filled with spectators this morning when that body convened to try three cases out of the ordinary, for three young men were scheduled to appear there on charges of violation of the automobile law in parking their cars on dark roads of Waterford without lights. Two of the offenders appeared before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and pleaded guilty. A fine of $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $32.70, was imposed. The third party, a Bank street young man failed to put in an appearance and he will be taken into custody tomorrow and presented in court tomorrow evening. Grand Juror John Malone prosecuted.

For some time it has been the practice of motorists to drive their machines to the less frequented highways of Waterford leading to Goshen Point and Pleasure Beach and after the lights had been extinguished and the machines parked, to conduct "petting" parties and "spooning" parties. Edward C. Hammond, a resident of Goshen Point, decided the parties were becoming altogether too numerous and he lodged several complaints with the Waterford authorities. Sunday appeared to be the popular night for the parties, so last Sunday evening the state police maintained a watch for the darkened cars, with the result that the two young men prosecuted tonight, both being New Londoners and the third New Londoner, who failed to put in an appearance, were found with female friends parked in the motionless and darkened cars and ordered to present themselves in court.

Two more arrests were made this afternoon for violation of the automobile laws. Louis G. Garlock, 26 Allen street, New Britain, was taken into custody by Sergeant Samuel Hick for operating a machine without having a license. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. O. G. Mikal, 406 Greenwich avenue, was taken into custody by Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh for the same offense.

A heavy automobile truck, owned by Michael J. Doyle, contractor, and engaged in transporting material from the Canfield block, State street, which is being razed to permit the erection of the new structure for the F. W. Woolworth company, was in collision with two pleasure cars this afternoon. Because of the truck being much the heavier vehicle, being 10 tons, the other cars which were of the pleasure type were damaged.

The truck, which was in charge of Samuel Onspartik, 171 North Bank street, was passing through Methodist street, when it encountered a car owned by Ludwig Mann, 284 Montauk avenue, and operated by Mrs. Mann. In attempting to guide the truck through traffic the Mann machine was struck a glancing blow and then continued against an automobile owned and operated by W. C. Braun, 31 Ann street. Both machines were damaged to a considerable extent.

The automobile owned and driven by Kenneth Murray, 24 Mercer street, struck a motorcycle car owned by Glenn Creed, 23 Smith street, this evening on Howard street, the latter machine being damaged.

Miss Esther Wiech, of Waterford, Charles Phillips, Hamilton street, Ruth Roscoe, Groton, and Mrs. Albert Connell and infant daughter, Front street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Farnan, Eastern avenue, are entertaining Mrs. James Bradley, of Somerville, Mass.

Mrs. Mary E. Connors, Niles, Cal., has concluded a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of Union street. Mrs. Connors will visit relatives in New Britain before returning home.

Philip Colpas, of Burlington, Vt., is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, 126 Montauk avenue.

The condition of Miss Rose Dillon, daughter of Deputy Collector of Customs Jeremiah and Mrs. Dillon, is reported as gradually improving at her home on Ocean avenue. Miss Dillon has been ill for a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keiner, of Irvington, N. J., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knudsen, 439 Ocean avenue.

Mason Gray, formerly a reporter in this city, now a commercial sales man has concluded a several days' stay in New London renewing acquaintances.

Joseph Gordon, until recently an employe of F. Adel & Company for several months a Bank street fruit and produce concern, was taken into custody this evening by Patrolman George Laboue on a warrant issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky, charged with embezzlement. Gordon furnished a surety on his bond of $500 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Harry B. Sloan, Union street, qualified as Gordon's surety.

Gordon had been employed by the firm several months as salesman. It is alleged that in the performance of his duties in soliciting orders from customers of the firm Gordon collected $140 between April 17th, 1924, and 7th 24th, and that the accused appropriated the money to his own use. It is further recited in the complaint that Gordon collected various other sums from time to time, the exact amount which is not known, also appropriated the collections to his own use.

The F. Adel & Company was located at the corner of Bank and Division streets until about a month ago when it suspended business.

Miss Mildred Smith, of Cleveland, Ohio, was taken into custody this noon by Traffic Officer William Corcoran and because of her indolence the woman was charged with a trio of offenses instead of one violation of the automobile law. She furnished a bond of $25 for her appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Miss Smith was operating a high powered Packard car on State street, shortly before 12 o'clock and approaching the corner of Bank street the motorist was given a signal to stop. Instead of heeding the signal the young woman operated the car past the officer at a fast rate of speed and continued to the parking space in front of the Union station. There she parked the machine in the space restricted to cars of the public service type. When interrogated by Officer Corcoran Miss Smith became abusive and her arrest followed. She was charged with operating a machine without having a registration in her possession to do so, parking her car in restricted territory and failing to stop when given a signal by an officer. At the police station Miss Smith declared Officer Corcoran to be an "ignorant bull" and a sample of the officer who delighted in arresting people from the larger cities who are watched closely for violation of the automobile laws.

The old wooden building, corner of Main and Masonic streets was sold at auction this afternoon for $20,000. The purchase was made by Real Estate Agent H. T. Shurts, who said he was acting for a client whose name he did not divulge. The property is now known as the Ella O'Neill holding, she being the widow of James O'Neill, the former actor. John Dennis, for many years occupied the premises as a residence. It after that passed to the ownership of O'Neill, and he allowed it to run down. The house stands on a ledge of the solid sort so that excavation there will be a rather expensive undertaking. The frontage will accommodate two stores on Main street and there may be tenements or apartments on the floors above. It is believed that such a structure as will be erected there will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. It is understood that there were prospective buyers before the day of the sale, but that the fact that there were vacant stores in the building on the opposite corner led them to abandon their plans of purchase. Two bids—$18,000 and $19,000—beside the one at which the property was sold were made for the place.

Wesley Howell and Theodore F. Hogan, who came here last Saturday morning before the birds were up, with a truck load of beer, are to be boarders at the county jail during the next ten days—just ten days, for they have arranged to pay the costs of their trial so that they will not stay a minute after they have served the sentence imposed upon them. The men profess not to know who loaded the beer they had, where it was going other than to New London and they say they do not know where it was to be delivered. They just happened to be concerned in the enterprise that loaded their truck and sent it to New London to the Acid Manufacturing company, a concern that does not exist. There is somebody behind the men, for they were represented by an attorney from New Haven and he arranged for the settlement of the obligation to the court. It is declared that the beer seized on the truck is of the same alcoholic content as is that sold openly at New Haven—in grocery stores, at the soda fountains and elsewhere. So it is not apparent to the truckmen nor to others why beer can be legally sold in New Haven and then tabood in New London.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of Henry Funk, stationed at the United States Coast Guard Academy, and Aldo Montali, 28 East street, to be returned to the owners. The licenses were recently suspended for violations of the automobile law.

The New London police today were requested to be on the lookout for Edward Sturgess, 20, of Bridgeport, who made his escape from the Norwich State Hospital this forenoon. Sturgess is described as being about five feet, five inches in height, weighs about 131 pounds, has dark hair and brown eyes. When he escaped Sturgess wore blue overalls and a blue shirt, but did not wear a hat.

Mrs. C. H. Quimby, 113 Hempstead street, today complained to the police that a child's coaster was stolen from the yard of a neighbor last night.

The police were summoned to the plant of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company early this morning, when informed that a row was in progress aboard one of the barges moored at the company's pier. Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Clarence Martin were dispatched to the location of the trouble and when the officers reached there they ascertained that a barge captain and his wife had engaged in a quarrel, but that the disturbance had ended a short time before the officers arrived.

The automobile owned and driven by James H. Feeley, Waterford, and a car owned and driven by Harry N. Clark, 60 Bank street, were in collision this forenoon on Faire Harbor place. Both cars were damaged.

The petition nominating Mrs. Emily Spiers for the office of member of the council was filed with City Clerk Julian D. Moran this afternoon. The petition was circulated by Mrs. Margaret F. Collins. Mrs. Spiers, who is a member of the city planning board, was defeated at the polls a year ago for the office she seeks again.

Another nominating petition filed today was that of George Goss for the office of selectman. The petition was circulated by Thomas R. Murray and its authenticity was acknowledged before Edward R. Murray, notary public. The attestation of the notary public, however, invalidates the petition for Mr. Murray states that his term of office expired Feb. 2, 1924.

At the regular meeting of the local council, K. of C., Monday evening, activities for the late summer and early fall were discussed and planned. In the latter part of August the council is to have an informal dance at the Ashland Casino, the program of which will include modern and old fashioned dances. The committee in charge is Ulysses Guilliatte, Joseph Barry, William McGovern, Richard Dudkowski and Ulidrie Jodoin.

It was also planned to organize a baseball club to play several twilight games in August and September.

Preparations are under way for the annual banquet. The committee in charge of the banquet is John Hourigan, Frank Driscoll and John Jacobs.

Mrs. George H. Prior received Wednesday an acknowledgment of the telegram of sympathy which she, as president of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, sent to President and Mrs. Coolidge. The engraved card read: "The President and Mrs. Coolidge are deeply grateful to you for the expression of sympathy for them."

Miss Mabel H. McBroome, will open Saturday morning, in the Arabeo block, a new up-to-date ready to wear millinery shoppe. All branches of the trade attended to. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Jewett City and vicinity to attend.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan and family go to Waterbury today (Thursday) to visit relatives.

The promised rain for Tuesday fell very gently about five minutes at noon Wednesday and then it was not—hotter—hottest—plus!

CONVENTION OF STATE POLICE ASSOCIATION

New Haven, Aug. 6.—The annual convention of the State Police association was held at Momauguin today with delegates present representing the various city police departments of the state. Reports of officers and committees, discussion of matters of interest to the various departments and election of officers constituted the program for the business session which opened at 10.30 this forenoon. Following the business meeting dinner was to be served at the Momauguin. The arrangements were in charge of a committee selected by the local police association. Chief Garrett J. Farrell of the Hartford police department, presided at the business meeting as president. Other officers are: Vice president, Chief Philip T. Smith, New Haven; secretary, Chief James J. Landrigan, Meriden and treasurer, Supt. George M. Beach, Waterbury.

Following the dinner the officers and delegates of the association went to Lighthouse Point where the second annual field day and track meet under the auspices of the New Haven Police Athletic association, was held.

BOYS PLACED SPIKES ON N. H. TRACKS AT STOUGHTON

Stoughton, Mass., Aug. 6.—Two small boys, aged 6 and 8 years, today showed Chief of Police Richard Vanston and two railroad detectives where they had placed railroad spikes on the New Haven tracks here near the point at which an express from New Bedford and Newport to Boston was derailed here Monday, the chief of police said tonight.

According to Chief of Police Vanston the two boys, Joseph Abril, 6, and Althie Martinis, 8, described placing four spikes together on the rails the day of the wreck. He said they indicated a spot approximately where the locomotive later left the rails to smash a gate tender's shanty and partly wreck the Stoughton station, causing injury to four persons, including the engineer and fireman of the train and the gate tender. The tracks were blocked for several hours by derailed baggage cars.

Whether or not any further action would be taken in connection with the investigation of the wreck would rest with the officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, the chief of police said.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE FOR PARASITIC MALADIES

Toronto, Aug. 6.—The possibility of virtually eliminating disease in civilized countries, with consequent increase in productivity and well-being, was the theme of the presidential address delivered tonight before the British association for the advancement of science by Sir David C. Bruce, chairman of the governing board of the Lister Institute of preventive medicine, who succeeded in controlling parasitic maladies in the British army during the war.

"Medicine in future must change its strategy," said Sir David, "instead of awaiting attack, it must assume the offensive. It must no longer be said that 'the man was so sick he had to send for a doctor.'"

Referring to tuberculosis, he said that conditions of public health in many European cities were deplorable and that builders of towns in the new world should see that ample sunlight, pure water and milk and sanitary sewage disposal were provided.

"The untutored savage living on the natural fruits of the earth and the chase knows no deficiency disease," he said. "It is only when man begins by artificial means to polish his rice, whiten his flour and tin his beef and vegetables that the trouble begins."

The speaker also stressed the importance of the proper functioning of the ductless glands about which medical science recently has made many discoveries. He said it had been found that inadequate thyroid secretions often could be offset by the use in small quantities of iodine, the absence of which from the water drunk in some places apparently was the cause of goitre.

Considerable improvement has been made in the local postal service of the states of the Syrian Federation and Greater Lebanon since they were admitted into the Universal Postal Union on October 30, 1923. The establishment and maintenance of motor routes throughout that region has done much to facilitate communications with the neighboring countries and to improve international communications.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Aug. 6.—Profit-taking sales again interrupted the upward movement of prices in today's stock market, which closed irregularly lower. Many operators on the long side showed a disposition to suspend operations until the realizing sales had run their course, which probably accounted for the total sales falling below the million share mark for the first time in three weeks.

Favorable news developments were again disregarded, these included cable despatches indicating a conciliatory attitude on the part of the German delegates at the London reparations conference and publication of the weekly steel trade reviews reporting further signs of improvement in that industry.

Despite the prevalence of reactionary tendencies, more than a dozen issues advanced to new high prices for the year, including Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Public Service of New Jersey, Pullman Company, American Radiator, General Motors prior preferred and Central Leather preferred.

Standard industrials held relatively firm, net losses in United States Steel common, American Can and Baldwin being held to small fractions. Dupont, American Woolen, Republic Steel, Chandler Motors, Cuyamel Fruit, Famous Players, International Paper, Magma Copper and United States Sast Iron Pipe dropped one to two points.

Rails developed several independent strong points. Pittsburgh and West Virginia, common and preferred, Lackawanna and Delaware and Hudson all broke through their previous high prices of the year, the net gains ranging from 1 to 3 1-2 points. Norfolk and Western was run up nearly 8 points but forfeited about half of its gain in the late reaction.

Persistent rumors of unfavorable dividend action caused a further break of nearly five points in Atlantic Refining. Other oils held relatively steady in spite of unfavorable production statistics covering last week.

A bullish demonstration in National Lead which sent that stock up five points to 153 revived reports of a stock dividend. Other strong spots included American Radiator, Indian Motorcycle and Western Union up two to four and a half points. Fisher Body broke 17 points and then rallied five on a few sales.

Call money again ruled at two per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with rates unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates turned reactionary with trading quiet. Demand sterling eased to around $4.45 1-4 and French francs again sold below 5.1-12 cents.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 6—Reactionary tendencies predominated in today's curb market although independent strong spots developed in all sections of the list.

Oils were inclined to heaviness on publication of unfavorable production statistics but the net changes as a rule, were small. A loss of 1 1-2 points in Prarie Oil and Gas was counteracted by a point gain in Pennsylvania Mexican Fuel and another advance of 1 3-4 in Red Bank.

Heavy selling took place in the coal stocks, Lehigh Valley and Glen Alden each losing about two points. New Jersey Zinc crossed 152 to a new high while American Power and Traction and Foundation Company preferred soared 11 and 8 3-4 points respectively on a few odd lot sales. Omnibus shares, traded in on a "when issued" basis, were heavy.

Mining shares held relatively steady with increasing activity noted in Canario and other copper issues in anticipation of an increased demand for the red metal upon settlement of the reparations question.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Aug. 6.—Prospects for negotiations this week of a European settlement on reparations today lifted French, Belgian and Austrian bonds to the highest prices of the year. The upward movement in these issues ran counter to the trend of other bonds and of the foreign exchanges, which hehetofore have reflected the progress of the London conference.

Accumulation of the foreign obligations were sufficient to carry total bond sales up to about $18,000,000 the largest volume in several weeks. The French government's 7 1-2s and 8s, selling about 1 1-2 points higher, established new high levels at 103 3-8 and 106 1-2, respectively.

Other 1924 records included Belgian 7 1-2s and 8s, Austrian 7s, Czecho-Slovak 8s and the Seine, Bordeaux, Lyons, Marseilles, Soissons, and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean issues, all up 1 1-4 to 2 1-2 points.

Trading was dull in the domestic list, and prices failed to establish a definite trend. Advances of Western Pacific 5s, Norfolk and Western 4s and Erie prior lien 4s were offset by the heaviness of Atchison adjustment 4s stamped and the Wilson issues.

Negotiations were reported to be pending for another loan to the Dominican Republic, probably totaling between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. Within the next fortnight sales of about $40,00,00 in state and municipal bond issues are expected.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Wheat prices underwent something of a collapse at the last today after an advance due largely to assertions that purchases for shipment to Europe had been made on a big scale. Heavy offerings which suddenly developed found the market without adequate support. Wheat closing quotations were weak, 3-4c to 1 3-8c net lower. September $1.37 1-8 to $1.37 1-4 and December $1.31 to $1.31 1-8. Corn finished unchanged to 1 1-4 lower. Oats varying from 7-8c off to 1-4c gain and provisions at 5c to 10c decline.

Much of the late selling was an attempt to realize profits. An effort made the more urgent perhaps by the fact that the United States government will issue its August crop report tomorrow. This report is generally expected to contain estimates of domestic production materially larger than in July. A good deal of the late selling consisted also of hedging against newly harvested wheat, whereas hedging had been light earlier in the day before the market advanced.

It was estimated that wheat exports today totaled 2,000,000 bushels, chiefly United States wheat. Besides bullish estimates of world supplies of wheat were current, the total being figured at 3,080,000,000 bushels, as against 3,430,000,000 bushels a year ago. Advices pointing to increased development of black rust in Manitoba were also more or less responsible for the transient upturn in values.

Corn and oats were chiefly swayed by the action of wheat, favorable crop reports as to corn received only secondary consideration, and the same was true in regard to raips delaying the oats harvest.

Provisions eased down with grain and hogs.

Thought He Was a Squirrel

At St. Paul a gentleman, hotly pursued, climbed a tall tree to its topmost branches and when his pursuers climbed up after him backed out on a slender limb 10 feet from the pavement. Then the hook and ladder company was called. They spread a net below the human squirrel, while others firemen, mounting ladders poked him off with a pole, the net catching him safely as he fell. It appears the gentleman was a patient at a sanatorium and labored under the impression he really was a squirrel. At the sanatorium they compelled him to walk and act like a man, which is a hard thing for a squirrel to do, consequently when no one was looking he ran away and scooted up the first tree.—Pathfinder.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES
Itched and Burned Terribly. Troubled 4 Years. Healed by Cuticura.
"I worked in a plant where they used a lot of oil and my face broke out with pimples. The pimples festered and scaled over and itched and burned something terrible. I lost sleep at night on account of the irritation, and the trouble lasted about four years.
"I tried other remedies without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some and after using them for several months I was completely healed." (Signed) Edward Lair, 739 S. Park St., Elizabeth, N. J., May 22, 1924.
For every purpose of the toilet and bath, Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are excellent.
Sample Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. T, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Use Cuticura for your new Shaving Stick.

WESTERLY

From Hartford comes the announcement that Norman C. Church, formerly of Pawcatuck, has completed his duties with the F. E. Kingston Co., with which firm he has been for the past two years. He is now with the firm of Paine, Webber & Co., which will give him a wider field.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert R. Rich of Boston arrived in Westerly on Wednesday by automobile for a month's vacation visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cook, of Pawcatuck.

The fifth band concert in the summer series by the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, director, which was omitted on account of the rain last Thursday evening, is to be given in Wilcox park this (Thursday) evening beginning at 8 p. m. The program:

March, Solid Men to the Front Sousa
Finale, The Star Spangled Banner

Capt. John Datson of Battery E, 243rd Field artillery, who with a committee of former members of military organizations, is busily engaged in recruiting the battery to an organized strength of 80 men, announces open house at the state armory on Dixon street this (Thursday) evening. At that time the entire armory, including company room, officers room, drill shed, bowling alleys, shooting range and plotting room with instruments, will be thrown open to public inspection with the object of showing what equipment is available for the use of a national guard company.

At East Greenwich, R. I., not long ago, the military organization had run down and with the intensive work of those interested it was brought back to its former high standing. It is hoped this result will be gained in Westerly. Tuesday evening's drill showed a gain of two recruits. The appointment as lieutenant of Elvin Andrews of Newport, R. I., a 1924 man at Rhode Island state college and now employed as an engineer at the Bradford Dyeing association works at Bradford, is expected to be announced in a short time. Thursday's program will include brief addresses by men qualified to speak on military affairs.

Westerly people were more or less disappointed in not getting a sight of the navy dirigible Shenandoah, which Wednesday morning's Bulletin announced as having received orders for a New England trip. The Shenandoah was scheduled to leave Lakehurst, N. J., at 11.30 a. m. and taking a course along Long Island sound, to arrive at Narragansett Bay between two and three o'clock. Here an entirely new stunt is to be tried out, that of making fast to a mooring mast on the ship Patoka. If the coastwise route is followed visitors at Wtach Hill, Pleasant View, Atlantic Beach, and Weekapaug, will have exceptional opportunities for viewing the big navy air visitor. When the Shenandoah made its New England visit last fall much interest was taken all through Washington county in the visit of the big blimp. Thunder storms in New Jersey prevented the dirigible's trip Wednesday and it is announced that if favorable weather prevails the same itinerary will be followed on this (Thursday).

By deed on file at the office of the Westerly town clerk on August 4th the Smith Granite Company conveyed to G. Harold Crandall and Effie J. Crandall a lot of land on the east side of Franklin street.

At her home, 14 Chestnut street on Wednesday morning occurred the death of Mrs. Emma F. Benn, 64, widow of Erastus H. Benn. Mrs. Benn has made her home in Westerly for seven years, coming here to live with her son, Erastus H. Benn. She is survived by another son, Hamilton Benn, of Newark, N. J.

Edwin E. Crandall, a painter in the employ of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons Co., 44 Palmer street, Pawcatuck, tripped the other morning and fell into the Pawcatcuk river while painting the company fence on the wharf. Mr. Crandall in his fall took his paint can and brushes overboard with him and although he lost his paint was successful in saving his brushes. With the exclamation, "Gosh, the water's wet," Mr. Crandall got back on the riverbank unaided and escaped with nothing more serious than a thorough soaking.

Mrs. John J. Casey of New Rochelle formerly of Westerly, arrived in town Tuesday afternoon for a visit with relatives and friends.

Walter Lewis of Ashaway visited Monday evening at the home of Ernest Saunders on the Watch Hill road.

Mrs. A. R. Maxon, Mrs. Henry Barnes, Mrs. Herbert Greenman have visited a friend at Wallum Lake sanatorium, Burrillville, R. I.

Mrs. F. F. Freeman and Mrs. Walter C. Hiscox, who are enjoying an outing at Lake Kennebago, Me., will soon be joined by their husbands, who will leave Westerly on their vacation for a visit in the Maine woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leete with the latter's two sisters are automobile visitors in New York city and will enjoy a trip up the Hudson.

Savell Walevitch is to appear for the Watch Hill Improvement Society in Russian song and gypsy ballads, which are akin to the Scotch and Gaelic ballads, some having no written music or words, but coming by hearsay from the peasant singers.

STONINGTON

The funeral services o Mrs. Louise M. Wood were held at her home on Main street Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Henry M. Thompson conducted the services. Burial was in Stonington cemetery.

Mrs. Wood, 83, widow of John Wood of Stafford Springs, who has been a resident of Stonington for about 30 years, died Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Wadsworth. She has been feeble for many months. She was born in Bloomfield, Sept. 17, 1840.

Mrs. Wood is survived by three children, Mrs. Wadsworth and Charles G. Cushman of Stonington and Ernest Cushman of New London.

After burglars had helped themselves to about $50 worth of goods in the garage of George H. Gleason at East Jamaica, Vt., recently, they detached a blank check from Mr. Gleason's check book, wrote a check for $19, signed a fictitious name and left it in payment of what they took.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes from Springfield were callers in town Sunday.

Mrs. M. L. Woodward was at Exeter Pond Sunday.

It's a poor kind of repentance that doesn't insure against a repetition of the offense.

HUSBAND SAID WHY NOT TRY IT

Wife Said She Would. Result, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

East Hardwick, Vermont.—"Last winter I was not able to do any work at all. I had backache, headache, sideache, and was sick all the time for six months. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers, and my husband said to me, 'Why don't you try it?' So I said I would, and he went and got me a dozen bottles. It has done me more good than I can ever tell, and my friends say, 'What have you done to yourself? You look so well.' I tell them it is the Vegetable Compound that makes me so well and strong. There is no use to suffer with backache and pains. I will tell every one what it has done for me."—Mrs. FRED. PERRO, Route No. 2, E. Hardwick, Vermont.

President John B. Benoit of the Taftville Field Day association has called a meeting for tonight (Thursday) and all organizations in the village are expected to be present to formulate plans for a field day next month, the proceeds to be used for another big celebration on July 4th, 1925. The celebration this year was such a success that villagers are clamoring to help make the field day a bigger success this year.

ANDOVER

The body of Jasper Fitch of Manchester was brought here Sunday for burial. Funeral services were held in the North Congregational church in the afternoon. Several from here attended the funeral.

Mrs. Thomas Sullivan and daughter, Mary, who have been spending three weeks at Newport, R. I., returned home Sunday night.

Miss Clara Thompson was a Hartford visitor Tuesday.

A lawn party was held Wednesday evening at Frank Hamilton's.

The Ladies' society is to meet at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wright this (Thursday) afternoon.

RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF USED CAR EXCHANGE

Philip H. Rockwood has resigned as manager of the Norwich Used Car Exchange, Inc., severing his connection with the company on Tuesday. Mr. Rockwood had charge of the U. C. T. exhibit which was held several months ago at the armory and was in charge of other exhibits, chiefly industrial, which were held in this city. He was a member of the U. C. T. and was active in its work.

President Julian L. Williams of the exchange has stated that a new manager will not be appointed for several weeks. In the meantime Michael Doyle will be in charge.

Waterford Fair Clears $1,600

With more than 3,000 persons in attendance, liberal patronage of the various booths and excellent weather conditions, a kermis given by Mrs. Edward C. Hammond of Goshen, Tuesday afternoon, netted something in excess of $1,600 for the Waterford Nursing service. The affair was held on the old Rumrill farm at Little Goshen and from 2:30 until 7:30.

HAVE YOU APPENDICITIS AND DON'T KNOW IT?

Much so-called stomach trouble is really chronic appendicitis. This can often be relieved by simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on low, or bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, and removes all gases and poisons. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for obstinate constipation.

RECORD ATTENDANCE THIS WEEK AT THE LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS

Interest in the recreation commission increases steadily as is shown by the number of children attending the playgrounds, especially in Greeneville Monday and Tuesday of this week. The attendance of 1360 for these two days surpasses the total attendance of 1100 for last week. This is perhaps due to the fact that the instructors have taken a lively interest in the grounds, organizing a parade and Buffalo Bill circus.

Superintendent Earle A. Brigham of the city recreation commission calls attention to the total attendance of boys and girls from Tuesday, July 8th, to Thursday, Aug. 1st, which is approximately 22,350. Considering the inactivity of the Elizabeth street playground for a few days owing to the unfortunate death of William Fitzgerald, these figures are extremely good and promise many surprises in the future.

Mr. Brigham is very fortunate in securing the helpful assistance of Miss Lillian C. Boynton of the Academy faculty. She brings a wealth of experience and initiative to his aid and it is hoped that through their combined efforts the executive work of the recreation commission will prove efficient and satisfactory.

Miss Hazel Phillips, a graduate of the Academy this year has been secured to fill the vacancy left open by the resignation of Miss Sarah Hyman at the Thamesville playground. Miss Phillips while at the Academy was very much interested in athletics and is well qualified for the position.

Elizabeth street scored 15 points Wednesday afternoon when they won in field hockey and dodge ball from Laurel Hill. The five points scored by Laurel Hill was in straddle ball.

The lineup:

Laurel Hill: A. Pauck, F. Bushnell, J. Woods, L. Williams, M. Vallin, M. Bjourn, M. Grieco.

Elizabeth street: S. Mintz, H. Sakowits, G. LaRochelle, H. Hoffman, S. Sulmkowski, N. Santos, M. Buonani.

CREDIT FOR THE MONITOR DUE GEORGE REYNOLDS

Alexander Proctor, who died in Norwich a year ago at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William D. Ricker, when in his 93rd year, worked in the Delemater plant when the famous Monitor was being built. For that reason there is local interest in the following from a New York paper.

In regard to the anniversary commemoration of Captain John Ericsson, there is no doubt that Ericsson deserves all the credit for having built the Monitor, but the credit for having produced the Monitor at the psychological moment in Hampton Roads is not to be credited to the captain, but rather to George Reynolds of Connecticut, the greatest mechanical engineer America ever produced, the head of the Delemater Iron Works during the period of its great prosperity fifty years ago; a man whose inventions recorded a distinct step forwarding engineering.

In the '50's George Reynolds invented an engine that was a great improvement over anything that then existed. One of these engines was placed in a famous sound steamer, which thereupon ran away from its nearest rival and for a long time caused the boat in which it was placed to remain the champion speedster of our great inland waterway.

While Ericsson was rushing work on the Monitor he was also trying to complete an engine of his own device. The government was pushing him to the extent of the speed limit in getting the Monitor under steam. He finished the boat in time, but not the engine. His friend Reynolds had one of his own engines at the Delemater works and finally induced Ericsson to permit the Monitor to be equipped with it. This was done, and the Monitor proceeded on her way to victory.

If Ericsson had held out, as he stubbornly did for a long time, the Monitor would not have reached Hampton Roads in time to interrupt the leisurely destructiveness of the Merrimac; nor, perhaps, to have prevented her from bombarding northern coast cities. Ericsson deserves the greater credit—he built the Monitor; but George Reynolds should be remembered at the same time, for it war an engine of his invention that he himself put into the little insides of the Monitor which gave her the life impulse that enabled her to be on the job at a critical time in the history of the United States.

George Reynolds died about ten years ago, full of years and honors. He lived for many decades on a beautiful farm not very far from Bridgeport. I think that one of his sons is still living, and on the old place. He was a remarkable man, a pioneer engineer of very great distinction, who conferred honor upon the land of his birth. While we are celebrating the anniversary of our great Swedish-American engineer, we should not forget his friend, George Reynolds.

NORWICH PEOPLE TO BE AMONG PATRONS

Several Norwich people are to be among the patrons of a joint piano and song recital to be given in aid of the Poquyogh Chapel and Poquyogh association, Waterford, by Carl Fique, musical director of the National Opera Club of America, and his wife, Katherine Noack Fique, a concert and operatic soprano. They are members of the summer colony at Poquyogh, where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Merrill.

Besides being a talented pianist, Mr. Fique is a composer and lecturer, while Mrs. Fique is known in musical circles for her rich voice, perfect enunciation and personal beauty and charm. Besides numbers from the great masters, the two artists will render some of Mr. Fique's own compositions. He is considered one of the foremost musical directors of greater New York and the Musical Courier calls him "one of the master teachers of the world."

OVER 900 TESTED CATTLE IN THIS COUNTY

James M. Whittlesey, commissioner on the diseases of domestic animals, has had printed a pamphlet containing the names and addresses of owners of tuberculin tested cattle in the state with the number of animals in each herd, at the close of the fiscal year June 30. The total number of herds was 1,405 and the number of cattle 31,764.

The number of accredited herds, free from tuberculosis, together with the number of animals in these herds in the counties of the state are as follows: Hartford county, 73 herds, 1,757 cattle; Fairfield county, 58 herds, 807 cattle; Litchfield, 92 herds, 2,477 cattle; Middlesex county, 13 herds, 317 cattle; New Haven county, 28 herds, 695 cattle; New London county, 34 herds, 545 cattle; Windham county, 96 herds, 1,467 cattle; Tolland county, 47 herds, 881 cattle. The total of these herds is 410 and of cattle 6,797.

THIRD PUBLIC BAND CONCERT DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE

The public band concert at Union square Wednesday evening drew another large crowd and, as usual, the programme was admirably given by Swahn's Military band, under the leadership of John M. Swahn. It was a hot trying evening for the bandsmen but they overlooked the fact that the mercury was well up to the top of the glass tube and rendered the programme with the spirit and zest that won them the hearty applause of the delighted audience.

This was the final number in a series of three public concerts given by Swahn's Military band under the direction of the amusement committee of the court of common council. The local American-Italian band will complete the city's outdoor concert programme with a series of three concerts at Union square, the dates of which will soon be announced.

Following is the programme of Wednesday evening's concert:

March, The Chimes of Liberty, Frank, Goldman
Overture, Light Cavalry, Suppe
Medley—Leo Feist Popular Hits (introducing Don't Mind the Rain, June Night, Maytime and Somewhere in the World.

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER FOR EASTERN CONN. INDUSTRIES

Industries throughout eastern Connecticut are showing considerable more activity than has been the case for the past few months.

The Ponemah mills at Taftville are operating this week, being the first time in several weeks that continuous operation has been in order. The plant may be operated next week, but schedules are made up only week by week, owing to present trade conditions.

Lawton Mills, Inc., of Plainfield is operating on 48 hours weekly schedules with consistent regularity now and will continue as long as possible. Occasionally the plant closed for a week during the depression. The outlook is brighter than it has been but is by no means stable. One thousand workmen are employed.

The Ashland mills of Jewett City in its announcement of a return to operations on full time schedule gives notice of a 15 per cent. cut in wages, effective at the same time. The company employs 425 operatives in cotton manufacture, working night and day. The plant has been operating only three days weekly of late.

STEAMER MYRA RESUMES TRIPS TO OCEAN BEACH

After being laid up for some days the steamer Myra resumed its trips Wednesday between this city and Ocean Beach. The steamer left Norwich on schedule at 930 o'clock in the morning and made excellent time down the river and to the beach. There was a fairly large crowd on board.

Those who made the trip up in the evening remarked on the beauty of the sunset as the sun slowly dropped behind the hills As darkness began to settle down the river was lighted by the soft glow of the moon which will soon be full. Announcement was made Wednesday evening that beginning today the Myra will leave Norwich at 1230 Thursday afternoon for the remainder of the summer.

MERCURY CLIMBS WELL ABOVE THE 90 MARK

Norwich sweltered in the summer heat of Wednesday. It was about the hottest day of the season, the mercury climbing well above the 90 mark in the sun. It was an exceptionally trying day and instead of growing cooler as the day waned it seemed to grow even warmer. The evening was hot and sultry. A cloudy sky and distant flashes of lightning during the evening gave promise of rain and relief from the heat wave but the rain failed to appear.

Crops throughout New London county are rapidly burning up in the hot sun. There has been practically no rain for weeks and the farmers are despairing of harvesting crops any where near average size. One farmer stated that from appearances he will have but half a crop of potatoes this season and unless rain speedily arrives he will have considerably less than half a crop. High prices for foodstuffs are freely predicted this fall and winter owing to the heavy crop damage caused by the drought.

LOCAL PLUMBER OBSERVES HIS 52ND BIRTHDAY

John A. Britton well known local plumber of 56 Broadway, celebrated his 52nd birthday Wednesday. Mr. Britton has been confined to his home for the past seven years and the anniversary was quietly observed, a number of friends calling during the day or remembering him with cards or gifts. Mr. Britton is always ready to welcome his old friends and appreciated the remembrances of Wednesday.

DID NOT HAVE STRENGTH TO COMB HER HAIR

"Since taking Tanlac I look and feel like a different person," recently asserted Mrs. Lewis Herbolsheimer, 40 Portland St., Worcester, Mass.

"Two years of stomach trouble brought on a complication of ills that were fast shattering my health. Indigestion kept me in constant pain and misery and I actually did not have strength to comb my hair. My nerves were so excited that I would wake up all hours of the night and loss of sleep was just wearing me out.

"As badly run-down as I was it has only taken six bottles of Tanlac to make me feel like my normal self. My troubles are not only gone, but I eat and sleep like a child and have gained twenty pounds. My gratitude to Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation, made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

NEW MOWN HAY.

If I could only catch, between my hands,
Elusive scents—warm, full-blown scents of new mown hay,
I'd hold that fragrance of the meadow-lands,
That, though the flying summers fade, 'twould with me stay.

If I could only make this poem sing
Those sun-touched scents of shadeless fields to you who read,
What memories of other mowing days 'twould bring
Of childhood's happy summers that were dear indeed!

—Agnes Choate Wonson, in Boston Transcript.

AFTERNOON ON A HILL.

I will be the gladdest thing,
Under the sun!
I will touch a hundred flowers
And not pick one.

I will look at cliffs and clouds
With quiet eyes,
Watch the wind blow down the grass,
And the grass rise.

And when the lights begin to show
Up from the town,
I will mark which must be mine,
And then start down.

—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

STATE TREAS'R G. HAROLD GILPATRIC ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BY SHOOTING

Mr. Gilpatric, Who is Not Expected to Live, Was Found at His Home in Putnam With a Bullet Wound in His Right Temple—Motive is Believed to Have Been Worry Over His Affairs—Mr. Gilpatric is Cashier of the First National Bank of Putnam—Bank Directors Are to Hold a Meeting This Morning Prior to Issuing a Statement—Mrs. Gilpatric and Children Are Summering in Maine.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 7.—G. Harold Gilpatric, state treasurer and cashier of the First National bank of Putnam, lay at the Day Kimball hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his right temple and is not expected to live. The cause of Mr. Gilpatrick's act, which was committed at his home here, is not known, but it is believed that worry over his affairs led him to attempt to take his life. State bank examiners have been at the bank all day and are in the bank this evening.

At the bank tonight no statement could be obtained. The only reply to an inquiry relative to the bank's affairs was that "There was nothing to say, tonight." It was stated that the bank directors would hold a meeting the first thing in the morning and that a statement would be issued.

Mrs. Gilpatric and the children are in Maine and Mr. Gilpatric was planning to motor there Saturday. When Mr. Gilpatric did not put in an appearance at the bank this morning the assistant cashier, Guy L. Baker, called Mr. Gilpatric's home on the telephone and in response to the question as to whether he was coming to the bank or not Mr. Gilpatric replied that he was coming down. When he did not appear during the day Mr. Baker, after the bank closed, went to the home of Mr. Gilpatric to see if anything was the matter. When he reached the house he noticed that both of Mr. Gilpatric's automobiles were in the garage. The doors to the house were locked and, ringing the front bell, he received no response.

Mr. Baker then went to the home of George L. Padgett, editor of the Windham County Observer, which is near by, thinking that Mr. Gilpatric might be there or that Mr. Padgett might know something of his whereabouts, as Mr. Gilpatric and Mr. Padgett are close friends. When Mr. Padgett was told of the circumstances he accompanied Mr. Baker to the Gilpatric home. A rear window in the house was forced by the aid of a screw driver, and the men entered. Receiving no response to their calls they went upstairs and found Mr. Gilpatric lying on his bed, unconscious, and blood flowing from the wound in his temple.

An investigation disclosed that the shot had been fired in the bathroom and that Mr. Gilpatric had then staggered to his bedroom. Mr. Padgett summoned Dr. M. J. Bullard and Dr. F. J. Morrell of Putnam and Dr. S. B. Overlock of Pomfret, surgeon at the Day-Kimball hospital. Without gaining consciousness Mr. Gilpatric was removed to the hospital. Without gaining consciousness Mr. Gilpatric was removed to the hospital in the ambulance.

At the hospital he later regained consciousness but no information regarding any statements he may have made, if any, or anything regarding the case was given out except that Mr. Gilpatric is in a very serious condition. Mr. Gilpatric's older brother, Attorney G. Walter Gilpatric of New York, is at his summer cottage on Mt. Desert Island, Me., and Mrs. Harold Gilpatric is visiting him.

On account of the thunderstorm a telephone message for them to start home immediately had to be relayed but the telephone company reports the message reached them. F. Raymond Gilpatric, a younger brother, was communicated with at his home in New Britain and he and his wife arrived shortly after 3 o'clock this evening.

Mr. Gilpatric's father and mother are at his summer home at Juniper Point, Me., with the two younger children, while the older daughter is at a girls' summer camp.

Mr. Gilpatric was appointed cashier in 1908. He was elected state treasurer in 1919 and was reelected in 1951. During his term of office he has installed a new system of bookkeeping for the state accounts and has been successful in floating several bond issues to the advantage of the state. He is chairman of the committee appointed to raise $100,000 to build a dormitory at the Connecticut College for Women in New London.

Treasurer Gilpatric also is president of the Paris Water company of Paris, Kentucky, and secretary of the Adriam Water company of Adriam, Michigan. He is chairman of the board of water commissioners of Putnam.

HAVE FOUND BASE ON GREENLAND FOR FLIERS

Washington, Aug. 7.—An early resumption of the world flight by the two remaining planes, now at Reykjavik, Iceland, was expected in military circles today, following official information that the army advance party had located a safe substitute base for Icelocked Angmagsalik, which had been listed as the next terminal.

A dispatch from the cruiser Milwaukee relayed a report from the explorers declaring a satisfactory place had been found at Ekalulit, on the west coast of Greenland. Not only would this afford a secure landing place for the planes, the report said, but an open harbor was available for the Milwaukee and the facilities for hauling out the planes should moderate repairs be necessary.

The place did not appear even on maps of the general staff and considerable search was necessary before army officers finally identified it as the old name listed on Danish charts as "Ekalulik."

It is considerably further south than the proposed base which the army advance was unable to reach because of unprecedented ice fields. Ekalulit was said to enjoy longer periods of open water and has been so recorded in marine journals.

Stated that the flight would be resumed shortly was strengthened by other reports, particularly to the hydrographic office that ice conditions around southern Greenland has measurably improved during the last 24 hours with an accompanying moderation in the weather. A distance of 750 miles is estimated to be comprised in the contemplated jump, well within the capacity of the planes.

It was pointed out here that no approval was necessary from Washington for establishing the substitute base or for departure from Reykjavik, wide discretion having been left in such matters to the pilots and to their advisers nearer at hand.

BREWSTER REP. NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR OF MAINE

Portland, Me., Aug. 7.—Ralph O. Brewster, Ku Klux Klan endorsed candidate for the republican nomination for governor was today officially pronounced the republican candidate for the governorship. A re-poll of ballots in one Portland ward in which "gross fraud" was said to have been discovered, was concluded today. Final figures for the primary, the result of which has been in doubt since last June, when Frank G. Farrington was declared winner by a narrow margin, give Brewster a plurality of 181 votes in 94,000 ballots cast.

The totals were Brewster 47,384; Farrington 46,703.

The result of the primary, after a complete recanvass of the remainder of the state had been concluded, stood upon the vote cast in Ward Four, Portland. Acting upon instructions for the supreme court, Governor Baxter and council yesterday opened an investigation which reversed the first announced result of the primary and uncovered what Governor Baxter, in a statement, termed "gross" and "supreme fraud."

POLITICS ARE DORMANT IN NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, Aug. 7.—Politics reached the dormant stage in Washington today with leaders devoting their attention to the physical necessities incident to arranging for the formal notification of President Coolidge here a week rom today of his nomination as the republican candidate for president.

Mr. Coolidge finished and sent to the printers his address and aside from attending to a few routine government matters spent most of the day, one of the hottest in the history of the city in resting. He has worked studiously every day for about two weeks on the address and this coupled with government business has kept him close to his desk.

Despite the intense heat of this week, and the heavy work indulged in by Mr. Coolidge, he is described by friends as in splendid physical condition.

Among the callers tat the White House today were Representative Clague, of Minnesota, and Representative Cole, of Ohio, both brought enthusiastic reports regarding the campaign.

STEAMER WESTLAKE LOST BLADE OF HER PROPELLER

Boston, Aug. 7.—The shipping board steamer Westlake, operated by the Oriole Line, which left this port last Sunday night for Liverpool, has dropped a blade of her propeller and is proceeding slowly back to Boston, according to wireless reports received at the company offices here. The accident occurred early Tuesday morning, when the steamer was 65 miles southeast by east from Halifax, N. S., it was stated.

The Westlake will be drydocked at Quincy for repairs and will resume her voyage with the least possible delay, it was announced. The bulk of her cargo was loaded at the time.

NEW HAVEN IRON WORKER FELL 35 FEET FROM BRIDGE

Ansonia, Aug. 7.—Matteo Ruggiero of 139 Washington avenue, New Haven, fell a distance of 35 feet from the Maple Street bridge into the Naugatuck river this afternoon and was taken to the Griffin hospital with a fractured knee cap, lacerations about the head and a general shaking up. His injuries are not considered serious. He was an iron worker employed by The New England Iron Work of New Haven and is reported to have been overcome by the heat.

Dirigible ZR-3 Ready for ...

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Aug. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Trial flights of the dirigible ZR-3 which is being built here for the American government, will begin on August 8, according to present plans of the Zeppelin company. Installation will be undertaken within the course of the next few days of the new Maybach motors which, it is announced, have satisfactorily responded in exhaustive endurance test runs. After the motors are in place, the dirigible will be inflated.

GERMANS URGE EARLY OPERATION OF THE DAWES PLAN

London, Aug. 7. (By the A. P.)—The ... the best day ... international conference which is endeavoring to put into effect the Dawes plan for the payment of reparations by Germany, according to Frank B. Kellogg, the American ambassador and James A. Logan, Jr., who were closeted with the committees in council from early ... until this evening.

The Germans ... accepted a moral engagement to float a loan of $40,000,000, thereby fulfilling one of the most important of the ... ration commission's requirements before the Dawes plan can be considered effective. The whole of the allied program of a declaration of defaults under the new reparations scheme has been accepted by the Germans, and rapid progress has been made in obtaining German approval on other phases of the allied agreement for putting the plan into operation.

Another important development today was an agreement between the allies and Germans, under which the Dawes plan can be enforced ten days earlier than October 15, the date which had been agreed upon. Since the moment of their arrival the Germans have been urging that the plan be made operative at the soonest possible moment. The new date therefore was set for October 5 as a concession to Herr Mark, the German chancellor, but the earlier launching of the plan is contingent upon necessary legislation being passed by the reichstag prior to August 15. If the new reparations regime is effective by October 5, another concession will be made Germany by the surrender of the customs barriers ... days earlier than under the previous arrangement.

The "Big Fourteen" and the experts committees, with German members sitting on them, held morning and afternoon sessions.

CONFERENCE OF ENVOYS OF JAPAN AND CHINA

Peking, Aug. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Conferences looking to reestablishment of diplomatic relations were resumed here today by Representatives of the Japanese and the Russian soviet governments.

The Japanese minister, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, who has just returned from Tokio, was reported to have placed before the Russian ambassador, L. M. Karakhan, a definite outline of the bases on which Japan is prepared to evacuate Saghalien, which has proved a stumbling block in the negotiations between the two countries.

It is understood that the Japanese minister urged upon M. Karakhan the desirability of an early agreement, pointing out that otherwise the proposed evacuation could not be made effective before the closing in of the early winter on the Siberian island.

Conversations between the two diplomats will be held practically daily hereafter, under present plans. At least three days will be taken up with presentation of the Russian position.

Despatches from Tokio two weeks ago stated that the Japanese cabinet had agreed on a new policy toward Russia, particularly in regard to Saghalien concessions, which, it was believed would lead to eventual Japanese recognition of the soviety government.

FATALITIES AND DAMAGE BY TORNADO IN WISCONSIN

Black River Falls, Wis., Aug. 7.—Two persons are known to have been injured and considerable property damage was cused by a tornado which swept this section early tonight.

Sweeping down from the northwestern part of Trempeleaux county, near Osseo, the storm cut a path two miles wide and more than ten miles long in the direction of Black River Falls.

Houses, barns, outbuildings, trees, and telephone and telegraph wires were blown down. A number of houses in Black River were unroofed.

Osseo, Wis., Aug. 7.—Julius Baglien was killed and his mother, Mrs. Ole Baglien, seriously hurt by a tornado which struck this section early tonight.

Six farms were damaged in Trempeleaux county, trees uprooted, telephone and telegraph communication paralysed and roads made impassable.

Bloomer, Wis., Aug. 7.—Three persons are reported to have been killed and a number injured in a tornado which swept this section early today.

A SENSATIONAL GAIN IN STERLING EXCHANGE

New York, Aug. 7.—News that the allies and Germans had come to a complete agreement on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes plan today resulted in a sensational gain of 6 1-2 cents in sterling exchange to $4.51 3-8, a new high record for the year, and stimulated the buying of French governmental and municipal bonds, nine of which broke through their previous high prices on gains of 1 to 2 points.

Chums Testify for Loeb and Leopold

Sustain Testimony of Alienists That the Youths Were "Mentally Sick."

Chicago, Aug. 7.—(By The A. P.)—The prosecution tonight claimed a rout of five witnesses called by the defense today to testify in furtherance of its plea for mitigation when Judge John R. Caverly sentences Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for kidnapping and murdering young Robert Franks.

Four college and fraternity chums of the two, and a former sweetheart of Loeb came to the witness stand, gave evidence in corroboration of three famous pathologists, who testified the youths were "mentally sick," and then submitted to a severe cross examination by Robert E. Crowe, the state's attorney.

Reading from transcrips of statements previously made in his office, the prosecutor was able to show in some instances that stories of today's witnesses' observations and conclusions regarding Loeb and Leopold were at variance with their sworn testimony.

Miss Lorraine Nathan, pretty little 18 year old brunette, identified herself as a "school day friend" of Loeb since 1921, and testified that since June, 1923, she had noted a "complete change in him," that at times he acted "rather idiotically" and that she came to regard him as "irrational, irresponsible and infantile."

In cross examination State's Attorney Crowe relentlessly pounced upon her testimony. He read rapidly a record of what he said was Miss Nathan's original statement to him that Loeb was "perfectly sane and rational" and "manly, a gentleman and all that she expected in an ideal," and with voice gradually rising over protests by Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, shouted at the courts.

"Have we got to where state's attorney is not permitted to show that a witness is a deliberate perjurer?"

In Arnold Maremont, University of Chicago law student, Mr. Crowe caught a tartar and did not succeed in materially shaking his testimony which had dealt chiefly with Leopold's philosophy of a superman and egotistic right to "do anything as long as it gave him pleasure."

John Abt, young graduate of the University of Chicago who knows both Loeb and Leopold, and Max Schrayer and Edwin Meiss, fraternity brothers of Loeb before he was graduate from the University of Michigan, were the other witnesses.

All three testified that they had observed childish tendencies in Loeb, the last two saying Loeb, although a senior did not share all the privileges of a fourth year man at school, drank heavily for which he was disciplined, and was regarded as argumentative and rather a bore.

The corps of four state's attorneys, fighting for a hanging decision, were elated a having, they said, forced a new maneuver by the defense in the calling of lay witnesses instead of proceeding with testimony of the two or three remaining psychiatrists.

The defense, expressing itself as satisfied with the trend of the case, said tonight it would continue with lay witnesses—young men and women of an age with Leopold and Loeb in the list said Mr. Darrow, were Miss Germaine K. Reinhardt, nicknamed "Peaches," who has visited Loeb frequently in jail, and Miss Rosalind Nathan, sister of Lorraine, although there was some doubs whether the later would be called.

It was Miss Rosalind who said Loeb was "plain cockoo," testified Miss Lorraine today, after he had stuck his thumb into all the chocolates on a plate passed to him at a dance at the Nathan home as he sought a soft centered candy.

As Miss Nathan, a demure miss in black and white, nervously mounted to the witness box, Loeb craned his neck for a look at his former sweetheart. She avoided his glance until she left the stand at the noon recess with Mr. Crowe's cry of perjury ringing in her ears. Then she rushed past Leopold and Loeb, hesitated, turned and impulsively placed both hands on Loeb's arm. She greeted Leopold and was whispering hurriedly to Loeb when a bailiff jerked the young man nearly off his feet and hurled him toward the elevtor for a return to his jail cell.

BATHER WAS DROWNED IN QUINNIPIAC RIVER

New Haven, Aug. 7.—Felix Nunniski, 27, a baker, of Veteran street, Meriden, was drowned this afternoon in the Quinnipiac river while bathing at Dover Beach. Nunniski, with Miss Helen Morris of 306 Main street, Hartford, and Mrs. Joseph Zeckel of Meriden, were the guests of friends on Dover street at the beach, and Nunniski with the aid of an automobile tire was teaching Miss Morris to swim. The couple stepped into a hole, both going down. Three young men who heard Miss Morris' shouts for help went to her assistance and carried her to shore. They did not know at the time that Nunniski also had gone down. The body was not recovered until nearly an hour after the accident. The body was taken to Meriden for burial.

KLAN WILL BE ISSUE AT ELECTION IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Aug. 7 (By the A. P.)—All doubt that the November senatorial election in Oklahoma would be a fight between the Ku Klux Klan and its opponents apparently had passed tonight when returns from virtually all the states indicated the nomination of J. C. Walton, democrat, and bitter opponent of klan, and W. B. Pine, wealthy oil man and a Klan endorsee.

With but 444 of the 2,996 precincts missing, Walton's lead over E. B. Howard, congressman from the First district, had increased more than 7,000.

Pine's lead over Eugene Lorton, Tulsa publisher, assures him the republican nomination.

Civil War Again Being Waged in Honduras

Liberal Party is Being Held Responsible For the New Outbreak There.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Honduran republic is again involved in civil war despite efforts of the United States and the other four Central American countries to restore order and pave the way for more stable government in in the distressed country.

A despatch from Minister Franklin E. Morales at Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, said that General Ferrera, minister of war under the provisional government, left the capital on the morning of Aug. 6th with 500 fully armed men, each soldier carrying three extra rifles. The force was bound presumably for Comayagua, the message said, adding:

"The country is again at civil war and tremination of hostilities cannot be expected for some time."

The despatch indicated that the liberal party in Honduras was held responsible for the new outbreak, as it asserted that the provisional authorities had arrested "all the principal leaders of the liberal party."

What action, if any, the Washington government contemplates taking has not been disclosed. There are three American light cruisers either in the Canal Zone or Mexican waters, however, and it would be possible to despatch one or more of these to Honduran ports with little delay if protection of American lives and properties required such a step.

There was no indication either at the state or navy departments that orders had been issued as yet for a warship to proceed to Honduras. Probably fuller reports from Minister Morales are awaited before action is decided upon.

Renewal of the revolutionay movement in Honduras, even before the provisional government set up after the conference of Amapala, in which representatives of Nicaragua, Salvadore, Costa Rica and Guatemala as well as of the United States participated, has had an opportunity to hold a presidential election, creates a grave situation as there are important American as well as other foreign commercial interests again placed in jeopardy. All of the leaders of the various political factions in Honduras either participated in the conference or were represented there and subscribed to the plan for restoring constitutional government which was then mapped out.

An earlier outbreak of a revolutionary nature occurred a few days ago in the vicinity of the Nicaraguan border. Reports from Nicaragua that two Americans had been killed in the fighting in that section of the country are not confirmed by official advices that have thus far reached the Washington government.

KNOCKED OFF LOAD OF HAY BY MOTOR CAR

Danbury, Conn., August 7.—Michael Melicha, 56, and Martin Musko, 74, are in the Danbury hospital suffering from injuries received when the load of hay they were riding upon this afternoon, was struck by a gasoline operated motor car on the Litchfield branch of the Danbury division of the New Haven railroad. The accident occurred at Kelly's crossing, Hawleyville, eight miles north of this place, this afternoon. The bus, which was on its way from Litchfield to Danbury, was well filled with passengers and many of the women became hysterical when they saw the load of hay on the track and after the crash.

Musko's injuries consist of concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. A third man on the load of hay escaped uninjured. The wagon was wrecked but the horses were unhurt.

NEARLY 5,000 BOSTON GARMENT WORKERS VOTE TO STRIKE

Boston, Aug. 7.—A resolution calling for a strike of nearly 5,000 garment workers in the manufacturers' clothing industry in Boston was adopted at a meeting of local unions of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America here today. A committee of international and local officers was given full power to negotiate for a settlement with employers and, is unsuccessful in obtaining a settlement, to order a strike.

According to Joseph Salerno, general organizer, the strike "would be a stoppage of work for the enforcement of the present agreement, terms of which," he said, "many manufacturere have violated, and for the enforcement of employment insurance and other betterments now in force in New York and Chicago."

DAVIS OPENED CAMPAIGN IN NEW YORK STATE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 7.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, opened his campaign in New York state tonight at a rally of democrats in the republican stronghold of Dutchess county. Called upon to speak unexpectedly after Governor Alfred Smith had vigorously assailed the republican party on its record in this state and the nation, Mr. Davis told a cheering crowd that he believed that "the great issue of this campaign is honesty in government."

"A democrat," he said, "is one who wants the record of his party revealed and a republican is one who wants it forgotten. I join with Governor Smith in urging that you see that they are not of failing memory in that direction."

"BISHOP OF WALL STREET," 76, TO WED MRS. P. T. MACNAB, 74

New York, Aug. 7.—The Rev. William Wilkinson, 76 years old, widely known in downtown New York as "The Bishop of Wall Street," today took out a license to marry Mrs. Pauline Travilla MacNab, 74 years old. The ceremony will take place tomorrow in Trinity church, in the vicinity of which Mr. Wilkinson has delivered many street corner sermons.

Mr. Wilkinson is a native of England. His bride was born in Philadelphia but lately has lived in New York. This will be Mr. Wilkinson's third marriage and Mrs. MacNab's second.

DEATHS AND DAMAGE CAUSED BY THE ELECTRICAL STORM

Rain, Hail and Wind Accompanied the Terrific Thunder—Lightning Caused Several Deaths—In Rockville Alone $50,000 Damage Resulted—Tobacco and Farming Sections in the Surrounding Country Suffered Heavy Damage—At One Tobacco Farm Three Barns Were Blown Over by the Wind—25 Men and Women Who Had Taken Refuge in the Barns Sustained Cut and Bruises—Two Women Were Seriously Injured—Lightning Struck at Least Five Places in Windsor.

Rockville, August 7.—One of the most terrific storms in this section of the state hit Rockville and vicinity this afternoon leaving damage and destruction estimated at $50,000 in Rockville alone with heavy damage to the tobacco and farming sections surrounding this country. The storm broke at 2.30, heavy thunder and lightning producing rain, hail and wind. Rockville is without trolley service, electric lights and fire alarms tonight, the various electrical systems being put out of commission by the electrical storm. Trolley cars on the Connecticut company lines stopped running when the storm broke and service had not been resumed this evening. The damage from the storm was very heavy in the outlying districts. The tobacco building of the E. S. Edgarton farm was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, one horse was killed. Two tons of hay and considerable farming implements destroyed. Scores of farmers turned out to fight the blaze, but could not save the building. The loss on the barn alone is estimated at $3500.

At the Silverhurst tobacco farm three barns were blown over by the wind. Before the storm broke, many of the laborers had taken refuge in one of the buildings and 25 man and women were injured by falling timber. Most of the injuries consisted of slight cuts and bruises, but two women, Julia Abbey of West Willington, and Julia Bolon of Manchester, were taken to the hospital. The former is suffering from a fractured thigh and bruises and the latter with serious bruises.

At the ohn Carleton place at Crystal Lake a barn was burned together with all of the farming implements. A horse and a calf were killed. Heavy damage to tobacco was reported from at the Lavitte plantation, the Laidman plantation, the Wedstone plantation and the Belmont plantation. Acres of shade grown tobacco were riddled by the hail and the covering was blown down.

The power station in West Street was hit five times by lightning crippling the electric light system of the town. Over 100 trees in this city were blown down by the wind and there are washouts in many of the streets.

It was the first rain in this section in eight weeks and many of the crops had been ruined by the dry weather.

LIGHTNING STRUCK FIVE PLACES IN WINDSOR

Windsor, August 7.—Windsor and vicinity was swept by a great thunder and lightning, hail, rain and windstorm this afternoon, leaving damage estimated in the thousands of dollars. The hail travelled in a belt on the east side of the Farmington river and riddled acres of tobacco so severely that it is practically valueless. On the west side of the river, lightning struck at least five places. The large dairy barn on the farm of Howard C. Thrall, together with fifty tons of hay, was totally destroyed. His loss is estimated at $7500. The hay barn on the farm owned by Miss Ella Kinney was struck by lightning and burned together with its contents and twenty tons of hay. The fire also burned an adjoining tobacco shed and several small farm buildings. The dwelling house nearby was saved. Her loss is about $8,000. A dwelling house on Maple avenue owned by Theodore C. Hart, was struck but did not catch fire. The damage there is estimated at $1,000.

A trolley car of the Connecticut company was struck by lightning and set on fire but the downpour of rain extinguished the blaze. There were twenty passengers in the car at the time but all escaped without injury.

Two large electric light transformers of the Hartford Electric Light Company were burned. A laborer working on a staging at the old post office building in Broad street was stunned by the lightning and fell to the ground. When he was severely bruised by the fall, his injuries are not considered serious.

MAN KILLED, FOUR PLACES WERE STRUCK IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 7.—One man was killed, four places were struck by lightning, twenty-five street cars were put out of commission and scores of telephones were made useless by the most severe electrical storm of the season here at four o'clock this afternoon. Rain came down in torrents for a period of fifteen miguites.

Damage to the standing tobocco crops in Hartford county was estimated at $125,000. One of the four buildings struck by lightning in the city was the G. Fox and Company department store. The structure was hit on the 11th floor and a number of bricks were hurled to the sidewalk. No one was hurt and little damage was done.

Stunned by a bolt of lightning as he was driving his automobile along the Ellington road in South Windsor, Martius E. Elmore of that town lost control of the car and it turned turtle twice. He was dead when picked up. The machine jumped from the highway to a tobacco field. Elmore was a world war veteran and a tobacco grower.

The storm swept from South Windsor through Bloomfield and Simsbury, uprooting scores of trees in forests and orchards and laying waste much tobacco. About 15 tobacco barns were demolished by the wind which was of cyclonic proportions.

PLATE GLASS WINDOWS BROKEN IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Conn., August 7.—Damage amounting to thousands of dollars was done by the rain, hail and wind storm that struck Waterbury this afternoon in the wake of a terrific heat wave. Plate glass windows in the business section of the city were broken, trees were blown down and struck by lightning, telegraph and telephone wires were torn from the poles, roofs were blown from houses and other damage was done.

Harold G. Davis, manager of the Southern New England Telephone Company, declared tonight that more than 500 telephones in the city were put out of service and trouble was reported from Woodbury, Thomaston, Naugatuck, Winsted and other nearby towns.

The windows in many of the city's important business houses were crashed in and are being boarded up tonight. Glass and lumber companies report that the orders for glass received since the storm are more than an ordinary year's supply. The storm lasted little more than a half hour and during the time more than a quarter of an inch of rain fell, but for several minutes large hail stones fell with terrific force.

LIGHTNING BOLT PARTIALLY PARALYZED THREE PERSONS

Westfield, Mass., Aug. 7.—A near tornado bombarded this city with thunderbolts for a brief 15 minutes this afternoon, putting an end to the heat wave which registered a maximum of 101 degrees on the official thermometer. A bolt which struck the nearly empty tobacco drying barn of Charles F. Noble on Court street in of four women three men and a partially paralyzed several of a party child who had sought shelter in it from the rain. The barn was destroyed in the fire which followed.

The frame of a ... under construction on Brookline street was levelled, three street car ... were blocked for hours, hardly a street was without its barricade of tree trunks and limbs. 350 telephones were without service, the fire alarm service was useless for the night and tobacco and corn presented a flattened appearance when the skies cleared.

HEAT DIRECT CAUSE OF THREE DEATHS IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 7.—The sun conquered New York again today and this evening an army which had braved seasonal record heat throughout the working hours dashed madly for subways, ferries and 'buses, seeking the oceanside and the parks. At 2 o'clock the thermometer climbed to yesterday's high mark of 92, a record for 1924. Three dead and scores prostrated was the day's toll.

Children and horses obtained some relief from the attack of the sun's rays through the good offices of the fire and street cleaning departments. Wherever possible, hydrants were turned on to form pools where urchins might bathe. Firemen also rigged showers for the clamoring youngsters in selected streets and passing truck horses were treated to sprayings.

Magistrate Brodsky's Essex Market court was in uproar for a time when a group of eighty boys, most of them in tattered bathing suits, plunged into the room and up to the desk. When quiet had been partially restored a speaker related that some "cop" had turned off a home-made shower bath which the "gang" had erected in the home street with a fire hydrant as the water source. The magistrate immediately sent out a suggestion that the patrolman "go blind."

DR. VALS SENTENCED FOR SECON DDEGREE MURDER

Hutchinson, Kan., August 7.—Dr. Kenn B. Uhls, former head of the Uhls narcotic sanitarium at Overland Park, Kansas, was today sentenced by Judge W. G. Fairchild to 25 years in the Kansas prison at Lansing following his conviction some time ago on a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of W. E. Gibbs, wealthy Civil war veteron.

Gibbs was clubbed to death on the night of December 29. Uhl's alleged motive has always been cited by the prosecution as a desire to obtain the block of stock in the Uhls sanitarium owned by Gibbs. The aged veteran had invested $102,000 on promise of big dividends, but two dividends had been passed and he was raising considerable disturbance.

Dr. Uhls was then trying to float a big bonds issue and it would have been detrimental to this to have any legal action brought by Gibbs it was claimed by the prosecution.

ACTION AGAINST IMMORAL AND HARMFUL LITERATURE

New York, August 7.—Action which contemplates immediate steps by the order against dissemination of immoral and harmful literature was taken fust before the 42nd annual convention of the Knights of Columbus closed today. The convention referred the matter to a supreme headquarters for organization and financing the movement.

North Carolina's bid for the next annual meeting was placed in the hands of the supreme board of directors.

The convention voted $$3,000 to replace the statute of Christopher Columbus at Aguada, Porto Rico, commemorating the landing place of America's discoverer on his second voyage. The original statue was destroyed by an earthquake several years ago.

WILLIMANTIC

Willimantic was gripped by the most intense heat wave experienced here in many years this week, with the temperature riding steadily up to after mid-afternoon Thursday, when the heat became almost unbearable; 94 degrees on the thermometer was a common sight about the city and the steady beating of the sun's rays began to have its effect on local residents. Physicians were called to a number of slight cases where people had been overcome by the heat, but so far as known there have been no cases of sunstroke. Even the most industrious farmer was forced to "lay off" and take life rather easily, confining most of the work to shaded spots. Although the business office of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company is well supplied with electric fans, one of the young lady employes succumbed to the heat and was taken to her home.

All mills in the city came to a standstill Thursday afternoon. The employes were visibly oppressed and the announcement that they would be free during the afternoon brought many remarks of gratitude for the consideration of the officials and agents. The Holland Silk Manufacturing plant was closed during the afternoon out of respect for the memory of the late Mrs. Jane Holland, whose funeral was taking place.

Shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon the clear blue skies became darkened with threatening clouds and after a long suspense a light thunder storm passed over the city. The heavy but brief downpour of rain was deeply appreciated and in some measure helped matters out. Gardens were given a good drenching and it is thought tha tenough rain came down further north to bring the city water supply somewhat nearer to normal level. The thunder grumbled for over an hour after the storm but up to evening no more rain had fallen.

The Windham Democratic club members gathered at the Al-Pierre Tabarni here Thursday evening, when an excellent address was given by Dr. E. G. Dolan of South Manchester, Connecticut delegate to the democratic national convention at New York. Dr. Dolan was the Smith leader from the state and his talk, during which he threw sidelights on the convention and its functinos, was a most interesting one.

John F. McQuillan of Windham street institutde the civil proceedings against David Peacock of this city and not John McQuillan, baseball manager, as stated in Thursday's edition. It wis a case of mistaken initials, one being John F., and the manager being John F.

Miss Hazel Swift, who formerly resided with her parents in this city, met with a painful accident Wednesday at Pleasure Hill, near Franklin, where she has been spending the summer. Miss Swift was being shown a new born claf at the home of a neighbor. The mother cow, becoming excited, tore through a fence, throwing a heavy log on Miss Swift and breaking her left leg two inches above the ankle. She was brought to St. Joseph's hospital in this city and the fracture reduced by Dr. Owen O'Neill. Mrs. Fred Swift, mother of Miss Hazel, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Ruel M. Hyde of No. 68 Spring street for the present.

Miss Anna Caisse was tendered a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Edward Rocheville at the latter's home, No. 14 Chestnut street, Wednesday evening. The occasion was in honor of Miss Caisse's approaching marriage to Alvin V. Nelson of this city. A buffet lunch was served and a color scheme of rose, pink and old blue was carried out.

Those present included the Misses Camilla Roy, Rose, Leda, Eva and Alexandria Caisse, Helen Loiselle, Minnie Spencer, Anna Aubin, Louise Laramee, Louise Parent, Gladys Neff, Marion Hurlibe, Alice Peterson, Viola Bishop, Emelda Bourdon, Delphine Foti, Blanche Caisse, Irene Bachand, Mabel McQuillan, Marie Giguere, Florence Coutu, Laura Leprads, Rose Cloutier, D. Pothier, Helen Martin, Ida Blouin, Celia Marrotte, Mildred Fitzgerald and Ora Hervieux, Mrs. Louise Trudeau, Mrs. I. Trudeau, Mrs. F. Fortier, Mrs. Frank St. John, Mrs. J. Bishop, Mrs. Sue Dewar, Mrs. Eva Aubin, Mrs. Ethel Bergeron and Mrs. John Healy of Worcester, Mass.

South Manchester's famous Salvation Army orchestra will visit the Thread City tomorrow evening to render a concert. This will not be the first visit to Willimantic of this organization as the same combination of musicians rendered a very enjoyable concert here last March. The members of the organization are William Hannah, leader, Robert Van Deck, William Hall, Miss Nancy Rankin, Ernest Clough and Harold Turkington. The orchestra will render several numbers in an open-air concert in front of the Boston Store at 7:30 o'clock and then in the citadel at No. 34 Walnut street they will give a concert. The public is cordially invited to attend the concert which will be free.

State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks was at the patrolmen's room in the local police station yesterday, meeting with applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses. About twenty-five persons signed applications and were given the required tests by Officer Heinold.

Engine Company No. 1, of the local fire department made a hurried trip to upper Main street Wednesday evening about seven o'clock for a fire in the rear of Michael Manzola's store. When the firemen arrived they found that the blaze was only a bonfire in close proximity to a garage. Acting Lieutenant Michael J. English reprimanded Manzola for starting the fire in such a dangerous spot.

Manufacturing concerns using electric power in their business and others were discommoded quote a little yesterday on account of the power going off at frequent intervals. The power would be off for a minute or two at a time. The reason given for the many interruptions in the service according to a report from the local plant of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Co. was that the electrical storms in Massachusetts had effected the high tension lines. The same story was told of similar occurrences the night before when street and house lights kept dimming and on one or two occasions went out for a few minutes.

The funeral of Miss Mildred Moriarty was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Moriarty of No. 204 Jackson street yesterday morning with a high mass of requiem following at St. Joseph's church at 10:30 o'clock. The funeral was largely attended and a profusion of floral pieces was in evidence. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was the celebrant of the mass, Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. As the remains were being borbe into the church, a quartet consisting of Mrs. Jeremiah E. Sullivan, Mrs. Mary McShea, Miss L. Monica McKeon and Walter J. Costello sang Abide With Me. At the offertory Miss McKeon rendered Pie Jesu. Miss McKeon and Mrs. McShea rendered Some Sweet Day as a waiting hymn. Interment followed in the family plot of St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Father Kelly conducting a committal service at the grave. The bearers were Walter J. Fahey, J. Francis Moriarty, Luke and Frank Hewin and Louis Ronan of this city and Frederick E. King of New York city. The arrangements for the funeral were in charge of the Killeurey Brothers.

I., Mrs. Jennie Lamming of Coventry, Miss Cora LaMarche of Coventry and one brother, Albert LaMarche, also of Coventry.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

TESTING NEW FEEDS FOR DAIRY COWS

Extensive tests of the values of various new feeds for dairy cows have been made by the United States department of agriculture at its experiment farm, Beltsville, Md., and the results are now made available generally in Department Bulletin 1272, just published. Details of the work were carefully planned to insure a fair test. In every case the feed tried out was compared with some standard feed as similar in composition as could be obtained, and one that might be replaced by the new feed, if found satisfactory.

Fish meal, though not so palatable as cottonseed meal, was found to be worth, lb. for lb., 20 to 35 per cent more than prime cottonseed meal The cows would eat all that was offered, and no bad effects on the physical condition of the cows were noted. The flavor of the milk apparently was not affected in any way either by exposing the milk apparently was not meal or by feeding the cows 4 pounds of the fish meal before milking.

Peanut feed containing 37.35 per cent crude protein possesses a nutritive value not exceeding 74 per cent of prime cottonseed meal. It is thought that the protein content affords a fairly reliable guide in estimating the value of this seed in comparison with cottonseed meal.

Potato meal is worth not more than 75 per cent as much as corn meal.

The maximum value that can be assigned to velvet-bean meal is 65 per cent that of cottonseed meal.

Sweet-potato meal appears to be almost as valuable as corn meal.

Dairy cows and pigs [illegible] found to possess about the same feeding value.

Apple-pectin pulp compared with dried beet pulp was found to be less palatable and less efficient as a feed.

Hydrolyzed sawdust is unpalatable, contains but little nutriment and can be fed only in small quantities. The maximum value that can be assigned to the sawdust is 14.6 per cent of that of corn meal.

Supplementing with cane molasses a ration that is already suitable is not economical. Compared with an equal value of hominy feed the molasses appears slightly less valuable. Molasses renders feeds of poor quality more palatable and induces a greater consumption of nutrients, a matter of importance in feeding exceptionally high-producing cows.

CULLING OF POULTRY CALLS FOR SKILL

The culling season is here again. If it can be said there is any reason that the nonlaying bird is disposed of. Some people are prone to cull too severely while others do not cull enough, say the poultry experts. At the present time eggs are selling retail from 50 to 60 cents a dozen, and one should be rather slow about disposing of any bird that is laying at all.

Some people throw out a bird simply because it is molting, thinking that the early molting bird lays only a few eggs. This may be true generally, but sometimes hens will molt and lay at the same time. Other people go entirely by the color of the legs and beak, believing that the bird that is entirely yellow is not laying, or has not laid for sometime. This also may be true generally, but again a bird of this type, may be just getting ready to lay, so one should not make that a rule to go by absolutely.

Other people go entirely by the lateral processes, throwing out the bird that is not open. One may go wrong even on this. In starting in to cull for the first time one should have different colored leg bands; one color to denote the bird that has laid well that is not not now laying, another color to designate the bird that has not laid but has the appearance of laying shortly, and another color to represent the bird that seems to be a little off in vitality. This plan can be used for any type of bird that one may wish. However, when there is any doubt about the bird laying it can be closely observed for a week and checked up again at the end of that time.

Generally speaking, it would be a good policy, even at the present fair price of eggs, to cull out the bird that has yellow beaks, yellow legs, very thick lateral processes, a tendency to be close together with no elasticity, and the bird whose body has poor capacity.

SWEET SOIL NEEDED TO GROW ALFALFA

If alfalfa is to be sown this year now is the time to do it. Alfalfa will grow best in this section if planted before the last of July, but this year, due to the very dry spell, the seed would not have germinated had it been planted. If the proper amount of rain comes it should make up for lost time, due to the fact that the soil is now very warm.

Alfalfa can be grown here commercially, as well as profitably, if one first makes a survey of his conditions and changes them to meet the conditions necessary for proper growth of alfalfa. To grow this legume the soil must be sweet. One should test the soil and note the amount of lime necessary to make it sweet.

SMALL FRUIT DISEASES CAUSE MUCH DAMAGE

Three diseases of small fruits, more particularly the raspberry and blackberry crops, have caused considerable damage year after year to the small fruit growers.

Leaf-curl is a comparatively recent disease and as yet no spray control measure has been discovered. Leaf-curl, which seems to be a disease allied to mosaic and often found in connection with the mosaic disease, has attained new importance in this section. The leaves on both old and new canes early show a tendency to curling and deformity. The fruit becomes distorted and does not develop to the ordinary size. Its quality is also poor, the canes are stunted, and in effect the whole plant becomes practically worthless.

Mosaic, which causes a peculiar discoloration of foliage, seen as dark and light areas, giving a piebald appearance, does not have any serious effect upon the vigor of the plant ordinarily. Berry plantations known to be infected with mosaic have produced a good amount of new growth from year to year and a large quantity of clean fruit. Sometimes, however, this mosaic disease seriously undermines the vigor of the plantation, and it is well to destroy such canes as have been affected during the current season as an attempt to keep down the spread of this disease.

Anthracnose, found most frequently on blackberry canes and blackraspberry plants, may be controlled by lime sulphur sprays, unless the infestation is very serious, in which case destruction of infected canes is the best practise. Anthracnose manifests itself as discolored sunken spots on the stem of the plants and undeveloped areas on the fruit itself. The canes most seriously affected usually die. The disease may be found upon new canes of the current year's growth.

For all these diseases it is perhaps wise to destroy such canes and plants showing large areas of infection, when the summer pruning is done, shortly after the fruit has been gathered. When the canes are taken out they should be burned rather than left to lie in or near the rows of the berry patch.

MONEY IN WHITE PINE FOR NEW ENGLAND

Land suitable for raising white pine can still be bought in New England for from $3 to $7 per acre. At 40 years of age white pine on a well stocked stand would yield on average sites at least $10 per M. feet. What the price will be 40 years from now is uncertain, but since 1900 stumpage values have increased from $5 to between $10 and $15 per thousand feet.

Vast fortunes have been made in the east in timber, and when the real shortage comes far sighted persons who have realized the urget need of providing for the future supply of timber will surely reap an abundant harvest in dollars and cents.

Many farms have been abandoned in New England and elsewhere. The people think that the land is too poor and worn out and will not grow anything but that it not so. It may not grow corn, wheat, rye or potatoes economically but this rough rolling land is first class in growing a White Pine crop.

Objected to His "Pants"

An Oregon man was trying to sell a horse. The animal was broken-winded, but sleek. The owner trotted him around for inspection and bringing him back to the prospect stroked the horse's back and remarked, "Hasn't he a lovely coat?" The prospect removed his pipe and said, as he looked at the heaving flanks of the animal: "Yeah, his coat's all right; but I don't like his pants."

Boost Production of Cows on Test by Feeding Yeast

Official tests of milk and butterfat production have advantages beyond simply stimulating the interest of dairymen in their own business.

Such tests often reveal discoveries in improved feeding practice that are second in importance only to the discoveries made by scientific investigators conducting controlled feeding experiments.

A present-day instance is the remarkably successful part yeast has recently played in the feeding of cows on test. Dairymen everywhere are talking about this new use for revolutionary advance in cattle feeding methods.

It is, of course, no news to scientists that yeast is a valuable addition to cattle feeds. But it has been only recently that dairymen have used it to help cows win in official tests.

Letters describing the success of yeast feeding are constantly being received by the Fleischmann Company, which is responsible for the development of a pure dry yeast especially suited to stock feeding.

"Groff's Constance, the mature Jersey Champion," writes U. G. Groff, of Amherst, Mass., "was fed yeast three times a day during her whole test period—365 days. It was no doubt a large factor in maintaining her wonderfully even production and her splendid healthy condition. She finished 300 pounds heavier than when she commenced."

"I feel truly convinced," writes Edward M. Brown, of Toledo, O., "that yeast is very beneficial in test work, keeping the cows in A1 condition and also increasing the flow of milk."

Reports like these are inducing more and more dairymen to add dry yeast to their feed. The increasing use of it all over the country should result in a higher rate of production of dairy products and greater profit for the farmer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

A very enthusiastic audience greeted the show as presented at the Broadway theatre as the best ever seen this season.

Margie Clifton and partner opened the vaudeville program in a very unique and fine offering.

Billed as "The Halfback of Notre Dame," Walter O'Keefe scored with his pleasing voice and running comment about his experiences as the halfback.

Numerous humorous situations, much laughable dialogue, interspersed with songs went over with a bang. Jack Wells and Joe Bonga offer their funny skit, "Uncle Bill and the Law."

The big attraction was George King's Melody Land. This is a dainty novelty musical offering with a classical and modern jazz presented by a company of five. It is the kind of act you'll enjoy and which one has the pleasure of seeing only once in awhile.

"The Danger Line," starring Sessue Hayakawa, marks the return of this very capable and attractive player to the screen after an absence of two years.

"The Danger Line" is an unusually dramatic offering, in which this distinguished artist is given unlimited opportunities to display his versatility and charm.

One of the most thrilling naval battles ever screened occurs in "The Danger Line," an F. B. O. release starring Sessue Hayakawa. "The Danger Line" was adapted by Margaret Turnbull from the novel "The Battle" by Claude Farrere.

Broad Theatre

The second Hunt-Stromberg production, starring Harry Carey, is playing at the Broad theatre, and we want to say right away, go see it. Talk about your thrills! They're all there; every kind and size of them. The story is about the Black Mask, a bandit who is the terror of the country. A deputy sheriff who appears to be too lazy and timid to hunt a bird, is disguising as the bandit and riding at night in order to trap the criminal's accomplices and find out who he is. The father of the girl he loves is murdered and his Black Mask costume implicates him. There are some very exciting situations before everything is cleared up.

The Lightning Rider is one of those pictures which have the true spirit of adventure. Shannon Fife, who wrote it, surely knows the meaning of romance. The deputy disguised as the daring robber holds up the stage coach merely to kiss the hand of his memories of the time we "ate up" Robin Hood.

As usual Harry Carey is the fast-riding, hard-fighting cowboy. Charming, Virginia Brown Faire is a most appealing leading woman.

The Lightning Rider will make you forget your troubles. That's what a good picture is supposed to do, isn't it?

Ruth Roland in the last chapter of the Range, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy make up the remainder of the bill for today and Saturday.

Palace Theater

Many of the sequences of The Code of the Wilderness, a David Smith production now shown at the Palace theater were taken on a location which had never been used in pictures before and over which automobiles had never traveled. In order to make scenes in this location, including Alice Calhoun, John Bowers, Alan Hale, Charlotte Merriam, Otis Harlan and Kitty Bradbury, to camp on location. The caravan that moved across the desert and set up camp included three women, thirteen men, seventeen horses, twenty-three mules, cook wagon and all the impediments of an old time immigrant train.

Showing of the pictures that were taken this week on the "stage" in the audience and throughout the city, a delightful comedy-drama filmed composed of local people, you'll scream at this one, then see your self on the screen, also new Telephone Girl story, Pathe review and Palace orchestra.

Lyceum Theatre, New London

Edgar Selwyn, has completed the cast of "Dancing Mothers" for its New York production early in August. It includes Mary Young, Helen Hayes, John Halliday, Henry Stephenson, Elsie Lawson, Norma Mitchell, Michael Dark, Arthur Metcalfe, Timothy Thomas, Ruby Blackmon, Hugh Brooke, Albert Marsh, Edgar Brooks, Grace Burgess, Rodolfo Badaloni, Joan Cochran, Adia Wilson, Walter Palmer and Lola Perott. The play has already had a most successful tryout in Washington and Atlantic City.

"Dancing Mothers" will be produced at the Lyceum theatre, New London for two nights, beginning Friday, August 8th preliminary to the New York engagement.

Mail order requests are now being accepted for immediate attention.

TAKES OVER MANHATTAN LADIES' DEPARTMENT

Nathan Meadow of New York, coat and suit manufacturer, has now taken over the Manhattan ladies' department, and under the management of J. E. Stein of New York, the department will offer to the trading public of Eastern Connecticut the same high grade of women's wearing apparel that has attracted hundreds to the store in years past.

Mr. Meadow has been engaged in the women's wearing apparel business for 23 years and is planning to restock the department throughout with new and stylish women's wearing apparel, after disposing of all old stock that was taken over last Thursday when the transfer was completed.

In taking over the store in Norwich, the company represented by Mr. Meadow now controls eight stores, seven others being in New York or nearby, and it is planned to make the Norwich store one of the best, adding complete new lines as fast as possible.

Iced Tea Habit

At this season of the year when Iced Tea is most popular, it is interesting to know that people are drinking more and more of the beverage, and that the public finds in Iced Tea, properly made, a refreshing brace and a lasting cooler. This is especially so during the hot spells.

The particular housewife is she will only follow these simple directions for making Iced Salada Tea, is sure to make a delicious beverage. First of all, scald out a crockery teapot and while it is warm, put in a level teaspoonful of tea for every cup. Then pour on freshly boiled water, making sure that it is "bubbling" boiling, and allow it to steep from five to six minutes. Then sweeten to taste, finally pour into glass jars or bottles and place near or on the ice and let it remain there until cool, when it will be ready to serve.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Congratulations today to Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, former commanding general of the U. S. army, upon his 85th birthday anniversary.

Democrats of Colorado will hold their state assembly today to make designation for places on the primary ballot including two United States senators, governor and numerous other officials.

John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, is scheduled to leave New York today for Charlestown, W. Va., where he is to receive the formal notification of his nomination early next week.

The state of Florida is to be officially represented at ceremonies to be held today at Avilen, Spain, to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the death of Pedro Menendez de Avilen, the famous Spanish naval commander who served as governor of Florida when that country was under the dominion of Spain.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Biggest Brute that Breathes, Weighing Over 10,000 Pounds, and Height of 14 Feet, Will Be Here Next Monday

The Century Bros.—Jas. Patterson Circus, billed to appear here on Aug. 11, has been able to secure the largest elephant ever brought to this country and this big brute positively appears at every performance. Modoc is only one of the two great herds of performing elephants carried by the circus. There is also a wonderful assortment of jungle inhabitants in the menagerie that should prove of particular interest; Everything that goes with a circus will be on the big two-hour program, bareback riders; slack wire performers aerialists, flying here and there through mid-air; acrobats; tumblers; hordes of clowns, trained horses; the famous Century Bros. educated ponies and dogs; well in fact over two score of America's foremost circus features will be presented.

Don't forget that Monday, Aug. 11 is circus day. Be on hand for the big street parade, which leaves the show ground at 11 a. m. Afternoon performance starts at 2:15 and the night show at 8:15 p. m. Doors are opened at 1 and 7 p. m. to permit inspection of the menagerie and enjoy the concert by Director John Dusch and his celebrated band.

New Records this Week

A reminder of a militant drama is the latest record by the New York Philharmonic orchestra, under William Mengelberg. It is Mendelssohn's famous "War March of the Priests" for Racine's "Athalie," a stern number with majestic trumpetings and massive chords. With Halvorsen's quaint Nordic "March of the Boyars" on the other side makes a very worthwhile addition to one's collection of symphony records.

Samaroff's latest piano record is not the familiar "Second Rhapsodie" of Liszt, but it is a beautiful transcript of the brilliant and capricious "Twelfth." It is a long record which will be welcomed by lovers of bravura, and we are inclined to feel it will be enjoyed by all who enjoy music in any form.

Paraphrasing Lowell, the song without a singer is Wagnerath, and pretty songs assumes greater artistic importance. This week he makes records of two popular hits from "Little Jack James," heart-songs so called—"I Love You" and "Suppose I Had Never Met You." What might be only gilded with a lesser artist proves gold with Werrenrath to mould it.

Paul Whiteman's quest to the Indies this week results in "Sam," a fox trot Oriental, with some startling new details. Its companion number, "I Can't Get the One I Want," despite its title, is a dance of extraordinary power and finish, both records fulfilling every expectation for the unexpected we can rely upon Whiteman.

"June Night" suggests a waltz, but it is a fox trot recorded by Waring's Pennsylvanians, an orthodox enough to ring in some polka-like rythms. "Only You," by International Novelty Orchestra, its yoke-mate, is a tender melody, in part assisted vocally by Lewis James.

Good, atmosphere-stabbing fox trots are "Just Hot" and "Red Nose Pete," which Waring's boys and Ted Weems and his orchestra play this week. The first has singular kazoo-and-megaphone violations, while the second whoops it up with cornet pleasantries and some brilliant piano work.

Lewis James, who co-operates with the orchestra on one of the dances, has a solo on a record he shares with Frankiyn Baur. His half is "Day Old Time at All," a love song leaning to the waltz with some string counter-melody. Baur's song is "Deep in My Heart," here and there suggestive of opera.

Songs of childhood, regardless of racial source, have an unspelled and classic purity which assays high as melody and music. Again we have new records of six of these by Anna Howard and Laura Littlefield, two lovely soprano voices employed, now in chord harmony, now in "canon." The selections, drawn from various nations, among them Italy and Russia, include the "Jolly Miller." You can judge how universal is their appeal when you remember that now we have entire recitals devoted to songs of childhood.

International Novelty Quartet complete a most pleasantly varied program with "Cuckoo Waltz," not to be confused with the adjective of the vernacular and "Lona." The first is the true, old-fashioned waltz, while the second is a genuine schottische, there is never a note of jazz in the twain.

OATMEAL IN A JIFFY

"Can you suggest any shortcut ways of cooking oatmeal at the beach," inquires the mother of four children whose letter is postmarked with a Maine beach resort." The children need the cereal just as much in summer as in winter and I find the grownups like it, too, on crisp, morning, but it is such a bother to keep a fire in our camp stove for hours to cook it."

Here's the solution for all you mothers of youngsters who are growing round and rosy on cereal and for the others who find a steaming dish of oatmeal the most satisfying breakfast both winter and summer. Buy the new quick-cooking oatmeal. Start it cooking when you put the coffee on the morning and by the time the toast is made it will be perfectly cooked. Hours and hours of cooking the other variety will not give you any more delicious flavor or any more nutriment than the three minutes of steaming given to this new kind of cereal.

Mornings in the mountains or at the beach can be sparkling and crisp and the bowl of cereal served with fruit and rich country cream, will taste delicious. For hot mornings be sure to try serving cereal that has been cooked and poured into a mold to chill, then cut in slices and served with cream and your favorite variety of fruit.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Another Old Home day has come and gone for East Killingly—a community crowning the heights of this settlement of colonial days. Up where the eyes may range for miles over scenery that rivals better advertised territory in northern New England the sons and daughters of East Killingly assembled Thursday from sundry states and scores of towns and cities, again to be back amidst the scenes of their childhood and to fraternize in the spirit of happy reunion with acquaintances of long ago.

It was a fine foregathering and a delightful one. There was the usual "shore" dinner, with "King" George Jacques presiding and there were speeches and other features of formal exercises such as usually mark the observance of the day. Extreme heat kept some away who otherwise would have been certain to make the trip into the hills and enjoy the hospitality of the people there, but while these were missed they were recalled in memory.

Danielson was represented by considerable numbers. Some of these were former residents of East Killingly, others were attracted there by remembrances of pleasant associations in that community and others were attracted by the reputation of the hilltop settlement of always make a visit to its confines worth whatever effort entailed.

The threat of thunderstorm in the afternoon served to cut short for some the pleasure of the day and to start considerable numbers away unusually early on their homeward trips.

A few less than 30 people of all those in Danielson and vicinity availed themselves Thursday of the opportunity—the first in more than a decade—of a popular-priced excursion arranged by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to Newport and return—the rail trip being between Danielson and New London.

The excursion recalled those of a score of years ago, when hundreds flocked out of this town for Newport, on such occasions, or to Boston, where one had the ticket option of going to Nantasket Beach or to a big league ball game, all for the sum of $1.50. Proportionately, Thursday's excursion was a better bargain, considering the present purchasing power of the dollar. It was unfortunate that it was not more liberally patronized. Possibly this was due to inadequate advertising, for many people remarked after the train had gone, "I should have liked to make the trip had I known about it." And that's that!

Mrs. Louise Breault, 67, wife of Frederick Breault, died Thursday morning at her home on the West side. She har been ill since February. During all the period since that time a paramount hope, sustained by fervent prayer, was that she might live to gain see her nephew—Rev. Arthur Vetiard, M. S., who arrived here this week, after an absence of six years in France, where, recently, he was ordained to the priesthood. Her hope was granted—and the end came soon thereafter. Mrs. Breault, a native of Canada, had been a resident of this place for many years. She leaves her husband and a family of children.

Knickers—for men or women—have ceased to be novelty in Danielson. This happens to be another subject for consideration on a mid-summer afternoon, when the temperature has climbed and climbed until it rivals the heat that is done in the South Sea isles where they wear—well, what do they wear, if anything?

It would appear that a vastly increased number of people have come, hereabouts, to regard knickers as a sensible summer indulgence. Numbers of people have reached a mental receptiveness where they can wear them at ease without carrying a bag of golf sticks as a short of camouflage—or excuse. The tendency has hit young and old, from tots to grandpops. They are supposed to be cool. They are more comfortable. The fact that they are more comfortable is by itself sufficient grounds to justify their popularity. That probably is why they are being worn by some who sweltered so on Thursday that they would have been glad of such privacy as would have allowed them to wear nothing at all.

Thursday, truckmen were engaged in hauling into the vicinity of the railroad station here great sections of tile pipe to be used as drains in connection with the improvement that the New Haven road has carried out in this territory this summer incident to the putting in of heavier rails between Putnam and a point about two and a half miles south of Danielson. This tile pipe is being put down between the main struck and sidings from a point just north of the Main street siding to a distance well above the passenger station. When in place they will be covered over and will take care of all the surplus water that comes in seasons when it rains, although that may appear impossible in this season of aridness.

William Reeves of Windsorville, formerly a resident here, was a visitor with his brother, Abel L. Reaves, and other Danielson people on Thursday. Mr. Reeves is a tobacco grower and has other interests of a different commercial nature.

Hot weather like that of Thursday guaranteed a large attendance at the always popular Wildwood park during the evening hours, when there was dancing at the new dance palace, always free from objectionable features, and that counts for a great deal with many people in this day and age.

The spirit of old New England is neither dead nor dying, all propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding. Witness the fact that farmers, whose viewpoints of life are widely divergent, combined to offer their services, while temporarily neglecting their own work, to go to a farm in Pomfret Landing, where a regrettable tragedy recently occurred, andhelped to complete the work of haying, because of the loss by death of the head of the farm.

Automobile drivers in numbers appear to forget that the business section of Danielson is not a speedway. They drive as if the cloven-footed one was after them—and likely will put up an awful howl if the police order them into court for reckless driving. But that is exactly what they may look for if they do not keep a driving foot off the gas. This, as memory serves, is about the 222nd warning. It should be enough. But, after all, maybe they do not read the newspapers—at least not until after they have been arrested and then only to see whether the newspaper missed the story or whether they were let down easy in the writeup.

The Bulletin has discovered the greatest optimist in the world! Actually the greatest optimist. Not the fellow who is sure he is going to make a million before he dies. Not the being that thinks he knows more than any other individual extant. Not the fellow who is sure he is always right. Not the person who has a remedy for every evil. But the man who drives an automobile and blows his horn as he comes to a railroad crossing, undoubtedly under the firm conviction that the engineer will stop for him if he hears him coming—and can. This sounds like a joke, but just watch the car operators. A host of them do it. Some of them who did it will never do it again. The engineer didn't hear them. They are member of the Grade Crossing club.

And this suggests another thing about automobilists, probably, as a whole, the queerest combination of human being the world has ever seen. A Boston paper has a campaign on—including stickers for the windshields—in the interest of safe driving. A man—or woman—sends in a name—and forthwith, by return mail, comes a sticker. The sticker is for the windshield, like the deplorable depictions of bathing girls that have become so popular on glass in cars this summer. The sticker says "I am a safe driver," or something to that effect. You can get the real version if he fails to hit you and gives you a chance to read it without interruption. The Boston paper that is spilling gallons of red ink to get its idea before the public is listing names from all parts of New England— recruits for the campaign. People are listed from Dayville, Central Village, Wauregan, Brooklyn and about every other place in nearby territory that might be mentioned—excepting Danielson. The Danielson drivers appear ot be buccaneers of the highways—runnin' wild, so to speak. But as a matter of fact, they are not.

A man doesn't have to wear the horns of a long horned steer over his glasses to inform the world that he is an Elk. Neither does he have to plaster his car with a four-sheet poster telling the world he is a safe driver, to be a better operator that some other fellow who likes to think he is doing something new.

PUTNAM

A thunder shower passed over Putnam Thursday afternoon between 3.30 and 4.30 o'clock. It came up from the west and appeared to be of alarming aspect, but it passed over with but a comparatively few sharp flashes of lightning and hard thunder crashes. The showre caused electric lights to flicker and to go out for from one to two minutes. No considerable amount of rain fell, which was a disappointment, but the shower served to clear the atmosphere and brought relief from the hottest day of the summer.

James H. Rafferty has had a bar added to his service badge by the insurance company he has represented for 35 consecutive years in this territory. The badge was issued to Mr. Rafferty 10 years ago, when he had rounded out a quarter century of service. Recently the company recalled the badge and added another 10-year bar. With the exception of M. C. Higgins of Norwich, retired, and John Adams of New Haven, each of whom possesses a 40-year badge of the company, Mr. Rafferty heads the list of agents in this state in point of continuous service.

Louis Benin has been awarded a contract to erect a large double tenement house on School street for Sam Ankotol. Notwithstanding local business conditions, there has been an unusually large amount of building this summer, especially of dwellings, both tenement houses and cottages. This evidences a well founded confidence in the future of Putnam by those who thus invest their money.

The common council has abated a number of taxes, some because the person assessed is an ex-soldier, others because their property is out of the city limits, and some because the assessment was an error. The total amount is not large and will serve to clear up the books of the city tax collector.

County Agent F. L. Davis is carrying forward plans for the annual field day trip of the Windham County Farmers' Association. The date has been fixed as Thursday, Aug. 14th, and hte start will be made from Brooklyn. Progressive poultry, dairy and vegetable farms will be visited. Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Massachusetts commissioner of agriculture, will be the speaker on the trip. Dr. Gilbert has an internatinoal reputation for his work in promoting agriculture.

The war on the woodchuck continues in this corner of Windham county. Unless an armistice is declared there will be no groundhog to tell us next year that winter is, or is not, about over. Men and dogs are destroying the 'chucks in large numbers.

Over in East Putnam A. E. Chapman has a dog named "Brinnie." His near neighbor, G. M. Burrill, has a dog named "Pat." These two dogs have organized a vendetta and on account of it groundhogs in the locality are fast disappearing, never to reappear, at the winter's end or any other time. Pat has killed 12 woodchucks to date; Brinnie has killed a like number.

Down in Danielson the Rod and Gun club members are hanging up some records, and include crows for good measure. Every farmer's boy in popping away and all in all it is a bad summer for groundhogs.

Older residents of Putnam remember the time before Putnam had a fire alarm system how an alarm of fire was given by the blowing of locomotive whistles, usually the switching engine employed in the local railroad yard, and the ringing of the bell in the steeple of the Congregational church by the first person who get the key to the church from the home of Thomas L. Bundy, across the street.

In removing a clock that had been in a certain location in the store of F. X. Lucier, who has a jewelry store on Union street, for 42 years, a fire alarm system card, dated April 7th, 1885, was dislodged. At that time Judge L. H. Fuller was chief of the department, which consisted of hand-drawn hose carts with their reels of hose. There were seven fire wards in the town, and to give an alarm people were instructed to go to the Bundy home, get the church key, give 10 rapid strokes of the bell, pause, then slowly strike the number of the ward where the fire was, and repeat. There was always a race to the Bundy home to get the key as it was considered an honor to be the one to ring the alarm.

Putnam since this card was printed has been incorporated as a city, has an up-to-date fire alarm system and all of its fire fighting equipment has been motorized. The equipment includes one motor truck with pump attached, one motor hook and ladder truck, both kept at fire headquarters in Union square, and a third motor-driven hose truck at the fire station on Smith street.

For the second time within a few weeks, the Putnam fire department was called out just before 11 o'clock Thursday morning to extinguish a blaze on the roof of the home of Everett M. Carver on School street. The shingles on the roof were burning briskly, fanned by a south breeze. It was only by the hardest kind of work that the firemen saved the house without the use of water and its accompanying damage, subduing the fire by pulling off the shingles and by a generous use of chemicals. The loss was small and was wholly confined to the roof.

The Carver house is but a few feet away from the wood-working shop of the Wheaton Building and Lumber company and it is believed in this, the second fire, the cause was the same as in the first fire—sparks from the Wheaton company's chimney.

The shingles on the roof of the Carver house are old and curled and, on account of lack of rain, unusually dry. The roof is almost under the chimney of the Wheaton building and, from appearances, the chimney is without a spark arrester. The situation is a fire hazard if left to remain in its present condition. Other roofs of nearby houses are also exposed to the sparks from this chimney.

It was noted by many Putnam citizens in the business section the past few days that a local college boy is spending his "vacation" at home putting in eight hours a day pushing a wheelbarrow filled with cement, wielding a shovel and doing other manual labor required in building cement sidewalks. Dressed in overalls, flannel shirt open at the neck, an old pair of shoes, and with perspiration streaming down his face, this young man worked away in the broiling sun with the thremometer crowding the 100-mark. He did not need to do it. He is not a boy working his way through college. If he was desirous of earning a little extra money during the summer he might have found easier employment.

The incident is refreshing to those who have noted the proneness of higher education to inculcate the idea that manual labor is degrading and that the aim of learning, beyond the graded school, is to fi tone for a "white collar" job. Whether the boy who enters high school and college becomes imbued with the idea that hereafter it is a sign of ignorance to wear a pair of overalls, or get one's hands soiled, or to do any kind of manual labor, is a question that has been argued and discussed. Many employers of young men find that the affirmative side of the question is supported by their experiences.

In talking with an employer not long ago, the employer said that if he wished to get rid of an applicant coming to his establishment seeking employment he would say to the young man: "Yes, I can give you a job. Get a pair of overalls and a jumper and report to the foreman in the shop." The young man would, in the majority of cases, especially had he absorbed learning beyond the eighth grade of a public school, refuse the offer of such a "position" with thanks.

The young man who has been seen at the busiest corner of Putnam's main street, dressed like, and working side by side with, men who never hope to do anything else in life, will doubtless some day have a white collar job. When he does he will be fitted for it; he will realize what a day's work is for those under him; he will recall the back-breaking, muscle-tiring work he is doing this summer in a broiling sun. This will do much for him, and upon it he will base a viewpoint of his employes' aspect of the labor situation that will doubtless avert many arising disputes that might end in serious labor trouble.

One prominent citizen who watched the young man at work voiced the opinion that, after a year's work in college, he could better spend the vacation time in restful play. The young man is getting the rest he needs—a brain rest—but he is keeping his physical being in the best working order, hard muscles, firm flesh, well developed lungs. When the call comes in the fall for the football training table this young man will not have to take off weight or get his muscles in trim; he will be already physically fit.

Mrs. Anna Keith and daughter, Miss Marguerite Keith, have returned after a month's stay at Oakland Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Heath, Walnut street, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heath and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heller of Bridgeport are on a motor trip to Cape Cod and will stay at Hyannis for two weeks.

Miss Evelyn Yarock of Norwich is the guest of Simon Kaminsky and family of Church street.

A large number of horsemen left Putnam Thursday to attend the meet of the Bay State Short Ship circuit in Norwich, where three Putnam horses are on the card.

PLAINFIELD

A recent letter from a friend in North Carolina to Arthur Jenkes stated that it rained there continuously for 50 days. If Mother Nature had only divided that rain with Connecticut many farmers would be digging potatoes and getting vegetables from their gardens.

The progressives are busily working in Plainfield, under the leadership of Dr. Downing of Moosup. Lionel Raymond has been canvassing for voters who will register at the progressive caucus in October. The last report was two hundred in Plainfield five hundred in Moosup and fifty in Central Village. The Wauregan report has not made its appearance yet.

The Lawton mills has employed a dentist the past week. He will open an office some time soon.

Friends of Leo Turcotte, 32, were sorry to learn of his death on Wednesday. Mr. Turcotte lived in Plainfield the greater part of his life and had made many friends. He was employed at Funk's garage for two years recently. He is survived by his father, Elzar Turcotte, his brothers, Dona, Joseph, Uciede and William, and by his sisters, Misses Mary, Laura and Georgianna. His mother died a few years ago in Plainfield.

The town of Plainfield school calendar for 1924-25 shows grades, 39 weeks; high school, 40 weeks. The fall term of 16 weeks will begin Tuesday, Sept. 2. Thanksgiving recess, Nov. 27 to 30. Will close Friday, Dec. 19, 1924. Visiting day or state convention under direction of superintendent. One week vacation, winter term. Thirteen weeks. Will begin Dec. 29. Mid-year examinations Feb. 2 to 6, 1925. Holidays—January 1, Feb. 22 and Good Friday. February 12th, Lincoln Day, will be observed with patriotic exercises in the schools. Schools will close Friday, March 27, for one week vacation. Spring term, grades, ten weeks; high school, 11 weeks. Will begin Monday, April 6. Grade examinations June 1 to 5. High school examinations, June 4, 5, 8, 9 and 10. Grades close June 12. High school graduation. Wednesday, June 17. High school closes June 19, 1925.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson of New Bedford, Mass., are spending a few days with their son, Samuel Jr., of New Village.

Philip Daigneault was buried at Pachaug cemetery after the funeral services at St. Paul's church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Thomas Melrose officiated at the services. Miss Emma Kay played the Chopin Funeral March as the casket was borne into the church. St. Paul's choir rendered several hymns. The committal service at the grade was read by Rev. Mr. Melrose. The bearers were Edmund Hebert, John and Merrill Hebert and George Cleveland, all nephews of Mr. Daigneault. There were beautiful flowers sent by Mrs. George Cleveland, Horace Cleveland and Emery Daigneault and by friends and relatives from Plainfield and East Greenwich. Relatives and friends from East Greenwich, Norwich, Moosup and Westerly attended the funeral.

When the shop committee of the Lawton Mills Corp., with Mr. Butterworth in the chair met at Lawton Inn Monday evening, resolutions were unanimously adopted that a committee see the selectmen of the town for the purpose of having a silent policeman stationed at the corner of Main street and Railroad avenue; also that the road in the village running parallel with the tracks being completed, the stones be painted by the tenants in that district for the purpose of avoiding accidents; that the shop committee would be a department affair and not a union any longer. That no representative should be on the committee more than six months at a time. Every three months one and two persons would be elected alternately, so that there would always be one on the committee to know the work.

Charles Jerome has returned, after spending a few days at Crescent Beach.

The Boy Scouts have re-registered for the coming year under the leadership of Scout Master Richard Heatherson and Assistant Scoutmaster Alfred Royal.

A. W. Yates, state bee inspector from Hartford, is finishing up his work in Plainfield and vicinity.

John L. Chapman and daughter Miriam are spending the remainder of the summer in Franklin, Me.

The thermometer in Plainfield went so high Thursday afternoon that the officials of the Lawton mills company were forced to shut down the plant for the afternoon.

THAMES RIVER HEARING NOT UNTIL OCTOBER

In accordance with a request from Edwin W. Higgins, of this city, attorney for the petitioners the hearing at Washington before the board of engineers of the rivers and harbors division of army engineers on the question of deepening the Thames river between Allyn's Point and Norwich has been postponed until some time in October.

Those interested in the project, which is calculated to result in the bringing of coal and other bulky commodities into the heart of the state by water, will appear before the board at that time. Senator Brandegee is one of those who has been instrumental in bringing progress on the development thus far.

The case presents a peculiar situation to the board since the district engineer and the division engineer have disagreed on the expediency and value of the scheme and have submitted conflicting recommendations. It is for this reason that, at its last meeting in July the board decided to invite the petitioners to Washington to offer further testimony on their plans.

A SANE VIEW.

At a time when there is so much loose talk about delivering the farm vote, the labor vote and the votes of other groups and classes to this candidate or that, it is refreshing to find a group leader voicing such common sense views as those expressed by W. G. Lee, chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in an interview this week at Portsmouth, Va. Said Mr. Lee, "I consider it would be an insult to the intelligence of our members to attempt to tell them whom to vote for, and, besides, I could not deliver the votes if I wanted to."

As far as the trainmen's brotherhood is concerned, all that its officials will do, according to Mr. Lee, is lay before its membership the records of candidates along with the party platforms and then expect the members to form their own opinions and vote as independent, intelligent American citizens. That is Americanism in its very best sense. Then there should be the closest kind of scrutiny of the records of all candidates for office is both right and proper. No one disputes the right of the laboring man to give his support and his vote to the candidate who most nearly meets his expectation of advocating those measures under which he thinks he will enjoy the greatest measure of prosperity and the fairest treatment in the enactment and enforcement of laws. The man whether millionaire or drumblest laborer, who uses his vote otherwise is using it foolishly.

Referring to President Coolidge, Mr. Lee said: "The republican candidate's record, both in Massachusetts and since he has been in the White House, has been entirely satisfactory to our organization." The trainmen's brotherhood will not endorse the candidacy of La Follette, but it gives him a 100 per cent. mark in his public record on labor questions. So also it finds the record of Mr. Davis. With that summary before them, the organized railway trainmen will do exactly as other Bill Joneses and John Smiths will do. Those who are republicans will vote for Coolidge, those who are democrats for Davis and those who wish to line up under the banner of La Follette, will vote for him.

SIDEPATHS PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

Where should people walking along our highways be compelled to walk in the path of a trackless locomotive? And why should people when sidepaths are provided along highways, so often seem to choose to walk in the highway? These are questions that are agitating many who use American highways. From the motorist who rounds a curve to find a group of school children preceding along the road to the country, and who has to use the highway in getting to the cow pasture and the suburbanite who walks over it to make a call on a neighbor.

In certain sections of America the rural towns are so close together and the population so dense that the sidepaths are used constantly for back and forth walks. This is true particularly of all the New England States, and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. In New Jersey, at the present time the matter of constructing sidepaths along the highways is being seriously agitated as the result of numerous accidents to pedestrians on the highways. It is declared that waterproof and dustproof paths can be constructed very cheaply, of asphaltic concrete and that payments of that kind will not only keep pedestrians out of the way of automobiles and trucks but also afford a roadway for bicyclists as well.

Resolutions were recently adopted by the New Jersey Association of County Engineers recommending passage by the New Jersey legislature of a law authorizing the laying of sidewalks along all state and county roads and the condemnation of property for the purpose where there is insufficient width. It is proposed that the act be not mandatory but that it give discretionary power to the boards of chosen freeholders commissioners with respect to county roads and to the state highway commissioner where state highways are involved. In New Jersey the proposition has been welcomed by motorists and pedestrians as well as public officials.

At the same time pedestrians should be educated to use sidepaths when they are provided and not to traverse the highway instead, particularly at night.

THE MURDER OF MRS. EVANS.

The slaying of Mrs. Rose Lee Evans, Mexican ranch owner, is calculated to intensify the ill-feeling between Great Britain and the government of Mexico. Some time ago the British representative in Mexico City was withdrawn following disputes which, with other matters, involved the question of the title of Mrs. Evans' British subject to the holdings. It had been "jumped" by bandits and much of the property destroyed. She was living there in danger, guarded by a few faithful servants and companions, and apparently was given no protection whatever by the government. Now comes this tragedy, which cannot fail to prove a cause of serious friction between the governments with the United States representing British interests at Mexico City.

It may be difficult for Great Britain to comprehend the situation in Mexico leading to the murder of Mrs. Evans, while the United States can readily appreciate the conditions. The murder of a woman in defense of her property is of course shocking. It outrages American sensibilities as well as British, but in this country there is a better understanding of the difficulties of administration south of the Rio Grande and an appreciation of the risks that are attendant there upon all forms of agricultural and industrial enterprise by foreigners.

This government is in a position to be of service to both Mexico and Great Britain in the Evans case. It will not, of course, condone the crime, but it will probably endeavor to prevent undue harsh reprisals upon the government of Mexico City for its failure, which would seem to be established, to afford sufficient protection.

COMPLETING THE FLIGHT.

The all important consideration in the world flight of the American aviators is to finish the course whether with some plane or two, and to finish it on time if possible. For that reason it is the part of wisdom to take every precaution that conditions dictate and not to hazard further flight against such dangers as now are holding up the hop from Iceland to Greenland. Probably no one realized better than the three aviators themselves what it would be to be "first" little short of the impossible to have all four planes finish, but that two have come so far as they have is due to the adequate preparations in advance and the wise balance of intrepidity and caution when questions arose during the flight that called for the use of these qualities.

Naturally enough Lieutenant Wade, who has just been forced out of the flight through the crippling of his plane, would have liked to finish the flight with his companions, but he realized the impossibility of delaying the flight for one disabled plane. His bad luck seems the harder when it is realized that the mishap arose from conditions beyond his control and it was the will meant effort to help him that completed the disaster. It will be a satisfaction, however, to know that he is to have the consolation privilege of flying the last leg of the journey across this continent as the navy department is to send a plane to Indian Orchard for him so that he may join his brother aviators when they hop off from Labrador.

Victory will crown the efforts of the Americans if only one of the planes reaches San Diego on scheduled time. The fact that two of the aviators failed to overcome the obstacles of fog and wind in the North Pacific and the North Atlantic will not detract from the glory. Girdling the world by the air route is a pioneer achievement that will make brilliant history for the American airmen and every effort will now be bent to reaching that goal by two remaining fliers.

BETTER TIMES ON FARMS.

It is pleasing to have the evidence that the turn of the road is at hand for the farming industry of the country. Better prices are assured for an indefinite period for the products of the farm. And these better prices come not as a result of manipulation or of government aid, or of any artificial devices but in response to the law of supply and demand which, while it may seem to be at times annulled, is always working and will always eventually prevail.

The farmer was not the only one hit by the post-war slump. Every line of business has felt it in one way or another. Factories have charged off huge losses. Wholesale and retail houses have done the same. Many institutions have passed to loss account bills which could not be collected. The farmer, as was the first to feel the rising prices of the war period, has been the last to feel the better times of the readjustment days.

Of course many a corbstone orator will have to go out of business, those men who have discoursed loudly on deflation and money barons and even tried to talk about "the crime of '73." The country can well spare them, for the people of this land are going ahead, making progress in every line and proving the statement once more, "that one must not be a bear on the United States."

Perhaps there is no special significance in the plan of the political managers to delay campaign activities till fall, when the nuts are ripe.

Several of the new countries of Europe are said to be bent on committing suicide—thus exercising, no doubt, their new-found right of self-determination.

"It's all in the game. We did our best," was the laconic and courageous comment of Lieut. Wade as he saw his hopes of completing the world flight shattered.

Secretary Hughes gave the German press representatives only three minutes, but perhaps that was time enough to give them all the comfort there was for them in the situation.

White House publicity has been a pretty low sort for the past year. Its only stunt apparently was to announce that President Coolidge had twice lost Nicodemus, his favorite term cat.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

"Aren't you going to buy a new chapeau?" I asked Betty when I saw her downtown a few days ago in her last year's hat.

"I shall not indulge in one at present," she replied. "This one does very well, you know it is really a handsome hat."

"It was a handsome hat with the accent on the past tense, Betty, dear," I laughed. "Seriously, you do Uncle Bob an injustice by appearing in anything so out of date. The flowers are faded and the straw is sunburned. Surely you don't wish people to think that you cannot afford to have proper things?"

"I thought this hat proper. Do you really think it passe?"

"Absolutely; any one seeing you in it would jump at the conclusion that dear Uncle Bob had been having business reverses."

"Oh, dear, I had blissfully thought that I did not need to spend anything on millinery just now."

"You don't deserve to be extravagant. I'll go with you to try on hats, and when we find one you like I'll take mental notes, and I can copy it for you, you know I have a gift for trimming hats. It's the one useful talent of which I pride myself."

At a French model shop I saw a modified tricorne that was stunning, and as I told Betty, much more uncommon now than the popular cloche.

"I've just been counting up," remarked Betty on our way home, "and I find I've spent nearly as much for the makings of my hat as the price of that French model."

"What of it? The materials you have bought are handsomer, and you will have a great deal more elegant hat. Uncle Bob doesn't want you to be counting pennies every minute."

"We wouldn't be where we are now if I hadn't been careful," murmured Betty complacently, and I wondered whether her little economies did not get on Uncle Bob's nerves. I showed Cousin Fannie just how the hat was to be made and was glad to cover the frame, for she is particularly fond of Betty. Then I arranged the flowers and ribbon.

I was startled this afternoon to find Betty waiting for me when I came in from a tea at Marianna Oliver's. "I've come for my hat," she said. "Why, Lucille, you have it on! And it's all wet!"

"Oh, this little sprinkle hasn't hurt it any. You see, dear," I explained, "I put it on to see if it was just right, and to tell you the truth, I was tempted to leave it on while I attended a small neighborhood tea. Don't you think it chic?"

"Its looks decidedly wilted, Lucile. I'll just leave it here until it dries out, and then if—"

"Why, Betty," I began, but she was out of the house with a word or two about the necessity of hurrying home to dinner.

In the evening she telephoned me. "Since it suits you so well, Lucile," she said, "Bob suggests that you keep that hat yourself. I scarcely care to wear it after you have appeared in it at a tea. Bob says not to bother about the cost of it, because he will be glad to giv it to you for your birthday."

I detected a note of triumph in Betty's voice. She knows that ever since I was a tiny girl Uncle Bob has given me a $20 gold piece every birthday. She doubtless thought herself clever to work that hat off on me in place of the money, which I would much prefer, especially as the rain did decidedly detract from its freshness after all. It is just like Betty to have her own way about the hat and never thank me for all the trouble I went to for her. It is not the first time I have experienced her ingratitude.—Chicago News.

CLARK, THE PENNILESS TEACHER

Not having sufficient money to continue in his chosen vocation, William A. Clark tried many tasks in many parts of the country, but met only with failure.

Attending the country school in winter he worked in summer on the farm, near Connelsville, Pa., where he was born. At 17, he was taken by his parents to Iowa.

Deciding to be a lawyer, he studied law at the University of Mount Pleasant. His money soon was exhausted he taught school but he quickly tired of the life and resolved to go west to hunt gold.

Suffering the hardships of the plains, where Indians often made raids, he found work as teamster, as miner and as handy man, until he reached the newly-discovered gold camp near Helena, Mont. There he vainly sought for gold decided that a trader had more chance than a miner, and opened a store.

A ship wreck cut off the supplies in winter and the camp was short of tobacco. Clark rode horseback through drifted snow, 250 miles to Boise City, Idaho, took 3,000 pounds of tobacco back to Helena and made $8,000 on the deal. Soon he had a wholesale tobacco business.

Having accumulated a small fortune he bought mining claims and took options, then entered the Columbia School of Mines, in New York. Completing the course, at 33, he went to Butte, Mont, and by installing modern methods, secured immense profits from his copper mines. Then he discovered the United Verde mines in Arizona, built a town and railroad and added more to his wealth.

The richest and most prominent man in Montana, he represented the state at national events, was president of the first Constitutional Convention then ran for Congress and was defeated. In 1890 he was elected to the United States senate and his credentials were rejected. Again elected in 1891, his election was declared void. The next year he won again, and served six years.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Arthur Salter, who is delivering a series of lectures before the Institute of Politics at Williamstown on the work of the League of Nations and the influence of economics upon peace, is an English economist of international renutation. He was formerly the general secretary of the Reparation Commission and is now director of the financial and economic section of the League of Nations. As chairman of the Allied Maritime Transport Executive in 1918 he was partly responsible for the adoption of the convoy system to evade submarines. In the war year he visited America with a special shipping mission. Since he joined the League secretariat he has been mainly instrumental in drawing up reconstruction schemes for Australia and Hungary. Sir Arthur was born in 1869 and received his education at King's College, London. His public career began with his election to the House of Commons in 1906.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE PONY EXPRESS

"To the people of California and Utah of 1860 and 1861 the 'Pony Express' rider, who brought them war news only a week old, was almost as great a hero as Paul Revere or Lieutenant Maughan," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society in regard to the organization to which a memorial tablet was recently unveiled in Salt Lake City.

"The name, 'Pony Express,' raises a faint suggestion of romance in a few minds today," continues the bulletin, "but with Macready and Kelly and Maughan flying from ocean to ocean in a matter of hours; with our night-flying postal airmen; with our railway trains that cross in four days; with our telegrams delivered within the hour; and able as we are to hear and recognize a voice while it is speaking 5,000 miles away; the accomplishments of the fearless post riders of 63 years ago are likely to be passed by as rather simple. The establishment of this weekly—and later semi-weekly—service, clipping 10 days from the mail time across the continent, was, however, an accomplishment of extreme importance. It has been credited even with keeping California in the Union during the Civil War days.

"At the time the Pony Express came into being the accepted mail route to California was by steamer from New York to the Isthmus of Panama, across the isthmus by mule conveyance, and by ships from Panama to San Francisco—23 days. Later the mail stage line from St. Louis over the Santa Fe Trail, via Yuma, and thence into southern California took letters between the two terminal cities in 18 days. Beside these records the 10-day letter and 8-day telegram schedules of the Pony Express represented as great a stride forward as the transcontinental train service made over existing methods nine years later.

"The winning of the w[illegible] had advanced only as far as the Missouri river in the central section of the country in 1860. Beyond lay trackless prairies, rugged foothills, barrier mountains, and Indians. But farther on, beyond the Rockies, along the Pacific coast and in the Great Basin region, were half a million Americans building up another section of the United States far removed from its parent block. Railroads already connected the East with St. Louis and an additional line had just been completed from St. Louis to St. Joseph Missouri. The latter city, then, was the rail head of the United States and the ultimate western outpost of the ordered civilization of the east. Beyond it a few military posts and some scattered frontiers—men existed precariously among hostile Indians. The problem was to bridge this gap and tie the 'two United States' together with the powerful thongs of news.

"'St. Jo' was also the western end of the telegraph line from the east. On the Pacific side a telegraph line extended from San Francisco through Sacramento to Placerville near Lake Tahoe. News could be flashed from New York and Washington to St. Joseph, could be carried from there to Placerville by pony, and could immediately be wired on to San Francisco. This enabled the Pony Express to make a two day shorter schedule for telegrams than for mail.

"Though government officials recognized the keen need for a fast mail service to the west coast and though the Westerners petioned for it, the bills introduced into Congress for Federal participation were killed. A private firm put the thing through; Russell, Majors and Waddell, owners of a freighting service and predecessors to the big express companies that grew up with the railroads. They organized the enterprise quietly and surprised the nation with advertisements in the spring of 1860 offering to carry letters to the Pacific in 10 days. The first riders to gallop west from St. Joseph and east from San Francisco April 3, 1860 were given enthusiastic and noisy send-offs and when the relay riders came in — on schedule—ten days later both terminal towns suspended business and had glorious celebrations.

"What the Pony Express really did was to stretch a 'telegraph line' of flesh and blood from frontier to frontier and to keep it functioning in spite of weather, Indians and desperadoes. Riders were mortally wounded by highwaymen or savages; but they carried on to the next station, their comrades took their places, and the mail sped on. Horses were changed every ten to twelve miles at stations established by the service. Riders had 'runs' of approximately 75 miles. At the end of his run a rider would be relieved, would sleep and rest, and would then be ready to carry the next mail in the opposite direction to his starting point. Only a fraction of a minute was required to change the saddle bags from one mount to another. Every minute of night and day hoof-[illegible] pounding somewhere between 'St. Jo' and 'Frisco,' and the mail was moving at as fast a gallop as horse-flesh could move it.

"The route which the Pony Express made famous was so well chosen that today lines of steel cover it almost exactly. Leaving St. Joseph it paralleled the present north boundary of Kansas for about a hundred miles, struck across to the Platte river at its southernmost dip in Nebraska, followed the South Platte valley to the present northeast corner of Colorado, went up the North Platte to Ft. Laramie in Wyoming and from there crossed over the Rockies by South Pass and on to Salt Lake City. The worst section of the route lay west of Salt Lake across the deserts and alkali plains of Utah and Nevada to Carson City. From Carson City it was only a few miles, though rough ones, to Lake Tahoe, and from there to Placerville.

"The famous service—which officially was 'The Central Overland California and Pikes Peak Express Company' — lasted only sixteen months. In 1861 the transcontinental telegraph was pushed ahead rapidly and at the same time the Federal government started a subsidized daily stage mail line over the Pony route. For the last few months of its existence the Pony Express operated between the fast approaching ends of the telegraph line. On October 24, 1861 when the wires met and it became possible to flash messages immediately from ocean to ocean, the Pony Express, as romantic an enterprise as American history discloses, gave up the ghost. It had bankrupted its promoters but it had helped win the West."

DAVID CORY

The Wicked Prince

I hope you didn't tell the Peacock's secret to anybody, for, as I told you in the last story, you mustn't tell secrets. Well, no sooner had the Peacock knocked on the postern gate than it opened itself. And, oh my! Wasn't it a beautiful place. A big fountain played the loveliest kind of music, while little gold fish swam here and there, and pretty birds dipped their bills into the sparkling waters.

Hear the sparkling dew drops sing!
All the feathered people drink
On the fountain's crystal brink,
And the golden flakes swim
Round and round the sparkling brim.

"How fares it with you, little brother?" asked the beautiful Peacock of a tiny gold fish.

"I am sad at heart, brother mine," answered the little gold fish.

Just then the wicked prince who had taken the house from them came into the garden. On seeing Little Jack Rabbit, he put out his hand and said:

"I am a traveler," replied the bunny boy, bowing politely. "My peacock friend and I desire to see your beautiful house."

"Then come with me," said the wicked prince. "But it will cost you gold to see the beauties of my place.

At this, the prince scowled, for he liked money more than anything else in the world, except himself.

"Bah!" he answered. "I will show you nothing, for why should I offer hospitality to a bunny?"

This remark made Little Jack Rabbit furious and he pondered how to get the best of the wicked prince. All of a sudden, that dear little yellow bird, whose name I shall tell you some day, commenced to sing:

"Pluck a feather from my tail
And touch the prince's coat.
And after that you'll see him turn
Into a Billy Goat!"

But the prince couldn't understand her, for he didn't know the bird language.

No sooner had the little rabbit touched the prince with a feather than he turned into a goat, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

A SANE VIEW.

At a time when there is so much loose talk about deserting the farm vote, the labor vote and the votes of other groups and classes to this candidate or that, it is refreshing to find a group leader voicing such common sense views as those expressed by W. G. Lee, chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in an interview this week at Portsmouth, Va. Said Mr. Lee, "I consider it would be an insult to the intelligence of our members to attempt to tell them whom to vote for, and, besides, I could not deliver the votes if I wanted to."

As far as the trainmen's brotherhood is concerned, all that its officials will do, according to Mr. Lee, is to lay before its membership the record of candidates, along with the party platforms, and then expect the members to form their own opinions and vote as independent, intelligent American citizens. That is Americanism in its very best sense. That there should be the closest kind of scrutiny of the records of all candidates for office is both right and proper. No one disputes the right of the laboring man to give his support and his vote to the candidate who most nearly meets his expectation of advocating those measures under which he thinks he will enjoy the greatest measure of prosperity and the fairest treatment in the enactment and enforcement of laws. The man, whether millionaire or dumbbell laborer, who uses his vote otherwise is using it foolishly.

Referring to President Coolidge, Mr. Lee said: "The republican candidate's record, both in Massachusetts and since he has been in the White House, has been entirely satisfactory to our organization." The trainmen's brotherhood will not endorse the candidacy of La Follette, but it gives him a 100 per cent mark in his public record on labor questions. So also it finds the record of Mr. Davis. With that summary before them, the organized railway trainsmen will do exactly as other Bill Joneses and John Smiths will do. Those who are republicans will vote for Coolidge, those who are democrats for Davis and those who wish to line up under the banner of La Follette will vote for him.

SIDEPATHS PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

Why should people walking along our highways be compelled to walk in the path of a trackless locomotive? Also why should people when sidepaths are provided along highways, as often seem to choose to walk in the highway? These are questions that are agitating many who use American highways. From the motorist who rounds a curve to find a group of school children proceeding along the road to the country, and who has to use the highway in getting to the cow pasture and the subscriber who walks over it to make a call on a neighbor.

In certain sections of America the rural towns are so close together and the population is so dense that the sidepaths are used constantly for lack of room to walk. This is true particularly of all the New England States, and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland. In New Jersey at the present time the matter of constructing sidepaths along the highways is being seriously agitated as the result of numerous accidents to pedestrians on the highways. It is declared that waterproof and dustproof paths can be constructed very cheaply, of asphaltic macadam, and that pathways of that kind will not only keep pedestrians out of the way of automobiles and trucks but afford a roadway for bicyclists as well.

Resolutions were recently adopted by the New Jersey Association of County Engineers recommending passage by the New Jersey legislature of a law authorizing the laying of sidewalks along all state and county roads and providing for condemnation of property for the purpose where there is insufficient width. It is proposed that the act be not mandatory, but that it give discretionary powers to the boards of county commissioners with respect to county roads and to the state highway commissioner where state highways are involved. In New Jersey the proposition has been welcomed by motorists and pedestrians as well as public officials.

At the same time pedestrians should be educated to use sidepaths when they are provided and not to traverse the highway instead, particularly at night.

THE MURDER OF MRS. EVANS.

The slaying of Mrs. Rosa Lee Evans, Mexican ranch owner, is calculated to intensify the ill-feeling between Great Britain and the government of Mexico. Some time ago the British representative in Mexico City was withdrawn following disputes which, with other matters, involved the question of the title of Mrs. Evans, a British subject, to the hacienda. It had been looted by bandits and much of the property destroyed. She was living there in danger, guarded by a few faithful servants and companions, and apparently was given no protection whatever by the government. Now comes this tragedy, which cannot fail to prove a cause of serious friction between the governments with the United States representing British interests at Mexico City.

It may be difficult for Great Britain to comprehend the situation in Mexico leading to the murder of Mrs. Evans, while the United States can readily appreciate the condition. The murder of a woman in defense of her property is, of course, shocking. It outrages American sensibilities as well as British, but in this country itself a better understanding of the difficulties of administration south of the Rio Grande and an appreciation of the risks that are attendant there upon all forms of agricultural and industrial enterprise by foreigners, this government is in a position to be of service to both Mexico and Great Britain in the Evans case. It will not, of course, condone the crime, but it will probably endeavor to prevent unduly harsh reprisals upon the government at Mexico City for its failure, which would seem to be established, to afford sufficient protection.

COMPLETING THE FLIGHT.

The all important consideration in the world flight of the American aviators is to finish the course, whether with one plane or two, and to finish it on time if possible. For that reason it is the part of wisdom to take every precaution that conditions dictate and not to hazard further flight against such dangers as now are holding up the hop from Iceland to Greenland. Probably no one realized better than the four aviators themselves what it would be a feat little short of the impossible to have all four planes finish, but that two have come so far as they have is due to the adequate preparations in advance and the wise balance of intrepidity and caution when questions arose during the flight that called for the use of these qualities.

Naturally enough Lieutenant Wade, who has just been forced out of the flight through the crippling of his plane, would have liked to finish the flight with his companions, but he realized the impossibility of delaying the flight for one disabled plane. His bad luck seems the harder when it is realized that the mishap arose from conditions beyond his control and it was the well meant effort to help him that completed the disaster. It will be a satisfaction, however, to know that he is to have the consolation privilege of flying the last leg of the journey across this continent as the navy department is to send a plane to Indian Orchard for him so that he may join his brother aviators when they hop off from Labrador.

Victory will crown the efforts of the Americans if only one of the planes reaches San Diego on scheduled time. The fact that two of the aviators failed to overcome the obstacles of fog and wind in the North Pacific and the North Atlantic will not detract from the glory. Circling the world by the air route is a pioneer achievement that will make brilliant history for the American airmen and every effort will now be bent to reaching the goal by two remaining fliers.

BETTER TIMES ON FARMS.

It is pleasing to have the evidence that the turn of the road is at hand for the farming industry of the country. Better prices are assured for an indefinite period for the products of the farm. And these better prices come not as a result of manipulation or of government aid or of any artificial devices but in response to the law of supply and demand which, while it may seem to be at times annulled, is always working and will always eventually prevail.

The farmer was not the only one hit by the post-war slump. Every line of business has felt it in one way or another. Factories have charged off huge losses. Wholesale and retail houses have done the same. Many institutions have passed to loss account bills which could not be collected. The farmer, who was the first to feel the rising prices of the war period, has been the last to feel the better times of the readjustment days.

Of course many a curbstone orator will have to go out of business, those men who have discoursed loudly on deflation and money barons and even tried to talk about "the crime of '73." The country can well spare them, for the people of this land are going ahead, making progress in every line and proving their statement once more, "that one must not be a bear on the United States."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Our aviators found that the name belied the warmth of the greeting in Iceland.

The Dawes plan will hasten the present day effort of beating swords into ploughshares.

Perhaps there is no special significance in the plan of the political managers to delay campaign activities till fall, when the nuts are ripe.

It used to be that when a neighbor's lights were seen burning at 3 a. m. you could be sure somebody was sick, but now it may be only a sickly radio set.

Several of the new countries of Europe are said to be bent on committing suicide, thus exercising, no doubt, their new-found right of self-determination.

"It's all in the game. We did our best," was the laconic and courageous comment of Lieut. Wade as he saw his hopes of completing the world flight shattered.

Secretary Hughes gave the German press representatives only three minutes, but perhaps that was time enough to give them all the comfort there was for them in the situation.

White House publicity has been at a pretty low ebb for the past year. It's only stunt apparently was to announce that President Coolidge had twice lost Nicodemus, his favorite tom cat.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

"Aren't you going to buy a new chapeau?" inquired Betty when I saw her downtown a few days ago in her last year's hat.

"I shall not indulge in one at present," she replied. "This one does very well, you know it is really a handsome hat."

"It was a handsome hat with the accent on the past tense, Betty, dear," I laughed. "Seriously, you do Uncle Bob an injustice by appearing in anything so out of date. The flowers are faded and the straw is sunburned. Surely you don't wish people to think that you cannot afford to have proper things?"

"I thought this hat proper. Do you really think it passe?"

"Absolutely; any one seeing you in it would jump at the conclusion that dear Uncle Bob had been having business reverses."

"Oh, dear, I had blissfully thought that I did not need to spend anything on millinery just now."

"You don't have to be extravagant. I'll go with you to try on hats, and when we find one you like I'll take mental notes, and I can copy it for you, you know I have a gift for trimming hats. It's the one useful talent of which I pride myself."

At a French model shop I saw a modified tricone that was stunning, and as I told Betty, much more uncommon now than the popular cloche.

"I've just been counting up," remarked Betty on our way home, "and I find I've spent nearly as much for the makings of my hat as the price of that French model."

"What of it? The materials you have bought are handsomer, and you will have a great deal more elegant hat. Uncle Bob doesn't want you to be counting pennies every minute."

"We wouldn't be where we are now if I hadn't been careful," murmured Betty complacently, and I wondered whether her little economies did not get on Uncle Bob's nerves. I showed Cousin Fannie just how the hat was to be made and she was glad to cover the frame, for she is particularly fond of Betty. Then I arranged the flowers and ribbon.

I was startled this afternoon to find Betty waiting for me when I came in from a tea at Marianna Oliver's. "I've come for my hat," she said. "Why, Lucille, you have it on! And it's all wet!"

"Oh, this little sprinkle hasn't hurt it any. You see, dear," I explained. "I put it on to see if it was just right, and to tell you the truth I was tempted to leave it on while I attended a small neighborhood tea. Don't you think it chic?"

"Its looks decidedly wilted, Lucile. I'll just leave it here until it dries out, and then if—"

"Why, Betty," I began, but she was out of the house with a word or two about the necessity of hurrying home to dinner.

In the evening she telephoned me. "Since it suits you so well, Lucile," she said, "Bob suggests that you keep that hat yourself. I scarcely care to wear it after you have appeared in it at a tea. Bob says not to bother about the cost of it, because he will be glad to give it to you for your birthday."

I detected a note of triumph in Betty's voice. She knows that ever since I was a tiny girl Uncle Bob has given me a $20 gold piece every birthday. She doubtless thought herself clever to work that hat off on me in place of the money, which I would much prefer, especially as the rain did decidedly detract from its freshness after all. It is just like Betty to have her own way about the hat and never thank me for all the trouble I went to for her. It is not the first time I have experienced her ingratitude.—Chicago News.

CLARK, THE PENNILESS TEACHER

Not having sufficient money to continue in his chosen vocation, William A. Clark tried many tasks in many parts of the country, but met only with failure.

Attending the country school in winter he worked in summer on the farm, near Connelsville, Pa., where he was born. At 17, he was taken by his parents to Iowa.

Deciding to be a lawyer, he studied law at the University of Mount Pleasant. His money soon was exhausted he taught school but he quickly tired of the life and resolved to go west to hunt gold.

Suffering the hardships of the plains, where Indians often made raids, he found work as teamster, as miner and as handy man, until he reached the newly-discovered gold camp near Helena, Mont. There he vainly sought for gold decided that a trader had more chance than a miner, and opened a store.

A ship wreck cut off the supplies in winter and the camp was short of tobacco. Clark rode horseback through drifted snow 250 miles to Boise City, Idaho, took 3,000 pounds of tobacco back to Helena and made $5,000 on the deal. Soon he had a wholesale tobacco business.

Having accumulated a small fortune he bought mining claims and took options, then entered the Columbia School of Mines, in New York. Completing the course, at 33, he went to Butte, Mont., and by installing modern methods, secured immense profits from his copper mines. Then he discovered the United Verde mines in Arizona, built a town and railroad and added more to his wealth.

The richest and most prominent man in Montana, he represented the state at national events, was president of the first Constitutional Convention, then ran for Congress and was defeated. In 1890 he was elected to the United States senate and his credentials were rejected. Again elected in 1891, his election was declared void. The next year he won again, and served six years.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Arthur Salter, who is delivering a series of lectures before the Institute of Politics at Williamstown on the work of the League of Nations and the influence of economics upon peace, is an English economist of international renutation. He was formerly the general secretary of the Reparation Commission and is now director of the financial and economic section of the League of Nations. As chairmen of the Allied Maritime Transport Executive in 1918 he was partly responsible for the adoption of the convoy system to evade submarines. In the war year he visited America with a special shipping mission. Since he joined the League secretariat he has been mainly instrumental in drawing up reconstruction schemes for Australia and Hungary. Sir Arthur was born in 1859 and received his education at King's College, London. His public career began with his election to the House of Commons in 1906.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

THE PONY EXPRESS

"To the people of California and Utah of 1860 and 1861 the 'Pony Express' rider, who brought them war news only a week old, was almost as great a hero as Paul Revere or Lieutenant Maughan," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society in regard to the organization to which a memorial tablet was recently unveiled in Salt Lake City.

"The name 'Pony Express' raises a faint suggestion of romance in a few minds today," continues the bulletin, "but with Macready and Kelly and Maughan flying from ocean to ocean in a matter of hours; with our night-flying postal airmen; with our railway trains that cross in four days; with our telegrams delivered within the hour; and able as we are to hear and recognize a voice while it is speaking 3,000 miles away; the accomplishments of the fearless post riders of 63 years ago are likely to be passed by as rather simple. The establishment of this weekly—and later semi-weekly—service, clipping 10 days from the mail time across the continent, was, however, an accomplishment of extreme importance. It has been credited even with keeping California in the Union during the Civil War days.

"At the time the Pony Express came into being the accepted mail route to California was by steamer from New York to the Isthmus of Panama, across the isthmus by mule conveyance, and by ships from Panama to San Francisco—28 days. Later the mail stage line from St. Louis over the Santa Fe Trail, via Yuma, and thence into southern California took letters between the two terminal cities in 18 days. Beside these records the 10-day letter and 8-day telegram schedules of the Pony Express represented as great a stride forward as the transcontinental train service made over existing methods nine years later.

"The winning of the W[illegible] had advanced only as far as the Missouri river in the central section of the country in 1860. Beyond lay trackless prairies, rugged foothills, barrier mountains, and Indians. But farther on, beyond the Rockies, along the Pacific coast and in the Great Basin region, were half a million Americans building up another section of the United States far removed from its parent block. Railroads already connected the East with St. Louis and an additional line had just been completed from St. Louis to St. Joseph Missouri. The latter city, then, was the rail head of the United States and the ultimate western outpost of the ordered civilization of the east. Beyond it a few military posts and some scattered frontiers—men existed precariously among hostile Indians. The problem was to bridge this gap and tie the 'two United States' together with the powerful thongs of news.

"'St. Jo' was also the western end of the telegraph line from the east. On the Pacific side a telegraph line extended from San Francisco through Sacramento to Placerville near Lake Tahoe. News could be flashed from New York and Washington to St. Joseph, could be carried from there to Placerville by pony, and could immediately be wired on to San Francisco. This enabled the Pony Express to make a two day shorter schedule for telegrams than for mail.

"Though government officials recognized the keen need for a fast mail service to the west coast and though the Westerners petioned for it, the bills introduced into Congress for Federal participation were killed. A private firm put the thing through: Russell, Majors and Waddell, owners of a freighting service and predecessors to the big express companies that grew up with the railroads. They organized the enterprise quietly and surprised the nation with advertisements in the spring of 1860 offering to carry letters to the Pacific in 10 days. The first riders to gallop west from St. Joseph and east from San Francisco April 3, 1860 were given enthusiastic and noisy send-offs and when the relay riders came in—on schedule—ten days later both terminal towns suspended business and had glorious celebrations.

"What the Pony Express really did was to stretch a 'telegraph line' of flesh and blood from frontier to frontier and to keep it functioning in spite of weather, Indians and desperadoes. Riders were mortally wounded by highwaymen or savages; but they carried on to the next station, their comrades took their places, and the mail sped on. Horses were changed every ten to twelve miles at stations established by the service. Riders had 'runs' of approximately 75 miles. At the end of his run a rider would be relieved, would sleep and rest, and would then be ready to carry the next mail in the opposite direction to his starting point. Only a fraction of a minute was required to change the saddle bags from one mount to another. Every minute of night and day hoof-[illegible] pounding somewhere between 'St. Jo' and Frisco,' and the mail was moving at as fast a gallop as horse-flesh could move it.

"The route which the Pony Express made famous was so well chosen that today lines of steel cover it almost exactly. Leaving St. Joseph it paralleled the present north boundary of Kansas for about a hundred miles, struck across to the Platte river at its southernmost dip in Nebraska, followed the South Platte valley to the present northeast corner of Colorado, went up the North Platte to Ft. Laramie in Wyoming and from there crossed over the Rockies by South Pass and on to Salt Lake City. The worst section of the route lay west of Salt Lake across the deserts and alkali plains of Utah and Nevada to Carson City. From Carson City it was only a few miles, though rough ones, to Lake Tahoe, and from there to Placerville.

"The famous service—which officially was 'The Central Overland California and Pikes Peak Express Company'—lasted only sixteen months. In 1861 the transcontinental telegraph was pushed ahead rapidly and at the same time the Federal government started a subsidized daily stage mail line over the Pony route. For the last few months of its existence the Pony Express operated between the fast approaching ends of the telegraph line. On October 24, 1861 when the wires met and it became possible to flash messages immediately from ocean to ocean, the Pony Express, romantic an enterprise as America's history discloses, gave up the ghost. It had bankrupted its promoters but it had helped win the West."

By DAVID CORY

The Wicked Prince

I hope you didn't tell the Peacock's secret to anybody, for, as I told you in the last story, you mustn't tell secrets. Well, no sooner had the Peacock knocked on the postern gate than it opened itself. And, oh my! Wasn't it a beautiful place. A big fountain played the loveliest kind of music, while little gold fish swam here and there, and pretty birds dipped their bills into the sparkling waters.

Drip a ling, drip a ling,
Hear the sparkling dew drops sing!
All the feathered people drink
On the fountain's crystal brink,
And the golden fishes swim
Round and round the sparkling brim.

"How fares it with you, little brother?" asked the beautiful Peacock of a tiny gold fish.

"I am sad at heart, brother mine," answered the little gold fish.

Just then the wicked prince who had taken the house from them came into the garden. On seeing Little Jack Rabbit, he put out his hand and said:

"I am a traveler," replied the bunny boy, bowing politely. "My peacock friend and I desire to see your beautiful house."

"Then come with me," said the wicked prince. "But it will cost you gold to see the beauties of my place."

At this, the prince scowled, for he liked money more than anything else in the world, except himself.

"Bah!" he answered. "I will show you nothing, for why should I offer hospitality to a bunny?"

This remark made Little Jack Rabbit furious and he pondered how to get the best of the wicked prince. All of a sudden, that dear little yellow bird, whose name I shall tell you some day, commenced to sing:

"Pluck a feather from my tail
And touch the prince's coat,
And after that you'll see him turn
Into a Billy Goat!"

But the prince couldn't understand her, for he didn't know the bird language.

No sooner had the little rabbit touched the prince with a feather than he turned into a goat, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

WEST KINGSTON

Edward C. Kenyon is spending this week with his uncle, Amos H. Kenyon and family in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Arnold are entertaining friends from Wickford.

The news of the sudden death of Frederick J. Crandall, who lived near Westerly, was a shock to his friends here. Although in poor health for the past four years he was feeling as well as usual Sunday, and assisted with the chores that evening. About 12 m. Sunday night, he heard something disturbing the chickens, went out to see what was the trouble. His wife followed and he said, "I'm going to fall!" He fell, dying instantly. Both were elderly people, but the wife summoned a neighbor and a doctor, but her husband was past human aid. He was a man respected by all who knew him. Funeral services were held at his home Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Clayton Burdick was the officiating clergyman. The bearers were nephews of the deceased. Burial was in the First Hopkinton cemetery. He leaves his widow, a son, Fred K. Crandall, a daughter, Mrs. Frank Randall, and seven grandchildren.

Mrs. Lucy R. Dawley and Mrs. Ida M. Kenyon attended the funeral of Frederick J. Crandall, near Westerly, Wednesday.

Mrs. R. H. Bristow spent Wednesday with relatives at Kingston.

The W. C. T. U. meeting was postponed until next week as some here wished to attend a funeral.

Misses Edith and Gertrude Cottrell have returned home, after a visit with Wakefield relatives.

Mrs. Emma Woodmansee and son-in-law, T. T. Knowles, spent Tuesday in Providence.

Dr. Kenyon and grandsons, Everett and Harris attended the Quidnessett clambake Wednesday.

ASHFORD

Miss Elizabeth Koss, who had been spending her vacation with her parents, returned to Hartford Sunday.

This locality was visited by a young cyclone Wednesday afternoon, lasting about ten minutes, blowing down trees and doing other damage. Several sleeping tents at Camp Lookout were blown down. There was but little rainfall.

There were callers in town from Providence, Hartford and Willimantic Sunday.

M. E. Brown has received word that his sister, Anna F. Brown, who has been visiting friends in Montague, Mass., recently met with a painful accident, while walking in a garden. She stepped into a hole which seemed to turn her foot and ankle partly around. After waiting nearly three weeks, following a physician's directions with no improvement, she was taken to Springfield hospital and with the aid of X-rays it was discovered that her hip was fractured which will confine her to her bed for several weeks. Miss Brown claims this place as her home, having lived here for many years. Friends greatly regret her painful accident.

Eggs of the Lobster

A female lobster will lay from 3,000 to 75,000 eggs, according to its size and age. The eggs are glued to the under surface of the body and are carried about for ten months before hatching.

First Woman in Parliament.

Finland had the first woman member of parliament in the world—Fru Furuhjelm—who still remains in office, with eighteen other women M. P.'s.

OBITUARY.

George P. Farley.

George P. Farley, a native of this city, died Monday night at St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport. The funeral was held Thursday at his home, 160 Lewis street, Bridgeport.

Besides his wife, Mr. Farley is survived by one daughter, Miss Madelyn Farley, society editor of the Bridgeport Times; one son, George P. Farley, Jr., of New York; two sisters, Sister Mary Eugene of Greensburg, Pa., and Miss Anna C. Farley of Chicago, Ill.; and two brothers, John F. Farley of Pueblo, Col., and Joseph E. Farley of Chicago.

Mr. Farley was born in Norwich, the son of Peter and Anna McKeirnan Farley. In 1893 he was advertising manager of the Boston Herald, and shortly after severing his connection with that organization he went to Chicago, where he was a contributor to the Chicago Tribune. Later he returned east and while still a young man he studied law under the tutelage of several prominent attorneys of Norwich and New London. He passed his examination and was admitted to the bar.

About twenty years ago he went to Bridgeport, where he had resided since. In 1910 he abandoned his private practice to devote his time to insurance work. For some time he was affiliated with the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and later became state agent of the Woodmen of the World.

FUNERAL.

Louis MacFarland.

Funeral services for Louis MacFarland, who was drowned in the river at Plainfield Monday, were held Thursday afternoon at the home of George Taylor in Montville, relatives and friends attending from Willimantic and Westerly. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The service was conducted by Rev. George W. Borden, pastor of the Quaker Hill Baptist church, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in Comstock cemetery. The bearers were Albert Taylor, Louis DeFleur, Newton Babcock, Clarence Taylor and William and Levi Kennison.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

POLICEWOMEN CAN'T JOIN STATE POLICE ASSOCIATION

Mrs. Jane E. Cassidy, policewoman, although listed as a police officer in New London, is not entitled to become a member of the state police association, it was voted at the annual outing of that body held at the Hotel Momauguin, New Haven. A large majority was the recorded vote against her application for membership in the association.

The policewoman was the first to make application for membership in the association, but a strict and thorough search of the by-laws of that body failed to reveal a clause permitting women to join, the by-laws having been drawn up before policewomen were thought of.

The result of that vote was eagerly awaited by policewomen throughout the state. Nothing was done concerning the changing of the regulations of the organization, and the women in the various departments throughout the state will therefore be obliged to wait a year before renewing their attempts to become members.

NO FIERY CROSSES WITHOUT WRITTEN PERMIT

Burning of fiery crosses without a written permit from a fire warden is prohibited after this month by an edict of the state fire warden, A. F. Hawes, until Dec. 1.

"We will arrest anyone found starting fires without permits, whether so-called Klansmen or not," declared the state official.

"Klansmen are subject to arrest like anyone else, and if found guilty, can be fined $200 or sentenced to jail for six months.

"You may say for this office that we fully intend to enforce the law, and every deputy warden will be on the lookout for violations."

Mr. Hawes considers that a fire of any kind in the fall season violates the spirit of the law unless it fulfills the conditions laid down therein, to the letter. These conditions as specified in section 2189 of the general statutes demand a permit unless the fire is built "in a ploughed field, garden or public highway, 300 feet away from woodland, dry grass or brush."

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. F. Russell Smith has been the guest of Mrs. Flint Brayton at Nantucket.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Lester are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Van Deusen of Hudson, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of Onset, Mass., while on a motor trip, have been guests of Nathan A. Gibbs and Miss Natalie K. Gibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer entertained at a dance Wednesday evening at their residence on Pequot avenue for their daughter, Miss Georgeanna Palmer. Seventy-five attended, including several from Norwich.

LOCAL WOMAN HIT BY LIGHTNING BOLT WHILE STANDING IN DOORWAY

While watching the terrific electrical storm that hit this city about 6 o'clock Thursday evening Mrs. Anne Kolodziey was hit by a bolt of lightning in the doorway of her home near Lachem Plains in the rear of St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Kolodziey was knocked unconscious for about twenty minutes and suffered burns about the breast, shoulder and hands. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called to attend her and later in the evening she was reported as resting comfortably.

The bolt struck the chimney on the house, demolishing it, and after tearing several holes in the roof, went down through the house and hit Mrs. Kolodziey as it shot out the door. Mrs. Kolodziey was watching the storm from the open doorway.

During the early part of the storm a bolt hit a tree near the corner of High and Spring streets, burning the bark on the tree and passing into the ground. Another bolt put the electric light system on Fairmount street and vicinity out of commission, and still another bolt hit a tree on the Joseph Perkins road, setting it on fire. The fire department responded to a telephone call to extinguish the burning tree, the call coming in at 7.45 o'clock.

Lightning also struck in other sections of the city, one of the heaviest crashes of thunder following a flash of lightning which struck in the chicken yard owned by F. E. Waters of No. 1 West Pearl street. Fortunately none of the chickens were killed by the bolt, but they were scattered in all directions.

Another lightning bolt that came down on the West Side threw an unknown boy to the ground, stunning him for a moment, the force of the concussion which followed spinning a local business men about, nearly hurling him off his feet.

The lightning made itself felt on telephone lines throughout the city and numerous lines were put out of order. The toll line wires suffered to considerable extent.

The usual calls for burning wires were received, a thing that often follows a severe electrical storm. At the Laurel Hill bridge a bare wire on a pole on Laurel Hill avenue and a bare wire on the upper part of the bridge resulted in a call being sent to the police department. The city electric plant was notified and men were sent to the bridge to mend the breaks.

The Connecticut company's Willimantic line was put out of commission for the night during the early part of the storm. A bolt hit a high tension wire in the vicinity of the South Windham power station and entering the station raised havoc with the switchboard, cutting off the power and leaving several trolley cars stranded at different points between Baltic and Willimantic. Repairmen went to work immediately on the damaged switchboard.

The fire department signal system got through the storm without damage.

Several distinct storms seemed to sweep in from various directions and center over the city. For about an hour, between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, there was an almost continual roll of thunder, with vivid lightning. A heavy downpour brought temporary relief from the heat wave that has held the city in its grasp for the past two days. Within a short space of time the mercury dropped over 10 degrees, from 83 to 76, and for a short while there was quite a stiff breeze blowing. After the storm had cleared up, however, the mercury began its upward climb again, and an hour after the storm it was as hot and uncomfortable as ever.

The rain, although it was of short duration, was welcomed by farmers and gardeners, as rain has been badly needed for several weeks.

COMPENSATION AWARD FOR LOUISE CAMILLUCCI

Compensation Commissioner James J. Donohue of this city has filed with the clerk of the superior court his finding in the case of Louise Camillucci, 29 Nameaug street, New London, claimant against The Marvel Underwear Co., Inc., of New London. The hearing was held in the commissioner's office August 4th.

According to the testimony at the hearing the claimant, after quitting work for the day on June 6th, and while descending a pair of stairs from the second story of the building, slipped and fell, dislocating her right shoulder. Her disability was of six weeks duration.

Proper notice of the hearing was mailed to the respondent and the employer acknowledged receipt of the same, but failed to appear at the hearing for which reason it could not be found why the claims in question had not been adjusted, nor what the claims of the respondent might be. Therefor, the finding states, an award must necessarily follow, based on the evidence introduced.

By the award in the finding the employer is ordered to pay the claimant, $51, which represents six weeks compensation. Medical bills and hospital bills are also to be paid by the employer.

BELL ALARM FOR SMALL BLAZE ON PROSPECT ST.

Boys playing with matches were probably responsible for an alarm from box 38, Central avenue and Eleventh street, at 5.48 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The box was pulled for a small sized fire at a small building on Prospect street used as a tool house by Richard Torrance. People in the vicinity at the time the fire was discovered had the flames practically extinguished with buckets of water when the firemen arrived. The fire started on the outside of the tool house in one of the corners near a sill.

According to Mr. Torrance's foreman none of the men had been in the tool house Thursday. Boys were seen playing about the shed and it is thought they were responsible for the blaze.

MOTORED TO WARWICK TO ATTEND OUTING

Miss Margaret Noyes, Miss Catherine Crimmins and Mrs. Maude Baker motored to Warwick, R. I., Sunday to attend the annual outing given for the Ogett employes. At noon a bake was served to 150 by the Warwick club and later in the day a program of sports was carried out.

Miss Noyes was the winner of the three-legged race, her partner being Mr. Murphy of Providence. They were awarded cameras. The candle race was won by Mrs. Baker who received a five piece flower set.

SAMUEL RUCHIK HELD FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

Samuel Ruchik, of No. 16 Forest street, was arrested late Thursday night by the local police on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The charge against him will include an actual sale. A two-gallon glass jug of alcohol was seized by a raiding squad. Ruchik was released on bonds for appearance in the city court. The arrest was made by Sergt. Thomas Murphy, Officer John O'Neil and Officer Patrick Murphy.

TWO INJURED EMPLOYES GRANTED COMPENSATION

Climax Tube Co., Mystic and R. Fauquet, Mystic. Employe received slightly cut finger in slot on mandrel July 3rd; compensation began July 10th.

FLASHING BEACON FOR NORTH MAIN STREET

The foundation is being laid for one of the flashing traffic beacons at the junction of North Main street and Central avenue, at the foot of Schofield's hill. Considerable traffic passes this junction and the new traffic signal light will fill a long felt need at that particular point.

ARRESTED FOR FISHING IN CITY'S RESERVOIR

Alfred Poyard, 20, and Louis Foucher, 21, both of Taftville, were arrested Thursday evening by Game Warden Watson. The charge against them is fishing in the reservoir. Both will be presented before the city court to answer to the charge.

Silence is probably considered golden because gold is so scarce.

NOT A BID WAS MADE FOR PROPERTY OF GRANGE

No one wants to buy the Haddam Neck Grange Agricultural association property at auction, according to the Middletown Press. The other afternoon Attorney John E. Tobin as receiver for the association in proceedings to close up its affairs, went to Haddam Neck, ready to act as auctioneer and sell the property to the highest bidder.

The sale had been duly advertised, as required by law. The appraisal value of the property, land, building and contents, had been fixed at $3,987. All that was needed was a bid at that figure and the change of ownership would be made.

The disputing parties in the association, who have been at loggerheads for more than a year, were on hand with their counsel. Judge Rollin U. Tyler represented one side, Bertrand E. Spencer the other. It was expected that there would be some active bidding to gain the property.

But when the call came for bids, not a peep was heard. One side glared at the other, but no offer was made. Those who claimed they could buy the property twice over made no offer. They intimated that they wanted to see what the others would do.

Every effort by Receiver Tobin to lure a bid failed to get even a starting figure. He finally decided to give it up and the sale closed. The contending factions looked defiantly at each other and departed.

It is understood that Receiver Tobin will not let the matter rest until the superior court comes in during the last week in September when he will file a motion asking for permission to sell at private sale. He will also file his report on the sale and his decision relative to the 20 shares of stock which he ruled were illegally issued.

RED MEN MAKE PLANS FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, I. O. R. M., met in its wigwam Wednesday evening, Sachem Clyde Whitman presiding. Regular routine business was transacted, during which Past Sachem D. A. Deane reported progress on the work of a large outdoor class adoption, to be held later, the date to be announced when all arrangements are completed.

The great sachem of Rhode Island, John E. Morrison of Westerly, spoke on Redmanship, and complimented Mohegan tribe on the splendid showing it has made in increasing membership, having quadrupled its membership in less than three years. Great Meshinawae George Healy, also of Westerly, spoke along the same lines.

Past Sachem George F. Farrell, speaking for the publicity committee, announced that plans were being made for a membership drive, and that other things were in the wind to boost Redmanship in Norwich.

The council fire was quenched at 10 p. m., and the members of the tribe, with the visitors from Westerly enjoyed refreshments served by the entertainment committee, A. Boucher, A. Gauthier and R. D. Harris.

FORMER GALES FERRY BOY DIES FROM INJURIES

Richard Chase Jr., 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chase of Portsmouth station, R. I., died at his home Wednesday night of injuries received when he was run down by a motor car on the day previous. He formerly lived with his parents at Gales Ferry. Stories of the accident are to the effect that young Richard while searching for his dog stepped into the highway in front of his home and was run down by an automobile driven by a Mr. Walker of Dighton, Mass. The medical examiner found the accident of an uncriminal nature, so no charges were made by the boy's parents against Mr. Walker.

CHILD AUTO VICTIM SHOWS SOME IMPROVEMENT

Frank Chorzepa, the 7-year-old Golden street boy, knocked down by an automobile on North Main street near his home Tuesday, is improving somewhat at the Backus hospital, where he is a patient. The child's skull was fractured. Hopes for his recovery are held out.

CORNELIUS DRISCOLL IS IMPROVING AT HOSPITAL

The condition of Cornelius Driscoll, the aged city employe, who was knocked down and injured by an automobile on Main street, Tuesday afternoon, is reported as much improved. Mr. Driscoll is a patient at the Backus hospital.

LOCAL LEGION MEN TO JOIN '40 AND 8'

Indications are that about forty Legion men from Norwich and surrounding towns will join the '40 and 8' society at the promenade which is slated for August 16th at New London.

The '40 and 8' is officially known in the legion as La Societe des Cent-et-Huit et 1 Chevaux, or the "hot air society." Instituted at Philadelphia in 1920, a feature of the national convention of that and succeeding years, the organization was primarily, and remains, the playground of the legion. As the honor society of the parent organization, the society rates as the strongest outside factor for inducing members to perform active duty for their legion posts, as membership in a voiture is conditional on the candidate having performed outstanding service for his local post. Among this class of service entitling the member to special recognition is serving as post officer or on some important committee of a post.

The society is named from the box car of war-time France. The box car of French railways, having a maximum capacity of forty men or eight horses, duplicated on a small scale for promenades of the society with its instant appeal to the sensibilities of every ex-service man who had ridden in one, and to all the others who had not and regretted it, has been made the background of the work of the society. If the candidate for admission into La Societe can answer truthfully that he has been and still is a loyal legionnaire and has accomplished some service for his local post, his eligibility has been well established and he can enter into his reward.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE OF GRADE B MILK

No advance in the price of Grade B milk is planned during August, according to a bulletin issued by the Connecticut Milk Producers' Association, but it was learned that if the present extreme drouth continues until August 15, a special meeting will be held by the Producers' association and the Connecticut Milk Dealers' association to determine on an increase effective September 1.

At present Grade B milk, or milk containing 4 1-2 per cent. butter fat, sold by producers, commands a market delivery price of 3 1-2 cents a quart, although this is more than the net sum which the producer realizes. This schedule also sets the price of butter fat sold as cream at 36 cents a pound, the milk to go with the fat, and the monthly average of the Boston chamber of commerce butter market as the figure at which milk to be made into butter shall be sold.

WASHINGTON STREET MANSION HAS CHANGED HANDS

Pinehurst, the beautiful mansion of the late Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Gale, on Washington street, was sold Tuesday to an out of town party whose identity is being kept secret for the present.

Archa W. Colt, agent, and Judge Arthur F. Libby, executor of the will of Mrs. Gale, have promised the purchaser that at present nothing would be said about the purchase, but it is learned that the new owner comes from a nearby city where he already owns a beautiful residence.

Pinehurst has always been one of the show places of Norwich. Equipped with greenhouses, garages and quarters for servants, it is a most modern residence.

The new owner is planning to make Pinehurst his home just as soon as his residence in the other city is disposed of, probably this fall. The purchase was made when the new owner, motoring through Norwich, saw the mansion and looked it over, the purchase being made within a few hours after he had seen the residence.

REGATTA FOR NATIONAL OARSMEN STARTS AT SPRINGFIELD TODAY

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 7.—Sweep-swingers and scullers of the United States and Canada worked out in Connecticut river this evening practicing sprints and starts for the 52nd annual championship regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, which begins tomorrow afternoon. The day was too hot and humid for much activity, and the coaches were considering seriously the effect which the conditions would have on their men. This was true especially of the Argonauts of Toronto, the eight oared crew which came down from Canada with the Dominion championship. Coach Joe Wright did not let them on the river until almost dusk. The century boat club swinging eight inch blades, was another crew that waited until evening to go out. They are the Western champions.

W. E. Garret Gilmore of the Bachelors' Barge club, Philadelphia fresh from his Olympic honors tried his new Stma shell earlier in the day, and was on the river bank to watch Russell Codman, Jr., of the Union Boat club, Boston, New England champion in his test tonight. The contest between Gilmore and Codman, A. E. Fitzpatrick, Malta Boat club, Philadelphia, John Blessing, Jr., of the Undines, Philadelphia; John Durnan of the Argonauts and M. E. Lane and S. E. Hartman of the Detroit Boat club, with eight or ten others for the association singles title probably will carry with it the national championship.

Paul Costello of the Penn. A. C. Philadelphia, who returned only a day [illegible] expected to appear for the senior singles event which carries the title and as he is the only man who is qualified to enter as a former association winner, the title will go to the victor in the association singles by default. Similarly, Costello and John B. Kelley who won the doubles title at the Paris Olympics will not be at hand to defend their national championship.

The Argonauts, in their effort to add American honors to those gained in Canada, will meet again the Undine Barge Clubs' eight from Philadelphia which was second to them last Saturday, two crews from the New York Athletic club, and the Light Lachine Rowing club eight from Lachine, Que.

BROWNS SUFFER TWO DEFEATS BY ATHLETICS

St. Louis, Aug. 7.—The Browns suffered a severe setback in their drive on first place when they were forced to defeat by the Athletics in both games of a double header here today. After losing the first 7-3, they dropped the second 2 to 1. Two of the three hits the visitors made off Van Gilder in the second game were home runs, one being the twentieth circuit drive of First Baseman Hauser, of the Athletics. He pounded out his nineteenth home run of the season in the first game. The scores:

YANKS GET AWAY TO LUCKY LEAD TO BEAT INDIANS

Cleveland, Ohio., August 7.—New York won the first game of the series from Cleveland today, 7 to 5. A lucky single in the first b yWitt was followed by an error by Smith, and three clean singles good for four runs. Both Pennock and Smith were steady in the pinches. Neither issued a base on balls. Riggs Stephenson, Cleveland second baseman starred with two doubles and two singles in four times at bat, driving in three of the Indians' runs. Score:

COSTLY ERROR LOSES GAME FOR WHITE SOX

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Failure of Clyde Crouse to touch home plate on a force play, paved the way to a three-run rally which gave Washington a 6 to 3 victory over Chicago in ten innings. After Barrett's error had filled the bases, with one out, Bluege grounded to Barrett, who threw to Crouse. The catcher failed to touch the plate and Rice scored. Ruel also grounded to Barrett, whose throw to the plate forced Goslin, but Crouse threw to right field attempting to get Ruel, Judge and Bluege scoring.

DODGERS TAKE LAST GAME FROM PIRATES

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Brooklyn took the last game of the series from Pittsburgh today by 9 to 6. Pittsburgh won her first three and lost the last two of the series. Yde was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning by two passes, Mitchells single that filled the bases, Neis' triple that cleared the bases and Fournier's single that scored Neis. It was Yde's first defeat this year after winning eight, three of which were from Brooklyn. Grimes eased up in the ninth and allowed three runs on four hits. Score.

HORNSBY'S TIMELY HITTING HELPS CARDS BEAT BRAVES

Boston, Aug. 7.—St. Louis defeated Boston, 6 to 3, today, largely as a result of the timely hitting of Hornsby. The Cardinal second baseman drove out a home run with one man on base in the first inning. In the third his single scored J. Smith, after which Hornsby also scored. Bottomley's hitting and fielding were features.

Manager Dave Bancroft, who is recovering from an operation for appendicitis, rejoined the Braves today, sat on the bench and directed play. It is not expected, however, that he will be able to play again before Sept. 1.

GIANTS WIN FROM CUBS BY RALLY IN SEVENTH

New York, Aug. 7.—The New York Nationals made it five games out of six from Chicago here today, winning the last game of the series by a score of 5 to 2. After a Chicago rally tied the score in the first half of the seventh inning, New York won in its half, scoring two runs on Terry's single. Lindstrom's double and another single by Groh.

Nehf pitched a strong game for New York. Chicago filled the bases with none out in the second, but scored only one run.

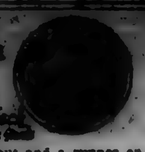
How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Flack



With one man out and a runner on third, the batter flies out to the left fielder.

Now should the outfielder set himself to make a throw home in order to catch the runner trying to score from third?

This may seem an odd question to baseball fans and to young players but the good outfielders are good because they know how to set themselves on the fly in order to return it to the plate. If the ball is hit in toward shortstop they take it on the run and just naturally get into a position to throw home. The trouble comes when a ball is hit behind them. In this case the leftfielder should go back a little further than where the ball is going to drop so he can come in and take it on the run. Then he is able to put something behind his throw to the plate. Few good outfielders catch a fly under these conditions in a standing position. If you watch them, you will note that they come in for the ball.

REDS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES WITH PHILLIES

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Cincinnati made a clean sweep of its four-game series with Philadelphia by taking today's game, 6 to 3. The Reds scored all their runs in the second inning, Caveney accounting for three of them by hitting a home run with two on base. The locals assaulted Carl Mays for three runs in the fifth, but May, who relieved him in the sixth, held them in complete subjugation. May struck out six men and yielded but four scattered hits.

Elizabeth Juniors Win.

In a game played under a broiling sun which beat down with merciless intensity upon the heads of players and spectators alike, the junior team of the Elizabeth street playground ran their winning streak to five consecutive games in defeating the Jail Hill Colonials 7-3 Thursday afternoon.

Mullins of the winners held the opposing batsmen to two hits and fanned ten. It was a very creditable performance inasmuch as the Colonials had hitherto been undefeated. The fielding of the Juniors was excellent. Anthony, Stockwell and G. Way featuring by sensational running catches. The Matthews brothers starred in the field for Jail Hill. On the whole, the Juniors have no feeling but admiration for their defeated opponents, who proved to be good sportsmen and who afforded the Juniors the sternest opposition of the season. The score:

FLEMMING DRIVERS TWO WINNERS IN SECOND DAY'S BAY STATE EVENTS

Good racing with close finishes featured the second day of the Bay State meeting here on Thursday afternoon, Billy Flemming again cleaning up the feature events. Flemming piloted Guesswork to a straight heat victory in the 2.16 pace and brought Blue Jay home ahead of the field in the three-year-old trot. The other event was the 2.20 trot which developed into a six-heat battle between Plain Mary, driven by Dutch O'Brien, and Pongee Frisco, driven by Fleisch and Flemming.

The 2.20 trot furnished some of the best racing of the afternoon, the field of eight starters being pretty well bunched the fight being between Plain Mary and Pongee Frisco with the exception of the second heat when Manawah, piloted by McGrath, slid under the wire a length ahead of Pongee Frisco, after a spectacular drive up the stretch. Fleisch's mount took the first and third heats, being pushed by the O'Brien horse. Plain Mary took the three remaining heats, Pongee Frisco losing out in the final heat when the mare broke in the stretch.

Flemming drove a very pretty race in the 2.16 pace with Guesswork. Flemming allowed Lady Couchman (Page up) to set the pace for the three-quarters of the mile and then pulling out around the leader as they swung into the stretch. All three heats were finished in this manner and made some very pretty racing in the stretch. Fast time was also made in this event.

The only accident of the day occurred in the 2.16 pace when Driver Arthur Martin was thrown from the sulky of Mabey Seymour and badly bruised. The accident happened on the lower turn on the first time around in the first heat. The horses in rounding the turn were pretty well bunched and Mabel Seymour was running in the middle of the field when the Martin mount stumbled unseating Martin and throwing him into the fence. Martin fell heavily but was able to get up and walk a short distance. He was later taken to his stable where it was found that he was bruised and had suffered a bad twist of the right leg.

His horse, however, kept on and ran three miles and a quarter before she was brought to stop on the back stretch by Jack Connelly. Martin's other two mounts were driven by Nickerson and Kingsley in the other races. Martin being unable to resume his place.

The three-year-old event was won by Blue Jay (Flemming up) who after placing fifth in the first heat took the remaining two heats although hard pushed by Barton, who had won the first heat.

Today's program will include the 2.14 trot, 2.17 pace and a 2.19 trot in heats of three-quarter of a mile. The summaries:

SANDE SAYS HE WILL FOOL 'EM AND RIDE AGAIN

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Earle Sande, injured jockey, is resting comfortably in a hospital here and is doing as well as can be expected, his physicians said today.

Sande was put under ether and Dr. James Russell of the Roosevelt hospital, New York city, manipulated the injured parts into place and after two hours of delicate work the whole leg was encased in splints.

A weight of 16 pounds was attached to prevent shortening of the leg as it heals. The jockey remarked, after he heard of the general belief that his riding days were over:

"I'll fool them all. I'll ride again."

SECOND GAME OF DUWELL A. A. AND MARTIN SERIES SUNDAY

One of the best and only real baseball attractions will for Sunday in Norwich be at the J. B. Martin grounds in Taftville, when the Velvetmen clash with the Duwell A. A. in the second of the series. The Velvetmen have one game to their credit and are out to sew up the series on Sunday. The Velvetmen, however, had no easy time winning last week as th egame went 10-innings and there is no doubt but that Sunday's game will be equally as interesting.

Manager Pedace has not announced his lineup for Sunday's game but as he is determined to win it is possible that he will have some new timber in the lineup. The J. B. Martin team will use the same lineup as last week.

Umpire Refuses to Call Balks

Sport Editor:

I wish to make a statement in regard to the game of baseball by Yantic at South Windham last Saturday. The decisions in question were this: every time we had men on bases the South Windham pitcher would start to deliver the ball to the batter, then stop his delivery, when a man started to steal, and throw to the base instead of delivering the ball to the batter. On each of these five occasions the umpire called the runner out instead of calling a balk. We protested to the manager and showed him the rules on balking but to no avail.

We held them scoreless for five innings with only two hits, while we got one run in the first on two clean hits by Lamphier and Wheeler. In the 6th they got three runs without a hit, in the 7th we got two more runs a single by Wheeler and home run drive by Lane, tieing the score. In the first of the eighth Lamphirte singled, stole second, started for third on the pitcher's windup. The third baseman yelled, the pitcher stopped in his delivery and threw to third, the umpire calling the man out. I protested to the umpire showing him the balking rules.

He said it made no difference what the rules were. In other words they made their own rules to fit the occasion. So we

TESTIMONY IN FALLON TRIAL HAS BEEN COMPLETED

New York, Aug. 7.—After a heated sparring match between William J. Fallon, accused of bribing a juror, and Victor Watson, assistant publisher of the New York American, and a further effort by Fallon to build up an alibi in regard to his presence at an inn where he is said to have paid $1,000 to Charles W. Rendings, testimony in the trial of the attorney was finished today. Final arguments before the jury were expected to be completed tomorrow.

Watson, called again as a witness, denied that he had spoken or heard the words, "Fallon must be destroyed," which Fallon yesterday attributed to William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the American. Watson said that the first time he heard of birth certificates of children of "a certain motion picture actress," mentioned in Fallon's testimony, was during the trial or Rendigs on a perjury charge. He flatly contradicted Fallon's charge of a conspiracy against him on the part of Mr Hearst.

WESTERLY

George C. Moore is constructing a new sidewalk below the George C. Moore Co. mill on Beach street at his own expense.

The Westerly highway department is filling in the low gutter with large stone south of the lower gate to River Bend cemetery, preparatory to widening the highway at that point.

Miss Ethel Kenyon of Hope Valley, was in Westerly Thursday.

The roof at either end of the new Westerly hospital is being completed, so that when cold weather sets in the structure will be entirely roofed over. The new brick chimney is in place, so that now the building looms large as one comes up the Watch Hill road or passes by on the steamcars of the New Haven road.

Mrs. Charles Hubbard of Colona, N. J., is the guest of her parents at Avondale, R. I.

Today (Friday) the employes of the Ashaway Line and Twine Co. in Ashaway, have an outing at the Atlantic Beach casino as the guests of the management. A chowder will be served and there will be everything to make an outing at the beach worth while.

Mrs. F. J. Hubbard after being the guest of friends at Haversham, R. I., has left for her home in Plainfield, N. J.

The newly constructed Bradford road will be open to traffic today (Friday) and the work of carting pipe for the Bradford extension of Westerly gas can be begun. It is expected that the newly completed state road between Westerly and Hope Valley will be opened for traffic early next week.

A large an appreciative audience attended the fifth band concert of the summer series in Wilcox park, Thursday evening, given by the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, director.

The Third District court, Judge Michael J. Turano, on the bench, will have a busy session this (Friday) morning. Beside regular civil cases and the possibility of new writs being entered there will be the weekly grist of cases where automobile laws have been broken, also the criminal docket. The case of Frank H. Brown vs Lawrence Main of Pawcatuck was heard July 30th and a plea of not guilty was entered. This case grows out of an automobile collision near the Wellstown bridge in which Ernest York, also of Pawcatuck, died in New London from injuries received in the collision of Main's car with the touring car of William F. Totten, of Westerly. In this case Main has been released on a bond of $2500 furnished by Hiram A. Edmond of Westerly. The complaint was that of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. It is said that this case may be withdrawn and a warrant charging manslaughter substituted.

Dr. John Champlin of Westerly entertained Rhode Island state board of public welfare commission on Thursday, at his home 9 Granite street, Westerly. Thursday morning Dr. Champlin entertained the commissioner at Watch Hill for bathing; after the return to his home in Westerly luncheon was served. Thursday afternoon a business session was held at 2 o'clock.

Among Norwich people at Watch Hill the past week registered at the Ocean House were H. Hall, Mrs. C. R. Butts, Mrs. C. R. Boss; at the Plimpton Hotel, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, Miss Stella A. Bell, Mrs. William G. Birge, R. W. Perkins. At Weekapaug—Weekapaug Inn, Mrs. F. S. Wilcox, Lucy Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Peck, Master George K. Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. B. Jones, twin daughters Norma Elizabeth and Mary Helen and son Preston of Kenyon, visited friends in Westerly on Thursday.

M. Walter Flynn, Jr., a delegate from Narragansett Council, No. 21, Knights of Columbus, and James F. McCormack, both of Westerly, returned home Thursday, after attendance at the national Knights of Columbus convention held in New York city the past few days.

Commander Amos R. Chapman of Budlong post, No. 18, Grand Army of the Republic, does not intend to be present next week at the 58th annual national convention of the G. A. R. As far as he knows there are no members of his post who plan to attend.

Not unlike the conditions on the first visit of the navy dirigible Shenandoah to New England when postponements of the flight were numerous, the flight of the big blimp to Narragansett bay was postponed for a second time on Thursday and the people of Westerly and the neighboring shore resorts were again disappointed in not getting a glimpse of the big visitor of the air. Thunder showers was again given as the cause of the cancellation for the day, but it is thought if conditions of the weather are favorable the same schedule will be observed today (Friday).

Misses Sally E. and Louise C. Coy were hostesses Thursday afternoon at a tea in honor of Miss Arnold and Mrs. Thayer, at Stonington Manor Inn.

Records for afternoon surf bathing for a mid-week day were broken at Watch Hill bathing beach Thursday afternoon. Beside the regular trippers many Westerly business men laid aside business cares for a time in the afternoon to take a dip in the deep. The wind from the south grew steadily stronger, it being almost cold, and there was quite a surf. Devotees observing the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin added to the number of those in the water, for the observance this year is held on two dates, August 7th and August 15th.

A special electric car with the members of the First Baptist Bible school of Stonington passed through Westerly Thursday morning to Atlantic beach casino for the annual picnic outing. A second special car carried a Mystic party an an outing to the same beach. Today (Friday) members of the Second Congregational church are to hold a picnic at Atlantic beach.

STONINGTON

Edward Merrill of Wequetequock has placed on exhibition at the store of Henry M. Friedman one of the most varied collections of Indian arrowheads and tools that have been assembled in this part of New England. Mr. Merrill has spent over 15 years in collecting the Indian relics. During the greater part of this time he has studied the life and habits of the redskins and he is considered an authority on them. The exhibit comprises 630 pieces. The owner has wired them in a classified system to a dark red background and they have been encased by Edward E. Northup. Chief among the articles on display are arrowheads, slungshots, gauges, axes, tomahawks, knives, scrapers and implements used to grind meal. The arrowheads are of many shapes and sizes according to the work they were used for. Some were used for spearing fish, others for killing various animals and enemy warriors. The implements are nearly all of flint. Just how they were manufactured is not known. It is generally supposed that they were first shaped, then heated and hardened by dropping in water. The collection is valued in several thousand dollars.

A shower Thursday noon served to relieve the intense heat for a brief time but the sun broke through shortly and made it one of the hottest days of the summer. There was hardly a breath of air and the harbor was as smooth as a mill pond in appearance.

The Bible school of the Second Congregational church is to hold its annual picnic (today) Friday at Atlantic beach. A special will leave at 10:15 a. m.

Theatregoers are to be in attendance at Stonington are to be in session today. The comedy will be the final opportunity for those to have their names [illegible] Dr. James [illegible] Rev. George B. The annual parade and inspection of the three companies are [illegible] will be held Saturday. The line will also include the Stonington band and the Ambulance corps. For the first time the fire departments and the Ambulance corps will appear in their new uniforms and with their new equipment.

The Women's Relief corps visited a sale Wednesday afternoon. Twelve were present at the sailing party and much other work was accomplished. Fruit punch, ice cream and cake were served.

James Scanlon of St. John's Episcopal church of Hartford will sing at the morning service of the First Baptist church next Sunday. Mr. Scheelon is a tenor of considerable merit.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Francis, formerly of Stonington, now residing at Ithaca, N. Y., are visiting in the borough.

MYSTIC

There was an attendance of about 60 at the annual picnic of Fanny Ledyard Chapter, D. A. R., held Wednesday at the home of Miss Annie A. Rathbun in Quiambaug. Dinner was served at noon. Those present were: Mrs. Adelia G. Gray, Mrs. Elsie P. McGaughey, Mrs. Mary E. Dickinson, Miss Emily F. Denison, Mrs. Gertrude Thompson, Mrs. Fanny Pendleton, Stonington; Miss M. Josephine Dickinson, Mrs. Abbie E. Noyes, Mrs. Jennie P. Breed, Mrs. Ella E. G. Wheeler, Miss Emily Williams, Mrs. Mary L. Brown, Mrs. Mary H. Haley, Mrs. Bertha Snell, Mrs. Ella W. Loper, Providence, Mrs. Byron, Stonington; Mrs. Annie N. Peabody, Philadelphia, Mrs. Ruth Newell, Noank, Mrs. S. A. Boyden, Mrs. John G. Wheeler, Mrs. Leslie McCuen and son Bradford, of New York, Miss Esther Forbes, Torrington, Mrs. Agnes T. Peabody, Mrs. Amos Grinnell, Frank W. Batty and Daniel B. Denison. The business meeting of the chapter is held during August and the next regular meeting will be the first Wednesday in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Mart Wirtz returned Thursday to their home in Jersey City, N. J., after a visit with relatives here.

Two large picnics were held Thursday, that of the Eastern Star at the home of the worthy matron, Mrs. Inez Carville, in Pequonnoc, and that of the Union Baptist Sunday school at Atlantic Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dorr leave today (Friday) for their home in Roslindale, Mass., after a visit with Mrs. Dorr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rippel.

Mrs. Ada Sweet has returned from a trip to Cape Cod with friends.

Cards received here Thursday from Mrs. W. T. Fish, who is in Orleans, Mass., state that her daughter, Mrs. Norman White, is improving steadily and hopes to be home from the hospital in another week.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank T. Rhoad and son, Frank T. Rhoad, Jr., of Amsterdam, N. Y., were guests of friends here over night Wednesday. Mr. Rhoad was very popular during the two years that he served as pastor of the Mystic Bridge Congregational church and both he and Mrs. Rhoad have many friends here. They left Thursday by automobile for Cape Cod, where they will stay during Mr. Rhoad's vacation. The Presbyterian church in Amsterdam, over which Mr. Rhoad has charge and to which he went from here is a large and flourishing parish. A new organ to cost something like $10,000 is soon to be installed in this church.

To a very people Thursday was the hottest day of the season with Wednesday a close second. A mild shower Wednesday about noon lasted but a few minutes and failed to relieve the severe drouth. Corn is being offered in the market this week in spite of the dry weather but the drouth is causing many gardens to suffer and in some cases the crop is practically spoiled now.

Mrs. M. E. Colegrove has returned to New London after a visit with her aunt, Mrs. E. V. Whiting.

Mrs. W. K. Loper has returned to Providence after visiting Mrs. James E. F. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Haldan Whiting of Springfield, Mass., have been recent visitors here.

Gordon Hodge was at Watch Hill Thursday.

Mrs. Mary E. Arnold of Brooklyn, N. Y., is expected here for a stay of several weeks.

Many Mystic people and particularly the students of those who were active in its organization are looking forward with interest to the approaching 200th anniversary celebration of the Road church Sunday afternoon, Aug. 31, at 1:30 (standard time). This was the first church of any denomination established in the town and is in a fine state of preservation.

WHERE MODERN BUSINESS FAILS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Perhaps as interesting and illustrative an illustration as was ever recorded of the utter failure of modern business to function efficiently has been given within the last fortnight.

A recent Macon, Ga., dispatch to The Baltimore Sun says that since July 10 5,000 car loads, 4,000,000 bushels, of fine peaches, already picked and crated, have been thrown into the rivers of Middle and Southern Georgia by farmers unable to sell them for the cost of the crates. In addition to which thousands of additional carloads are dropping from the trees and rotting beneath them, the owners having learned of their inability to sell them before picking.

"Peaches are selling here today," says the dispatch, "at sixty cents a basket, or forty cents a crate, barely enough to pay for the baskets and crates in which they are packed, with no allowance for picking, packing and hauling. . . . Shipment to northern markets have to be made in refrigerator cars with five tons of ice for the initial icing of each car. Further expense for the growers in shipping, of course, comes in the freight charges. And nearly two thousand cars have been sold during the last week at prices below the actual freight charges. . . . The greatest peach crop in the history of Georgia was produced this year. Total shipments last year for the entire season amounted to 8,710 cars. Total shipments this year to date are 4,500 cars. The only peaches remaining in Georgia to be picked are the Albertas, which are conservatively estimated at 1,000 carloads. If prices do not rise the growers say that these, too, will be thrown away."

And now, for the most utterly astounding assertion I remember ever having seen outside the professional "yellow press" of New York city, I quote verbatim from the Macon dispatch:

"Because of the tremendous crop of peaches the Georgia Peach Growers' Exchange, with government co-operation, worked out the greatest distribution ever attempted for the year. But markets wouldn't consume the crop."

It's those last five words I want you particularly to notice. "Markets wouldn't consume the crop."

This is one more evidence—where none was needed—of the extent to which "Big Business" has separated the meaning of the word "market" from the words "public demand."

There was never a year when public demand in the north for peaches was greater than this year. In my little rural neighborhood I know of a dozen families who have been vainly trying to get peaches for canning, etc., at decent prices, but without avail. The local crop happens to be as short as the Georgia crop is abundant. There is no chance for local supply meeting the demand, even on the little neighborhood within my own restricted personal observation. And the prices charged by retailers and peddlers for Georgia peaches have been an exorbitant tax on people of moderate incomes could no more afford them than they could afford gold dinner sets. It would be unreasonable to suppose that the same demand and the same exorbitant charges do not exist elsewhere. What is true of this small farming community is unquestionably true in thousands of other like communities, to say nothing of the cities.

Consumers want the peaches—want them badly—want all Georgia produced even in this banner year. The demand is universal and loud.

But "the market" won't take them.

What is "the market" in the former days when politico-economy was a science and not a scheme of humbuggery, "the market" was supposed to be governed by the law of supply and demand. But now, demand is wide spread and insistent for Georgia peaches, while "the market" won't take them.

Could stronger testimony be asked to support the charge that "the market" no longer represents public demand?

What, then, does it represent? The answer is simple and plain: it represents solely the selfish greed of more or less organized "big business." It represents not an attempt to meet public demand but a system of colossal banditry by which the public is held up or black-jacked while its pockets are rifled.

The only really honest expression of the sentiment which controls "the market" these days was that uttered, years ago, but a conspicuous railroad owner. When some outrageous imposition on the part of his road was called to his attention, and the fact pointed out that it was contrary to the interests of the public, Mr. Vanderbilt bluntly but honestly replied: "The public be damned!"

The wide publication of this phrase made Mr. Vanderbilt's name extremely unpopular. But which speaks loudest, actions or words? Mr. Vanderbilt simply said what "the market" and its manipulators are doing in this peach case. He was looking out for the filling of his own pockets and he didn't care a profane nothing for the interests or the welfare of the public. Market manipulators of today hold exactly the same attitude. The only difference is that they hypocritically refuse to say, out loud, what they do in fact.

We are asked, now and then, by optimists or retained attorneys, to feel gratitude over the tremendous extension of our railroad system, by which the products of whole world are made available for the consumers of every part of it. Think of the times when the New England farmer had to go without wheat bread, unless he raised his own wheat, while now flour ground in Minnesota from wheat raised in Dakota is brought right to his door.

Sounds good, too. But apply it to the case of these Georgia peaches. They are rotting on the ground, or fermenting in choked rivers by the million bushels, because Georgia peach growers can't get enough for them to pay cost of picking, packing and hauling, while vast populations in the South are deprived of peaches because they cost so much up here that we can't afford to buy them.

Just how much service is our vaunted transportation system to the Georgia peach growers and the New England peach eaters?

If that much talked-about Man from Mars should light on this planet, these days, he would assume, as a matter of course, that our transportation facilities would be promptly invoked when there was a shortage in the north, to supply it promptly, fully and economically from the surplus of the south. Georgia isn't as far from us as Minneapolis is or Dakota, a "market" which represented or even dimly considered the public interest as supreme would in the expectation of any intelligent and reasoning visitor, meet such an emergency, and latter.

How far it does the facts already set forth make clear. Hundreds of northern communities crying for peaches at a reasonable cost, and millions of bushels of ripe, juicy peaches rotting on Georgia trees or bobbing down Georgia rivers because Georgia can't sell them for enough to pay for the containers.

And in between, "the market," refusing the growers a decent price with one hand and raking in exhorbitant profits from the consumers with the other.

Now don't misunderstand me. I don't assert or pretend to believe that any half dozen or half hundred heads of "big business" actually get together, anywhere, and deliberately say to each other: "Go to, now, let's devise a scheme to rob both Georgia peach growers and New England peach consumers." Such a proceeding, if found out it probably would be, would expose them to federal prosecution, sometime between now and 1950. They're too cunning for that. Moreover, they don't have to do any such thing. All they need do is take advantage, each in his own department, of the opportunities afforded them by a somnolent or debauched public sentiment.

That's what makes the situation so forebodingly to those who are able to forecast the future from the past. It isn't merely railroad men and retailers and peddlers who are responsible. It is a drugged and doped public sentiment which not only permits and excuses unrighteous profiteering, but which crawls on its belly after chances to secure for itself crumbs from the orgy.

Take, just for a trifling sample, the mere matter of the wooden crates in which peaches are packed for shipment. Ten years ago, I could have pine trees cut and logged in my woods for $1 a thousand feet; skidded to the mill for another $1; sawed and piled for $3 more; the boards hauled to the railroad for $1 additional. I could afford to sell the lumber for $12 a thousand feet and still get $6 for the trees which made the thousand feet.

Now, I am asked $3 a thousand for cutting and logging; $3 a thousand more for skidding to the mill; $6 a thousand for sawing; and $3 a thousand for drawing to the station. This amounts to $15 a thousand for the mere rough-sawing of the same lumber which, ten years ago, cost but $6 for exactly similar operations. How can I or any other timber owner sell for $12 a thousand lumber which he has to pay $15 for merely handling? At the same time, pine is growing constantly scarcer and, therefore, dearer.

Because of all which, the stuff out of which Georgia peach crates are made costs the Georgia peach grower twice or three times what it used to. Perhaps in the old days the lumber in those crates and the carpenter's labor in constructing them might have cost the peach grower fifteen cents each. He then could sell a crate for forty cents and have twenty-five cents left to pay for picking, packing, hauling, etc. Now, however owing to the immensely increased wages which log-cutters, sawers, teamsters, railroad men, carpenters, etc., are demanding—and obtaining—the same crate costs him practically all the forty cents he can sell it for, after he has filled it with peaches.

Of course, these wage increases don't account for all the enormous spread between the pitiful dole offered the Georgia grower and the impossible prices charged the New England consumer. The same day when the Georgia grower was offered forty cents a crate for his best peaches, the peddlers passing my farmhouse were asking at the rate of $4.80 cents for such a crate,—just twelve times as much.

The motto of the age is "Every man for himself and the devil take,"—not "the hindmost," but "everybody behind ME."

It may be that this is the true "radical" or "progressive" spirit.

But some of us can't help thinking it is far from the noblest which might be imagined. And a great many of us can't help seeing that, somehow, it doesn't work just right.

As a matter of fact, I've never yet met the man who cordially defended this "every man for himself" doctrine. The nearest its adherents come to anything like defence is in saying, "Oh, well, we've got to make a living out of the world, and out of the world as is, not as we'd like it to be." This, you'll kindly observe, is neither defence nor excuipation. It is simply excuse and apology.

One question which a real man can't help considering, sooner or later, is where he really wants to live a life calling for and admitting of only excuse and apology.

Why not think that out, now, and see what you make of it?

THE FARMER.

HEALTH AND VITALITY FOR WOMEN

Health and vitality can be gained without narcotics or drugs. Keeping well is largely a matter of keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to women as evidenced by headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, backache and irritability. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such conditions and restoring sick and ailing women to health. It surely pays every suffering woman to try it.

TO TAKE OFF FAT

New French Formula Reduces Pleasantly, Safely and Surely.

If you are suffering from excess fat; if your heart, lungs and liver are affected by the burden you are carrying; if your joints are stiffened with rheumatism, or if you are a victim of high blood pressure due to obesity, you can now be relieved. No matter how little or how much you want to lose, and no matter all the pills, creams, diets and exercises you have tried before, SAN-GRI-NA, a new discovery of a French scientist, is guaranteed to relieve any fat man or woman, or your money is refunded.

SAN-GRI-NA is the formula of a French physician. It has been used in Europe by millionaires, actresses and hundreds of fat men and women, because it is simple, easy, pleasant and harmless. If you are burdened with rolls of ugly fat, make this test to-day. First weigh yourself, then go to any good drug store and get a box of SAN-GRI-NA, take two small tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. One French woman, now in America, states that she reduced 37 pounds in eight weeks with this marvelous discovery, and has never regained one pound since. You do not have to follow any diets or exercises, but be sure and get the right tablets, called SAN-GRI-NA, as nothing like it has ever before been offered to the American public.

Growth and Vitality

No matter what type or kind or animal you raise—no matter how scientifically you feed them—the big question is:

How fast can they turn that feed into flesh and vitality?

If you can find a natural way to speed up digestion and assimilation—to help the animal get the last ounce of nourishment out of every pound of feed—your profits will grow accordingly. And that is exactly what Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast does!

This remarkable feed-accessory, added in small amounts to the regular daily ration, helps to transform that ration quickly and easily into good solid flesh and healthy energy. Not a bit of nourishment is wasted—and in addition, Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast supplies the essential B-Vitamin (the vitamin of growth) in the most highly concentrated form available in all nature.

The results are startling: faster growth—increased vitality and fertility—heavier egg-production for poultry—blue-ribbon winners for fanciers. Scientific breeders the country over have proved the power of Fleischmann's Pure Dry Yeast. It is now on sale right here in town—a trial can will be the best investment you ever made. Come in and get a free booklet on this modern method of animal feeding.

		Number	DOUBLE-FACED Price
Athalia—War March of the Priests (Mendelssohn) / Festival March of the Boyars (Einzugsmarsch der Bojaren) (Halvorsen)	Mengelberg and New York Philharmonic Orchestra	6484	$2.00

Famous marches, very unlike one another—one grave and stately, the other quaint yet sumptuous. A charming orchestral record worthy of the conductor and of the Victor.

Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12—Part 1 (Liszt) Piano Solo / Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12—Part 2 (Liszt) Piano Solo	Olga Samaroff	6450	2.00

A beautiful record of the brilliant and capricious Twelfth Rhapsody of Liszt. Almost every human mood finds expression, and the number is recorded in inimitable Victor fashion.

I Love You (from "Little Jessie James") / Suppose I Had Never Met You (from "Little Jessie James") (Thompson-Archer)	Reinald Werrenrath / Reinald Werrenrath	1026	1.50

Two popular hits, sung by a great artist with splendid sympathetic power. Both are "heart-songs." Hear Werrenrath sing them and you will appreciate how perfectly they are recorded.

Light Vocal Selections

Any Old Time at All / Deep in My Heart	Lewis James / Franklyn Baur	19378	.75

Songs of love-reminiscence in the popular vein. The first one tends to the waltz style, the second to the fox trot. Both are finely sung; splendid records of popular music.

Melodious Instrumental

Cuckoo Waltz / Lena—Schottische	International Novelty Quartet / International Novelty Quartet	19349	.75

Delightful, "homey" numbers for a "quartet" of violin, accordion, xylophone, cornet, piano and one or two other sources of odd and interesting effects.

Duets—Two Sopranos

(1) Music Everywhere (2) The Bird of Passage (3) Cradle Song / (1) Bella Napoli (2) Jolly Miller (3) Tempest	Anna Howard-Laura Littlefield / Anna Howard-Laura Littlefield	19350	.75

Records for two soprano voices, issued for educational purposes, but delightful to hear for their own sake; and children will specially enjoy them.

Dance Records

San—Oriental Fox Trot / I Can't Get the One I Want—Fox Trot	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19381	.75

Whiteman has made a daring record of the favorite "San," with some startling new details, and with extraordinary power and finish. Its companion is a gem, too, in playing and recording. A most remarkable dance record!

June Night—Fox Trot / Only You—Fox Trot (from "Tell Say She Is") with vocal refrain	Waring's Pennsylvanians / International Novelty Orchestra	19380	.75

Melodious fox trots. "June Night" has some polka-like rhythms. "Only You" has a tender vocal refrain. For dancing or for listening, these are admirable records.

Fox trots worthy of their names—the first with singular kazoo-and-megaphone ululations, the second with cornet pleasantries and brilliant piano-work. Both numbers attest the skilfulness of Victor recording.

BUSY MONTH FOR STATE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Hartford, Aug. 7.—July was the busiest month the state police department has ever had, according to the monthly report completed today by Secretary Robert L. Bengie. There were 1,952 complaints and 566 arrests —both unprecedented numbers. The troopers patrolled 130,000 miles of state road, and 418 arrests were for violation of the motor vehicle laws. Of these 254 were for reckless driving. Forty arrests were for liquor law violations and the rest were for miscellaneous offenses. Liquor seized during the month was valued at $32,359. The department examined 8,154 applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses and rejected 561. The weights and measures department made 796 inspections.

DROWNING WITNESSED BY MEMBERS OF PICNIC

Middletown, Conn., Aug. 7.—Members of a picnic party witnessed the drowning today of Sal Kabatznick, 7, son of Jacob Kabatznick, a furniture dealer of this city, whose home is in Cromwell. While bathing at Wilcox Island park in the Connecticut river the boy fell off a log into deep water. The body was recovered twenty minutes later. Police and firemen from this city worked unsuccessfully for an hour with a pulmotor, trying to revive the lad. His father who was summoned, collapsed and was taken home where he was attended by a physician.

It's a wise child that knows enough to keep its face straight when its father is learning to drive an automobile.

GOV. TEMPLETON APPOINTS STATE PARK POLICEMEN

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 7.—Governor Charles A. Templeton spent a busy morning at his office in this city signing 12 commissions for various state appointments, the majority of these being state park policemen, but one being an appointment to the state board of finance and another as harbor master. The appointment to the state board of finance was in reality a re-appointment, this being Byron D. Bushee of Putnam, for a term of six years, starting January 1, 1926. Frederick I. Converse, of Stratford was appointed harbor master for a term of three years, which started last Monday.

Charles W. Bishop, of Kent; William H. Lynch, of Madison; Arthur V. Parker, of Hartford; Lewis A. Rathbone, of East Haddam; Ernest G. Carlson, of East Hampton; John W. Park, of Clinton; George N. Pittard, of Madison; Cleveland Watson, of Cornwall Bridge and Peter J. Lawler of Wallingford, all were appointed state park policemen, while David Strong of New Preston, was appointed to the state police department.

CLEVELAND WOMAN MOTORIST FINED

SCOFFED AT NEW LONDON LAWS

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 7.—

Mildred Smith, a cute little woman, came all the way from Ohio to learn something about the automobile laws of this state and of the ordinances that prevail as law in most cities where traffic regulations are as law. She is registered at the Griswold hotel, Eastern Point, and she gets around in a Packard car so that she has [illegible] that respect. Yesterday she was in New London and was on his way to the railway station from the business section when she was halted by Traffic Officer William Corcoran, a police and gentlemanly cop, who was directing the course of automobiles endeavoring to prevent congestion and accidents. He held up his gloved hand to Mildred, but she gave no heed. Indeed, she tore right on to the railway station and there marked in the space prescribed for public service cars that they might be distinguished by every one who sought to ride in them. There Mildred got out of her Packard and remained so long that the officer approached her and asked to see her registration and her license to speed about. She looked at him in astonishment for she had neither of the papers desired by the officer. "Why," said Mildred with a toss of her shapely head, "I have driven everywhere and I have never had an operator's license! The registration is at the hotel. I never carry it." Well, that nearly took the breath of the policeman away, as he ventured to ask her where her home was. "In Cleveland" was the reply. Mildred said some other things, according to the officer, for she mentioned "bulls" and looked at him as if she would like to slap his wrist. "You will have to come to the police court tomorrow," said the officer. "I will?" interrogated Mildred, and she tossed her head again and drove away, shying a scornful look at the officer, as he tipped his hat to her and bade her adieu. In court she feigned astonishment to the reading of the complaint and then said she was guilty of the three charges against her, "but," she continued, "I did not realize that I could not park as I desired to." Her attention was called to the wording of her registration, which was to the effect that "this card shall always be carried in the car." She said she had not read the card and never had carried it in her automobile. She followed this up with the statement that she had never had an operator's license. She was fined, with all the grace that a fine can be imposed. Her bill was something over $20.

Joseph Gordon was presented for embezzlement of, specifically, $160 from Abel, a wholesale fruit dealer. He is charged with collecting funds belonging to Abel and failing to account for it. Receipts that Gordon gave in the shape of bills of goods delivered with his name attached as having received the money were offered in evidence but there are more to come so the case could not proceed to trial today. It was continued till tomorrow and Gordon gave a bond of $500 to appear in court then.

A couple of sailors from a barge in the harbor were fined for a fight in which they summed last midnight. They were muddled by liquor and though they were good friends they got into fisticuffs and created such a disturbance that the police were called.

William H. Wilson, employed to instruct railroad brakemen in the use of a patented brake, was charged with intoxication. There was no doubt of his guilt, for he had not entirely recovered his poise when he held up his right hand and said he was a victim of bad rum. Wilson came here to pursue his calling and was located in a car at the station where he slept and where his clothing, etc., was kept. Yesterday he fell in with acquaintances who were in the navy with him and with them he went over experiences between drinks till he became in a condition of a man with his legs tied. He could not walk. Helpless, he was found by the police. He was penalized with a fine of only a dollar, for the court seemed to have some sympathy with him. When he came to settle he related that he had lost or been robbed of $45, a check, certified for $60 and a photograph of his mother. He remembered putting the cash in his hat lining. The check and the picture he could not remember about. Probation Officer Mansfield volunteered assistance to Wilson and going to the car the $60 was found in the lestlining. Payment on the check was stopped and there is a chance that he may yet secure the money the check calls for. He says he is through with the stuff that is called whiskey. He spoke with an earnestness that indicated he had made up his mind that such experiences as he has just passed through should teach the lesson that he needed.

The automobile owned and driven by Ottaviano Bellicchi, 41 Fountain street, Norwich, struck Wallace Shihosky, 5, of 55 North Bank street, this afternoon. The child sustained some bruises, but otherwise escaped unhurt. Bellicchi reported the accident at the police station. The youngster had been playing on the opposite side of the street from his home and ran into the highway to go to the store of his mother. Running from behind a machine parked at the curb the child ran directly in front of Bellicchi's car. The youngster was picked up and taken to his home where the mixture of his injuries was determined.

Elizabeth Perry, 14, daughter of Joseph Perry, of Waterford, who is alleged to have been outraged by her father several weeks ago, was committed today to the detention home of the humane society at Hartford by Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton. The girl, it is alleged, was attacked by the father, who is charged with incest, and who is at liberty on bonds of $2500 for his appearance at the September term of the superior court, numerous times since last February. Since that time she has been in the custody of her aunt, Mrs. Co's, Elinman street. Recently investigators of the humane society reported to Justice Merton that the girl's surroundings were such that she should be taken from the custody of the aunt and it was then that the child's commitment was ordered.

Christopher McCormick, 56 Evergreen avenue, who with Miss Elizabeth Keating, Montauk avenue, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Theodore J. Evans, 142 Shaw street, on Jefferson avenue, on Sunday night, sustaining lacerations and contusions, was able to leave Lawrence hospital today and return to his home. Miss Keating has a fractured collarbone and will be under treatment at the institution a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. David Connors of Berkley avenue, who are taking a two weeks' automobile trip, have arrived in Albany, N. Y., where they will remain a day or two.

Frederick G. Smith, of Watertown, N. Y., formerly of New London, has acquired an interest in the Gager-Crawford company and will return to New London to begin his business career in an entirely new business. Mr. Smith was for a time employed by the H. K. H. Silk company, of which company his father, the late Robert N. Smith, was for a number of years its superintendent. Mr. Smith moved to Watertown two years ago.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of Nathan Morris, 35 Linden street; John H. Brown, 30 Shapley street, and R. Wekeria, 30 Mercer street, to be suspended. The operators were recently convicted of infractions of the automobile laws.

An automobile owned by Mrs. Anna Ramistella, 708 Bank street, and operated by her husband, Louis Ramistella, public service operator, and a machine, owned by Irving Lipton, 283 Spaulding street, and operated by Joseph F. Hegarty, 117 Willetts avenue, were in collision early this morning on Pequot avenue, near New London light. Both machines were damaged.

Those was operating the Lipton car, in which were Lipton and his family, en route to Ocean Beach. At the curve opposite New London light, he says the machine operated by Ramistella and headed in a northerly direction, appeared suddenly and before either operator could divert the course of his car, the two machines became locked. The collision caused the steering gear of Lipton's car to become disabled and the car lunged across the highway and against a row of bathhouses owned by Lester E. Whiton.

A couple of colored "ladies," John and William Williams, were in the Waterford town court this afternoon. John is a bellman at the Hotel Mohican and William is not, but he can hop upon a good time just as quickly as any bellboy in the city. John is also the owner of an automobile and in that machine the Williamses went for a good time, taking a couple of ladies with them. They drove into the country and when they were coming back this morning the men who make their living from the soil were coming into town to sell the produce of their farms. Isaac Shuckler was one of the farmers who had a load of chickens, eggs, berries, etc., and he was headed for the market when the Williams car came along. The occupants of it so engaged that they did not get a straight view of the farmer's wagon and struck the Shuckle outfit a mile from behind that upset and damaged it, spilling the contents all over the street. The Williamses, realizing the night was dark, scudded along, allowing Shuckler to pick himself and the contents of his wagon from the road. A couple of sailors coming into town informed the police that there was a wreck out on the Hartford turnpike and Sergeant Cavanaugh and Officers McCaskey and John Foley proceeded to investigate. They ascertained the facts and then turned the case with the information they had gathered over to State Policeman Robert Anderson. He ascertained that the Williamses could be found at their homes, John at 81 Homestead street, and William at 45 New street, and arrested the pair. They were presented in the Waterford town court before Justice Morton, who decided that they were guilty of violations of the state automobile laws. Each was fined $10 for evasion, and the owner was fined $25 for reckless driving also. They didn't have the necessary funds and could not get them, so they went to jail.

A special meeting of the city council is to take place tomorrow evening to permit a license being granted to hold another Chautauqua.

Tony Russell, 32 Shaw street, found a horse straying in the yard of his home at 4 o'clock this forenoon and had the animal taken to a Main street livery stable to await a claimant.

Another violator of the automobile laws, one of the three New London young men arrested Sunday night for parking cars alongside the darkened highways while they did their courting and who failed to put in an appearance when ordered to do so last night, was fined $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $13.36 by Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in the Waterford town court this evening.

Mrs. Joseph Furnero and infant daughter, of 30 West Coit street, Mrs. Edwin Johnson and infant son, 113 Howard street, and William Biggange, Cambridge, Mass., patients at

MARKET WAS BULLISH.

New York, Aug. 7.—Stock prices continued to lose ground today on further profit-taking and professional selling despite attempts to rally the list by staging bullish demonstrations in certain rails and industrial specialties. Trading was again on a reduced scale, total sales approximating about 815,000 shares.

Chief speculative interest today seemed to be centered in the bond and foreign exchange markets. Most of the foreign government loans advanced to new high levels for the year while demand sterling registered a gain of six cents to $4.51 3-8, a new high record for the year.

A further reduction in the local federal reserve rediscount rate from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent, was not announced until after the market closed. News of the German acceptance of the allied terms on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes plan, accounted for the strength of the French bonds and foreign exchanges, but was without effect on the stock market.

Good buying was noted in the railroad group, Lackawanna rising nearly five points to 137 1-4 and Pere Marquette nearly four to 65 1-2, each at a new high record for the year. Delaware & Hudson, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Jersey Central, Nickel Plate and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis also sold at the year's best prices, while Canadaian Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Frisco preferred and Texas and Pacific gained a point or more. Buying of the so-called Van Sweringen issues probably was influenced by reports that an agreement had been reached for an exchange of stocks of five roads into the proposed new "Nickel Plate" system.

National Lead jumped more than four points to 157 1-2 and then fell back to 154 1-4 on a denial of reports that the stock was to be split up. General Electric duplicated its record high at 281 but reacted later to 276 3-4. Sloss Sheffield closed nearly a point higher, but the other steels were heavy, U. S. Steel dropping more than a point to 107 1-4 and Gulf States reacting 1 1-2 to 72 1-2. Davison Chemical broke sharply.

Schulte Stores, Foundation Company, Fleischmann, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Smelting preferred, Corn Products, preferred, U. S. Distributing preferred, and American and Foreign Power certificates all sold at the year's high prices. Cuyamel Fruit and Federal Light and Traction broke through their previous lows. Wilson and Company issues also were heavy.

Call money continued to rule at 3 per cent. Some business in 90 day time loans were reported at 2 1-2 per cent, although lenders as a rule held out for 2 3-4. Sixty day funds were available at 2 per cent. and the longer maturities at 3 1-2. The commercial paper market was quiet with rates unchanged.

All European exchange rates improved in sympathy with the advance in sterling. French francs rallied around 5 1-8 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Aug. 7.—Spirited trading in foreign bonds, sending most issues to new peak prices for the year as the allied and Germans reached complete accord on the default system of the Dawes plan, and sharp breaks in Liberty issues made today's bond market one of the most interesting in weeks.

Heavy selling of Liberty bonds during the day was followed by brisk bidding for the government issues in over-the-counter trading, when the federal reserve bank of New York, following the close of the market, announced another cut in the rediscount rate to 3 per cent. Declines of 6-32 to 15-32 in the stock exchange list ings were said to have reflected disapointment over the reserve bank's failure to announce the rate reduction yesterday.

Trading in foreign obligations, with French, Austrian, Serbian and other continental issues all establishing new high records, virtually monopolized the market interest. Total sales exceeded $22,000,000 for the first time since the middle of June, nine of the French issues sold at the year's highest prices.

Taking advantage of favorable bond market conditions, the Argentine government sold $20,000,000 six months 6 per cent. treasury bills to refund $20,000,000 6 1-2 per cent. short term notes maturing August 25. Bankers placed the issue privately on a 6 7-8 per cent. basis. Baltimore & Ohio's next bond issue, it was said, would be a refunding issue of first mortgage 5s.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Aug. 7.—Irregular price fluctuations took place in today's curb market which was featured by flurries of active trading in a few special stocks. Oils were reactionary, losses of a point or more being recorded by Prarie Oil & Gas, Penn Mex Fuel, Imperial of Canada and Standard Oil of Kansas.

An extreme break of four points in Silica Gel Voting Trust certificates, based on rumors that the company's process had been turned down by one of the large oil companies, featured the industrial list. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates, the most active issue, improved fractionally while Glen Alden Coal moved up 1 3-8 on a small turnover. Radio shares were heavy, Dubilier breaking two points and Ware 1.

Speculative interest in the mining group was confined to a few penny stocks in which pools are believed to be operating.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—General buying of all grains received a decided stimulus today from reports which were current here that Germany had agreed to accept the Dawes plan in full. The wheat market closed strong at the day's top figures, 1 1-8 to 2 1-8 cents net higher; September $1.20 3-8 to $1.23 5-8 and December $1.23 to $1.23 1-8, with corn 1-2c to 1c up, oats 1-8c to 1-2c off, and provisions varying from 15c decline to an advance of two cents.

Helped by a rise in quotations at Liverpool and by reports of progress at the reparations conference, the wheat market here had an upward tendency from the outset. Indications of liberal export business, together with gossip that the peak of the winter wheat movement had been passed counted also as strengthening factors. It was estmated that today's purchases for Europe would total 1,000,000 bushels or more, on the other hand, hedging sales which broadened out whenever the market bulged were of considerable effect at times as a drag on values.

The sharpest upturn in wheat prices came just before the close and followed the circulation of reports that Germany's acceptance was complete. Black rust news from North Dakota and Manitoba were given a good deal of credence earlier, but the effect was somewhat transient. Government figures on the wheat crop seemed to be about as had been generally expected.

Corn rallied with wheat at the last, but previously had lacked buying support. Surprise was expressed over the government crop report as to corn, the total production officially forecast being about 40,000,000 bushels less than the average of private estimates here.

Oats felt the effect of selling based on correct belief that the government reports would be bearish. The official figures, indeed, totalled much more than expected.

Provisions rallied with grain but failed to overcome entirely declines due to early weakness of corn and hogs.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The funeral of Leon B. Chase, who died at the Chaplin Memorial hospital in Springfield, following a surgical operation last Saturday, was held at his home in Stafford Hollow Tuesday afternoon. Rev. C. H. Puffer officiated and burial was in Hillside cemetery. Besides his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Chase of Stafford Hollow, he leaves two brothers, Ira, of Oregon, and Arthur of Pittsfield and four sisters, Adna of Greenfield, Mass., Hattie of Willingham, Vt., Mrs. Alvin Coombs and Mrs. Harry Osgood, both of Jacksonville, Vt.

The funeral of Joseph Delligan, 79, took place at St. Edward's church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Felix J. O'Neill sang the requiem mass. Burial was in St. Edward's cemetery. He leaves a brother, William of St. Albans, Vt., two sons, William of Stafford Springs, and Frederick of Yonkers, N. Y., and five daughters, Mrs. William Greenough of Swanton, Vt., Mrs. Joseph Russell of Stafford Springs, Mrs. Walter Tobin of Madison, Me., Mrs. Harry Wise of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Albert Gilliman of Norwich.

Miss Celia Holt and Mrs. C. E. Butterfield are at East Northfield, Mass., for a brief visit.

News has recently been received of the death of Herman Rawitser at Aixles-Baines, France. Mr. Rawitser was president and principal owner of the Fabyan Woolen company of Stafford Springs and has for years been identified with the business interests of Stafford. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Herman, Jr., and a daughter of New York city.

WESTMINSTER

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marcotte and daughter Selma of Bridgeport were home at H. Olson's for a few days. Mrs. Marcotte and Mrs. Byron Bingham were callers on the Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones from Jersey City were week end guests at Mr. Jones' parents.

The Band of Mercy club held a meeting on the Park Spicer lawn Wednesday. Misses Viola Bennett and Frances Newton were the refreshment committee. Two new members joined making a membership of 44.

Earl MacLeod was in Willimantic Tuesday.

IN A SILK SHOP

There lie the fabrics; woven apple-bloom
Still dew incrusted, in its meshes borne
Forgotten sweetness of an April morn;
Frost crystalled laces from Arachne's loom
Bright through mid-afternoon's slow darkling gloom
Long gleaming drapes of silver cloth adorn
A figure gazing down in waxen scorn
Upon the careless shoppers in the room.
And there is one who stands with tranquil mien
Unhurried, lightly, reverently smooths
The silken softness; fashions of its sheen
A sheaf of folds; so, surely, Beauty soothes.
Quiet the Sister's smile—I cannot see
Behind the quiet eyes she turns to me.

NUMBER FOUR

Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The estate of Rear Admiral Oscar F. Stanton, U. S. N., retired, whose death occurred several weeks ago, has been inventoried and will aggregate $100,000. By the terms of the will the testator's daughter, Mrs. William Burrell, New London, will inherit the major portion of the estate.

Eugene O'Neill, playwright and only heir of the late James and Ella O'Neill, still owns the three-story wooden building at the corner of Main and Masonic streets, although the property was bid in at public auction yesterday afternoon for $20,000 by Arthur H. Shunts, real estate agent. It was supposed and stated at the time of the sale that Mr. Shurts represented a client, but it now appears that he bid in the property for Mr. O'Neill because the real estate did not bring a figure it was expected that it would by the owner. Mr. O'Neill wanted $22,000 for the property, but the highest legitimate bid was $19,600, made by A. Hegrovitch, Bank street shoe dealer. Rather than permit the property to pass out of his hands at a price lower than $22,000 Mr. O'Neill's representatives authorized Mr. Shurts to bid in the property.

John J. Murphy, 129 Connecticut avenue, and Thomas J. O'Loughlin, 74 Cliff street, Hartford, will be in the Waterford town court tomorrow evening, charged with failure to give right of way and their failure to do so is a violation of the automobile law. Both autoists were in the vicinity of Mosebroker's corners, Waterford, Sunday night and collided, when neither Murphy or O'Loughlin would permit the other machine to pass. State Policeman Stephen Stanton was on watch and ordered both to present themselves in court.

Human Heart Beats.

The human heart beats something more than 35 million times per year. Such an industrious organ opens the way to difficulty. Recognition of this fact and a resulting consideration and care would offset a lot off suffering from heart disease.

New Industry in Crabs.

A new industry is expected to spring up on the Pacific coast as the result of the invasion of Alaskan waters by the king crab formerly only found in merchantable quantities near Japan.

A woman will jump at a conclusion almost as quick as she will at a mouse.

Army School of Business.

The supply officers of the United States army make annual expenditures of public funds mounting to many millions of dollars in times of peace and billions in time of war. That they may perform this important service with the greatest efficiency an army school of business has been proposed by the assistant secretary of war, Col. Dwight F. Davis.

Product Petroleum Product.

By decomposing raw material and then allowing the products to be acted upon by hydrogen, an investigator has succeeded in producing petroleum products from vegetable oil thus obtained.

Picks Out Her Minute.

Barker—"Why does a woman always keep a man waiting so long after she says she'll be ready in a minute?"
Harker—"Because she picks out a minute which is about half an hour ahead."
—Pearson's Weekly (London.)

Derivative of "Calvaria."

"Calvaria" is the Latin equivalent for Golgotha, meaning a bare skull. The name was given to a rock or prominence shaped to give the semblance of a skull. "Calvary" is the English derivative of "Calvaria."

Origin of "Parlor Car."

It is said that Jenny Lind applied the term "Parlor Car" in a joking way to a car that was specially prepared for her comfort when she made her tour of the United States from 1850 to 1852.

Willie Willis.

The Sunday school teacher asked little Willie Willis to name the prophets last Sunday, and he said he couldn't remember any of them except Genesis and Adenoids.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pepin and family have returned from a trip to Canada.

Mrs. Sam Johnson of New Bedford, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Charles Schmidt of Lisbon.

Miss Mabel Hodkinson of North Second avenue is spending three weeks in Montreal and Quebec.

Mrs. Waltham of Pawtucket, R. I., is the guest of Mrs. John Seddon of South Second avenue.

Mrs. Lydia Foster was overcome by the heat on Thursday and forced to leave her work.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Nagle motored to Nantasket Beach on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Downing, Mrs. Peter Sulway, Mrs. Anthony Sulway and Miss Jennie LeMoine of Voluntown were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bedard Wednesday.

Wilfred Bibeau spent Thursday at Ocean Beach.

Mrs. Thomas Bamber of Plainfield has returned to her home after spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Hindle of North Third avenue.

NORWICH TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morse of Town street had as guests over Tuesday night Mr. Morse's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Morse, of Roxbury, Vt., who are on a several days' automobile trip, touring the New England states.

During that evening Mr. and Mrs. Morse and family and their guests motored to Mohegan Hill and called on Mr. and Mrs. Oramel Morse, parents of the young men. While en route to Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Morse, who left their home Monday, were guests over that night at the home of a sister of Mrs. Morse in Northampton. When leaving Wednesday morning they motored to Providence, where they were to visit another sister of Mrs. Morse.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith and son Albert, for the past few years residents of Washington street, left Norwich Wednesday morning on their trip to the Pacific coast after being overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lucas of Spring Garden avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and son were dinner guests Tuesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Piretti of Town street.

The Smith family, who are traveling by automobile, went by way of Albany, N. Y. They are accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Raymond on the journey, they being familiar with the route. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond are going as far as Woodlawn, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and son hope to reach Pasadena.

In the absence of Organist Herbert L. Yerrington, Mrs. Olive R. Roberts of West Thames street is to play the organ at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Yerrington are passing two weeks' vacation with relatives and friends in Massachusetts.

Letter Carrier Frank E. Sterry of Lee avenue is to resume his route through Norwich Town this (Friday) morning, following a vacation of 15 days. During his absence the route was covered by Letter Carrier Herbert Karkutt.

Mrs. George A. Peck of Otrobando avenue was the guest over Wednesday night of Mrs. Harriet Rathbun of Salem. The trip was by automobile. Mrs. Peck being accompanied there by her husband and son Crosby, who returned home later.

POLICE SEIZE OVER 100 GALLONS OF WINE IN LAKE ST. CELLAR

Over 100 gallons of wine were seized Thursday night by the local police in a raid at No. 17 Lake street and the alleged owner, Raffallo Dimecco, Italian, 45 years of age, was arrested on a charge of violation of the liquor law. During the evening a squad of police headed by Sergeant Thomas Murphy raided the house. They found three barrels containing wine, two jugs of wine and a bottle of near beer. The jugs and bottle were taken to police headquarters. A truck was secured and the squad paid a second visit to the house.

The three barrels were removed from the cellar, loaded on the truck by the police squad and taken to police headquarters. Two of the barrels are full and the third is partly filled with wine. Dimecco was released later in the evening on bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court to answer to the charge against his name on the police blotter.

MISS VANDERBILT'S BODY TO BE BURIED BY FRIEND

Norwich acquaintances of Mrs. May Pepper Vanderbilt will read with interest the following from a New York paper of Thursday.

Fearing that the body of Sarah L. Vanderbilt, who died at the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, L. I., would be buried with spiritualistic rites instead of in accordance with the expressed wishes of the deceased, Miss Sophia Gaus of 497 Halsey street, Brooklyn, a friend, obtained an order from Justice Benedict in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday directing the hospital superintendent to commit the body to her custody.

The dead woman, who was 87 was a sister of Edward Ward Vanderbilt of 77 Willow street, Brooklyn, who created a sensation nineteen years ago when he married May Pepper, a Spiritualist who said she was able to talk with the dead through an Indian Princess known as "Bright Eyes." This marriage alienated Edward from his family.

Miss Gaus stated, in her application to Justice Benedict, that when she applied at the hospital for the body she was told she would have to obtain a court order, and that she believed that the brother had also asked the hospital authorities for the body. She had known Miss Vanderbilt for fifty years, she said, and the latter had often asked to be buried in the Moravian cemetery, Staten Island.

When Miss Vanderbilt was committed last March a committee was appointed to administer her estate of $10,000.

LIQUOR CASE CONTINUED UNDER $500 BONDS

In the city court Thursday morning Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis heard a number of cases. Julian Fine and Louis P. Marceau were each charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws by passing to the left of a flashing beacon, both having their cases nolled on payment of $3 each.

Henry LaPlante, charged with violation of the liquor law, on the count of actual sale, had his case continued until today, Friday, under bonds of $500, when he requested time to secure the services of an attorney. LaPlante also faces a charge of non-support of his wife and minor child.

He had been wanted on these charges for some time and had been summoned. He disappeared but was finally returned to the court Thursday morning.

One local woman who parked for three minutes on a crosswalk paid $3, a dollar a minute. This city ordinance is being strictly enforced and offenders will be brought to court and fined for every violation.

The hottest day of the summer failed to check the enthusiasm of the Norwich and New London Lions clubs, which met Thursday noon in joint session at the Wauregan House. Practically every member of the two clubs and some twenty guests were present when the meeting was opened by President George A. Finn of Norwich.

The meeting was opened with the singing of America, following which the usual custom of introduction was carried out. President Finn welcomed the Lions to Norwich on behalf of the local club and President Spec Cobb of New London responded on behalf of the visitors. "Roppie" Markoff was song leader for the day and kept things humming throughout the meeting.

Remarks were made by Senator Fox and ex-President Al Osborne of the New London club and both speakers claimed that meetings between the New London and Norwich clubs should take place more frequently.

Raymond Murray of Baltic was greeted as a new member of the Norwich club, after which President Cobb of New London invited the Norwich Lions to attend the Ladies' night meeting at New London which is to be held at Boxwood Manor Inn at Lyme on the evening of August 15th. It is expected that a number of local Lions will accept the invitation.

Among the special musical numbers were solos by Lion Joseph Schwarts of New London and Lion Tyler Stanton of Norwich. Following the Lions roar by the two clubs the meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Members of the clubs then went to the State Hospital where baseball was enjoyed until late in the afternoon.

TWENTY-ONE MILES OF NEW STATE ROADS

Bids for the construction of approximately twenty-two miles of new roads and three concrete bridges are called for in sixteen proposals which the state highway department has submitted to contractors. This is the third large group of awards that the state has called for this summer and involves new improvements in all parts of Connecticut.

Sealed proposals for the work will be received at the highway department up to 1 p. m. on Aug. 15, and each proposal is to be accompanied by a bond for one-third the amount of the contract. The notice to contractors also informs them that the successful bidder must be ready to start work within ten days after orders to do so from the highway commission.

Following is a list of the proposed improvements:

Town of Plainfield—About 13,210 linear feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Norwich-Putnam road.

Town of North Canaan—About 8,220 linear feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Canaan-Norfolk road.

Towns of North Canaan and Norfolk—About 8,054 linear feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Canaan-Norfolk road.

City of Ansonia—About 3,923 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Maple and Franklin streets.

Town of Union—About 23,000 linear feet of waterbound macadam on the Stafford-Union road.

Town of Colebrook—About 5,340 feet of 7-inch waterbound macadam on the North Colebrook road.

City of New London—About 2,782 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Bank street.

Town of Southington—About 2,920 linear feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on Clark street.

Town of Roxbury—About 10,400 linear feet of 8-inch waterbound macadam on the Woodbury-Southbury road.

Town of Roxbury—About 5,000 linear feet of 8-inch waterbound macadam on the Roxbury Falls road.

City of New Britain—About 8,190 linear feet of 8-inch bituminous macadam over 7-inch stone base on Wiles street.

Towns of Waterbury and Watertown—About 17,300 linear feet of reinforced concrete pavement on the Waterbury - Watertown - Thomaston road.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions in eastern Connecticut as announced Thursday by the state highway department, follow:

Bolton — Bolton-Coventry road closed. Detours posted. Through traffic from Hartford to Willimantic should go via Andover.

Mansfield—Mansfield Depot road is under construction. Passable, but traffic should use detour posted.

Mansfield—Mansfield Four Corners-Storrs road, surfacing is being put down. Short detour through college grounds.

Groton—Noank-Groton Long Point road under construction. Travel from Fort Hill should go to Noank via Brook street and thence to Groton Long Point.

Putnam—Putnam-Killingly road under construction. Detour posted around section closed just north of Attawaugan where concrete pavement is newly laid.

Pomfret—Murdock road under construction. Open to traffic.

East Lyme—Section torn up on Post road. Concrete surfacing in place but not open to traffic.

Lyme—Old Lyme-Post road, concrete pavement being laid, impassable. Through traffic will avoid inconvenience if it follows the shore road from Lyme to Moosebroker's Corner in Waterford as posted.

Salem—East Haddam—Grading operations under way on Norwich-Hadlyme road. Section east of Hartford-New London road impassable; travel should use detour posted. Section west of turnpike very rough but open to traffic.

FORMER SCHOOL HEAD VISITING IN NORWICH

William D. Tillson of Mansfield, Mass., who was formerly superintendent of the Central district schools, is the guest of friends here for several days. Mr. Tillson has been engaged in school work in Greenfield, Mass., during the past six years.

CONN. POWER EMPLOYES OUTING AT RED TOP

All roads led to Red Top Wednesday for the employes of the Connecticut Power company. The shower at noon did not dampen the spirit of anyone but only served to clear the air for a more pleasant afternoon. The day was a general holiday for both the New London and Middletown divisions of the Power company with only enough employes left behind to carry on the essential duties.

Arthur L. Kebbe, as usual, started the kiddies off happily by giving them each a toy and ball as well as pop corn and lollypops.

A fine clam chowder lunch was served on the tables set out of doors. Trucks, buses and private cars had been bringing the happy crowds so that about 300 were present.

Directly after the athletic sports and contests began and happily enough ended in a tie between these keen rivals, New London and Middletown.

FORD COUPE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire which is believed to have started by an explosion of gasoline, resulted in the complete ruin of a Ford coupe on Fort Hill at Groton, Wednesday night, at about 10 o'clock. The car, the owner of which could not be identified, was proceeding up Fort Hill in the direction of Mystic when it is believed the fuel discharging apparatus failed to work properly and caused the fire.

The car was brought to a stop about midway up the hill.

Numerous machines stopped and passersby lent whatever assistance they could but the fire had gained too much headway and the car was doomed before any fruitful aid could be administered.

HOME AFTER TOUR THROUGH NEW ENGLAND

Mrs. Lucien Cormier, Rose, Vera and George Cormier of 44 Washington street, Miss Edna Sharkey of Jewett City and Mrs. Louis Willet of Fifth street have returned from a month's tour through the New England states and Canada. While on the trip they visited Montreal, Quebec, St. Anne de Beaupre, Moniton, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia. The weather was ideal for the trip, the party striking but one storm, a thunder storm, in New Brunswick. No motor trouble was experienced while on the trip.

FUNERAL OF MISS DORRANCE HELD AT PLAINFIELD

Plainfield, Aug. 7.—Funeral services for Miss Amy Dorrance were held this afternoon at the Congregational church in Plainfield. Rev. William C. Prentss conducted the services, also the committal services at the Plainfield cemetery. Many friends attended the funeral. There were choice floral pieces. The bearers were Louis Gallup, Harold Randall, George Dodge and Ralph Vell.

Little Edna, aged 5, accompanied her grandmother to church one Sunday morning. When the contribution plate was passed she dropped in the dime that her father had given her. The old lady was about to contribute also when Edna leaned over and said in an audible whisper: "Never mind, grandma, I paid for two."—Chicago News.

HELD SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. G. G. M'GEE

Mrs. G. G. McGee, wife of Rev. G. G. McGee, pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church, was given a surprise Wednesday evening in honor of her birthday. A party of 25 friends gathered at her home at 70 Mt. Pleasant street and enjoyed a pleasant evening, refreshments being served by the following women: Mrs. John Evans, Miss Maude Lacy, Miss Alice Williams and Miss Yancy. The surprise of the evening came when Mrs. McGee was presented a purse of money as a birthday gift. She responded with a few words of thanks, stating that the remembrance would be cherished the more because of the sentiment expressed by the donors.

FAMILY MARKET

A few baskets of Astrakan apples were displayed on the markets Thursday morning; prices ranged from $1 to $1.25 per 14 qt. basket. Markets are firmer for good cantaloupes, due to a limited supply. Peaches are supplied in small quantities on the markets, consequently higher premiums are being paid. Green beans are scarce on the markets; higher quotations are now existing for this product. Tomatoes are coming into the markets now in larger quantities, although not large enough to warrant much lower prices. Due to the early wet weather and the present dry weather, corn is developing slowly. Due to the dry weather, grounds are in no condition for replanting.

Due to the large number of summer boarders about the city, the consumption of eggs has greatly increased.

Police Dog Disappears.

Mrs. William J. Leary of Franklin was in communication with several acquaintances by telephone Thursday in trying to locate her police dog, which some time the day previous had strayed away from his new home, having arrived at the Leary home last Sunday. It is thought that "Bump," who is less than a year old, was homesick and started out to find his original owner.

Have You Piles?

There You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not do the same for you.

Learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 93 per cent. and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

PRE-NATAL PHASE BROUGHT INTO LOEB-LEOPOLD CASE

Fourth Alienist, Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, Testifies That Mothers of Both Boys Were Afflicted With Physical Ailments Prior to and After Confinement—Dr. Hulbert Supported Evidence of Other Alienists Regarding Conditions That Might Tend to a Mitigation of Penalty For the Boy Murderers.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—(By the A. P.)—Eight college boys, finally giving way to Dr. Harold S. Hulburt, fourth of the defense's mental specialists, took the witness stand today before Judge John R. Caverly and gave testimony in support of the plea for mitigation in the sentencing of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, for the kidnaping and murdering of Robert Franks.

The students, mostly friends of Loeb, testified as to their observations of the youths' peculiar mannerisms and mental mechanisms as revealed to them on campus and in fraternity houses. They occupied the entire morning session, except for four minutes when Dr. Robert Bruce Armstrong of Charlevoix, Michigan, gave evidence regarding a slight accident to Loeb in 1920.

Dr. Hulburt, going over the lives of the defendants from cradle days, concluded that Loeb "is mentally diseased" and had not reached his conclusions as to Leopold when court was adjourned until tomorrow.

Dr. Hulburt corroborated the testimony by Dr. Bernard Glueck of New York, that Loeb was the actual slayer of the Franks boy. Loeb said that he struck the boy several times with a cold chisel, intending to stun him and strangle him later with the assistance of Leopold, but that the blows were sufficient to cause death, said Dr. Hulburt.

That Loeb had discussed the Franks murder with his mother, "getting quite a kick out of it," also was testified by the psychiatrist. He revealed that Loeb saw the funeral of his victim and "felt a bit uncomfortable but not remorseful" when he saw Bobby's boy friends carry the coffin from the Franks home.

Dr. Hulburt delved into the realm of pre-natal influences in seeking causes for various defects that his thirteen examinations of the youth revealed to him. He testified he had learned that Leopold's mother suffered from a physical ailment before his birth, remained an invalid and died 17 years later, and that Loeb's mother, just before his birth, was sickly and also suffered from several acute infections.

Both Leopold and Loeb early began to have phantasies and pictured themselves quite differently from the imaginary selves normal boys dream of, said the pathologist. Leopold's phantasies grew from the axe of five, when he saw his brother in a soldier's uniform and dreamed of being in command of a huge body of men. That worked into a "king-slave" phantasy, stated the doctor. Leopold at times pictured himself as a king, but 90 per cent of the time as a slave protecting his king. He carried the phantasy into real life and sought somebody to whom he could surrender himself as an abject slave, concluded Dr. Hulburt.

"Loeb's phantasies concentrated on the appalling of crime, were abnormal in that they were ignoble and that they persisted too long in life," said the specialist.

Dr. Hulburt also corroborated previous statements that Loeb had contemplated killing Leopold but could not bring himself to commit murder alone. He was afraid Leopold would get him into trouble. Dr. Hulburt said, adding that the youths once played a game of cards to see who should kill himself first.

The testimony by the college students all ran along the same line, to the effect that Loeb was irrational, irresponsible, dank heavily, argued childishly, had fainting spells and lacked "horse sense" to balance his high intellect.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said tonight that Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allan Loeb, brother of Richard, would be called but there was little prospect of them going on the stand tomorrow, as it was believed completion of Dr. Hulbert's testimony and cross-examination would require the entire two-hour holiday session.

Huge crowds attracted by the testimony of Lorraine Nathan, Loeb's former sweetheart, and the defense's announced intention to call other girl friends today, stormed the criminal courts building. They met a double disappointment, however, the greater part of them failing to gain admission and those who did encountering changed plans by counsel.

PERFECTING EXPANSION OF "NICKEL PLATE" SYSTEM

New York, Aug. 8.—Wall street heard today that the plans of the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland for the formation of the giant "Nickel Plate" system which already includes the "Nickel Plate," Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Erie and Pere Marquette railroads, also contemplate the addition of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Wheeling and Lake Erie and Virginian Railway properties, recent heavy buying of the Lackawanna and Wheeling and Lake Erie stocks, which are quoted on the New York stock exchange around the year's high prices, is said to have been for the account of interest allied with the Van Sweringens.

Coincident with this information, reports were circulated in the financial district that five instead of four trunk lines, the fifth to be operated jointly by the four other systems, will be suggested to the interstate commerce commission as a possible solution of the grouping of the railroads east of the Mississippi and west of the Hudson. This plan is understood to have the endorsement of trunk line executives who have been holding conferences throughout the sumer in order to prepare a substitute for the commission's orignal grouping plan which has been altered by the Van Sweringen activities.

The four systems already set up include the greater Nickel Plate, the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio. Delaware and Hudson has been proposed as the nucleus of the fifth group to be operated jointly by the other four.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TREATY WAS SIGNED LAST NIGHT

London, Aug. 8.—(By The A. P.)—British and soviet representatives signed the Anglo-Soviet treaty and trade agreement at six o'clock tonight. There was no ceremony and only a few officials were present.

Premier MacDonald and Christian Rakovsky, the Russian change d' affaires at London, spoke briefly, both expressing gratification that the negotiations had resulted in what they regarded as a decided step forward in the relations between the British and Russian Soviet governments.

Premier MacDonald and Arthur Ponsonby under secretary for foreign affairs affixed their signatures for Great Britain, while M. Rakowsky, Adolph Joffe, M. Tomski and M. Scheinmann signed for the soviets.

Much discussion has been provoked by the fact that the name of the king is absent from the treaty, but tonight the likelihood was pointed to of the king signing the treaty if it is ratified, as the constitution requires that this be done.

DWIGHT MILLS EXTENDS ITS WORKING SCHEDULE

Chicopee, Mass., Aug. 8 — The Dwight Manufacturing company will open its mills Monday on a five day schedule, according to notices posted for employes. The new schedule supplants a four day schedule announced last week and is a resumption of nearly normal weekly scheddles after several months of three day operation.

The new schedule is said by striking loom fixers of the company who are out in protest against a ten per cent. wage cut effective last week to be a gesture to the strikers in an effort to break their ranks. Under the new schedule workers will receive an average wage of $27 per week as against $1 during the three days operation period.

LA FOLLETTE UNALTERABLY OPPOSED TO KU KLUX KLAN

Washington, Aug. 8.—Senator La FoFlette as an independent presidential candidate intends to devote his energy during the campaign mainly to fighting private monopoly which he considers the "dominant, all embracing issue."

He disclosed this intention today in a letter to Robert P. Scripps, newspaper publisher, in which he vigorously denounced the Ku Klux Klan by name and expressed regret that this and other questions "unrelated to the vital issue," had been injected into the campaign.

"I am frankly opposed to the evident purposes of the secret organization knows as the Ku Klux Klan as disclosed by its public acts," said Senator La Follette, adding that in his opinion the order "cannot long survive." Pledging himself to an unrelenting effort "to break the combined power of the private monopoly system over the political and economic life of the American people," the senator continued:

"To this issue in so far as I am able I shall hold the attention of the voters of this country. From this position I shall not be turned aside."

LIQUOR CASE APPEALED TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

New Haven, Aug. 8.—Patrick W. Reynolds, whose case recently disclosed a difference of opinion in rulings of the United States supreme court and the Connecticut supreme court of errors, was arraigned in common pleas court today and had his choice of serving a jail sentence or carrying his case to the highest tribunal. He chose the former and besides being sentenced to 60 days in jail paid a fine of $200.

Reynolds was arrested and convicted on a liquor law violation charge when policemen found a bottle of liquor in his pocket. His case was appealed and his counsel in arguing before the court of errors pointed out that the United States supreme court had ruled that seizure of liquor without a search warrant was illegal in that it trespassed upon liberties guaranteed under the constitution. The Connecticut court disagreed with this ruling and found no error in the lower court's decision.

NEW HAVEN TRADES COUNCIL HAS ENDORSED LAFOLLETTE

New Haven, Aug. 8.—The New Haven Trades council has endorsed the presidential candidacy of Robert M. LaFollette, but the vote was taken only after a spirited contest. The move for endorsement was headed by the delegates of the Machinists' union but encountered strong opposition from John W. Murphy, democratic president fo the board of aldermen and a delegate from the Cigarmakers' union, who attempted to have the resolution tabled. After a lengthy debate, the resolution was carried.

SHOT AND INSTANTLY KILLED BY A BURGLAR

Somerville, Mass., Aug. 8.—David M. Noble was shot and instantly killed by a burglar late tonight as he entered the residence of his father-in-law on Central street. Noble's brother-in-law, Raymond Thierry, awakened by the shot, was knocked unconscious when he fell down the cellar stairs during a struggle with the intruder, whom he met attempting to escape with a sack of silverware. His assailant escaped.

London Conference Has Taken Recess

Premier Herriot Has Gone to Paris For Consultation With French Cabinet.

London, Aug. 8.—(By The A. P.)—Premier Herriot, War Minister General Nollet and Finance Minister Clementel will go to Paris tomorrow afternoon for a cabinet conference and the negotiations of the international conference here will be practically suspended until they return.

Action by the French cabinet was necessitattd by the fact that the question of the evacuation of the Ruhr is the chief obstacle to any final agreement of the conference and also because M. Herriot and General Nollet are reported to be in disagreement on this important matter.

The French premier proposes to return to the British capital Monday morning and in the meantime all eyes will be turned toward Paris where it is expected, M. Herriot will confer with the members of his cabinet regarding the final stand the French delegates to the conference should take on the Ruhr evacuation question and on the question of the maintenance of the Franco-Belgian railroad men in the Rhineland system.

The French and Belgians both are holding out for maintaining their nationals on the German railways. The French also demand that they be assured that the Germans will fill their orders for dyes and coke necessary to insure the Alsatian steel and textile industries. These demands are affording further obstacles to an immediate agreement in London.

The real work of smoothing out the differences between the French and Germans is being done in private meetings rather than in conference sessions and the efforts both sides have been making to retain as many weapons as possible for trading purposes have probably exaggerated their differences to a considerable extent.

Optimism is general in allied circles over the ultimate outcome of the conference but the probable date of the agreement is now put at about August 14 by many of the delegates.

U. S. WILL BE REPRESENTED AT FINANCIAL CONFERENCE

Washington, Aug. 8.—The United States will be represented officially at any meeting of allied finance ministers which may be called to consider allocation of German reparations payments as a result of the decisions reached at the inter-allied conference now in progress in London, it was said today at the White House.

In view of Ambassador Herrick's plan to return from Paris soon for a vacation in this country it is the present expectation in official circles that the American representatives will be Ambassador Kellogg at London and Colonel James A. Logan, the American observer with the reparation commission who has been attending the London conference.

SEEKING SHELTERED BAY FOR ARMY WORLD FLIERS

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 8.—(By The A. P.—The United States cruiser Raleigh has been ordered to cruise up and down the coast line of eastern Greenland to seek a sheltered bay or some other place where the water is free of ice as a safe landing place for the American army around-the-world fliers.

Most of the exploration work upon the success of which may depend continuance this season of the world flight, will be done by two planes which the Raleigh is carrying for this purpose, and which will make short excursions from the ship over the coastline.

Captain William C. Watts of the Raleigh hopes that a suitable place wil be found but if it is not, the vessel will be on hand and if the conditions are found to be favorable for refueling the planes at sea, will inform the fliers to that effect.

TWO WOMEN BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN DROWNED

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Thomas Galt of St. Louis and Miss Julia Hitchcock of Springfield are believed to have been drowned off Annisquam. The canoe in which they went out on the Annisquam river yesterday afternoon was found floating bottom up near Plum Cove Beach today.

Coast guardsmen and summer residents in motor boats spent all last night and a good part of today searching for the occupants, but without success. An airplane assisted in the search today.

JUMPED TO DEATH FROM EIGHTH STORY OF HOTEL

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—Santiago L. Hawley, said by his agents here to be one of the biggest coffee plantation owners in Guatemala; either jumped or fell from the eighth story of the Hotel Alexander in the downtown district here today and was killed. He had been suffering from a nervous illness.

WARRANT FOR PORTLAND ELECTION OFFICIALS

Portland, Me., Aug. 8.—Warrants against eight election officers, charging conspiracy to falsify returns and marking fraudulently official check list, ballots, returns and records were sworn out today as the result of a hearing here yesterday which reversed the first official returns of the June republican gubernatorial primary. At the conclusion of a hearing and recount in Ward Four of this city yesterday, Ralph O. Brewster, K. K. K. supported candidate, was given the republican nominaton. On the face of the official returns, his opponent, Frank G. Farrington, had previously been certified as republican candidate for governor.

The election officers were ordered to to appear in municipal court tomorrow. Among the witnesses to be called are 111 voters who appeared before Governor Baxter and the council at the hearing here yesterday and Wednesday and testified under oath that they had not visited the polls on primary day, although their names were checked on the lists as having voted.

TWO BOYS ESCAPED FROM CHESHIRE REFORMATORY

Cheshire, Conn., Aug. 8.—Bert Reed of Danbury and Frederick Ralph of West Haven escaped from the Cheshire reformatory yesterday afternoon during the electrical storm, it was learned tonight. The boys were working with a gang building a barn on the reformatory property when they broke away. A search was made all night and during the day without result.

Both would have been paroled in a few months. The state police have been notified.

MISS ELIZABETH HUGHES IS PRONOUNCED IN NO DANGER

Morristown, N. J., Aug. 8. — Dr. Frederick M. Allen, to whose sanatorium Miss Elizabeth Hughes, youngest daughter of the secretary of state, was brought last night suffering from a serious relapse of diabetes, tonight announced that Miss Hughes was in no danger and could leave the sanatorium within the next day or two if desired.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS FILED BY MERCHANTS

New Haven, Aug. 8.—Harry Posin, Waterbury merchant, filed a petition in bankruptcy with the United States court clerk here today showing liabilities of $2,178.50 and assets of $1,168. Louis Burstein, a furrier in Bridgeport, who also filed a petition, claims debts of $1,650.23 and assets of $550.

Shenandoah Moored To Test Mast on Ship

Last Night She Was Undergoing a Test of Mobile Anchorage in Narragansett Bay.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 8.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah was moored to the special mooring mast on the S. S. Dakota at 6 o'clock tonight, in Narragansett bay. She will undergo a test of the mobile anchorage tonight.

The task of mooring the big dirigible was accomplished in about an hour. There was scarcely a breath of air stirring and hardly a ripple on Narragansett bay, when at 7 o'clock the Shenandoah slowly dropped down and let fall about 1,000 feet of line. This line was picked up by the Patoka and slowly drawn in to the mast on the stern.

The point picked for the mooring operation was off Prudence Island, where the tide rip was at its lowest. The feat was performed with both craft drifting just on the turn of the tide. Prospects were for almost perfect weather during the experiment tonight.

The Shenandoah, after her arrival shortly before 3 o'clock, proceeded leisurely up the Sound and circled Providence. She returned to the vicinity of the Patoka and then flew to Fall River, Mass. She has since traveled at slow speed over most of this section of New England.

The entire operation of tying the great aircraft of the mast of the Patoka was accomplished apparently without untoward incident. After dropping the line, the Shenandoah was maneuvered so that the cable could be picked up on the mother ship.

Then, with the mother ship and the dirigible drifting slowly with the turn of the tide, the Patoka maintaining just enough headway to keep into the light wind, the cable was hauled in. Two or three times the Shenandoah discharged ballast, dipping and rising as she was drawn in to the mast on the Patoka's stern.

Should conditions remain favorable the test will be continued three days to try out thoroughly the stability of the mast and the effect of mobile mooring on the dura-aluminum frame of the airship. If the test proves satisfactory the Patoka will be the sea anchorage of the dirigible in subsequent movements of the fleet.

FATALLY INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY A FREIGHT ENGINE

Revelstoke, B. C., Aug. 8.—William E. Mitten, 68, of Goodland, Ill., and a brother of Thomas E. Mitten, is dead here as the result of being struck by a switch engine. His brother and a friend left the private car in which they had been touring the Rockies and walked along the track. A switch engine came up behind them unexpectedly and they jumped for safety, but the corner of the tender struck William Mitten on the head, inflicting a wound from which he died in Revelstoke hospital.

ARTIST DIED WHILE AT WORK IN COTTON MILL

New Berford, Mass., Aug. 8.—Joseph P. Dester, ambitious to become an artist, but lacking funds to follow his desire to attend a school of art or study under a teacher, spent most of his spare time painting pictures. Mr. Dexter worked as a third hand in a cotton mill here and yesterday, during the noon recess while portraying a historical scene, was seized with a hemorrhage. He died five minutes later.

CONDITION OF GILPATRIC GRAVE AFTER OPERATION

Trepanning Operation Was Performed to Relieve Pressure on the Brain Resulting From Bullet Wound—The Patient Regained Consciousness Late Last Night and is Resting Comfortably—Officials of the First National Bank Declare No Dsicrepancies Were Found in Examination of the Bank—Bank Examiners Completed Their Investigation Late Last Night—Bank Has Taken Precaution to Meet Any Eventuality in Case of Heavy Withdrawals.

Putnam, Aug. 8.—G. Harold Gilpatric, state treasurer and cashier of the First National bank of Putnam, who attempted to take his own life by shooting yesterday, underwent a two-hour operation this afternoon and regained consciousness late tonight and was resting comfortably. He still is in a serious condition, however, according to the doctors at the hospital.

The operation, performed by Dr. S. B. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital, was for the purpose of relieving the pressure on the brain resulting from the bullet wound.

No effort was made during the operation to find the bullet. An X-ray examination has disclosed that the bullet entered behind the right eye, passed through the head and lodged behind the left eye. The state treasurer is said by officials to have withstood the operation in good shape this evening.

The doctors at the hospital said after the operation that Mr. Gilpatric still was in a grave condition.

Previous to the operation, Mrs. Gilpatric, wife of the banker, and Walter Gilpatric of White Plains, a brother, who left the Gilpatric summer home in Maine after they had received word of Mr. Gilpatric's act, arrived in Putnam by automobile from Boston.

They went immediately to the hospital and remained for a brief time at the bedside. Whatever occurred during their brief conversation with the wounded man was not disclosed. No statement was made during the day by friend or relative that would show any cause for Mr. Gilpatric's act.

The bank examiners continued their work on the books of the bank during the day. They completed their investigation of the books of the bank late tonight and, with the exception of Examiner Beane, have left the city. The examiners refused to give out a statement, but at the bank it was stated that the examiners found nothing at fault with the accounts of the institution and that everything connected with the bank is in regular order.

Assistant Cashier Guy D. Baker of the First National bank reiterated tonight his statement made this morning that the examination of the books by the bank examiners had brought to light no discrepancies of any character and the bank was entirely solvent. Late this morning and just before closing time at the bank this afternoon there were a few cases of 100 per cent. withdrawals, but as the accounts were not large, and there were but a few of them, they cause no alarm at the bank.

To meet any emergency that might arise at the bank, the Federal Reserve bank in Boston today sent three bags of money to Putnam. The cash came in an automobile guarded by three Putnam police, heavily armed, and accompanied by an officer from the Boston bank. This money was not needed, however, as the bank had ample funds to carry on its business today.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gilpatric, father and mother of the wounded man, and two sons of the Putnam banker who have been in Maine, are on their way to Putnam on the Bar Harbor express. The train will pick up Miss Rhoda Gilpatric, a daughter, who is at a summer camp for girls. The train, which is due in Putnam late tonight, usually makes no stops at this place, but by special arrangement with the New Haven railroad the train will be halted here tonight.

SEPTIC POISONING CAUSED DEATH OF MISS MALONEY

New York, Aug. 8.—Septic poisoning which set in after an operation caused the death of Miss Monica Maloney of Brookline, Mass., in the office of Dr. Hanley Cannon on Thursday night, Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales assistant medical examiner, said after performing an autopsy today.

Dr. Cannon arrested last night, was held without bail ... on a charge of suspicion of homicide and will appear for examination Wednesday. He waived the usual forty-eight hour arrangement and was sent to the Tombs whence he was transferred to Bellevue hospital after collapsing in the detention room.

The body of the girl was embalmed within an hour and a half after she died, police said, and Dr. Gonzales asserted this had hindered him in completing his autopsy.

Mrs. Olive M. Gurney, graduate nurse, who said she attended Miss Maloney up to the time of her death, denied that Dr. Cannon had performed the operation which led to the girl's death. Dr. Cannon also issued a denial today.

EXPLANATION MADE BY THE LIVERPOOL COTTON ASS'N

LAWYER FALLON FOUND NOT GUILTY OF PERJURY

New York, Aug. 8.—The jury in the case of William J. Fallon, criminal lawyer who has been on trial here charged with bribing a juror returned a verdict of not guilty at 12.05 tonight.

The jury was out almost six hours.

After a trial lasting about three weeks, one of the most bitterly fought legal battles New York city has seen, Fallon walked out of the court room a free man.

A wild demonstration followed the announcement of the verdict, and corridors of the federal building each day of the trial, often battling with deputy marshals to get a glimpse of the defendant rushed around him and cheered for many minutes, almost crushing him in their efforts to shake his hand.

When word came that a verdict had been reached, there was a rush for the court room. The spectators eagerly scanned the faces of the jurors. Fallon sat in the front seat at the counsel table. His face was blanched. His head fell over to one side. He appeared as though about to faint. His partner, who had stood by him valiantly through the long trial, Eugene F. McGee, sat in back of him and leaned forward to whisper a word of courage.

When the verdict was announced Fallon sank forward in his chair. He started to get up to thank the jury. He took a step forward and swayed on his feet. The jury had scarcely looked toward him and they started to file out. He spoke a low word or two but few heard him.

Afterwards he met the jurors in the anteroom and thanked each personally. Judge McClintic curtly announced the discharge of the defendant and directed the clerk to adjourn court.

BODY WAS FOUND HANGING OVER BARBED WIRE FENCE

New Britain, Aug. 8.—The body of James O'Neill, former night watchman at the Stanley Chemical company plant in East Berlin, missing for two weeks, was found late today near Cromwell. The body was hanging over a barbed wire fence in a manner to indicate that it might have been thrown by an automobile. A Polish farmer found the body. Word was telephoned to the Stanley company and the coroner notified. The body was about 300 feet from a house. O'Neill's wife, who with his children reside in this city, was notified.

DAVIS CAYS GOMPERS "CAN GO AS FAR AS HE LIKES"

New York, Aug. 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, "can go as far as he likes" in making public correspondence between himself and John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, Mr. Davis declared tonight on the eve of his departure for Clarksburg, W. Va. He telegraphed Mr. Gompers to this effect.

Mr. Davis' telegram also said that he was willing to stand on his labor recrod without any fear as to the outcome.

GOV. SMITH OF NEW YORK INSTRUCTS FOR DEFENSE DAY

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Governor Smith today instructed the national guard of New York state to participate in the tests prescribed by the war department on Sept. 12 and at the same time called upon citizens to gather at their usual places of worship at some time that date, to give thanks for the peace and security which the nation is now enjoying.

WILLIMANTIC

As the result of an accident in which a Reo truck owned by Oliver L. Willard, local contractor, figured, Herman Kopke, 43 [illegible] Mansfield avenue, this city, was painfully injured early Friday morning while going in the machine to work at Stafford. But few details of the accident were secured. A local physician attended the injured man and took Kopke to his home later. He sustained a laceration of his right hand, a contusion of the right [illegible] and bruises of the right arm and leg. Other employes of the contracting firm were in the truck with the driver and Kopke. The men are engaged in erecting several buildings in Stafford. Michael Piazza, also of this city, sustained a laceration of the lower lip. The accident happened in the town of Coventry where it was reported that the truck struck a tree.

From what information could be secured Friday, no serious damage was caused in the town of Windham by the electrical storm which raised havoc in central and northeastern Connecticut Thursday afternoon. Coventry was favored with plenty of rain. Charles B. Jordan of this city, a cottager at Lake Wangumbaug, was injured when lightning struck his home. Mr. Jordan had been sitting on the veranda when a bolt struck the roof and enveloped his legs as he was entering the house. The bolt then entered the house, caused considerable damage to a room on the upper floor and partly wrecked the porch. Mr. Jordan's clothing was damaged. His union suit was partially burned off and his stockings and shoes were torn in pieces. He fell to the floor in a dazed condition and was given first aid attention by his daughter, Miss May Jordan, and his son, Dwight M. Jordan, until the arrival of a physician could be secured. He is suffering from a burn on the left leg below the knee. He will have entirely recovered within a few days. The damage to the cottage has been estimated at $100.

The strong wind which accompanied the storm as it swept through South Willington lifted the roof from a silo on the dairy barn of the Gardiner Hall property. The roof sailed through the air for a distance of 200 feet and the silo caved in. A number of trees were struck by lightning in West Willington and several small buildings were flattened to the ground. A bolt struck and killed a valuable horse owned by Floyd Landon, at Chaplin, while the animal was standing in the pasture.

A barn owned by Stephen Koss of Westford, in the town of Ashford, was struck by lightning and the building along with the contents, including several tons of hay and farm implements was destroyed. The loss is placed at $2,500, on which insurance to the amount of $1,400 was carried.

A barn in Westford and contents containing tons of new hay was destroyed by lightning which set fire to it. The building was owned by T. R. Burr of Manchester.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Shanahan were held Friday morning from the family home, 46 Lewiston avenue. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelley. Many relatives and friends attended the funeral and there were beautiful floral pieces. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ. Mrs. Henry Mathieu rendered Nearer My God to Thee as the body was being borne into the edifice. Wipes the Tear From Every Eye was sung as a waiting hymn. Burial was in St. George's cemetery where Father Kelley read the committal service. The bearers were Patrick J. and James F. Twomey, William E. Lennon, John Shanahan, John O'Neil and Michael E. Sullivan. Arrangements were by Killourey Brothers.

Thursday afternoon's storm had its effect on the local telephone system. Some 478 telephones were reported out of commission Friday morning in the Willimantic and Lebanon exchanges. Rapid repair work was being carried on Friday and by evening most of the damage had been adjusted.

James A. Dolan, a former Willimantic resident and late of Stratford, died at 1 o'clock Friday at St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport. Death followed a surgical operation. Mr. Dolan was a telegraph operator. He leaves a widow. The body is to be brought to this city.

The committee of Elks in charge of the transportation of members of the local lodge to Rockville next Friday to attend Willimantic night of the carnival, comprises Albert J. Fournier, John O'Rourke, Raymond C. Comins, Bert F. More, Conrad Dubeau, Gilbert P. Flynn and James F. McGlone.

A large audience which witnessed The Spirit of the U. S. A., at a local theatre was inspired by a fitting prologue to the play, with martial music and scenes with allegorical effects. As the curtain rose the national colors were displayed with the Spirit of '76, depicted by members of Odell M. Chapman Continental Fife and Drum Corps. Frank Fancher was grandfather; Peter LaChance father and fifer and L. Caisse, boy drummer and grandson. To the right of the stage was Miss L. Monica McKeon and to the left, Ernest Jacobs. Ollie Rock and Stephen Young, World war veterans, stood at attention as Miss McKeon sang The Star Spangled Banner.

Friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mahoski at their home Thursday evening, in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Mary. Refreshments and games were enjoyed. Present were: Mary, Annie and Till Jusik, Mariam and Evelyn Chase, Lena, Frank and Mary Mahoski, Pauline Kinczyk, Anna Klosowski, Jennie Katy Mahoski, Mr. and Mrs. Juzil, Mr. and Mrs. Katry and Mr. and Mrs. Klosowski.

The board of registrars held their second and final meeting Friday for the purpose of having electors declare their affiliations with either of the major political parties by having their names placed on the party caucus lists or withdrawn from one list to the other. About 12 electors called, bringing the total of applications received during the two sessions to sixty.

William Jackson Jr., son of Alderman and Mrs. William E. Jackson has been returned to his home in this city from a Hartford hospital where he was a patient for ten weeks. For a time the young man was placed on the dangerous list, being afflicted with pneumonia and pleurisy. He is still weak. Numerous friends here rejoice at his recovery.

The Tolland county jail at Tolland, supervised by Sheriff Frederick O. Vinton, with A. E. Clough as the efficient jailer, a complete renovation is to include the installation of all modern improvements. The condition of that jail has often been compared with the Windham county jail at Brooklyn. The latter jail is the last word in homelike accommodations and has always been highly commended even by those unfortunates who were forced to spend time in confinement there. The town of Tolland proper appears to be backward in making improvements. The one thousand inhabitants are only a few miles from Rockville, but they still cling to the old fashioned coal oil lighting system with the exception of a few families who have installed their own electric lighting plants. The ancient Rochester burner and odd types of kerosene lamps still do duty at the jail. After considerable delay during which time the county commissioners and jail authorities started the work of installing their own lighting system, an agreement was finally reached between the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, the jail authorities and the townspeople. The result is that Sheriff Vinton is enabled to announce that by October 1 the jail will be electrically lighted and with plenty of lights. Further alterations will be made to include the setting of baths of new design for the women inmates. The new jail barn which is replacing one burned a few months ago, is nearing completion.

In 1916 E. V. A. (Before Volstead Act) the Tolland jail, like the one at Brooklyn, was self-supporting, but is not so at present. County taxes have been levied to pay running expenses at the jail and the county temporary home at Vernon, which now houses close to forty children. The jail farm comprises 160 acres of land and buildings and [illegible] of the land has been tilled. There will be enough vegetables raised to supply the jail inmates with some left over to dispose of! 1,564 bushels of potatoes were harvested last year.

The general belief existed that a settlement had been reached between Charles Miller of Eagleville and George H. Hollister of Hartford in regard to damages following the collision of their automobiles at the junction of Jackson and Union streets Tuesday evening. On Wednesday, however, Miller was positive that Hollister was to blame for the accident, claiming that the latter pulled his automobile to the left of the silent policeman in front of the J. J. Hickey Company drug store, which resulted in the accident. This was denied by Mr. Hollister. As neither party could come to terms on the latter, both were ordered to appear at the police station Thursday morning. Miller obtained the services of Attorney William A. King but the matter did not reach the court. A conference was held and the question of damages settled satisfactory to both parties. Mr. Hollister is superintendent of public parks in the city of Hartford.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary H. Dennehy was held Thursday morning from the late home, No. 50 Winter street with a requiem high mass following at St. Joseph's church at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. William Saffin of Forestville officiated. The funeral was largely attended and many floral pieces were in evidence. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. As the remains were being borne in the church, Miss Theresa Sullivan of Plainfield, niece of the deceased rendered Nearer My God to Thee. At the offertory Miss L. Monica McKeon sang Pie Jesu and for a waiting hymn, Miss Sullivan rendered Beautiful Land on High. Interment followed in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Father Kelley conducting a committal service at the grave. The bearers were Timothy and James Sullivan of Providence, Jeremiah Sullivan of Plainfield and Michael Sullivan of this city. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Dimock Holland were held Thursday morning from the late home in Hanover, Mass., the funeral cortege arrived in this city in the afternoon. Interment following in the Willimantic cemetery. Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church conducted a committal service at the grave. The bearers were William Kinney of New York City, Charles W. Alpaugh and J. Delogaine Conant of this city and W. B. Jackson of Boston, Mass. Avery & Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

A union prayer service was held at the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead in charge. The topic for discussion and the address was Influences That Effect Character Building which will be handled in serial form. The evening's discussion and address related to the theater and moving picture phase. Other phases to be discussed at future services are the dance, the church and the home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Neil O'Brien's Minstrels

America's favorite minstrel comedian, Neil O'Brien and his big new company will be the attraction at the Palace theater one night only, Wednesday, Aug. 13th.

Mr. O'Brien brings his new minstrel show to this city on its thirteenth annual tour and promises an entirely new organization throughout with all new acts, songs features and fun. The minstrel stage knows no better producer in his line than Neil O'Brien. His entertainments are always clean, classy and brimful of clever material. This seasons show as conceived by Mr. O'Brien is promised as being even superior to the splendid offerings he has presented the past twelve years. The company is a notable one including: Neil O'Brien, Billy Beard "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, Tex Hendrix, The McCoys (Maxine and Scott,) James Berardi, Lee Laird, Gene Pearson, John Hinton, T. M. Bullock, Walter Anderson, Charles R. Wright, Herman Williams, Sherman Carr, Ed. Leahy, George Bracken, Joe Cronin, Billy Henderson, Walter Arnold, Joe Nellis, Tom McSherry, Harry Shaner, C. H. Dooley, Jack Ellis. Seats now selling at box office.

Lyceum Theatre, New London.

Pulchritude aplenty and a notable collection of entertainers has been gathered together by Adolphe Mayer and Theodore Hammerstein for their Bye, Bye, Barbara, a new musical comedy which comes to the Lyceum theatre, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 15-16, with a matinee Saturday.

One would hardly ask for a fairer or more promising trio of pleasing young women than Lillian Fitzgerald, Janet Velie and Mildred Keats, whose names follow that of John Hazzard in the cast of the new production. And rumor hath it that Alonzo Price, who staged the show had the assistance of a prominent artist, a dancing master, a grand opera singer and other experts in choosing the chorus—an unusually large one for a musical comedy these days.

Church Choir Outing.

The First Evangelical Lutheran church will have an outing at the drawbridge Sunday afternoon. Meeting of the Ladies' Aid society Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Meeting of the Young People's society Thursday night at 7.30.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater, New London

Edgar Selwyn, the well known producer of many stars successes, has completed, after several months of careful consideration, the New York cast for Dancing Mothers. Dancing Mothers will be produced at the Lyceum theater, New London, Friday and Saturday, August 8 and 9th, under Mr. Selwyn's personal direction.

Real Estate Sold

Through the Norwich Land Title and Insurance Co.'s office Charles S. Bennett has purchased the Raymond place located at Salem Turn Pike. This property consists of a six room house with barn and two car garage and two acres of land. Mr. Bennett intends to make this a permanent home.

Sale of Lease of Theatre.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran today negotiated the sale of the lease on the Jodoin theatre in Baltic, owned by Paul & Peter Nemey. The lease covers a period of years. Louis Caprak, the new owner, will continue the business in a way that the people of Baltic have been accustomed to. The new owner takes possession on Aug. 16th.

Broker Moran also sold for the estate of Mary Walsh the four building lots located on Division street, this city. The new owner, Mrs. William Whitehead, makes her purchase for a home to be built in the future.

BREED THEATER

For its feature attraction Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the Breed will present The Recoil by Rex Beach. This picture possesses a plot original in theme and a scenic background that takes the observer into the show places of Europe such as Paris, Deauville, Monte Carlo, Marseilles and the Riviera and then comes back to New York. It affords a treat in the actual exteriors that are absolutely genuine instead of the stagey scenic investitures of many current releases.

The plot is a typical Rex Beach one, strong in dramatic values filled with emotional fireworks and throwing in some wild parties, beautiful women, pep, luxury and the inevitable fistic battle for good measure. Betty Blythe is an ideal type for the role of a penniless American adventuress. The supporting cast includes Mahlon Hamilton, Clive Brook, Fred Paul and Ernest Hilliard.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and a Sunshine comedy. Special for all next week (except Saturday) matinees only ladies ten cents and children five cents.

Today's bill consists of Harry Carey in The Lightning Rider, Ruth Roland in the last chapter of Ruth of the Range, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30.

PALACE THEATER

Last showing today, Alice Calhoun and John Bowers in The Code of the Wilderness, a real drama of the real west, added attractions Local Movies, Telephone Girl and Pathe news review.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Claire DuBrey, who plays Fleurette in Borrowed Husbands, which will be shown at the Palace theater said that talking regarding the cost and pleasure in motion picture work is sheer nonsense. She had just returned from her ride up Lookout Mountain in the episode preceding the fall of her auto to over a cliff.

Lookout Mountain Road is a "control" road, zigzagging its way up the side of a mountain in the coast range. So precipitous is the slope that it was impossible to build more than a one way road. So, once started, there is no turning back, you must go to the top and down by another road.

"HunchBack" to Be Seen at the Broadway Theatre Tomorrow.

Norwich tomorrow will have its first opportunity of seeing at regular prices the massive production which swept into overnight fame in New York and made the critics so far forget themselves as to use up nearly the entire stock of laudatory adjectives in the English language in their reviews. As a general rule, success on Broadway does not always spell success here, but local theatregoers who visited the Astor theatre in New York, the first of the metropolitan runs, expressed the opinion that the hit will be even greater here, where Hugo's work is so widely known. Seems like this is a reflection on Gotham's literary leanings.

Lon Chaney, admittedly the finest interpreter of unusual character roles on either stage or screen, plays the stella part of "Quasimodo," with Ernest Torrence as "Clopin, the underworld king," and Patsy Ruth Miller as "Esmeralda." Seventy-two other noted performers have featured parts, while 200 players interpret smaller roles with the mob scenes numbering slightly in excess of 1,500 persons.

Some idea of the immensity of the production can be obtained when it is stated that the entire Cathedral of Notre Dame was reconstructed at Universal City, as well as eight blocks of Parisian streets and houses of the time of Louis XI. The total cost was a trifle less than $1,500,000.

Prices are within reach of all. Matinee 25c, evening 25c, 35c.

Short subjects include a comedy and news.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

WILLIMANTIC

As the result of an accident in which a Reo truck owned by Oliver L. Willard, local contractor, figured, Herman Kopke, 53, Mansfield avenue, this city, was painfully injured early Friday morning while going in the machine to work at Stafford. But few details of the accident were secured. A local physician attended the injured man and took Kopke to his home later. He sustained a laceration of his right hand, a contusion of the right [illegible] and bruises of the right [illegible] and leg. Other employees of the contracting firm were in the truck with the driver and Kopke. The men are engaged in erecting several buildings in Stafford. Michael Piazza, also of this city, sustained a laceration of the lower lip. The accident happened in the town of Coventry where it was reported that the truck struck a tree.

From what information could be secured Friday, no serious damage was caused in the town of Windham by the electrical storm which raised havoc in central and northeastern Connecticut Thursday afternoon. Coventry was favored with plenty of rain. Charles B. Jordan of this city, a cottager at Lake Wangumbaug, was injured when lightning struck his home. Mr. Jordan had been sitting on the verandah when a bolt struck the roof and enveloped his legs as he was entering the house. The bolt then entered the house, caused considerable damage to a room on the upper floor and partly wrecked the porch. Mr. Jordan's clothing was damaged. His union suit was partially burned off and his stockings and shoes were torn in pieces. He fell to the floor in a dazed condition and was given first aid attention by his daughter, Miss May Jordan, and his son, Dwight M. Jordan, until the arrival of a physician could be secured. He is suffering from a burn on the left leg below the knee. He will have entirely recovered within a few days. The damage to the cottage has been estimated at $100.

The strong wind which accompanied the storm as it swept through South Willington lifted the roof from a silo on the dairy barn of the Gardiner Hall property. The roof sailed through the air for a distance of 200 feet and the silo caved in. A number of trees were struck by lightning in West Willington and several small buildings were flattened to the ground. A bolt struck and killed a valuable horse owned by Floyd Landon, at Chaplin, while the animal was standing in the pasture.

A barn owned by Stephen Koza of Westford, in the town of Ashford, was struck by lightning and the building along with the contents, including several tons of hay and farm implements was destroyed. The loss is placed at $2,500, on which insurance to the amount of $1,400 was carried.

A barn in Westford and contents containing tons of new hay was destroyed by lightning which set fire to it. The building was owned by T. R. Burr of Manchester.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Shanahan were held Friday morning from the family home, 46 Lewiston avenue. Requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelley. Many relatives and friends attended the funeral and there were beautiful floral pieces. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ. Mrs. Henry Mathieu rendered Nearer My God to Thee as the body was borne into the edifice. Rev. Wipes the Tear From Every Eye was sung as a waiting hymn. Burial was in St. George's cemetery where Father Kelley read the committal service. The bearers were Patrick J. and James F. Twomey, William E. Lennon, John Shanahan, John O'Neil and Michael E. Sullivan. Arrangements were by Killourey Brothers.

Thursday afternoon's storm had its effect on the local telephone system. Some 475 telephones were reported out of commission Friday morning in the Willimantic and Lebanon exchanges. Rapid repair work was being carried on Friday and by evening most of the damage had been adjusted.

James A. Dolan, a former Willimantic resident and late of Stratford, died at 1 o'clock Friday at St. Vincent's hospital, Bridgeport. Death followed a surgical operation. Mr. Dolan was a telegraph operator. He leaves a widow. The body is to be brought to this city.

The committee of Elks in charge of the transportation of members of the local lodge to Rockville next Friday to attend Willimantic night of the carnival, comprises Albert J. Fournier, John O'Rourke, Raymond C. Comins, Bert F. More, Conrad Dubeau, Gilbert F. Flynn and James F. McGlone.

A terse audience which witnessed The Spirit of the U. S. A., at a local theatre was inspired by a fitting prologue to the play, with martial music and scenes with allegorical effects. As the curtain rose the national colors were displayed with the Spirit of '76, depicted by members of Odell M. Chapman Continental Fife and Drum Corps. Frank Fancher was grandfather; Peter LaChance father and fifer and L. Caisse, boy drummer and grandson. To the right of the stage was Miss L. Monica McKeon and to the left Ernest Jacobs, Ollie Rock and Stephen Young, World war veterans, stood at attention as Miss McKeon sang The Star Spangled Banner.

Friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mahoski at their home Thursday evening, in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Mary. Refreshments and games were enjoyed. Present were: Mary, Annie and Ted Jusik, Mariam and Evelyn Chas[illegible] Lena, Frank and Mary Mahoski, Ra[illegible]nie Kinczyk, Anna Klosowski, Jen[illegible] Katy Mahoski, Mr. and Mrs. Jus[illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Katry and Mr. and Mrs. Klosowski.

The board of registrars held their second and final meeting Friday for the purpose of having electors declare their affiliations with either of the major political parties by having their names placed on the party caucus lists or withdrawn from one list to the other. About 12 electors called, bringing the total of applications received during the two sessions to sixty.

William Jackson Jr., son of Alderman and Mrs. William E. Jackson has been returned to his home in this city from a Hartford hospital where he was a patient for ten weeks. For a time the young man was placed on the dangerous list, being afflicted with pneumonia and pleurisy. He is still weak. Numerous friends here rejoice at his recovery.

The Tolland county jail at Tolland, supervised by Sheriff Frederick O. Vinton, with A. E. Clough as the efficient jailer, a complete renovation is to include the installation of all modern improvements. The condition of that jail has often been compared with the Windham county jail at Brooklyn. The latter jail is the last word in homelike accommodations and has always been highly commended even by those unfortunates who were forced to spend time in confinement there. The town of Tolland proper appears to be backward in making improvements. The one thousand inhabitants are only a few miles from Rockville, but they still cling to the old fashioned coal oil lighting system with the exception of a few families who have installed their own electric lighting plants. The ancient Rochester burner and odd types of kerosene lamps still do duty at the jail. After considerable delay during which time the county commissioners and jail authorities started the work of installing their own lighting system, an agreement was finally reached between the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, the jail authorities and the townspeople. The result is that Sheriff Vinton is enabled to announce that by October 1 the jail will be electrically lighted and with plenty of lights. Further alterations will be made to include the setting of baths of new design for the women inmates. The new jail barn which is replacing one burned a few months ago, is nearing completion.

In 1916 S. V. A. (Before Volstead Act) the Tolland jail, like the one at Brooklyn, was self-supporting, but is not so at present. County taxes have been levied to pay running expenses at the jail and the county temporary home at Vernon, which now houses close to forty children. The jail farm comprises 160 acres of land and buildings and much of the land has been tilled. There will be enough vegetables raised to supply the jail inmates with some left over to dispose of. 1,864 bushels of potatoes were harvested last year.

The general belief existed that a settlement had been reached between Charles Miller of Eagleville and George H. Hollister of Hartford in regard to damages following the collision of their automobiles at the junction of Jackson and Union streets Tuesday evening. On Wednesday, however, Miller was positive that Hollister was to blame for the accident, claiming that the latter pulled his automobile to the left of the silent policeman in front of the J. J. Hickey Company drug store, which resulted in the accident. This was denied by Mr. Hollister. As neither party could come to terms on the latter, both were ordered to appear at the police station Thursday morning. Miller obtained the services of Attorney William A. King but the matter did not reach the court. A conference was held and the question of damages settled satisfactory to both parties. Mr. Hollister is superintendent of public parks in the city of Hartford.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary H. Donneby was held Thursday morning from the late home, No. 50 Winter street with a requiem high mass following at St. Joseph's church at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. William Saffin of Forestville officiated. The funeral was largely attended and many floral pieces were in evidence. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. As the remains were being borne in the church, Miss Theresa Sullivan of Plainfield, niece of the deceased rendered Nearer My God to Thee. At the offertory Miss L. Monica McKeon sang Pie Jesu and for a waiting hymn, Miss Sullivan rendered Beautiful Land on High. Interment followed in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Father Kelley conducting a committal service at the grave. The bearers were Timothy and James Sullivan of Providence, Jeremiah Sullivan of Plainfield and Michael Sullivan of this city. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Dimock Holland were held Thursday morning from the late home in Hanover, Mass., the funeral cortege arrived in this city in the afternoon, interment following in the Willimantic cemetery. Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church conducted a committal service at the grave. The bearers were William Kinney of New York City, Charles W. Alpaugh and J. Delgraine Conant of this city and W. B. Jackson of Boston, Mass. Avery & Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

A union prayer service was held at the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead in charge. The topic for discussion and the address was Influences That Effect Character Building which will be handled in serial form. The evening's discussion and address related to the theater and moving picture phase. Other phases to be discussed at future services are the dance, the church and the home.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Neil O'Brien's Minstrels

America's favorite minstrel comedian, Neil O'Brien and his big new company will be the attraction at the Palace theater one night only, Wednesday, Aug. 13th.

Mr. O'Brien brings his new minstrel show to this city on its thirteenth annual tour and promises an entirely new organization throughout with all new acts, songs features and fun. The minstrel stage knows no better producer in his line than Neil O'Brien. His entertainments are always clean, classy and brimful of clever material. This seasons show as conceived by Mr. O'Brien is promised as being even superior to the splendid offerings he has presented the past twelve years. The company is a notable one including: Neil O'Brien, Billy Beard "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, Tex Hendrix, The McCoys (Maxine and Scott,) James Berardi, Lea Laird, Gene Pearson, John Hinton, T. M. Bullock, Walter Anderson, Charles R. Wright, Herman Williams, Sherman Carr, Ed. Leahy, George Bracken, Joe Cronin, Billy Henderson, Walter Arnold, Joe Nellis, Tom McSherry, Harry Shaner, C. H. Dooley, Jack Ellis. Seats now selling at box office.

Lyceum Theatre, New London.

Pulchritude aplenty and a notable collection of entertainers has been gathered together by Adolphe Mayer and Theodore Hammerstein for their Bye, Bye, Barbara, a new musical comedy which comes to the Lyceum theatre, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 15-16, with a matinee Saturday.

One would hardly ask for a fairer or more promising trio of pleasing young women than Lillian Fitzgerald, Janet Velie and Mildred Keats, whose names follow that of John Hazzard in the cast of the new production. And rumor hath it that Alonzo Price, who staged the show had the assistance of a prominent artist, a dancing master, a grand opera singer and other experts in choosing the chorus—an unusually large one for a musical comedy these days.

Church Choir Outing.

The First Evangelical Lutheran church will have an outing at the drawbridge Sunday afternoon. Meeting of the Ladies' Aid society Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Meeting of the Young People's society Thursday night at 7.30.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater, New London

Edgar Selwyn, the well known producer of many stage successes, has completed, after several months of careful consideration, the New York cast for Dancing Mothers. Dancing Mothers will be produced at the Lyceum theater, New London, Friday and Saturday, August 8 and 9th, under Mr. Selwyn's personal direction.

Real Estate Sold

Through the Norwich Land Title and Insurance Co.'s office Charles S. Bennett has purchased the Raymond place located at Salem Turn Pike. This property consists of a six room house with barn and two car garage and two acres of land. Mr. Bennett intends to make this a permanant home.

Sale of Lease of Theatre.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran today negotiated the sale of the lease on the Jodoin theatre in Baltic, owned by Paul & Peter Nemey. The lease covers a period of years. Louis Cuprak, the new owner, will continue the business in a way that the people of Baltic have been accustomed to. The new owner takes possession on Aug. 16th.

Broker Moran also sold for the estate of Mary Walsh the four building lots located on Division street, this city. The new owner, Mrs. William Whitehead, makes her purchase for a home to be built in the future.

BREED THEATER

For its feature attraction Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the Breed will present The Recoil by Rex Beach. This picture possesses a plot original in theme and a scenic background that takes the observer into the show places of Europe such as Paris, Beauville, Monte Carlo, Marseilles and the Riviera and then comes back to New York. It affords a treat in the actual exteriors that are absolutely genuine instead of the stagey scenic investitures of many current releases.

The plot is a typical Rex Beach one, strong in dramatic values filled with emotional fireworks and throwing in some wild parties, beautiful women, pep, luxury and the inevitable fistic battle for good measure. Betty Blythe is an ideal type for the role of a penniless American adventuress. The supporting cast includes Mahlon Hamilton, Clive Brook, Fred Paul and Ernest Hilliard.

Other pictures on the bill include Topics of the Day and a Sunshine comedy. Special for all next week (except Saturday) matinees only ladies ten cents and children five cents.

Today's bill consists of Harry Carey in The Lightning Rider, Ruth Roland in the last chapter of Ruth of the Range, the Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30.

PALACE ..THEATER

Last showing today, Alice Calhoun and John Bowers in The Code of the Wilderness, a real drama of the real west, added attractions Local Movies, Telephone Girl and Pathe news review.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Claire DuBrey, who plays Fleurette in Borrowed Husbands, which will be shown at the Palace theater said that talk regarding the ease and pleasure in motion picture work is sheer nonsense. She had just returned from her ride up Lookout Mountain in the episode preceding the fall of her auto over a cliff.

Lookout Mountain Road is a "control" road, zigzagging its way up the side of a mountain in the coast range. So precipitous is the slope that it was impossible to build more than a one-way road. So, once started, there is no turning back, you must go to the top and down by another road.

"HunchBack" to Be Seen at the Broadway Theatre Tomorrow.

Norwich tomorrow will have its first opportunity of seeing at regular prices the massive production which swept into overnight fame in New York and made the critics so far forget themselves as to use up nearly the entire stock of laudatory adjectives in the English language in their reviews. As a general rule, success on Broadway does not always spell success here, but local theatregoers who visited the Astor theatre in New York, the first of the metropolitan runs, expressed the opinion that the hit will be even greater here, where Hugo's work is so widely known. Seems like this is a reflection on Gotham's literary leanings.

Lon Chaney, admittedly the finest interpreter of unusual character roles on either stage or screen, plays the stella part of "Quasimodo," with Ernest Torrence as "Clopin, the underworld king," and Patsy Ruth Miller as "Esmeralda." Seventy-two other noted performers have featured parts, while 200 players interpret smaller roles with the mob scenes numbering slightly in excess of 3,500 persons.

Some idea of the immensity of the production can be obtained when it is stated that the entire Cathedral of Notre Dame was reconstructed at Universal City, as well as eight blocks of Parisian streets and houses of the time of Louis XI. The total cost was a trifle less than $1,500,000.

Prices are within reach of all. Matinee 25c, evening 25c, 35c.

Short subjects include a comedy and news.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Paving along the inside of the trolley track through the business section has become so badly gouged out that several incidents which might be rated as near-accidents have resulted. In some places the paving is so worn that rail plates are visible. The danger of accident lies in the possibility of a driver losing control of his car if a tire on the machine falls to ride over the depression and slides along the side of a rail, as happened a number of times within the past few days. The squeal of rubber as it burns along the side of an exposed rail is becoming a familiar sound. Motorists who use the route daily are anxious that repairs be made, for in heavy traffic, which is the general rule in the business section, there is always the possibility of machines crashing into each other because of the defect in the pavement. Last year a similar bad condition was corrected by the state highway department.

Mrs. F. O. Armington is president of Killingly's newly formed Coolidge club, Miss Bernice S. Cogswell of Dayville vice president, Miss Ellen F. Derbie secretary and Mrs. Elizabeth Bidwell treasurer. PUTNAM

Members of the common council have had under discussion the matter of the Putnam fire department responding to out-of-town calls. The discussion arose following the recent response of a motor truck to Woodstock where no fire was found and the response to a call for assistance at the Davenport place in Pomfret, Monday evening. There is a feeling among some of the members of the council, at least, that it is not wisdom to have a fire truck leave this city, as its absence in case of fire here would handicap the department to a considerable extent.

Other members believe that if an agreement with the outlying towns, such as has bee made with the town of Thompson, is made, there would be no call on Putnam for aid unless help was seriously needed and would be effective if given. This agreement with the town of Thompson calls for a response to a call from designated citizens of the town and in the event of a call a reimbursement to Putnam of $50 for each such call responded to.

While the members of the council have the matter under advisement no action on the matter has been taken yet.

Hamilton Holt of Woodstock has received a personal invitation from from John W. Davis, democratic nominee for the presidency, to attend the formal notification of Mr. Davis of his nomination. Mr. Holt, who is at present lecturing in the south, has accepted the invitation. Mr. Holt, who has long been a friend of Mr. Davis, recently wrote Mr. Davis inviting him to come to Woodstock during the campaign and to speak under the auspices of the Woodstock Davis club. In replying to this invitation Mr. Davis has written that there are so many demands upon his time he has placed himself in the hands of the campaign committee and as a consequence cannot now make any definite engagements. In conclusion Mr. Davis says: "It would, however, be a pleasure and an honor to visit a community which has received four illustrious presidents of the United States."

Announcement comes from the neighboring village of Mechanicsville that the business outlook is a little brighter and that some orders have been received that will keep the mill running on a reduced schedule for some little time. If other orders are received more and more looms will be put in operation. The Beachmont mill of the Guerin company of Woonsocket is located at Mechanicsville and has been practically shut down for some weeks. Employes who have been idle all these weeks are slowly being called in to take their places in the mill.

STATE TREAS. GILPATRIC WILL BE BLIND IF HE LIVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 8.—G. Harold Gilpatric, state treasurer and cashier of the First National bank, who, Thursday afternoon, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself in the right temple, while alone in his home on Seward street, had a trephining operation performed upon his left temple at the Day Kimball hospital, but the bullet was not extracted. It was found during the operaton that the bullet had shattered the optic nerve. This means that in case Mr. Gilpatric should recover, he would be blind.

Following the operation it was announced at the hospital that Mr. Gilpatric stood the operation well and was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

The operation was not performed until the arrival of Mr. Gilpatric's wife and his older brother, Attorney Walter H. Gilpatric, from Mount Desert, Maine. Mr. Gilpatric's younger brother, F. Raymond Gilpatric of New Britain, and his brother-in-law, Henry A. Wheelock of Putnam, motored to Boston to meet Mr. Gilpatric and Mrs. Gilpatric upon their arrival at the North Station. They reached Putnam shortly before 2 o'clock.

Mr. Gilpatric's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gilpatric, and Mr. Gilpatric's three children, Miss Rhoda, George and Richard Gilpatric, and Mrs. Walter H. Gilpatric, arrived from Maine on the Bar Harbor express at 3 o'clock this (Saturday) morning, the train making a special stop for them at the Putnam railroad station.

This morning it was reported at the hospital that Mr. Gilpatric's condition was unchanged. X-ray photographs of the bullet wound in his head had been taken and the bullet located but it was understood no attempt to extract the bullet would be made until Mr. Gilpatric's wife arrived from Maine. During his wakeful hours Mr. Gilpatric was consicous and several times inquired for Mrs. Gilpatric, who, he had been told, was on the way to Putnam. No statement was given out as to whether he had talked recarding his attempt to end his life, or to give any reasons therefor.

The promise of last night that a statement of the bank's condition would be made this morning was not forthcoming, except in a general way. The directors held a short meeting soon after the bank opened for business as usual, but the directorate authorized no formal statement. Guy L. Baker, assistant cashier, would make no formal or written statement. He said that the bank was financially sound, that it was open for business as usual and that no chance would be made. He said precautions had been taken to meet any possible run on the bank but that nothing of the kind had developed. When asked if there was any irregularities in the books Mr. Baker would say nothing on this subject except that all of the books had not been gone over.

The precautions alluded to by Mr. Baker appeared when an automobile arrived at the bank about 10.30 o'clock and three bags containing thousands of dollars in cash were carried in at the front door. The automobile was driven by William Dumas, a special officer of the city and has the contract to take prisoners from the city court to the county jail. In the money automobile, which left Putnam at 3 o'clock this morning and made the trip from the Federal Reserve bank in Boston in two hours, was Captai- Jarvis of the Putnam police department, Patrolmen Howard Steere and Louis Beausolell and an officer representing the Federal Reserve bank.

As a matter of fact, when the bank opened for business at 9 o'clock in the morning as usual there was no evidence that anything out of the ordinary had occurred. There was no congregation of curious people about the bank doors, but here and there on Main street were little groups of men discussing in low tones the tragedy of the night before. There was no apparent alarm or uneasiness on the part of citizens of Putnam, but many telephone calls came into the city during the day asking regarding conditions and what was going on and being done.

The tragedy is the greatest blow that the city has ever experienced. The man lying near death's door at the Day Kimball hospital has the sympathy of the whole community. Without exception, Mr. Gilpatric, who has lived in Putnam from infancy, was the most prominent citizen of Putnam and one of the most beloved. He was generous to a fault and could not say no to those who, in adversity or in need, appealed to that generosity. He was the friend of every man, woman and child in this community and had not an enemy among them. His generosity and big heart was often imposed upon and it may be the great burden he was carrying for others, as well as his own cares, that has brought him to death's door.

At the bank this afternoon, just before clos'- time, Mr. Baker said that he had no further statement to make and that none would be made today. He was asked if there had been any appreciable withdrawals by depositors during the day. He replied that there had not and that he was surprised and gratified that there had been no apparent uneasiness. From outward observances the business at the bank appeared to be normal and business men with deposits in their hands were seen entering the bank at all hours of the banking day.

MRS. MORAN WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Telling Remarkable Story of How Tanlac Helped Her.

"If it was so I could I would go from house to house ang tell everybody what a grand good medicine Tanlac is," is the appreciative statement of Mrs. Lina Moran, 5 Leighton Ave., Portland, Me.

"Before taking Tanlac I hardly had energy and strength to dress and go up town. I had no appetite, a little exertion would get me all out of breath, and my heart would palpitate until it frightened me. My nerves were so excited I couldn't sleep half the night and I felt so worn-out during the day that my housework was a burden to me.

"I had become discouraged almost to despair, but three bottles of Tanlac increased my weight 9 pounds, and left me looking and feeling like a new person. Tanlac has won my life-long praise."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

WESTERLY

Funeral srevices for Mrs. Emma Field Benn, widow of Erastus H. Benn, were held at her home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, read the service at the home and at the burial in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were Max Raithel, Earl E. Saunders, Carl E. Burdick and David A. Lowry. At the time of the interment of Mrs. Benn there were also committed to the ground the ashes of Mrs. Benn's husband, Erastus H. Benn, who died several years ago, there being a double committal service.

George De Blazia of New York city and Miss Annie Bliven of Garden street, Pawcatuck, were united in marriage on Monday evening, Aug. 4, by Rev. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church. They are to make their home in New York.

The familiar 33 fire alarm was sounded Friday afternoon for an out-of-the-Westerly fire-district fire about 4 o'clock. The Westerly department responded for a brush fire which it was feared would assume threatening proportions on the Potter Hill road.

When the apparatus arrived at the fire it was found that the blaze had started in the woods near the Cold Spring on the Potter Hill road and between it and the Pawcatuck river. The flames, however, had been extinguished before the arrival of the firemen.

Today (Saturday) is Circus day in Westerly. The 15-car train arrived with the circus frmo Essex early this morning.

Passing over Westerly at 10.40 Friday morning and following the aerial route traversed by numerous planes daily which cross Long Island sound by way of Fisher's Island and then to and above the town of Westerly in an easterly direction, Boston II, an army airplane which is to be used by Lieut. Leigh Wade for the completion of the around-the-world flight, passed over Fort H. G. Wright on Fisher's Island at 10.25 on its way to Boston, where it made a short stop far gas, before pushing on to Bar Harbor, Me. The final destination of the plane is Pictou, Nova Scotia, where it will be met by Lieutenant Wade, whose around the world craft, the Boston I, was recently wrecked.

The plane left Langley field, Va., Thursday, piloted by Lieut. G. C. McDonald, assisted by Lieut. V. E. Bertrandias. It reached Keyport, N. J., at 3.15 Thursday afternoon and rode safely at anchor in the sheltered waters of Raritan bay until 3.45 Friday morning, when she hopped off for Boston. The plane took on 200 gallons of gasoline and 15 gallons of oil.

A little anxiety was felt when the storm gathered shortly before 6 o'clock and Mr. Zimmerman stationed men in motor boats close to the Boston II in case she slipped her moorings or drifted. The Boston II rode the storm safely, however.

The Boston II is equipped with both land and water landing gear, but the pontoons are being used on the earlier stages of the trip. As a result the landing at Boston was made on the water near the big aerodrome at South Boston used by the air forces of the 26th (Yankee) division of the Massachusetts State National guard.

The Boston II is being sent to Nova Scotia at the request of President Calvin Coolidge, who wishes Lieutenant Wade to finish the aerial cruise with the other officers.

The Shenandoah, "Daughter of the Stars," the navy dirigible, on a trip from Lakehurst, N. J., to a moorage in Narragansett bay, was plainly seen by record-breaking crowds which lined the south shore of Washington county from Watch Hill Point to Point Judith. From Watch Hill it was plainly visible at 2.15 o'clock Friday afternoon, from five to six miles off shore, and was headed towrad Block Island. The radio station at Fisher's Island listened in, noting its call letters "E R K" and operating on 600 and 950 meters, when the New Jersey station supplied the men on the dirigible with the weather conditions. The workmen repainting the figures on the face of the clock on the manual training school reported getting a glimpse of the aircraft as it passed to the southward.

Passengers from Providence to Westerly on the Pennsylvania and Shore Line express on the New Haven road report having had an excellent view of the dirigible all the way from Providence to Kingston.

A crowded court room Friday morning listened to the calling of the following docket by Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr.:

Civil docket—Fred J. Ostman vs Jesse H. Richmond; defaulted. Oscar H. Main vs. William Miner; continued two weeks. Joe Stedman vs. Earl Wills; continued two weeks. Granite Street garage vs. Concetta Liotta; continued one week. Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch; continued two weeks. Charles Magna vs. Margaret Conway; announced as ready; later announced as settled by agreement of parties interested. Eleseo Magni vs. Margaret Conway; settled by the defendant's agreement to pay damages to the extent of $75.

The civil docket was followed by Judge Michael J. Turano taking up the cases of violators of automobile laws, when the total fines imposed amounted to $335.

Walter P. Chrysler Says:

Maxwell Now Excels Previous Four-Cylinder Possibilities

Before you have driven the good Maxwell 30 minutes, you will be revising all your previous ideas of four-cylinder possibilities.

For Maxwell—thanks to the rapid progress of the last year and the Chrysler Six engineering staff—now goes far beyond four-cylinder limitations as you have known them.

It goes so far beyond them that we have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best four-cylinder car in America today, at anything near its price.

There are specific results to back up our belief, and we invite you to experience them for yourself at the first opportunity.

If you have always thought that there must be vibration with a four, you will be delightfully surprised in the good Maxwell.

For here vibration is gone, so far as riding and driving comfort are concerned—a result of Maxwell's floating spring suspension of the motor which you will concede to be revolutionary.

You'll step on the throttle and feel the speed shoot from 5 to 25 miles an hour in a flat eight seconds, with an ease and smoothness entirely new in your four-cylinder experience.

You'll ride the bumps as though you were in a car twice as heavy as Maxwell. You will steer and handle the car with delightful new ease.

Most people want such results in their cars today; and many still think they must pay much more than the Maxwell price to get them.

That might have been true up to a few months ago; but Maxwell's new developments have reversed the case entirely.

On the side of economy, Maxwell stands equally to the fore.

Engine bearings, for example, are built to run for the life of the car without need for replacement; owners average 24 miles per gallon; valves and carbon require attention only at long intervals.

These are but a few of the things that lead us to call Maxwell the best four in America at anywhere near our price.

For the Maxwell of today is more than the the good Maxwell—it has been developed to a plane of unprecedented superiority among four-cylinder cars.

Touring Car, $895; Sport Touring, $1055; Roadster, $885; Club Coupe, $1025; Club Sedan, $1095; Sedan, $1325. All prices f. o. b. Detroit subject to current Government tax.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

STONINGTON

In celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Stonington, Aug. 10, Stonington's annual parade will be held this (Saturday) afternoon at 2 o'clock. The fire department and the Ambulance corps will appear in their new uniforms for the first time. The lower part of Water street is under reconstruction and this section will have to be omitted from the line of march. The line will form on Main street, at Railroad avenue, in the following order: Stonington fire police, Charles G. Cushman, captain; Stonington band, Joseph F. Perry, leader; chief and assistant chief engineers; Neptune Engine company No. 1, James J. McCoart, captain; Pioneer Hook and Ladder company, James E. Stanlin, foreman; Stonington Steam Fire Engine company, Robert Edgar, foreman; Stonington Ambulance corps, Isaac F. Gavitt, captain; warden and burgesses in automobiles. The line of march will be from Main street through Elm street and Bayview avenue and return by the same route to Main street. Thence the parade will proceed up Main street to Broad, to Water street, down Water to Wall, to Main, to Cannon square; from Cannon square to Water, to Omega, to School, to Trumbull, to Water, to Main, to borough hall, where the companies will disband.

Previous to the parade the warden and burgesses and engineers will hold an inspection of the equipment and quarters of the fire department.

The yacht Galathea of New York is hauled up on the Kenyon ways with a hole about five inches in diameter in her bottom near the stern. The Galathea received this injury in an accident off Fisher's Island when she ran foul of a wooden buoy. The yacht was tossing about somewhat in the rough water when she came down on the end of the buoy with such force that a hole was stove in the craft.

The celebration of the Feast of the Holy Ghost will be continued Sunday afternoon by the Portuguese residents of the borough. In the afternoon the crown will be taken from the home of Manuel Mello on Wall street to the residence of Joseph Medaria on School street. The Stonington band, Joseph M. Perry, leader, will furnish the music for the solemn procession.

The Stonington Garden club will hold a meeting Monday afternoon in the Community house. There will be an exhibition of garden plans.

Neptune Fire Engine Co. No. 1, is to hold a picnic and outing at Brightman's pond Sunday.

The Sunday school picnic of Calvary Episcopal church is to be held Wednesday next at Atlantic beach. A special car will leave Hyde's crossing at 10.19 a. m.

Work on Water street was advanced Friday to the Wall street crossing. A number of new men have been added to the construction force.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Fairbrother of Hamilton, Ontario, are visiting the parents of Mr. Fairbrother, at their home on Union street.

Mrs. Joseph F. Joseph is visiting at Stafford Springs.

Mrs. Emma Douglass of New York city is the guest of [illegible] relatives.

Happiness may resemble either a mountain or a molehill. It depends on the distance you are from it.

MYSTIC

Ahab Sanctorum, Orientals, is to have an outing at Camp Mohegan, Lantern Hill, Sunday, Aug. 17th, with a chowder at noon and a clambake about 5 o'clock. Field sports, bathing, fishing, etc., will b ea part of the day's piaesure.

Miss Bethe Denison of Westerly was a caller here Thursday.

Capt. and Mrs. William Maras left Friday for Brooklyn, N. Y., after a stay of several days in the village.

Mystic encampment, No. 17, I. O. O. F., met Friday evening.

Miss Jennie Whipple of Montreal has been here recently.

Mrs. Elizabeth Allyn, Mrs. Helen Poppe and daughter, Patricia Louise, and Mrs. Hazel Gillette and two children motored from Charlestown Beach Thursday to call on Mrs. Emeline Allyn.

W. L. McCausland and Henry Klippell, who have been in Rochester, N. Y., this week attending the supreme convention of the Orientals, are expected home early in the week, the trip having been made by automobile.

Rev. J. P. Beauchamp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, is to be in Fall River, Mass., tomorrow to conduct services in the Episcopal church there. The service at St. Mark's church will be in charge of Rev. P. F. Hall of Alexandria, Va., who is a visitor at Groton Long Point.

A meeting of the Garden club is to be held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Louis P. Allyn on New London road, at which time there will be a display of various styles of floral arrangement.

Blueberries have been quite plentiful this year and are of good size, but those who gather berries report that while the bushes seem ot be full of huckleberries they are small in size and the crop will probably be short, due to the drouth.

Miss Anna C. Blenker of New York is in the village to spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Griswold, Jr., and son and Mrs. George H. Griswold have returned from an automobile trip to Cape Cod.

THE NEW OPTIMISM.

There is a new air of optimism on both sides of the Atlantic. This week British pound sterling touched the high record for 1924. French francs jumped 15 points and Belgian francs recorded a gain as the Germans appeared before the interallied conference at London. The same day United States government bonds went to new high levels, carrying with them the national securities of Great Britain and France.

Everywhere there is a feeling that the world is on the eve of a great revival of trade and industry. While Europe was destroying herself and nearly pulling down the world with her, she was using enormous quantities of both raw and finished American materials. If she really gets down to the business of undisturbed reconstruction her demands on American raw materials and finished goods will be nearly if not quite as great for a time as they were during the World war.

If and when Europe begins to regain her lost ground, the reaction on his side of the Atlantic should be excellent. Industry doubtless will pick up some of its lost momentum, agriculture feel a new impetus and business in general be stimulated. In the expected revival of world commerce, American railways as well as ships, will have a part. More political and industrial harmony in the Old World may make for more political harmony here, and in the rising tide of a new national prosperity, the political voodooists and witch-doctors of demagoguery may find it hard to keep their heads above the flood.

GOV. SMITH'S QUANDRY.

Governor Smith is reported still to be flirting with the idea of a re-nomination for governor of New York, although he followed his conference with John W. Davis early this week with the statement that he felt indisposed to run again. The governor is understood to be pondering the question yet, weighing the several considerations attached to it.

Democratic leaders are reported as keeping up the pressure upon him to induce him to be a candidate, and in the meantime the leaders are taking stock of the political possibilities involved in his final refusal. Mayor Hylan of New York has already said that he has his ear to the ground to catch the first rumble of a call from the people for him to take the nomination.

Tammany is said to be divided over the suggested candidacy of Mayor Hylan, having in its ranks one group which is for him on the ground that he would be a weaker candidate for mayor next year if he is beaten for governor this year and another group that would regard him as the logical candidate for governor if Governor Smith is not going to make the race.

Governor Smith finds himself in much the same position he held two years ago. Then he had to take the nomination to prevent Hearst from capturing it. Now it is Hylan, supported by Hearst, whom he is called upon to shut out. To the suggestion that his candidacy for governor would help the national ticket in November, Mr. Smith is quoted as replying that he can do as much speechmaking and campaigning as governor this fall as if he were both governor and candidate. The counter suggestion is made that there would be less likelihood of democrats cutting the national ticket in New York, as is threatened, if he were running for governor.

MENACES OF THE FUTURE.

A prediction made by Professor Henry P. Fairchild that there will not be standing room in the United States in 10,000 years if the present rate of increase in population keeps up does not seem sufficiently imminent to cause a great alarm at the present day, but the professor attained a greater grip upon the attention of his audience at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., when he added the further prediction that by the middle of the next century the population of the United States will be equal to that of the world today. The middle of the next century will not probably be seen by any one who is now alive today, but as history goes and time flies it cannot be regarded as remote.

About a century and a quarter ago Thomas Robert Malthus aroused the apprehension of the world by declaring that because population increased in geometrical ratio, and food production could increase only in arithmetical ratio—if it could do even as well as that—dire times were ahead, and starvation was just round the bend in history's road. No progress toward what Mr. Malthus foresaw is yet discernible.

Whether the professor based his predictions on geometrical and arithmetical ratio is not stated. Both would appear to be rather untrustworthy foundations on which to build long-range predictions. Their results are likely to be as intangible as paper profits. So perhaps the sympathy for posterity, aroused by Professor Fairchild's prediction, will be wasted. Posterity, through gaining larger knowledge each year, will know better how to take care of itself than we do, as we know how better than our forebears did. There is a vast difference between the theory and practice of living. Perhaps this is the reason that long-range expectations or fears so often turn out to be not well founded. But whatever happens, the safest guess is that posterity, speaking in a general way, will be quite equal to the problems that confront it.

LABOR AGAINST PACIFISM.

The American Federation of Labor has been under great pressure from the pacifist groups to denounce as "militaristic" the national defense day of Sept. 12. Labor has had much experience with certain of the groups most actively opposed to national defense. Labor understands more clearly than most Americans the exact sources and main springs of the world-wide pacifist move. In the statement issued at Atlantic City, Matthew Woll reviews the position of labor for the last eight years and says: "We have denounced both militarism and pacifism. We understand the designs of the militarists who would take advantage of every opportunity to promote and feed the war spirit and we likewise understand the design of the pacifists who would disarm America first and the other nations later. Most of them prefer to disarm all nations except Soviet Russia so that the dictators of Moscow may find their road easier to a greater dictatorship. We oppose that move of all moves."

There are many sincere and earnest opponents of Defense day, but labor, having looked into this matter a little more deeply than most, believes that "the most active pacifist influences at work in America today are those directly under Moscow control."

Mixed in with the convinced and sincere opponents of defense day are a very great many dangerous folk. Labor does not propose to be misled by them or play their game.

SWISS TO ATTACK EVEREST.

Next spring, according to a dispatch from Geneva, a well known Swiss Alpinist, who has already had experience in the Himalayas, will undertake the ascent of Mount Everest, where English climbers have failed in several attempts. He will take with him some of Switzerland's best mountain climbers, none of them more than 35 years old. Instead of using the heavy oxygen apparatus carried by the English they will carry small phials of compressed and liquid oxygen, to be injected by syringe and needle into the arteries when breathing becomes difficult.

Nothing is said about the organization of the porter squads. Yet this is the most important part of a Mount Everest climb. In the published accounts of the latest unsuccessful attack upon the peak it was particularly stressed that the greatest difficulty was found in getting experienced and dependable men for the carrying of supplies up the slopes. The picking of these men is a matter of judgment, and probably if the Swiss Alpinists undertake the ascent they must confer with their predecessors.

It is not altogether clear yet why the latest expedition failed, whether through a slip in misadventure by the two men who went highest, or through the actual reaching of the limit of sustaining atmosphere. The experiment of hypodermic oxygen stimulation is interesting, and it may prove successful, provided all of the mechanical equipment of the ascent enables the climbers to reach the danger zone.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Is not the vacation idea really grounded in the necessities of human nature? It is no argument against it because the regular annual vacation is a modern institution. Do we not see something that corresponds to it in the program of the physical world? We all know that nature has her regular periods of rest, at least she ceases for awhile from her regular activities. In the North Temperate Zone the hot and the cold periods are equally divided. From the vernal to the autumnal equinox the sun is traveling in the North Temperate Zone, during that period we are having our hottest weather. During this period tremendous demands are made on nature to support foliage, blossoms and fruitage. This demand ceases after the autumnal equinox and nature, while not inactive, in the cold season, is however resting after her long day of productivity. Her vacation has been well earned.

A letter was written about two weeks ago to The Bulletin that expressed very clearly and with admirable spirit, what very many have felt about radio interference. All reasonable people will be ready to grant that radio, as a great discovery of the practical uses to which natural phenomena can be put, ought to be open to the enjoyment of all. That being the case all ought to be willing to submit to regulations that are intended to benefit all alike. At present the chief trouble comes from the cheap, home-made instruments of the amateurs that are lacking that fine adjustment to the exact wave length causing the whistling sound when "listening in." By using instruments of a certified standardization this difficulty ought to be avoided. Better control is also demanded of re-relaying.

Unless the writer greatly mistakes, the first train run by steam locomotive in America was on the Mohawk and Hudson Railroad from Albany to Schenectady, August 9, 1831—just 93 years ago today. Like Fulton's steamboat it was a crude affair but in both cases there was a germ of a possibility that changed a weak and struggling people into the strongest nation on earth. As the full grown oak is but the development of what the little acorn contains, so also the binding together of continental America by steel rails was all contained in that train run ninety-three years ago today. If all the other great scientific inventions shall produce a parallel economic history, we shall not only be the greatest nation on earth, but we shall come dangerously near being the whole business. It seems almost incredible that our entire railroad history is within the limits of a single century.

The difficulty or the indisposition of the rulers of Europe in agreeing on the plan of the Dawes commission is another evidence of the troubles created by war. From whatever angle it is viewed there is absolutely nothing that can be said in favor of war. Every war, even those of the so-called defensive kind, is evidence of the incompetence or the rascality of the high mucky-mucks who rule over us. The only person who is benefited by war is the profiteer who fattens on the blood of souls. To assassinate a million young men, the greatest asset a nation can possibly have, means nothing to him as long as he can gorge on his "mess of pottage." Are your bankers of the national type much better, who are so ready to make big war loans? Let us devoutly hope and pray that every dollar thus invested will be eternally lost! Kings, princes, prime ministers, cabinets, congresses and parliaments have had their full say and have most lamentably failed. Let the people the world over now rise in their might and say: "No more war!"

Before you get the 100 per cent American, you must first get your 100 per cent man and woman. These greatly desired 100 per cent products do not grow on every bush—not even those bushes whose roots strike down through the sun-soil to Plymouth Rock. There are not enough of them in any country to be thrown away in bunches. Strange as it may sound, they are not numerous enough here in America to attract any particular attention. In fact they are so rare, that when one of these paragons appears on the crowded streets of a big city, people nudge one another as such a one passes, remarking: "There goes one of your 100 per centers!" There is everything to be said in favor of trying to improve the race by any rational methods. By all means get all your 100 per cent patriots you can, but why not begin at the top? Why not try to introduce a few of them into congress as a first upward step? It would certainly help the few decent ones who are there out of their melancholy and loneliness.

As a great people, whose reputation for high intelligence is merited, have we done very creditably as far as any concerted work is concerned, for the Americanization of "the stranger within our gates?" What have we done in the past? Simply opened our doors wide for the influx of everybody, good, bad, and indifferent—until the acts of restriction in the last few years. To be sure mild, healthy sentiment for American ideals has been impressed upon the young in our public schools, but upon the young only. This teaching will doubtless bear fruit in years to come. But how about the parents of these children? For them has there ever been attempted a nation-wide propaganda for their social and political betterment? Do the rank and file of them really know what Americanism means? Have they ever had a really fair chance to find out? Of course there is the obverse side of the coin: many of the immigrants came here with the single purpose of making money and bettering their material condition (and once in awhile they have an example of this set before them in native-born Americans.) In too many instances also they show no disposition to amalgamate with the American spirit; they do not try to learn the English language; they delight in colonization which aids in perpetuating many manners and customs which are distinctly un-American. From whatever angle the problem is viewed it is a serious one.

It is well to set all possible agencies at work for the production of the superman, but the superman will never be found. The reason is perfectly clear, because our working to produce such an ideal creature so increases our ideas as to what our product should be, that when the original mark is reached our superman seems too little. Our ideals always keep ahead of our knowledge. Our superman will always have his bad points as well as his good, his weakness as well as his strength, just as long as [illegible] inhabits this planet. At the same time supreme effort should be made to improve him, but satisfactory results will never come through race development. When Luther Burbank wants to develop some superflower, he must do it by some scheme of crossing-breeding. No one race ever has been, the sum total of all human perfections. The nearest approach we can ever come to the superman is to create that environment most favorable to the advancement of the highest qualities in our polyglot American life.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Doctor Advocates LaFollette.

Mr. Editor: In your editorial of August 4, "Wheeler as Running Mate," you, like others, adherents to the two old parties, seem worried over Wheeler joining the LaFollette ticket. Wheeler's actions seems to have given them a solar plexus which has affected their nerves considerably. That with the mental depression under which they are now working to find a slogan which will enfranchise the mill workers of New England (until they inoculate them with some anti-socialistic, anti-radical, anti-LaFollette virus and incentally reduce their wages 10 to 15 per cent.), so they will forget the difficulties, under which they are now existing. Formerly they preached the slogan of "full dinner pail," "intrenchment of monopoly in the government (Wilson, 1912)," "kept you out of war," "high tariff, high wages," and now I understand the democrats are to preach honest government, I suppose they are to use "oil" as an argument. They will, however, be informed that LaFollette originated the oil inquiry which was effectually executed by Walsh and Wheeler, the former refusing to be a candidate on the Morgan ticket headed by Davis. You state "voters, when they realize that the genie of the injunctions is destructive [illegible] resent [illegible] unmeasured denunciation of sincere men who dare to be more moderate and practical." I wonder if you consider joining a League of Nations a moderate, move—when it has been revoked by 7,000,000 American voters in 1920. Is the upholding of Teapot Dome moredate? Our great forefathers were practical men and they warned us against foreign entanglements, yet today, they are called old fashioned. The two old parties and their platforms might be classified with the flapper. Nothing real. Quite different with the progressives under the leadership of LaFollette and Wheeler, it has something fundamental. Labor throughout the couhtry has endorsed them as they well had a right to. Voters in general should study the issues carefully. Ask themselves the meaning of high prices in cotton goods and food products, mills running short time with tendencies of lowered wages and they will be convinced that a vote for either old party would be inconsistency on their part, when they have the greatest opportunity within their grasp at this time to be relieved of industrial servitude.

F. DOWNING, M. D.
Moosup, Conn., Aug. 6, 1924.

Gives His Views.

Mr. Editor: One of the primary functions of a newspaper is to be fair at all times, but your attitude towards an important phase of the coming presidential election is far from being fair. You favor Cal Coolidge, a man who has never shown the faintest semblance of possessing any ability, who became president through the rankest kind of an accident, and who is an acknowledged hindrance to his party. Yet you laud and praise him to the utmost. Obviously John W. Davis is a man of more intelligence, of better personality, and of infinitely more ability. But you thrust him aside, and sponsor the candidacy of Coolidge, because, and for no other reason the latter is a republican, whereas the former is a democrat.

However, standing head and shoulders above either of the above mentioned candidates is Robert La Follette You characterize him as an insurgent and a radical, and therein, say you, lies the reason for all intelligent voters for disregarding him. You fail to consider his past record, which bristles with fearless acts and courageous, honest principles, which have been so impressed upon the vast majority of the people, that many of these acts, previously regarded as being of a socialistic character, have now been adopted by the very same party which had scoffed at and repudiated them.

That LaFollette is the most honest, most sincere and most practical man in American politics broods no denial. His independence from party catechisms is stimulating.

You complain in your editorial on Slackers at the Polls that less than 50 per cent of those eligible to vote in 1920, actually voted. To my mind, this can be ascribed to the fact that the American voting populace had a choice for president between Harding and Cox, both previously unknown, and both nominated by machine politicians. But give the people an opportunity to vote for a man who fires their imagination, and upon whom they can rely, then will a different story be told on election day.

Robert La Follette is, without a single doubt, the most popular man and the one most favored for president by all thinking and intelligent voters. His candidacy is the nucleus of a new labor party to sweep the political horizon of graft and corruption, and to cleanse American life of the evil influences of both old parties.

SOCIAL JOYS

"My goodness!" cried the exasperated housewife. "How can you suggest going to the movies when I have so many things to do and am so terribly busy! If it isn't just like a man!"

"Well, what are you so busy about?" demanded the prosaic husband. "All you have on hand is thirty people in to supper and cards afterward! And it's tomorrow night! I wanta see Conetta Cornflake in that prairie fire scene. No matter how many times I read how they make the raging flame effect with waving silk and colored lights, I suffer exactly as intense anguish as if the heroine really was about to be frizzled in the towering flames, and that is good for my emotions, gets them out of a rut, you know. C'mon!"

"I can't, Horatio," firmly declared the exasperated housewife. "I suppose you think that all giving a party at 7 o'clock means is about five minutes before seven, indulging in a huge yawn, laying down one's magazine and asking did any one hear the front door ring or were you mistaken? Why, men think that immaculate napkins, polished silver, glittering plates and chicken a la king just sort of drop down from heaven when needed! As for homemade ice cream you merely take it out of the icebox when you are ready for it! And coffee is always just finished on the stove! And cakes ice themselves."

"Are you going to have devil's food?" demanded the prosaic husband. "Put that gooey stuff in the middle, why don't you? Why don't you have a cream cake, too, and——"

"You can't have those sticky things at parties," frowned the exasperated housewife. "It has to be cake that will cut in nice, dainty squares that are easy to handle——"

"I know those nice dainty things!" growled the prosaic husband, much disappointed. "Two bites, 'and the party's over. When I have cake I want cake and so does every other man! Go on and let us have a real human feed for once at this party. With all this help you have I don't see what you have to do yourself except powder your nose. G'wan and powder it now and let's go."

"There are many angles to a party about which you know nothing!" declared the exasperated housewife with great intensity. "I have to borrow a dozen forks and I am in great distress because I borrowed forks from Mrs. Grasagreen last time and that hurt Loretta Whoof's feelings.

"And I am so afraid that Mrs. Philetas G. Osprey will be handed one of my poorer napkins. It is dreadfully annoying when a hostess looks around to see that her filet-lace-insert napkins—which are enough to make any woman green with envy—have fallen to the lot of three or four men, who wouldn't notice whether the napkin was a piece of cheesecloth or point lace, and to the least interesting women in the club, while the bright particular stars have the second-best set, which has thin spots in various places and looks kind of moth-eaten generally.

"And I have just remembered that Seraphine never dusts behind the pictures or under the beds, so I am going to attend to that tonight. Just as certainly as you try to give a party without dusting under the beds somebody drops a ring or a collar button and you find him on all fours half way beneath the footboard scrambling around in the fluffy dust emerging to confront you with indignant and reproachful grales.

"You never in the world can live down that sort of disgrace, Horatio, and I am bound this party of mine is going to be perfect in all particulars! You'd better go on to your movie and let me toil on!"

"I wouldn't be a woman and have to be responsible for a party if you paid me $10,000!" declared the prosaic husband reaching for his hat. "If you'll come along I'll help polish the napkins and fold the silver when we get back!"

"All right," the housewife agreed with considerable alacrity. "I'm kind of tired of it all myself, now I think about it."—Exchange.

Evangeline Booth Won her Persecutors

The Booths were called a "queer lot," and Evangeline and the other children were characterized, when young, as being "odd."

Evangeline was born in Hackney, England, just when the Salvation Army idea was being developed, and she spent her girlhood in a busy home, where there was little opportunity for childhood romps.

Starting in the ranks, she sold the War Cry before she was nine, and became the champion salesman of the organization. She preached on the streets at 12.

Into the slums of London's East Side she went, despite the pleadings of the policemen. She was hooted at and her uniform derided. Dressing as a match-seller, she returned and won the title of The White Angel, but the hardships were so great that she suffered congestion of the brain. Her life was despaired of and the attack made her a victim of prostrating headaches so that today she cannot wear the famous "Hallelujah" bonnet when addressing meetings.

Persecution of the Army was bitter, a mob harassed it and at one time 200 army followers were in jail. Evangeline won over the leader of the mob and he and his followers, when she was arrested for preaching on the street, marched to the court and demanded her release. She then caused Parliament to repeal obsolete laws against street preaching.

Sent to Canada to take charge, she fell seriously ill and after her recovery built up the organization there. Next she organized and equipped a band to open the army's work in the Klondike.

When she was appointed Commander of the organization in the United States and its possessions in 1904, it was in a chaotic condition but she made it one of the strongest bodies for work among the poor in the country. During the war her work in the camps made many more champions of the "Sallies" as the soldiers named them.

And when Commander-In-Chief Bramwell Booth decided two years ago to take her back to England, the protest from this country was so strong that Miss Booth remained at the head of the organization here with its branches in every city in the United States.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

If Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett should become, as it is rumored she may, the first woman member of the English Privy Council, it will be a fitting honor for one who has done so much for women of the new generation. Mrs. Fawcett, who is the widow of England's celebrated blind Postmaster-General, was for many years president of the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies and played a most important part in the women's franchise movement in Great Britain, though never identified with the more violent sections of the movement. She was born and brought up in a quiet fishing village of Suffolk. At the age of 30 she married Professor Fawcett, and almost immediately began her public career, in connection with the London Society for Women's Suffrage. Besides her great work in the cause of women, Mrs. Fawcett has found time for a biography of Queen Victoria, and a life of Sir William Molesworth.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

PLEASING GOD

"For do I now persuade men, or God? or do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ." Gal. 1.10.

The only way in which we can persuade God is by taking His way as ours; not by hoping to get Him to take our way as His. Paul had been delivering a very harsh judgment; and it might be said that this attitude was wrong in a minister of the religion of love, but he says the question is not one of pleasing men, but of standing right with God. But it might be said, "Is it impossible to please God and man at the same time?" He replies, "My chief aim is no longer to please men as once I did, because now I belong to Christ and His will should at all times be mine."

Deliverance from the fear of man and the necessity to please Christ is one of the signs of the new life.

How many social relations are simply a desire to please. We should not ask, "How can I best please my neighbor?" but, "How can I best glorify God?"

How are we to be set free from this yoke? We must make Christ and His glory supreme in our life. Then and then only our lives shall be glad and free.

We must always look to Christ no only as Saviour but as Lord and King. A bare abstract sense of duty will not deliver us from this bondage. Let us ask ourselves whether we are so serving Christ as to be set free from serving man.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

The Silk Race

Uncle Sam has been winning heats in one of the most dramatic races ever staged by trade—the raw silk transport race.

The course is 8,300 miles. Swiftest steamships, special trains for which speed limits are waived, seaplanes and airplanes participate. But there is no cheering crowd in the stands, because every mile of the race is concealed with the closest secrecy. The stakes are millions.

In 1918, 81 per cent. of the United States' hugh silk imports from Japan came in foreign steamers but within two years steamers flying the American flag in the Pacific have obtained an important share of this valuable trade.

"Excepting gold and silver bullion, silk probably is the most precious commodity, weight for weight, carried on a large scale by commerce. A single special train will bring five million dollars' worth of silk. Just as it costs dearly to ship money, high charges are put on silk shipments. The savings of two days' sailing time between Yokohama and Seattle is said to make a difference of fifty cents a bale at New York. Interest on the millions of dollars tied up multiplies at the rate of thousands of dollars a day and, in addition, there is cost of insurance. In the silk trade time literally is money.

"The world's record on the Yokohama-New York silk course was set up a few months ago when the Orient was brought within 13 days, 3 hours and 3 minutes of Manhattan. Laden with $5,500,000 worth of raw silk, the President Jackson made Seattle on the ninth day. A United States mail seaplane met the liner at Victoria and winged its way to Seattle, 106 miles away. It brought port documents and forwarded cargo papers to New York before the President steamship docked.

"Special port forces moved the rich consignment in three hours to a special silk train waiting with steam up. The swift Oriental Limited passenger trains take 70 hours to reach Chicago; the 'reefer' as the silk special is known to railroaders, makes it in 65 hours. Twelve cars were required for the President Jackson cargo. With Queen Silk goes a heavy cordon of train guards armed to the teeth. When the treasure train safely reaches New York the shipment is divided quickly among the consignees for storage in warehouses are dispatched to mills in such famous silk towns as Paterson, New Jersey, or Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

"Few people know when the 'reefer' is on the rails. Like a ship of war, it virtually runs under sealed orders. Railroad divisions seldom know when it is coming or where it is going until it and orders arrive.

"The previous speed record for silk shipments was made when the President Grant landed a $10,000,000 consignment at Seattle. The 'reefer' brought this product of billions of caterpillars into New York in 13 hours 4 hours and 55 minutes out of Yokohama. Night air mail will be a boon to these New York silk merchants. Before silk shipments can be released many papers must be approved and inspected. Seattle has one of the two seaplane mail services in the United States, hence Queen Silk will suffer no embarrassment of delay. Night air mail will hasten dispatch of silk shipment papers to New York so there will be no slip when the dusty 'reefer' reaches the Hudson.

"Although silk culture originated in China and the very name China finds its birth in a term meaning 'silk people,' the United States looks to Japan for most of this raw material. American mills are weaving nearly 50,000,000 pounds of raw silk annually of which about 80 per cent. comes from Japanese mulberry orchards. The ugly little silk worm is treated with great respect in the Orient for it brings to the Far Eastern peoples more than $300,000,000 from the United States alone.

"Queen Silk's throne is as solid as the year it was set up by a Chinese princess, centuries before the birth of Christ. The Western World began to worship her when the crusaders went to the East to kill the horned devils and returned to imitate the fine gentlemen they found there. The merchants of Venice, thriving on the West's new knowledge, like the merchants of New York today, guarded Queen Silk well; this single city-state built 300 men-of-war to convoy its silk fleets."

Stories That Recall Others

Johnny's Idea

Uncle Dick was paying a visit to his brother's house.

"How old are you, Johnny?" he asked in that tone of voice that all true uncles use when speaking to their nephews.

"Six," replied the child.

And what are you going to be when you grow up?

"A soldier," was the answer.

"But," warned Uncle Dick, "if you become a soldier you might get shot to bits."

And who would shoot me?

The enemy.

"Then," replied Johnny with conviction, "I'll be the enemy."

One Was Old Enough

While making a physical examination of the C. M. T. C. boys at camp, the doctor, a major in the medical corps, singled out a lad whose apparent age did not seem to be the required sixteen years. The physician asked the younster his age and received this reply:

Sixteen.

What year were you born? asked the doctor.

"1910," was the reply.

The next day, another youngster was thought to be under age but when he replied that he was born in 1618, the examiners decided that he was old enough to be retained and they passed him.

Both Stuck

A captain and his chief engineer, tired of endlessly debating which the ship could the more easily dispense with, decided to change places for a day. The chief ascended to the bridge and the skipper dived into the engine-room.

"Chief!" he called. "You'll have to come down here at once. I can't make her go."

"Of course you can't," said the chief. "She's ashore."

Radiophony—Plus

When the man took down the telephone receiver there came a noise from the other end of the line that sounded "like a loaded steel road-scraper sliding over gravel.

"What's that, the parrot?" he asked flippantly.

"No, it's the diva. She sings all right, but the radio is out of tune."

A new cook may bring the best of references—but you can't eat them.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
by DAVID CORY

THE ENCHANTED HOUSE

Now, as soon as the wicked Prince turned into a Billy Goat, as I told you in the last story, the spell which hung over the stately house disappeared, and all the little gold fish in the beautiful fountain turned into men and women, as did the birds which sang in the trees and bushes, and the beautiful Peacock changed into a Prince.

"Little comrades, you have rescued me by the magic of your wonderful feather!" cried the grateful prince.

This made Little Jack Rabbit very proud and he said to himself, if he ever saw the little yellow bird again he would give her a little gold ring. And some day I'll tell you how he met the little Yellow Bird again, and how he crossed over a mighty river in a boat with four white ducks.

Well, now that everyone was happy once more and the spell was broken, Little Jack Rabbit said goodbye, but before he went he cautioned the prince about the Billy Goat.

"Be careful that he does you no harm."

"Never fear," replied the Prince with a laugh. "I shall see that this ugly Billy Goat is tied up, and also that a guard is put over him."

After that, Little Jack Rabbit hopped away for he was anxious to have new adventures. By and by, not so very far, he came to an old dead tree on which sat a forlorn crow.

Now the reason this poor old blackbird was so unhappy was because the King of the North Country had commanded that all the crows be painted white, and this old crow didn't want to be white. He had always worn a black suit and he meant to wear one until the end of his days.

"Oh, woe is me, I will not change
My suit of dusty black,
A coat of white would be a sight
Upon an old crow's back."

"I think you are right, Mr. Crow," answered the little bunny boy. "Tell me, where lives such a silly king as would change a crow into a white bird."

But when the crow directed him to the north where the snowflakes grew on icicles and the wind comes out of great holes in the frozen lake, the little bunny boy replied:

"I must have a fur coat if I am to travel so far into a cold country," and he looked about him, but, woodmen knows, and so do you and so do I, there weren't any fur coats to be seen.

Just then, a little brown mink shouted:

"I will give you a fur coat."

Next a blind mole peeped out of his hole in the ground and said, "I will lend you a pair of warm mittens," and, a bright gray squirrel from a treetop cried: "I will give you a fur cap."

And in the next story you shall hear how Little Jack Rabbit said goodbye to the Snow Country.

OBITUARY.

Rosina Sevin Allyn.

Following an illness of three years, the life of Rosina Sevin Allyn came to a close Thursday night at the Norwich tuberculosis sanatorium.

Miss Allyn was born in Bozrah Aug. 17, 1902, the daughter of Mrs. Mabel B. Havens. She attended the public schools and graduated from the Norwich Free Academy and the Chandler Secretarial school of Boston, Mass., where she took high honors. For some time she was employed as head bookkeeper at the Jewett City Grain Co., where she was most efficient and popular. Poor health, however, compelled her to resign her position.

Miss Allyn possessed a pleasing disposition and personality and was highly thought of by all who knew her and in her death a young life filled with promise for the future is terminated. A wide circle of friends are left to mourn her loss and her family has lost a dearly loved one.

Miss Allyn is survived by her mother, Mrs. George Randall Havens, with whom she made her home at 38 Pleasant street, New London, and one step-brother, Carleton H. Havens, and one sister, Miss Loretta Allyn.

Mrs. Michael Connell.

The death of Johanna Connell, widow of Michael Connell, occurred at 3.45 o'clock Friday morning at her home, 30 Pratt street, following an illness of about ten weeks. She was born in County Welford, Ireland, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Keating, and was married 51 years ago in St. Mary's church, Norwich, to Michael Connell, the mass being celebrated by Rev. Daniel Mullin. Most of her life has been spent in Norwich and she was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church parish.

She was a woman of kind and loving disposition and the news of her death came as a shock to her many friends, who expressed sympathy for those left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Felix Keenan, Mrs. James McCarthy, Mrs. John Francis McCarthy and Mrs. John Nagle McCarthy; one son, John W. Connell and a nephew and three nieces of Troy, N. Y. There are also eight grandchildren.

Mrs. Hannah A. Peckham

Following an illness, which confined her to her bed for the past two weeks, the life of Hannah A. Storey, widow of Joseph T. Peckham, came to a close Friday at her home at 21 Hill srteet.

Mrs. Peckham was born in Preston, June 28, 1870, the daughter of Ebenezer and Mary E. Storey, and was united in marriage with Joseph T. Peckham, in Preston, about 21 years ago For many years the deceased was a member of the First Baptist church in this city and took active interest in church work.

She is survived by a son, Joseph Peckham and a daughter, Miss Mary Peckham, both of Norwich; two brothers, Ebenezer Storey of Midway and Thomas W. Storey of Norwich, also two sisters, Lucy A. Nicholson and Mary J. DeWolfe, both of Mohegan.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Charles G. Pierce

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles G. Pierce were held Friday afternoon from her late home on Scotland road, many relatives and friends attending. The floral tributes were most beautiful, a silent testimonial to the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

The service at the house was conducted by Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the Waterford Baptist church, former pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, who also read the committal service at the grave in the family lot in Yantic cemetery. The bearers were Walter M. Cowan, Casper K. Bailey, Frank R. Smith and Frank Davis.

Arrangements were by Church & Allen.

FIRE WARDENS FROM TWO COUNTIES TO GATHER HERE FOR OUTING

Fire wardens from all sections of New London and Windham counties will gather here next Wednesday for a summer outing and instruction meeting at Happyland park, Poquetanuck drawbridge.

Plans are underway to make this outing one of the best ever held and the wardens have been invited to be present with their families.

From 10 until 12 noon a social hour will be enjoyed and the program as announced by the committee includes a feature in an address by Chief Howard L. Stanton, head of the Norwich fire department. Chief Stanton is to discuss different methods of fighting fires. An open forum will follow during which the wardens will discuss the best methods of fighting fires of various types, interest centering on sham-fire fighting, a new method of coping with forest fires, which may be adopted by the wardens.

As an extra feature a tree-felling contest will be held, axes to be furnished by the forestry commission.

C. H. Lathrop, of North Franklin, fire patrol for eastern Connecticut is to give a demonstration of equipment furnished to fire wardens to aid them in their work. The equipment consists of pump, broom and shovel.

Austin F. Hawes, state forest fire warden, expects to be present and will probably speak on the work of the forestry commission of the state.

The outing is the first of its kind to be held in eastern Connecticut by the wardens of both New London and Windham counties.

WILL NAME MAYOR LOCAL DEFENSE COMMITTEE HEAD

Plans for national defense day, Sepemtember 12, in Connecticut in connection with the plan sponsored by the United States war department and President Coolidge were outlined Friday at the first meeting of the committee named by Governor Templeton together with representatives of the church, chambers of commerce and other civic and military bodies, held at Hartford.

Adjutant General George M. Cole of the Connecticut National Guard presided as general chairman.

The following committees were appointed by Gen. Cole to represent the various civic bodies:

Churches, Bishop John J. Nilan of the Hartford diocese of the Catholic church. Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster of the Hartford diocese of the Episcopal church; publicity, Charles Hopkins Clark, Hartford, and Colonel N. G. Osborn, New Haven; manufacturers' associations, chambers of commerce and board of trade, E. Kent Hubbard, Middletown; schools, A. B. Meredith, Hartford; municipalities, Mayor Norman C. Stevens, Hartford; civic clubs, Judge Edward L. Steele, Hartford.

Military brigade, Gen Morris B. Payne, New London; organized reserves, Major William F. Pearson, Hartford; C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C., Maj. John L. Gilson, New Haven; patriotic societies, Capt. Charles W. Newton, Hartford; world war organizations, Capt. E. P. Armstrong, Waterbury; naval militia, Lieut. Commander N. W. Pickering, Ansonia.

It was decided that the observance exercices would be held only in the evening of September 12th so that those participating would not have to be away from their regular occupation during the day. On the evening of September 12 all of the national guard units in the different cities and towns of the state, together with reserve military units the reserve officers' training corps, graduates of the citizens' military training camps, American Legion, Spanish War Veterans and any members of the patriotic societies who wish, will march in parades which are to be held in every city and town.

During the afternoon the school children will observe the day by holding appropriate exercises. Addresses will be delivered to the children by military units who are to be assigned to the different schools throughout the state. Services will be held in the churches throughout the state during the evening so that citizens who are not members of military units can take part in the observance of the day, members of the regular army and officers of the reserve corps will be assigned to every city and town to take charge of any ceremony planned by private citizens. It was decided to appoint the mayors of the cities and the first selectmen of the towns as chairmen of the National Defense Day committees and these chairmen will appoint three residents of the district as assistants. This will give every city and town a defense day committee of four.

LOCAL MOOSE PLAN BAKE LATTER PART OF MONTH

Norwich Lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M., is making plans for a "bake" to be held the last Sunday of the month. The regular meeting of the lodge was held Friday night at the Moose Home with the dictator in the chair. There was a large attendance at the meeting and the special guests included George Blackwell, herder of Hy D Davis Legion No. 8, who gave a short talk on the second degree and its aim. He told of a class of 500 put through the second degree in New York, Tuesday, July 29th.

Reports of the delegates to the supreme convention were heard, the reports showing that the lodge membership has greatly increased. The delegates in their reports called attention to the fact that the report of the supreme secretary showed a net gain of over 100,000 members in all branches of the lodge. The net financial gain for the year was close to four millions of dollars. It was voted to hold the next convention in Baltimore.

At the convention, James J. Davis, secretary of labor and head of the order, described the work that is being done at Moosehaven. The home, he said, was on the west bank of the St. John's river, ten miles from Jacksonville, and had originally been built as a winter hotel It was taken over by the order in 1922 and has been dedicated to the providing of comfort and a congenial environment during their declining years for such dependent members as wish to take advantage of its hospitality. There now are 125 persons at Moosehaven, he said, including sixty married couples. There are no hired employes; each guest contributes his or her share of labor.

Secretary Davis asked that the Penny Fund, through which $228,000 has been already raised for, the support of the Moosehaven home, be increased to "half a million dollars by the time of the next convention."

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF ASSAULTING WOMAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, Aug. 8.—Another legal skirmish was staged at Yeoman's hall, Columbia, tonight, when Jake Kresowitz was charged with assault on Miss Jennie Silverman, 24, of Amston and New York, and was acquitted of the charge after three hours and a half of testifying. The trial, which lasted from 8 o'clock to 11.35 p. m., was attended by nearly 100 people, including cottagers, Columbia townspeople and Willimantic residents. Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins presided over the session and Grand Juror Joseph N. Clarke prosecuted for the state. Attorney T. J. Kelley of this city represented the defendant. The charge against Kresowitz also included the use of vile language.

Jennie Silverman was the star witness for the state. She stated that she worked in New York and spent many week-ends with her brother in Amston. On Sunday, July 27, she and her brother motored to the Topple farm in Columbia and secured permission to pick grapevine leaves. After picking a quantity of leaves they crossed the country road near Topple farm and her brother went into the fields while she remained by the roadside cutting off such leaves as came over a stone wall.

Kresowitz suddenly appeared, according to the witness, calling her a thief, took her wrist and swung her about. He then struck her in the chest and she fell to the ground, where she lay screaming. Her brother came and reprimanded the alleged assaulter, but did not use any vile language nor did he make any show at resenting the act in a fistic manner, according to the testimony.

Silverman stated that he did not know that he was on property not owned by Topple. He admitted trespassing but not doing so intentionally. The defense then called the seven witnesses for that side of the case. On the whole their testimony was corroborated. David Topple and Nathan Topple, joint owners of the farm, said that Silverman had permission to pick leaves on their land. Both testified that Silverman did the swearing and not Kresowitz as previously testified by the plaintiff and her brother. The success of the defense in the case was practically put on ice when the Topples and succeeding witnesses testified that nothing was seen of the Silverman woman until she and her brother were driving away in their car. Rose Bascowitz and Mrs. Anna Rutenberg, both of New York and summer visitors at the Kresowitz place said that they witnessed the argument between Silverman and Kresowitz, the latter telling Silverman that he had no right on his land and Silverman took offense at this and besides using vile language wanted to know that Kresowitz was going to do about it. The defendant then went down the road and took the number of Silverman's automobile and returned to his work in the field. They did not see the girl any time during the argument. Sam Rutenberg, 14, of New York, a visitor, and Joseph Kresowitz, son of the defendant, said that they followed the defendant when he walked over to Silverman to ask him who had given him permission to pick leaves on his land. They were there all the time and did not see the young woman about the place until she was noticed in the back seat of the car as it was being driven off.

Jake Kresowitz denied that he had touched the woman and stated with emphasis that he had not even seen Miss Silverman. Silverman was so abusive that he took the car number with the intention of bringing a trespassing charge, he stated.

Prosecutor Clarke began his argument at 11.15 and was followe a few minutes later by Attorney Kelley.

Fillowing a short rebuttal by Grand Juror Clarke Justice of the Peace Collins expressed his views of the case and then ordered the accused acquitted.

PLAYGROUND CHILDREN HAVE PICNIC AT PARK

In the playground world the events of the past week have been somewhat similar to the rungs of a ladder, said an official o the local playgrounds on Friday. To some this may appear to be a strange comparison, but upon minute observation of the progression of playground activities during the week the similitude is apparent.

No one will deny that the local playgrounds are a blessing to the community. The physical and mental development of the children of the city and their preservation from accident and even death on the traffic infested streets is a task worthy of the highest commendation. It was to demonstrate more forcibly to the local townspeople the advantages the playgrounds offer to their children, and indirectly to themselves, that Supervisor Earl Brigham originated the idea of designating the past five days as Playground Week. It was a series of activities beginning on a small scale, gradually increasing in interest and importance, and culminating Friday in a delightful outing at Mohegan park for the benefit of the eight local playgrounds combined.

Each delegation congregated at its respective playgrounds, and at 9.30 a. m. began the long march to the lake. The stifling heat of the day was sufficient to prevent hundreds of children from taking the jaunt, but to the four hundred and twenty-five little ones who braved the sweltering rays of the sun, it was but a slight detriment to their pleasure. As the eight divisions hiked along on separate by paths, their direction dictated by their gradual merging together, they were as tiny armies hastening to assemble at one given point to form a mighty legion to hurl against the foe.

Upon reaching their destination the tranquil waters of the lake appeared inviting to the larger boys. After sufficient time had elapsed for a proper recuperation from the exhausting effects of the long march, the boys donned bathing suits and soon left the hunfore of the lake.

Even admidst the sequested shade provided by towering hemlocks, the blazing sun buried its burning rays upon the heads of the habituees of the park. An occasional breeze wafted its way through the foliage and served to mitigate to some extent the uncomfortable feeling of oppression which was experienced by instructors and children alike. Due to the excessive heat the instructors deemed it advisable to curtail the more strenuous athletic activities customarily indulged in at their playgrounds. Thus the events of the afternoon were limited to games in which but little exertion is required.

In mid-afternoon, after all had rested and had been perceptibly refreshed by the welcome breeze that had seemingly sprung up from nowhere, girls and boys adjourned to the cove around the bend in the lake, where a nautical meet was conducted. Boys from nearly all the playgrounds participated in every event, and were well rewarded for their efforts by the plaudits of their many female admirers, who occupied points of vantage along the shore. This again the playground demonstrates its value, as it encourages the local youths to acquire the indispensable art of swimming, which may, in some crisis, be the means of saving their own lives or that of another.

Results of the meet follow:

25-yard race (senior boys)—First, J. Shea, Lake street; second, P. Tennant, Greeneville; third, S. Mingo, Lake street; fourth, Ferguson, Greeneville.

35-yard race (intermediate)—First, Budnicki, Greeneville; second, J. Quinn, Greeneville; third, Bailey, of Greeneville.

25-yard race (specially First, Ferguson, Greeneville; second, Mingo, Lake street.

At about 4 o'clock, when the sun had partially sunken beyond the horizon, the picnickers began the homeward journey. By 5 o'clock all had reached their respective playgrounds safely from where, after everyone had agreed that he had thoroughly enjoyed himself despite unfavorable weather conditions, the children departed to their homes to devour a hearty supper.

CANTERBURY YOUNG MEN HAVE ORGANIZED BAND

At Canterbury several of the young men of the neighborhood met at the town hall Thursday evening and organized the Canterbury band. It is about fifteen years since there has been a musical organization in Canterbury, but back in those days there was a very respectable band here. Only a few members of the old band are available for the new organization—most of the members will be beginners—but with the enthusiasm that is evident, and with hard practice, it is hoped to develop a creditable band within a few months.

The president and teacher of the band is Malcolm R. Wibberly; the secretary-treasurer is Fred Sackett. Meetings will be held at the town hall every Thursday evening. There is still opportunity for more members to join, and it is expected that more will avail themselves of the privilege to get musical training.

In the August number of the Woman's Home Companion is an article which will especially interest the many friends of Miss Lucy Baldwin and Mrs. Hadley. Their brother, Abram Baldwin, is a native of Canterbury, and is one of the many who have gone out from this town to exert an influence for good in the newer parts of the country. In his wife he has evidently found a real "help meet." She is doing a wonderful work as will be seen by reading the Companion article which is called "A Friendly Parallel."

At the fifth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters, held in Buffalo in the spring of 1924, a bouquet was given in honor of America's "Twelve Greatest Women," as decided by the vote of the league's membership.

Each of these women has made a notable contribution in her profession or special line of endeavor, to the social, scientific or artistic progress of the country.

Among the twelve are Jane Addams, Carrie Chapman Catt, Minnie Fisk and others not so well known to the general public.

"In comparison to these the Companion presents twelve other women whose efforts may after all be equally important to the nation's welfare, even though these efforts are not of the sort to attract public attention."

Fifth in this list Mrs. Abram Baldwin is mentioned. "Oberon, North Dakota, with 287 inhabitants and no crop for seven years, owes much of its courage to carry on to Mrs. Abram Baldwin. Every two weeks her home is opened to women of the community for a basket picnic. Some of the guests learned to read at these gatherings and all discuss books and world affairs."

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH HERRUPS AGAIN TODAY

The Riverview club of the Norwich State Hospital will meet the Herrupe B. B. C. of Hartford this afternoon on the hospital field. This club played at the hospital several weeks ago and came out on the short end of a 6 to 5 score. They are considered one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in the Capital City and are coming here today determined to take the measure of the local club. Last Saturday found the Riverview club hitting their stride and from all indications they will be in condition to club their way to victory over Taftville in a series which starts Aug. 23rd.

The Riverview club will go to the plate in the following order this afternoon: Belair cf; Nuell cf; Mills 2b; Frechette 1b; Burns ss; Flanagan ss; Laffey lf; Allard c and Pesich p. Ar-

RECORDS BROKEN AT REGATTA OF OARSMEN ON CONNECTICUT RIVER

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 8.—The national amateur rowing championships developed new records for these events in three classes today, one record being broken three times.

The day's races were rowed down stream on the Connecticut river, with an assisting current after a night and a day of arguments, in which the course was changed from downstream to upstream and then to down stream again. The controversy was heated, and accompanied by charges that the hastily called meeting at which the final action was taken was illegal.

With the national single sculls title directly at stake, the default of all previous winners who might defend the oarsmen of this country and Canada who were entered in the three heats of the association singles event went out and gave their best. As a result, all three heats bettered the previous mark, and W. E. Garret Gilmore of the Bachelors' Barge club Philadelphia set the surprising time of seven minutes 9 1-5 seconds for the mile and a quarter distance in winning the third heat.

John Durnan of the Argonaut Rowing club, Toronto, the Canadian champion, was eliminated from further opportunity for the American title when he finished third in this heat; although he was at one time in the lead and Russell Codman, Union Boat club, of Boston, New England titlist qualified by getting second.

Young Algernon Fitzpatrick of the Malta Boat club, Philadelphia had won the first heat in 7 minutes 15 seconds; and A. Volt of the Vesper Boat club, Philadelphia took the second heat in 7 minutes, 18 3-5 seconds The previous record was 7 minutes, 19 2-5 seconds, made at Detroit in 1909, by William Mehrhof of New York, also with an assisting current.

The intermediate double sculls championship was won by Ralph Rolfert and C. Rife of the Bachelors' Barge club, Philadelphia, leading from the start in a race with four other pairs, in the new record time of 6 minutes 45 3-5 seconds; this was six and two-fifths seconds faster than the mark made by the Arundel Boat club's representatives, Stolle and Parker, also at Detroit in 1908.

The third record of the day was that of 7 minutes 24 1-4 seconds for the intermediate singles, made by William Bresnahan of the Springfield Boat club in winning the second heat of the intermediate singles, with Chas. Turner of the Argonauts of Toronto, and two other scullers, astern. He cut 2 1-5 seconds off the former record, another product of the Detroit championships of 1909, held by E. B Butler of the Argonauts. The final of the intermediate eight oared eights brought from the light crew of the Lachine Rowing club of Lachine, Quebec, a championship effort, although not a record breaking one, that gave them the title and advanced them to the national eight oared championship with the Argonauts, Canadian titlists the Undine Barge club of Philadelphia last year's American champions. Lachine's time was six minutes five seconds, in a race in which they led all the way, with the New York A. C. crew second.

GIANTS TAKE AN EASY GAME FROM REDS

New York, Aug. 8.—The New York Giants broke Cincinnati's winning streak here today, taking an easy victory from the Red by a score of 8 to 3. Benton was knocked out in four innings, but the Giants continued piling up runs o Sheehan.

Barnes pitched a strong game for New York until the ninth, when a fumble by Terry paved the way for three Cincinnati runs. Score:

TRAYNOR'S HOMER BREAKS UP PITCHING DUEL

Philadelphia, Pa., August 8.—A home run over the right field by "Pie" Traynor in the eighth inning gave Lee "Spec" Meadows the best of a hurling argument with "Jimmy" Ring today. This titanic wallop resulted in the only run of the fray, the Pirates winning by the score of one to nothing. Both pitchers worked fast and the fielding of both supporting casts was faultless. It was one of the fastest played games of the season in the local park and required but 17 minutes over the even hour to complete. Score:

HOME RUNS FEATURE CARDS-DODGERS GAME

Brooklyn, Aug. 8.—Brooklyn won the first game of the series from St. Louis today by 11 to 9. Sothoron allowed 8 runs in the fifth inning when Fournier hit a home run with two on bases, five other hits, Smith's two base muff, and a base on balls. Bottomley hit a homer to center off Doak in the sixth with Hornsby on base. In the ninth Bottomley's low liner bounded off Neis' glove into the stand for a homer. Blades hit a homer off Decatur in the eighth. Fournier's home run was his 23rd of the season. Score:

MOOSUP TEAM PLAYS AT ANTHONY, R. I. SUNDAY

The fast Moosup aggregation will clash with Natick Hustlers again Sunday at Anthony, R. I. These two teams played a twelve-inning tie at Anthony last Sunday, the Rhode Island Sunday baseball law calling a halt on as close a battle as has been played this season. As last Sunday's game was a tie Natick and Moosup will again engage in battle Sunday, it being part of a 2 in 3 series between these clubs.

The Natick Hustlers are champions of the Pawtuxet Valley league, holding this coveted title for the past seven years.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain, New York Giants

Eighth inning. Two men are out. Runner on second base. Record 9 to 1 in favor of team in the field. The ball is hit to left field.

Where should leftfielder throw the ball?

It is highly important that the leftfielder play the ball to the right man. He should never throw it home but take it to second. If the outfielder threw the ball home, the batter would be sure to make second on the play, then if a runner scored, the tying run would be on second base and the batter at bat be in a position to tie up the game on a hit. Let the runner come in but keep the tying run from reaching second in a situation of this kind.

VELVETMEN CONFIDENT OF BEATING DUWELLS SUNDAY

The J. B. Martin team and its supporters are very confident of beating the Duwell team in the second game of the series to be played at the J. B. Martin grounds on Sunday afternoon. The Tafeville team feels that after their victory last week it will be an easy matter to duplicate this Sunday for they have found that they can hit Daniels.

The Duwells on the other hand are sitting tight and saying nothing although there is every indication that they have no fear of losing Sunday's game. It is reported that several of the East Side fans have collected a bundle of green currency of the country and will show their confidence by risking it on the outcome of the game.

Hardigs Beat Eagles

Friday evening at the Fairgrounds the fast Hardigs trimmed the Eagles 5 to 1 in a six-inning game. Peterson who pitched for the Hardigs was completely masted of the situation allowing Oney's Pets only one scratch hit. The two teams will clash again next Friday evening. Score by innings:

BAY STATE CIRCUIT CLOSES MEET HERE WITH SOME FAST RACING

The Bay State circuit closed its three-day engagement in Norwich on Friday afternoon with a program of fast racing. Although the fields were not large, the racing was good and was featured by some close finishes and fine driving. Two of Ed Butler's horses were driven under the wire winners in two events, Belle at Law winning the 2.14 trot and Lee's Image winning the special sir furiong race. Coastline, piloted by Kingsley, won the 2.17 pace in straight heats, making the best time of the afternoon.

Billy Flemming, driving the Butler entry, Belle at Law, won his fifth race of the meet in the 2.14 trot, but not without stiff opposition from David Shaw (McGrath up) and Dewey the Great (Nickerson up). The McGrath horse took the first heat, but Belle at Law, the favorite, took the next three heats, being pushed hard by th other two horses.

Coastline in winning the 2.17 pace showed plenty of reserve strength when it came to a hard driving finish. Kingsley in all but the second heat got away to a poor start, trailing the field for the first half mile and then driving out and around the field in the last half for a spectacular finish. Coastline received stiff competition from Leaworthy, but the chestnut mare lacked strength to hold her own in the stretch.

Butler drove Lee's Image to a fighting win in the special six furiong race after placing second in the first heat. Lee's Image received plenty of opposition from Jess M., piloted by Kingsley, and several neck and neck finishes featured this event.

MYATT'S HOME RUN IN NINTH WINS FOR INDIANS

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—Glen Myatt's home run, scoring Speaker, who had made his third double of the game, and Joe Sewell, in the ninth inning won today's game for Cleveland from New York by a score of 10 to 3. Myatt's home run was one of five in the game, of which Ruth knocked two for his thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth of the season. Jamieson and Schang also hit for the circuit.

Messenger, the Saginaw recruit, held New York to three hits until the sixth when Ruth made his second home run. Meusel followed with a double and Schange with his homer.

Speaker got five hits, three doubles, in five times up, while Ruth got a triple and two passes besides his home runs, and Myatt a pass, sacrifice, single, double and home run in the same number of times. Score:

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH HERRUPS AGAIN TODAY

The Riverview club of the Norwich State hospital will meet the "Herrups" B. B. C. of Hartford this afternoon on the hospital field. This club played at the hospital several weeks ago and came out on the short end of a 4-0 score. They are considered one of the fastest semi-pro clubs in the Capitol City and are coming here today determined to take the measure of the local club. Last Saturday found the Riverview club hitting their stride and from all indications they will be in condition to club their way to victory over Taftville in a series which starts Aug. 23rd.

The Riverview club will go to the plate in the following order this afternoon: Belair rf; Nosil cf; Mills 3b; Frechette 1b; Burns 2b; Finnegan ss; Laffey lf; Allard c and Posick p. Arthur Couillard is vacationing in Montreal but is expected back next week and on his return to the initial sack Frechette will be shifted to the outfield on account of his hitting ability. Finnegan is a new comer, he is a local boy and the management will give him an opportunity to show his wares in the shortfield.

Manager Bill Donovan is endeavoring to bring the Terminals of Bridgeport to the local park next Saturday and if his plans are successful the fans will have an opportunity to witness the brand of baseball displayed in the industrial league of the Park city. The game this afternoon will start at 2.45 p. m. D. S. T. Moran will hold the indicator.

MUST POST FORFEIT FOR BIG BOUT

New York, Aug. 8.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, and Mickey Walker, holder of the welterweight title, were today instructed by the state athletic commission to post a cash bonds or certified check for $10,000 each as a forfeit fee for the winner of the Walker-Leonard match to meet Dave Shade, California welterweight, in a title match on or before Jan. 1, 1925.

It was further stipulated by the commission that the winner of the Walker-Leonard match could not engage in another bout before meeting Shade and that the same stipulation was made in Shade's case. The match the commission's ruling, anywhere in the United States where decision bouts are legal.

Phil Bernstein, manager of Frankie with Shade can be held, acerding to Genaro, American flyweight champion, came before the commissioner and asked permission to withdraw his his suit against the commission.

Lew Raymond, matchmaker of the Queensboro A. C., and Dan Caplan, manager of Sid Terris, lightweight, settled their differences over the Ray Mitchell bout. Raymond agreeing for the Queensboro A. C. to pay half the expense incurred by Terris in training for this fight. Caplan claimed he was entitled to the forfeit money as Mitchell failed to go on, claiming an injjury to his hand, but a few days later meeting Jack ivic in Philadelphia.

BLOOMFIELD EXPECTS TO BEAT GIBBONS TODAY

London, Aug. 8—Everybody in Great Britain who know anything about boxing, and a good many thousands who pretend they do not ordinarily take any interest in fistic affairs, seem to be greatly excited over the twenty round bout which is to be fought tomorrow afternoon in the great Wembley Stadium by Tom Gibbons, the American light heavyweight, and Jack Bloomfield, the English boxer.

Already 70,000 seats are said to have been sold, and the newspaper prophets expect a crowd of 100,000.

Gibbons, although he is ten years older and three and a half inches shorter than the Briton, still remains the favorite in the betting. The odds on the American, however, which originally were as high as 3 to 1, have steadily shrunk during the past two days.

One thing that has whipped up interest in the bout has been the belief that if Bloomfield should win over the American he will have earned the right to have a chance at Jack Dempsey's title. The sport writers have been hailing Bloomfield as the potential reacuer of his country's sinking prestige in the ring, which some of the people seem to think went down for a second time on the last occasion when Beckett was knocked out by Georges Carpentier. Bloomfield apparently shares in this regard of himself as the possible saviour of Great Britain's boxing prestige. "My last word," he is quoted as having told one of the newspapermen this afternoon, "is that I will fight to my last gasp to retrieve Great Britain's prestige in heavyweight boxing."

Gibbons thus far has refrained from boasting. While loafing today on the eve of the fight he issued a modest statement in which he said that he did not believe in belittling an opponent and praising himself. He was content to say that he was going to try and put an end to the punching in the early rounds of the battle.

AMERICAN LEAGUERS HAVE HIT 350 HOMERS, NATIONAL 296

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Home run hitters of the American League, in individual ability have the edge on their National League rivals for the season, according to figures compiled here and which include Thursday's games. This, despite the fact that the senior organization has a total of 350 homers and the junior circuit 296.

The National League in smashing out its total of four baggers, required the services of 100 players, while the American League's army numbered only seventy-four, giving the junior league sluggers an average of four homers per man, while the average of each player in the older organization is 3.5.

Babe Ruth of the Yankees, who in 1921 established a record of 59 homers, leads and is giving indications of again attaining and perhaps bettering that mark.

At the time the figures were compiled Ruth has clouted 36 homers.

The leading home run clouter in the National League is Jack Fournier, of the Dodgers, who is setting the pace with 22, but the big Frenchman has not been doing so well recently. Behind Fournier are Kelly of the Giants, with 14, Hornsby of the Cardinals with 16, Hartnett of the Cubs with 15 and Williams of the Phillies with 12. Others are strung along with one and two, with a few as high as eight.

The American League boasts only four men having double figures, but their total is far in excess of their National League rivals. Besides Ruth, there is Hauser of the Athletics with 20, Williams of the Browns with 16 and "Baby Doll" Jacobson of the Browns with 15.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

MOTHER'S INFLUENCE SHAPES A BOY'S AMBITION

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY ENVOY

Whose furthest footstep never strayed
Beyond the village of his birth,
Is but a lodger for the night
In this old wayside inn of earth.

Tomorrow he shall take his pack,
And set out for the ways beyond,
On the old trail from star to star,
An alien and a vagabond.

If any record of our names
Be blown about the hills of time,
Let no one slander us in death—
The man of paint, the men of rhyme.

Of all our good, of all our bad,
This one thing is of worth—
We held the league of heart to heart
The only purpose of the earth.
—Richard Hovey.

HEART'S CONTENT

"A sail! A sail! Oh, whence away,
And whither, o'er the foam?
Good skipper mariner, we pray,
God speed you safely home!"
"Now wish us not so foul a wind,
Until the fair be spent;
For hearth and home we leave behind:
We sail for Heart's Content."

"For Heart's Content! And sail ye so,
With canvas flowing free?
But, pray you, tell us, if we know,
Where may that harbor be?
For we that greet you, worn of time,
Wave-racked, and tempest-rent,
By sun and star, in every clime,
Have searched for Heart's Content.

"In every clime the world around,
The waste of waters o'er;
An El Dorado have we found,
That ne'er was found before.
The isles of spice, the lands of dawn,
Where east and west are blent—
All these our eyes have looked upon,
But where is Heart's Content?

"Oh, turn again, while yet ye may,
And ere the hearths are cold,
And all the embers ashen-gray,
By which ye sat of old.
And dumb in death the loving lips
That mourned as forth we went
To join the fleet of missing ships,
In quest of Heart's Content.

"And seek again the harbor-lights,
Which faithful fingers trim,
Ere yet alike the days and nights
Unto your eyes are dim!
For woe, alas! to those that roam
Till time and tide are spent,
And win no more the port of home—
The only Heart's Content!"

PATIENCE IN TRIALS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I am happy to answer to my "penname" of the roll call. Present. How patient the editor is with such a large crowd of smiling faces as he can picture them in his mind before him as he is calling our pennames. I well remembering answering to my name a different name in the childhood days at school. A small little company it was. It will be soon, maybe very soon with some of us, when our name will be called to meet Him in the air. We will have a new name even then and how many of us can answer present to His call with our faces smiling and happy to meet Him. That will be a much larger crowd, we know not of all the good things and the blessed home He has for those who are His.

I had planned to attend the picnic at Danville Four Corners if I had been more rested from my trip to Attleboro for a week. I think I will have to join club No. 4 as it is nearer for me to go to.

Aunty No. 1—Am sorry to hear of your bad fall and that your hubby is sick. Hope he and you both are better.

Peggy Ann—Have not been huckleberrying yet, so dry, not very good this summer. How hot and very dry it is with no rain here to speak of for a month. Our farm will be a failure this year as it is in a very dry place. But still we have much to be thankful for. Sisters these are trying days with many of us, who have a load on our shoulders we might say, but let us have patience. Yet more patience to keep from saying an unkind word to hubby or the children, when every thing seems to go wrong, just close the lips quick and smile instead. We are all human and if we conquer the old man once it will be easier the second time. How much better are smiles and kind words than strife and tears, which gives us sad heart aches, do they not? We know all things work together for good to them that love God, because He is right by our side every moment and will hear our request. My heart is with every sister who is in sadness this morning.

PREFERS FLORIDA

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: In the one thought expressed in Rural Delivery's letter. I can say, Amen. It is true no place on earth made just right for us all. I had a dear lady friend who with her husband were obliged to go to a warm climate in the winter as the husband was troubled with a cough. Florida near St. Petersburg was usually their choice but I think they also were at Jacksonville much. However, for a change they went to California one winter. But she told me she liked Florida much better, and never would go to California again. So that brings to me the thought expressed by Rural Delivery. I can say from my experience no place on earth can be more beautiful as to climate than the very southern part of Florida in winter, but the warmth which we find begins to come the first of May and earlier the sun is burning hot.

It takes a year to get acclimated. We were there eight months, going from Massachusetts in November and returning June 15. We were glad to see the shade trees and green grass, as in West Palm Beach, Florida, you saw palms of different kinds and Australian pines, all of which give no shade to speak of. White sand everywhere, and you may sweep the art square a dozen times a day and the same amount of sand you sweep up every time. Of course with five of us in the family and neighbors children running in many times a day, you can imagine the amount of sand from the feet brought in. I cannot say from experience I know about California, but I had a friend who went there to be benefited as she had a lung trouble and she told me she tried the interior and so hot and dusty and near the coast damp and foggy. So she found no place like her New England home and she came there, and lived awhile but she said when I called to see her one time that she knew she was no better though the doctors told her she was not so diseased with her lungs, it was her throat. She was glad to know she would pass away in her home with friends and if the climate is the same all the time in California as Rural Delivery has it, I think it must be to him different from my two friends or he may be in an entirely different part of the state. He does not mention in what locality he finds the climate the same the year round. It must be a heaven on earth.

JAMS, JELLIES, MARMALADE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Here are some good recipes for jams jellies and marmalade.

Rhubarb Jam: Chop rhubarb in wooden chopping bowl, measure, use 2 cups sugar, 3 cups chopped rhubarb, mix thoroughly, bringing to boiling point and boil vigorously one minute thoroughly, remove from fire, skim, add 1-2 cup certo, mix boil altogether 1 minute, pour into sterilized glasses.

Prune Jam: Wash and drain 1-2 pound prunes, add 2 1-4 cups water, let stand overnight until softened, bringing to boiling point, cover, simmer one half hour, cool, remove stones, cut prunes in pieces, add grated rine, juice of 1-2 lemon, measure add water to make 2 cups pulp and juice, add 3 cups sugar, stir, boiling point, boil hard for one minute stirring constantly, 1 cup certo mix well, skim and pour into sterilized glasses.

Cherry Jam: Remove stones from cherries, measure, put into saucepan 2 cups cherries, add 2 tablespoons water, stir until boiling, cover and simmer fifteen minutes, add 3 1-4 cups sugar, mix thoroughly, bring to boiling point, boil vigorously one minute, add 1-2 cup certo, mix thoroughly, remove from fire, skim, pour into sterilized glasses.

Huckleberry Jelly: Crush well about 2 quarts berries through a cheese cloth to leave out seeds, shim, put it back into sauce pan, 2 cups sugar, boil till thick, pour into glasses.

Huckleberry Jam: Take one quart berries, cook with 1 cup sugar, little water, have cup water, have cup water, half teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon flour, mix all together, cook 10 to 15 minutes. This is very nice on bread. Children will like it. Cook tomatoes with sugar, thin slices of lemon mix altogether cook 10 to 15 minutes.

Jellied Tomato Conserve — Scald, peel and crush well about 2 1-2 lbs. fully ripe tomatoes, take about 4 cups crushed tomatoes, boil hard without cover for 10 minutes to concentrate pulp, add the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon, measure 3 cups of mixture into large kettle, add sugar, mix well, use hottest fire and stir constantly, boil hard for two minutes, remove from fire, stir in certo, skim, pour quickly. If plain tomato flavor is preferred omit the lemon.

I wish to thank sisters for cards, Foxglove, Calla Lily, Crimson Rambler, Whirlwind. Remember, 10 in all, there are five hundred Corner members.

SOCIAL CORNER HELPFUL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: In answer to my name in the roll call will say that I have enjoyed many pleasant gatherings of the Social Corner, and have found many good recipes and other helpful things in the letters, and am always interested in those describing vacation trips.

Wonder if any of the sisters have read about the Dove tree at Newport, R. I., which stands on the estate of Mrs. Theodore Gibbs and is 30 feet tall. In June the tree bloomed, being the first of its kind to blossom in America. It is a native of China and is said the be one of the handsomest trees when in bloom that exists in all the north temperate regions. The flowers are exceeding unique, having two snow white bracts of unequal size, the larger usually being six inches long by three wide and the smaller three and a half inches by two and a half inches. Sometimes they grow larger and are always pure white when mature. As they are borne on pendulous stalks and respond to the slightest breeze, they often resemble huge butterflies or small doves hovering among the trees.

Best wishes to alid.

PROUD OF CONNECTICUT

Dear Editor of the Social Corner—Please accept my thanks for the check which I received upon my return from a delightful vacation.

The vacation was refreshing to mind and restful to body and imparted new vim and enthusiasm for work. Whether we motored by the sea, through hilly town or country, we were impressed by the varied industries and products of our state. It's mills, shops and factories turn out some of the best mechanics tools made in the country; all kinds of hardware, silver ware, brass articles, plumbers supplies, watches, clocks, buttons, pins, lamps, bells, toys, fine cutlery, all kinds of rubber goods from the tiny rubber band to the heavy auto tire, rubber boots overshoes and surgical supplies, sportsmans supplies, paper and paper boxes, pianos, pipe organs, typewriters, electric appliances of many kinds, revolvers, rifles, ammunition, fire works, fuse, oxygen, enamel ware, cotton goods, woolen goods, silk and velvet blocks, lumber, wire fencing, stoves, phonographs, radio sets, bicycles, wagons, automobiles and ships, and almost innumerable other articles.

Its dairy farms produce immense quantities of milk which supply our own and Rhode Island cities. We saw several trucks carrying nearly one hundred and forty quart cans of milk to Hartford daily. The truck farms, though often small practice intensive farming, raising two and three crops of garden stuff which finds ready sale in the nearby cities. Eggs and poultry are also important food products. The rich tobacco farms of the Connecticut and Farmington river valleys are highly productive and furnish employment nearly the entire year to large numbers of skilled and unskilled workers. As we traveled through the state we could not help noticing the spirit, of thrift, and prosperity evidenced on all sides by recently repaired homes, surrounded by neat well kept lawns. Our cities and towns have many fine new school houses. We have reason to be proud of our educational facilities as we remember our time honored Yale and Wesleyan and Trinity, also our Agricultural College and College for Women, besides many excellent preparatory schools for both boys and girls. We have many beautiful and impressive churches but the "meeting house" which inspires in me the deepest feeling of thankfulness is the tall spired white pillared meeting house, bequeathed to us by those ancestors of ours who builded so nobly and so well, long years ago. Truly they gave us of their best.

Another thing which impressed us was the fine roads which made possible a trip covering so much of the state and we though whether one wishes to spend their vacation by the sea, by lake or river in country or mountain, we have not to leave our own fair state, for she has them all.

SUCCESS WITH FLOWERS

Dear Sisters: Will write before my name is called and tell you about my flowers. We have lived on rented premises for seven years. But flowers I muse have, so I set out American pillar, hiawatha and thousand beauties, rose bushes, a double syringa and a purple trumpet vine.

My roses were all of them beautiful this year especially the American pillar. The syringa was also much admired, the blossoms being as double as tiny white roses. But my trumpet vine planted about five years ago has never blossomed. Can any one tell why?

I like to have something to watch for when the snow first goes. So usually put out a large bed of early tulips. But last winter the moles got into my bed and I had only two or three blossoms. My Darwins rewarded me later though. There is a pine tree in the yard. So I sent to a company that deals in wild flowers and bought pink and white lady slippers to plant under it with lilies of the valley. I keep geranium plants over winter in the cellar hung roots and all. Have one seven year old double ping that is four feet high and loaded with blossoms. I planted giant riffled petunias and have some odd specimens. Also have some very pretty varieties of coleous I raised from seed. My flower beds look like oasis in a desert, as the grass on the lawn is so dry it snaps when stepped on.

I have a pansy bed with pansies still blossoming fine. I set some purple petuniah at the back of it, and people passing think they are pansies too and remark about their size.

You can imagine that I have carried some water after my days work in the silk mill to keep the flowers alive this year.

I find men are more apt to notice the flowers than women. A party of Armenian men came past the house and they stopped and jabbered about the flowers. Then stepped to the bed and took turns smelling of the heliotrope.

Am always glad to read the letters about flowers.

Best wishes and hoping for rain.

TELLING A SECRET

Dear Social Corner Friends: I want to chat with you a few minutes as this is my first letter. I am not in any way a stranger to the Corner. It is a very welcome visitor at our home. I want to tell you about what Balsam Fir has done. A great surprise to the whole neighborhood. Do you know she was married Aug. 1st? All dolled up in lavender silk and pretty as a picture. Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Swan stood up with her. I had to tell you about it for I know she would not. Her hubby is a very successful farmer.

There was the usual commotion and nine days wonder because she had been in Connecticut visiting and came home and no one knew it. Well there was a seranadehour, deeptoned, tin pans, auto horns, bells—such a pow wow on all sides of the house and raining right down first in many weeks. The house was pretty well crowded when they got inside. There was vocal and instrumental music, story telling and recitations.

Mr. Ed Parker danced a jig, while John Walker gave several readings and Mr. Bill Knights kissed the bride.

Mrs. Raymond Keith played several selections on the piano and lack of time keeps me from going any farther into details.

Among the visitors were some from Boston, North Connay, N. H., Lewiston, Auburn and other places. After an hour of pleasure they all left in a heavy down pour of one of the best rain sto- we have had this summer, wishing the happy pair the best of luck. Wishing the Corner much success, I remain the same.

THE BRIDE GROOM.

ANSWERS THE ROLL CALL

Dear Corner Sisters: I suppose I must answer the roll call as I saw my name in the line last week but as there was a slight misprint some folks would think it read Mr. of Green Gables but I knew it means Ma. It is pretty hot weather to write and hard work to keep any agreeable thoughts about ones self. We are hoping and longing for a rain, we have had none for so long. I am working hard to keep my few flowers alive. I think as Blue Bird does old fashion ones are the best, seem to stand the weather so much better. We water with the hose every night, but it is not like rain and I keep a pail handy and all the water we wash our hands and vegetables and rinse things in I turn into that pail and you will be surprised how soon it fills up and saves some little plant for a few days. I am going to see Blue Bird and beg or buy a root of all her old fashioned flowers, she is good hearted I know. She has done so well writing for the Corner lately I know she is feeling well, so will ask her soon. I am at home all summer, the first time in several years and I don't know but I am just as well off as I would be going away for a few weeks for it makes work before you go and more when you come back but still it makes a change and that's what we all are looking for. I may go away yet.

Best wishes to all.

MA OF GREENE GABLES.

CHANGES HER PEN NAME

Dear Social Corner Sisters: As it has been a long time since I have written, would like to answer to my name in the roll call. I find that there is another Social Corner member by the same pen name as mine (Marie) so would like to change mine to C. J. H. Annie D. and I attended the Social Corner picnic at Twice Twenty's which we enjoyed very much. Was sorry that Roberta and Curt were unable to attend, also that Viola could not be present as she was so far away. She always enjoyed the social Corner picnics?

Will close with best wishes for the Social Corner sisters.

MARIE.

AT ELIZABETH PARK PICNIC

To the Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: My name has been called and I answer, present.

What a large family we are far and near.

I attended the picnic in Elizabeth park—Marigold and I went together on the train and trolley. We arrived there as the other sisters were finishing their lunch. The new time made us late. After eating we walked through the rose garden, also the hothouse where we saw a pretty little artificial lake with arbors and steps down to the water, a sun dial, little bridges—a work of art. I enjoyed the flowers so much.

About three p. m. cousins called for me with their auto. I went with them to their home in Rocky Hill. I had a fine time there and forgot to come home until Sunday, when they brought me home. While there we attended a play given by the people of the Congregational church. After the play we took a ride to Middletown. Next evening we went to the movies in the Grange hall. Saturday was spent in Hartford seeing the circus parade, lunch at the Colonial Inn, then the movies in the Strand. We had several fine rides in their nice car.

Sunday we attended the M. E. church in Rocky Hill and heard a fine sermon by Rev. Mr. Story. When we returned to our cousins home dinner was done, having been cooked in their fireless cooker. When I arrived home hubby had kept house nicely. I expected to stay home for a while but Monday a friends called and extended an invitation from Mrs. Dimock to join her party and attend lectures at Storrs on Tuesday. The day was perfect and we enjoyed interesting and instructive lectures.

History of Lead Pencils

Perhaps some of you would like to know how we came to have lead pencils.

The lead pencil, the most common of all writing implements, is somewhat over two hundred years old. The term lead pencil, however, is a misnomer, as, in a mineralogical sense, there is not a particle of lead in its composition. The lead pencil originated with the discovery of graphite mines in England, in 1564, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. As graphite so greatly resembles galena, the German name for which was bleiglanz, it was given the name of blei, or lead. In the early days of lead pencil making the graphite was sawed into thin sheets and cut into strips smaller and smaller until they were of a size to be covered with light wooden slips, and thus serve as pencils. The first pencils created much excitement. The graphite mines of England were considered of inestimable value, and were protected by law. But there was great waste, first in digging, the manner of cutting the graphite, which was so crude that half the material was lost. So a finding substance had to be invented. Blue gum, isinglass and other substances were tried, but the graphite was only rendered hard and brittle and of uneven hardness. Its marks were faint and indistinct, and in those days if the point broke it was quite an undertaking to sharpen it again. First the wood had to be cut away and the graphite heated over a light to soften it, after which it was drawn to a point with the fingers. In 1790, Conte, a Frenchmen, came on the idea of using pulverized graphite and finding clay. This discovery resulted in pencils of varying hardness, according to the amount of binding clay added, and each pencil was of exactly the same hardness throughout its length. Soon after this discovery improvements followed in mixing, rolling and sharpening the graphite composition, which was cut into lengths, placed in a warm oven to harden, and finally incased in wood, as seen today.

Wish best wishes for our Corner.

MARY FRANCE.

HER MOTHER'S LETTER.

Social Corner and Editor: It would not be right for me to say Dear S. C. Sisters for I am not one of you, but I have a letter left for you by my dear mother, who left me July 13th for a far more happy place than this old earth of ours. I do not feel that I can take much of your time or space but I want to say just this, that those of you who have had the same loss know just how big a place a mother left for you . . . . . mother fills and how empty the heart and home are when the best friend a man or woman has passes to the great beyond us. Will now write the letter mother left for you all she loved to read your letters so much and had such a nice time the once she met with you. I should have sent it before but I could not write it hurs me so to go through her papers.

Yours,

WINNIE'S YOUNGEST.

Winnie's Last Letter.

Dear Social Corner and Editor: Well I begin to feel the Corner fever again and want to write you a few words. First I want to tell Rural Auntie that I had some good time at her picnic, the dinner, ice cream, and entertainment were all fine and I saw friends I have not seen for eight years. Shall take my little book next time. I took some names this time, it is so nice when you read a letter to know who is who. I have been away visiting, went to Canterbury to see Gramp, he was going to write a letter to our S. C., but I have not seen it. What is the reason Gramp? He took men to ride while I was there up to Westminster, we went past your home, Iola, but your beautiful flowers are all gone that you used to have when you were there and gave a certain young man a button hole bouquet to wear to church. Doctor Green's old place was the only one that looked the way it used to. After visiting C., I went to Mystic and spent a week. The good old times I had there, don't think I am a pig, but I ate peas there with my fingers, Perry can tell you that they were peas, wasn't they, Perry?

I was to have joined Etta Barber's club, but now I want to join Rural Auntie's, if she has good luck to get one started. Am looking forward to the picnic in September.

Best wishes to all.

WINNIE.

FIXING OVER A ROOM

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Many people in doing over a room start out with a fixed determination that they want a certain color, a certain kind of wall paper, a certain color woodwork. They decide upon these important questions, with no thought of the exposure of the room, the height of the ceiling or the shape of the room. Manifestly, a room facing the north needs a warmer, brighter wall than a room facing the south. A cold blue is ludicrous and forbidding in a north room while it might be delightful in a southern room. On the other hand certain shades of red would be charming in a northern room, while the glare would unendurable in a southern room.

A high ceiling which is a good thing in a room from the standpoint of ventilation become a cheerless element if you add to its height by using striped wall covering. If there are many doors and windows stripes are distrubing. For the same reason, a paper with very large motifs would be extremely bad as the architecture of the room would be continually cutting from them and leaving them in weird shapes, far from the original design. I know a great many have said to me, well, about my walls? I tell them to think of their walls as a back ground and merely as parts of the whole effect, not as separate and distinct entities and to be careful and select something they would not tire of.

I answer so many letters concerning fixing over rooms that I thought this might help a little. No; like the peddler trying to sell some new helps such as self raising umbrellas, she said she had no use for them, she couldn't use anything like that. Then he wanted to sell her self raising window shades. "No good here said mammy, dey ain't any windows wuff talkin' about; self raising buckwheat? No good to me, we eat corn pone. But mister—

If you'll tell me how to tuhn dese hear fohteen chillun into self raisin pickaninnies, ah'll be you frien foh life, dat ah will, sah.

So if I could tell you how to raise the materials to do all this with it would be more help to you all.

ENLARGING A CORSET

Dear Sisters and Friends of the Social Corner: Greetings and good wishes to all. As this is a woman's page although I notice that we have recently attained a brother named Uncle Henry; to him I send special greeting and hope we may have other brothers in the near future. We find so many matters pertaining to womans work and lives and so much to learn from the different subjects that perhaps the subject here in may meet the needs and wishes of the numerous family. Just recently one sister wrote how to repair silk stockings, which I think was a fine idea. As corsets are expensive as well as silk stockings it occurred to me why not tell my experience.

Formerly women wore tight fitted waists and so had small waistmeasures but the present fashion makes for a larger waist measure so I had a corset that had been laid away for some time yet it was in fairly good condition back as I liked. I tried an experiment in improving it which I find a great success. First I bought some stiff belting two inches wide, then just back of the hip base supporter between two groups of stays I folded it and made a straight cut from bottom to top, this left two raw edges. These I bound with bias tape then laying them flat I pinned the belting on the right side up of the corset, having space between them. Then basted the belting firmly down leaving the upper end above the corset which I covered with a piece of embroidery as it makes a good finish also protects the underwear from wearing on the roughness of the belting. The lower end I doubled under and fastened it, then I stitched both edges of the belting twice and finished the top by turning the belting onto the inside of the corset and sewing it by hand and behold I have a very nice fitting corset also a very comfortable one and have saved the price of one for some time.

I have been unable to attend any of the picnics and would like to go to Ocean Beach but as I expect to start on a visit the next day I must forego that trip. I expect to be near Boston and hope I may see some of the National G. A. R. encampment while it is in Boston.

CURING THE CORN

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: My name is not on the roll call but, I want to let you know that A Corn is improving, very much better, thank you. I am trying Kitty Lou's remedy, three drops of cresol is heated and rub in night and morning for six months. That's some time. I am putting in the oil a little powdered salt peter as Lucy Acorn said and really, dear Ma of Green Gables, I believe its going to be a cure for a hard corn. That thing we have heard so many times there was no cure for. You try it too.

Now if I get that corn cured I won't be A Corn anymore but just Thankful You can have your name all to your lonesome, Lucy A Corn. I am glad you want to be acquainted. Lucy A Corn, but I am afraid you wouldn't like me. I think I am like the mountain and distance lends enchantment.

Why doesn't some one answer Anna G and tell her how to keep ants out of the house. The best thing I know is Black Flag, you buy it at the drug store, comes in powder and liquid. I never had the liquid but the powder is good but like curing a corn you have to keep at it. It's not a poison. Now you won't hear from me again for six months, I have a job oiling.

A CORN.

P. S. When the six months are up I will let you know the results. You know Kitty Lou said absolutely that's what I pin my faith to.

MISSES MANY SISTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been some time since I wrote to the Corner, but it is a pleasure for me to answer present at the roll call.

There are so many dear sisters that can not answer present at this roll call. We miss them all so much. We all miss Mandy and Stillwater and Love so much.

I want to thank those who sent me birthday cards. Theoda, my twin sister, Black Eyed Susie, Elenora, So. Aunt Alice, I was delighted to go to Versailles to the picnic, had a very pleasant day.

Lucy Acorn: The tough old hens will be just as good as chickens if they are cooked long enough and those that can not eat the corn from the ear can cut it off.

Please don't send Mr. Acorn away for the day, I have looked for so many letters thas their names have been called in the roll but have not answered.

Best wishes to all.

LIBERTY BELL.

BUILDING AIR CASTLES

I have come to one conclusion after these past months in Air Castle land and that is if each of my air castle girl's were suddenly called upon to select an individual coat of arms, they would rise to view with startling unanimity but one heraldic device, a pen rampaux and a bottle of ink in at flord, on a field of gold. Fact is evident that most, if not all, of us have what might be called "leanings" towards the particular form of self expression which send pen and ink outlet and having just finished reading a most engaging and wishful letter from one of our girls—which is after all just an echo of the huge pile preceding it. I feel more than ever convinced the most interesting thing we can write about this week will be this special air castle in which so many of us seeking "to earn money", "board and room." For one letter tells me that Polly wants to write for Publication and so do, Oh! so many other girls whose letters I have with such interest and understanding and what she and they want to know is how they may learn what they write has merit, and what they should do to sell it, and whether amateurs have any chance at all.

I'll begin right at the very last question of all and say amateurs have just the very same chance that the most successful professional had, you she was an amateur once. Just remember that, when you envy some writer in the public eye, she was not born, but made, nature does something for one but hard and persistance fill up the chink. If you want to write then write and keep on writing. There's just as much work about making something of yourself in this line, of course as in any other. We don't expect to be a doctor without training for the profession, or a nurse without serving apprenticeship, nor a stenographer without mastering the mysterious strokes and hooks, dots and dashes, so why a writer without a corresponding period of close. Further as a surgeon cannot perform satisfactory operations without the proper instrument at hand, neither can you expect to be a successful writer unless well equipped with the tools of your chosen trade.

What are they?

Well, first and foremost, words. Look to your vocabulary, enlarge it, enrich it, have it full of delicate shades of meaning, be able always to pluck the one term which shall most aptly picture the thing you have in mind, and to do this, make a business to add to your stock on hand. A pocket sized book of synonymns which you can pull out in the street car; while waiting for an appointment; or while you are lounging on lawn or veranda, is an excellent aid to this end. You can learn a few words a day with scarcely appreciable expenditure of time and effort. You can't write convincingly of life unless you live freely, fully, understandingly, with eyes and ears and heart, open and awake, you can't depict real people unless you are in and of them, unless you study, observe analyze, strive, even to understand; you will not be a success at descriptive until you first learn to observe minutely and remember clearly.

In other words, to be able to give forth to the world you must have your own individual store house to draw from or upon. But such fascinating work as it is, getting crammary full; every day is rich in material, there are people, people, people, all about you, to understand, fathom, to get, wide; there are bits of sky and sea and green grass, open country moonlit roads, sun dappled, leaf-bung county hedgerfrodes to make permanent in roads; there are patches of human history laid bare to you in the lives you touch in fact—life—the things which you seek to write. It is all about you waiting to be captured on the point of your pen. Take it as you find it and show it to us.

One of the letters I received from the girls, was that she wanted to write short stories, for the magazines. She is far from being alone in this desire, but I single her out because she had the good sense to add, "Or would that be attempting to much difficult work at first. I do not seem to have the knack of getting the ideas into readable shape." Would experience in writing overcome this?

When I was a little girl I used to have to write over and over in my rone too tidy copy book the virtuous aphorism Practice Makes Perfect, and that is the answer to this question. Just to know the ingredients which would make a delightfully toothsome cake is not enough. Alas, to produce one, no; it takes practice to make perfect. Practice putting those things together.

So with this, my dear, you should do fragmentary writing for practice in this work putting together bits of description, characters sketches, snatches of conversation, working them over and over, condensing elaborating, paraphrasing, refining until each little attempt almost satisfies her, these not for publication, but merely self training.

I used to write a great many stories. I kept on trying, only every time a story came back I would go over it carefully and critically in an attempt to find a reason. For there was a reason.

I also studied stories of good writers, analyzed them, noted how effects were produced; and strived to get some practice from suggestions from each I read. Then in my next story I used the bits of wisdom I acquired.

You have to keep everlastingly at it.

I will give a little sample of my writing stories. I wrote over fifty before I began sending them in. I sent one of my stories to an author. They said my title was fine and my English was good, some of my sentences she loved, but the skeleton was unclothed. I had ideas enough in that story to write a whole book. I never did any more with that. I have laid it aside. She said my short stories were fine, she did not see why I couldn't sell them. So many I didn't sell during the war I sent a great many over to my nephew so they did some good.

RESPONDS TO ROLL CALL

Dear Social Sisters: Will answer present to the roll call.

Betsy Bray: I was sorry I had forgotten your birthday. I hope you had a pleasant one and more to follow. I have not been to a picnic this summer.

Felix: I hope your sick one is gaining. You have been shut in a long time. I have often thought of you. How many unfortunate ones we have had this summer in our circle.

I was surprised to hear of Aunty No. 1 and her troubles, also Windham Blue Bell, and I hope all will be better soon.

Scottie: Received your card, and I sincerely hope you have a very pleasant vacation.

Mr. G. and yourself hope to see you when you return.

Robin: Where art thou?

Best wishes,

NECIA

GINGERBREAD RECIPE

Mr. Editor: I see by the paper roll call for Norwich Betsy. Today is most to warm to even think of eating. Will send a recipe for.

Old Fashioned Ginger Bread: Take a cup and saucer, take 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons boiling water, 3 tablespoons hot lard, fill cup with molasses. I fill the cup 3 times, 1 teaspoon ginger and mix altogether, flour enough to roll out thin, cut in stripes or round, bake in moderate oven.

NORWICH BETSY.

USES FOR OLD STOCKINGS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What wonderful weather we are having and oh, how much Whirlwind and I wanted to go to Twice Twenty's picnic. It just was not to be for I was sick and unable to drive that far, and Whirlwind had other things to tend to. We do have such good times whenever, and wherever we meet with the Social Cornerites.

We went to Elizabeth Park and met 18 of the other sisters. Such a good time as we did have. You who did not come missed a very fine time. What do you say Olga? We hope all the sisters reached home as safe and happy as we did. Our mother's had planned to go with us but on account of lameness both were very much disappointed. We are hoping to all attend at least one more picnic before the summer is over.

I met two or three new ones at Elizabeth park, Wee Wee. Hope Cobweb and Wisteria. I was indeed glad to meet you all. Pricilla, Jennie and Olive, if the good Lord is willing you shall all go to Willimantic with Whirlwind and I before long. Will let you know just when a little later.

Twice Twenty: I was very very sorry not to come to your house but cheer up maybe the next time.

Joan, Dom Pedro, Balsam Fir and Cretja: Don't think I have forgotten you for I have not. I think of and speak of you often. I have my mother here with me, (she has just joined us as Foxglove's Mother) and also been sick or rather just miserable so have not written to the sisters as I should. If there are any sisters who have a birthday in July and I over looked them while sending cards, its because I have not as yet got your names in my Social Corner book. Happy birthday to you all just the same.

Now I am going to tell you of a few ways I use old stockings. Probably some of the older housekeepers know lots more about it than I do. Nevertheless maybe some of the newer ones can get a helpful hint.

Take one stocking leg and put several more inside and make a pad to wipe off the kitchen stove, by putting your hand in the leg, placing the pad in the hand, it keeps your hand clean and gives the stove a good luster. Also when you get a new broom soak it in your wash suds for a few minutes, take the leg of a stocking and slip over the broom about half way up, tie around the handle near the broom part, this keeps the broom from breaking off where its stitched through the center. I also take stocking legs for dusters, (after I have cut them open). I dust walls by useing them over my broom. I dust my floors, furniture and car, especially the isle ones make good soft dusters. I make beautiful bags for the neighbors kiddies for they don't get dirty so quickly, cut them up for rags, use them to put bits of papers, odds and ends, etc., in, and in the winter, when I hang out my clothes or go out to feed chickens I cut the feet out of (or use feet and all if they are too old to darn) a pair of the heaviest ones and draw them on over my shoes, put my rubbers on and out into the snow I go. When I come in off come rubbers and stockings and my shoes and legs are dry. There are many other ways to use old stockings which perhaps some of you know, that would be new to me.

I do enjoy my Social Corner news and find lots of help for the house and lots of helps or the mind as well as body. I would ask that the picnic meetings be put in the paper the week before as Whirlwind does not get her paper till Wednesday morning and I get mine at night the day of the picnics. You see we both take the Courier. If Twice Twenty had not written Whirlwind about the picnic in Elizabeth park we would not have known it till Wednesday night after it was all over. We would not have missed it for anything and I'll say we had, a dandy time. Priscilla how did the pictures come out? I told the sisters I would have been very much "peeved" had we not known about that picnic and read in the paper about it after it was all over.

Now if its not asking too much will the sisters try and have the notice of picnics put in the paper a week ahead so Whirlwind and I can plan for them. We missed several just on that account. There I guess I have written a plenty for this time, but its such a wonderful morning and so cool here on my veranda, I just felt like writting and so you sisters were the victims. Will run along and iron even if it is only 10 o'clock Monday Morning for I was up before five this morning.

Savilla: Did you get my card?

Best wishes to you all.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY OF MRS. SPINK

Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Full Credit

Minnesota Junction, Wis.—"I was under treatment, but nothing seemed to help me, and I was run-down and so weak that I had to remain in bed much of the time and was like an invalid. I had pains in my abdomen and in the female organs, and my stomach bothered me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised, thought it must be good, and brought it home to me and advised me to try it. After taking one bottle I was able to eat, and after six bottles I was doing my own work, which I hadn't been able to do for years. I have a new baby who is doing nicely, and I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and feeling better than I have for four years. The medicine is surely wonderful and a good thing to have in the house."—Mrs. George Spink, Minnesota Junction, Wisconsin.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of the Compound reports 98 per cent. benefited.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Boat races on the Thames, both in this city and in New London afforded opportunity for sporting people of both cities to enjoy themselves a half century ago this week. The Murphy brothers of Norwich went down to defeat to the surprise of their many friends.

Serious fires with heavy damages swept nearby towns and two large mills were totally destroyed with a total loss of about $80,000 about half covered by insurance.

Other items picked from the columns of the Bulletin of 1874 are in part as follows:

Monday, August 3, 1874—The new patented pill box, invented by Dr. C. F. E. Blood of New London has been seen by local doctors and pronounced one of the neatest little boxes they have ever seen. It is opened and closed by a most convenient and simple device, merely turning an encircling label to the right or left.

William H. Shields, clerk of the new city court, has just been furnished with a new criminal record book. The book is from the bindery of C. A. Burnham and in style and general finish is decidingly recherche.

Arrangements are being made to raise to old fashioned dwelling house on the south side of Little Water street, for the purpose of constructing beneath it, two or three stores. At the opening of the present century the dwelling was one of the finest private residences in the city, the property facing down Water stret then being known as The Landing. At that time it was the home of Levi Huntington, then one of the leading merchants of Norwich. He had occupied another dwelling which stood on the site of the present building, and which was destroyed in the great fire of Norwich, 1793. This was one of the most destructive fires that ever occurred in Norwich, the First Congrerational church erected in the Landing and fourteen other buildings being consumed. After the decease of Mr. Huntington the property passed into the hands of Capt. Ralph Bolles and was kept as a first class tavern until 40 years ago, when smaller buildings erected on the street destroyed its value as a hotel. Later it became a tenement house and lager saloon. We trust that the new changes will improve the appearance of the street on which it is located.

Tuesday, August 4, 1874—The city meeting yesterday for the choice of a mayor passed off with the usual quietude, characteristic of an election when the sentiment of the people is unanimous in one direction. So popular was the late incumbent of the office that only one ticket appeared in the field, this bearing his name. There were 414 votes cast in all, and James Lloyd Greene received 408 votes, six being scattered.

Three young men who are down in Maine on a fishing trip are having fine luck. Two days fishing netted them 255 trout averaging in weight from one pound to two and one half pounds.

Daniel KKraus & Co. of New York opened the new Main street clothing house Saturday evening with a very brilliant display. They have one of the best stores in the city and start our under most favorable conditions.

Employes of the Norwich & Worcester railroad with their families or friends are outing at Rocky Point vesterday. Three hundred excursionists took the route, in four special cars. The members were loud in their praise of Superintendent Anderson who ordered a special car for the occasion and saw to it that everyone had a good time.

Wednesday, August 5, 1874—Yesterday afternoon a fire broke out in the [illegible] one of the old Dexter Mill, now owned by A & W Potter, at Bozrah. The building was an old one and the flames spread rapidly to [illegible] of the mill. Hardly a half hour after the fire broke out, only the walls remained and most of the [illegible] was destroyed. The loss is very heavy, amounting to not less than $70,000 on which there is insurance of $40,000. About 100 [illegible] have been thrown out of work but it is expected that immediate steps will be taken to rebuild as big orders are ahead of the company.

Preston has called a meeting to select a committee on street lights, feeling that the gallant town has been in darkness for a sufficient length of time.

William H. Chapman has handed the Bulletin a famously large egg. Large. We should say it was for it covers a space four feet in diameter on the editorial room floor. Mr Chapman claims that the egg formerly measured 6 1-2 by 8 1-2 inches, but we shall never know how it is ourselves.

George A. Kies had returned from Europe where he has been engaged for the past year in musical studies.

Two large dredging machines are busy at the new pier at east New London and the work is going ahead favorably.

Thursday, August 6, 1874—The Arctic Baseball club having reorganized with the following nine men are looking for games with other amateur teams in the state: Miner, c; Hanlin, p; Brand, 1st; Burgoree, 2nd; Marks, 3d; Connors, ss; Ritchie, lf; Jennings, cf; Hedge, rf. Thomas Shannon, president; Edgar Ritchie, secretary; William Jennings, treasurer; C. Brand, captain.

The first frost of the season was noted Tuesday morning on the line of the New London Northern road, just below South Windham.

Cottrell & Gallups planing mill in Mystic was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The building was built in 1872 and cost $900. The loss of the plant will spur on the fire committee of Mystic in purchasing a new fire engine.

Friday, August 7, 1874—At a meeting of the Norwich & New York Transportation company, held yesterday at Worcester, Mass., Julius Webb tendered his resignation as general manager of the company. At the urgent request of the board Mr. Webb consented to remain in office for a few months. The traveling public will regret to see him leave the company.

A party of East Great Plain people made a trip to Gardner lake yesterday and spent the day in boating and sailing. Upon their return they paraded and sang for the benefit of those who had remained at home.

The yacht squadron arrived at New London yesterday and came to anchor below the Pequot house in regular order. A meeting was held aboard the Dauntless and a race arranged for around Cornfield light for a prize of $500. The commodore declined the race and the fleet will start for Newport today.

Four black bass averaging three pounds each were taken from the Shetucket river, near the Water Power company, yesterday.

Saturday, August 8, 1874—The boat race on the Thames last evening between the Murphy Bros. and Burke and Connell was one of the most interesting and exciting incidents of the summer. The Murphies, as usual, made a bold dash ad were soon three lengths in the lead. When the boats passed the coal pockets Burke and Connell were so far behind that bets of $25 to $5 on the foremost crew could find no takers. When the two boats hove in sight again it was seen that the coal heavers were in the lead and they crossed the finish line a length and a half ahead of the Murphies. The two mile course being made in 17 minutes 14 1-2 seconds. Fifty dollars was the prize for the winners.

Huckleberries are selling at the door for 9 cents and blackberries for 12 cents and both are plentiful.

The new church of the Zion society on Franklin street is ready for inside work. It will soon be completed.

Grass is sprouting up between the cobblestones on West Main street and if things are not changed soon the department will be compelled to use a cutting machine there in the near future.

HAS ESCAPED 28 TIMES FROM NORWICH HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 8.—Edward Sturgess, 19, of Bridgeport, who escaped from Norwich State hospital several days ago, was taken into custody last night by Patrolman Charles Hammond and later in the evening Sturgess was taken back to the retreat by Superintendent Wilcox. Sturgess was observed entering the B. P. Learned mission by Patrolman Hammond and was immediately apprehended. Sturgess declared that he had made his escape from the hospital 28 times and that he would continue to endeavor to obtain his freedom.

STATE TREAS. GILPATRIC PROMOTER OF OIL FURNACE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Aug. 8.—G. Harold Gilpatric, state treasurer who made an effort to commit suicide at Putnam yesterday, was well known in this city, where he was promoting an oil burning furnace. It is known that the enterprise was not successful in New London, but it is not claimed that this fact had anything to do with his desire to put an end to his existence. Mr. Gilpatric was a candidate for the renomination for the office of state treasurer and so is Ernest E. Rogers of New London. Mr. Gilpatric will not now aspire to a renomination in the event that his life is spared, an outcome that is very much in doubt, according to his friends here. The information that Mr. Gilpatric had sought to end his life was a great surprise to local friends. He was in good spirits when he was last in New London and seemed to find as much pleasure in life as men in general find in it.

Joseph Gordon will come before the police court tomorrow charged with the embezzlement of $160 from wholesale fruit dealers on Bank street, by whom he was employed as a delivery clerk with the privilege of collecting. Gordon is charged with collecting and giving receipts to a man in Groton, named McPhail, from whom he received cash for the articles which he delivered. It is also claimed that he made other collections and did not account for the money. The receipts in the McPhail case disclose that Gordon collected the money for the goods he delivered there. They are the printed delivery slips of the dealers on Bank street and they are signed with Gordon's initials.

An automobile truck of the Howard Street Coal company became ablaze at 2 yesterday. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and on the arrival of the firement the blaze was extinguished with chemicals. The fire originated from a short circuit.

Louis Walz, of Norwich, Frederick Douglass, Waterford, Walter Reed, Niantic, Mrs. Richard Bethel, Pequot avenue and Mrs. Isadore Levine and infant son, Connecticut avenue, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital today.

Miss Rosina Sevie Allyn, 21, daughter of Mrs. Mabel B. Havens, of West Pleasant street, died last night at the Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, where she had been under treatment some time. Miss Allyn who formerly resided in Norwich besides her mother, is survived by a sister, Miss Loretta Allyn and by a stepbrother, Charleton H. Havens, both of New London.

The automobile owned and driven by Ellery Thomas, of 265 Capital avenue struck a dog on that thoroughfare today, the animal suffering the fracture of both hind legs. The animal was taken to a veterinary hospital and was put out of misery.

The police last night received a telephone call that a mad dog was roaming the neighborhood of Hill street. Patrolman George Laboue was assigned to the case and the dog was reported to be terrorizing the residents of the locality. It was found that a puppy was in a fit, the animal was taken in charge by Warden Sweeney.

The operators license of F. Wekerle, 2d, hackney plate which was suspended yesterday by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, was returned to the owner today.

The employees of the city in one municipal building together with members of the city council, will have an outing at Red Top tomorrow afternoon. The young men and young women employees and the councilors will go to the Harvard training quarters shortly after 12 o'clock for diversion and feasting. A clam bake will be served at 4 o'clock by Fire Chief Charles Rose.

Two trolley cars of the Connecticut company were in a head-on collision tonight on Broad street, the cars, one a heavy double truck Post Hill bound car and the other a cemetery line car of the one-man type, bound to the State street terminal, coming together with considerable force, sufficiently so as to completely cripple the smaller car. None of the passengers of the double truck car were injured, but the majority of the passengers of the one-man car were bruised and suffered from shock.

The double truck car, in charge of Motorman Sherrett and Conductor Briggs left the parade at 5.45 o'clock and the cemetery line car, in charge of Motorman Flynn, left from Cedar Grove cemetery for the terminal at the same time. The larger of the cars with many passengers, had but made the grade of Broad street and was rounding the curve at the corner of Hempstead when the smaller car appeared. Both motormen applied their brakes, but before the speed of either car had been materially reduced the cars came together with a crash. The entire front end of the smaller car was crushed, and it was put out of business, being towed to the barn on Montauk avenue.

Each crew blames the other for the accident. Motorman Sherrett declared that when he passed the corner of State and Washington streets, the block signal indicated that he had a clear track, while Motorman Flynn asserts that when his car reached Broad and Williams street, the signal was set to indicate that there was no car in the block. An investigation will be conducted to determine which motorman ran the signal and was responsible for the crash. Both Sherrett and Flynn declare that they have several witnesses to corroborate their respective statements that they had a signal for a clear track.

Tomorrow will be the final day in which candidates for election at the annual city election next month will be able to file nominating petitions. To date seven petitions have been filed at the office of City Clerk Julian D. Morgan for the office of councilor. They are Mayor Malcolm M. Scott, Maurice E. Sherman, a former alderman, John F. Murray, at present a member of the council, Albert C. Woodruff, Mrs. Annie C. S. Fenner and Mrs. Emily C. Spiers. Mayor Scott and Mr. Murray are seeking reelection, while Mr. Streeter, Mrs. Fenner and Mrs. Spiers have been defeated at the polls for the office they now seek. The petition of Mrs. Spiers may be invalidated because, it is believed that all of the necessary number of signers are not registered voters, according to the city's voting list. If this turns out to be the case, Mrs. Spiers' petition will be thrown out.

Thomas Grogan, a member of the council at present, it is understood, is in a receptive mood for reelection and it would not be surprising if his petition was filed during Saturday. The other member of the council, whose office will expire Oct. 1, is Clarence W. Thompson, but he refuses to consider another term in office.

Meyer H. Hollandersky, who served a term as alderman, is also understood to seek election to the council and to obtained a nominating petition several days ago, so it would not be surprising if Mr. Hollanderskys nomination was filed during tomorrow.

The candidates seeking the office of member of the board of school visitors numbers three, Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson and Mrs. Nellie Kelley, whose terms of office expire, and Percy C. Eggleston.

Four candidates seek election as selectmen. The office of the present board, Lawrence S. M. Cook, George Goss and William L. White, will expire October 1st and each seeks reelection, while George Haven, former captain of police and for two years sealer of weights and measures, also seeks election. The petitions of Messrs. Goss, White and Haven have been filed and it is understood that Mr. Cook's petition will be filed Saturday.

Mrs. Harold Holloway, an infant son, of 164 Willetts avenue, patients at Home Memorial hospital, returned to their home today.

Mrs. John Sullivan, 68 Jay street, suffered the amputation of a portion of her left thumb at Lawrence hospital this morning as a result of that member being crushed in an electric washing machine that she was using at her home. The machine had been in operation but a short time when Mrs. Sullivan's fingers became caught in a part of the device and the thumb was terribly lacerated when she obtained assistance from other members of the household. The woman was given emergency treatment and then was transferred to the hospital where it became necessary to amputate the thumb at the first joint.

Arrangements have been completed for holding the annual picnic of the Thames club. The affair will take place at the Harvard training quarters on the Thames river Wednesday, the 20th. The event has been held there several years. A clam bake will conclude the day's festivities.

John Duffy, janitor at the municipal buildings, returned to his home on Starr street, this evening after having spent a week with relatives in Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y.

Miss Mary Grint, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Poole Grint, formerly of New London, at which time Rev. Mr. Grint was rector of St. James Episcopal church, now of Warwick Neck, is the guest of E. Clinton and Arthur S. Winchester of the Hotel Mohican apartments.

Misses Catherine, Margaret and Elizabeth Roche, and Miss Bernice Ficcard, Fitchburg, Mass., are visiting their cousin, Miss Mazie McGarry, 264 Broad street, over the week-end.

An automobile owned by John Denig, of the submarine base, and operated by Mrs. Denig, and a machine, owned and driven by John Morgan, Poquonoc road, were in collision this morning on Thames street, north of Ferry street, Groton. Neither car was damaged of consequence. The machines were traveling in opposite directions and collided when they became wedged in traffic.

Patrolman James McKenna is confined to his home on Riverview avenue as a result of blood-poisoning of the hand.

Stephen Sawicky, Edward Christian and Joseph J. Brady, all of New Haven, were taken into custody this afternoon, in a restaurant near the union station, by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Capt. Edward Kelly and Sergeant Martin Kane, the two last named of the force of special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, charged with train riding. They will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. The trio were observed as they alighted from a freight train and when taken into custody Brady displayed an inclination to resist. The twisters were applied to the fellow and that took all the fight out of him.

Three youths were taken into custody last Saturday evening when found in a barn on Main street and believed to be in the act of performing an "operation" on an eight-year-old Polish youth, following their reading and witnessing newspaper pictures of the trial in connection with the murder of Franks, Chicago boy. Their cases were continued in the juvenile court today. The youths admitted that they intended to "operate" and it was for that purpose that they forced the boy to enter the barn. The Polish child had been playing near the G. G. Avery & Son barn when he was set upon by the trio of older boys. He was hustled to the barn and a companion of the Polish youth rushed to the home of the latter and made known what had occurred. The mother of the imprisoned boy hurried to the police station and lodged a complaint. When Patrolman Clarence Martin reached the barn he found the Polish youth stripped and lying on a table. A gas had been placed over the youth's mouth to prevent him from making an outcry and the three older youths were applying wagon grease on the victim's body, in a manner the same as the face is greased when physicians administer an anaesthetic. When inquiry was made by the officer as to what they intended to do with their subject the youths declared that they were going to perform an operation.

Carl Esposito, proprietor of the Bellevue hotel and restaurant, who was burned out a week ago in the building owned by Vogt and Fuchs, the latter of Norwich, has settled for his damage with the insurance people but he will not reenter the business he has heretofore conducted. He says his insurance money will not refit his place. He is to rest for a month or more and then will decide whether he will engage in any business.

JEWETT CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Maul of Millville, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. William Maul of Chestertown, Md., have been visiting at the home of R. W. Robertson.

The district nurse, Miss Alice Brennan, will spend a month's vacation in Providence. Miss Julia Lee, R. N., of Plainfield, will substitute during Miss Brennan's vacation. Calls for the nurse are to be sent to 621-4, Miss Brennan's home, as usual.

Miss Kitty Callahan of New York is visiting her niece, Mrs. James McCusker, of Tracy avenue.

The G. T. C. club held a picnic at Elm Tree camp on Dorrville road recently, the guests of Mrs. John Medick and Mrs. Adhemard LaBarre. Tables for supper were spread in the shade of the big elm, with a most appetizing menu of clam chowder, clam fritters, sweet corn, tomato salad, rolls, peaches, canteloupe, cake and coffee. After supper there were games and songs and late in the evening there was a hot dog roast. The singing of America closed the good time. Others present were Mrs. Edw. Rousseau, Mrs. George Rocheleau, Myrtle LaBarre and Mrs. Ernest Benjamin.

Four-room tenement to let. Edw. Blanchard. Phone 156.—adv.

Mrs. James McCusker gave a party Wednesday for her little son Richard on his fifth birthday. The children spent a delightful afternoon and were served cake, fancy cookies, ice cream and orange punch. Those invited were Ida and Lillian Benjamin, William Purdon, Helen, John and James Shea, Thomas McCluggage, Alex McCluggage of Ridgefield, N. J., Beatrice Loraine, Henry and Alfred Derusha, Philip Ernest French, Antoinette Gauthier of Baltic, Theresa Foley, Florence Connell, Anna Shea, Ruth Ham of North Adams, Mass., Mrs. William McCluggage, Mrs. Agnes McCluggage of Ridgefield, Mrs. Philip French, Mrs. Ernest Benjamin and Mrs. Henry Derusha. Mrs. William McClugage, Mrs. Philip French and Misses Foley and Gauthier assisted Mrs. McCusker in serving the refreshments.

Michael McCarthy is in Rhode Island hospital, recovering from an operation upon his jaw.

Rev. Arthur Viegard, M. S., has been the guest of his brother, Officer Henry Viegard. He has gone to Danielson, where he is to sing his first solemn high mass on Sunday. The happiness of the family at this great event is saddened by the death of an aunt in Danielson, whose funeral takes place today (Saturday). A large number of relatives from many places are expected to be in Danielson Sunday, and it is expected that 150 will be served dinner in the hall. Father Viegard has just returned from France.

As told in the Danielson news Friday, Mrs. Louise Breault, 67, wife of Frederick Breault, died Thursday morning at her home on the West Side. She had been ill since February. During all the period since that time a parmount hope, sustained by fervent prayer, was that she might live to again see her nephew—Rev. Arthur Vegiard, M. S., who arrived here this week, after an absence of six years in France, where, recently, he was ordained to the priesthood. Her hope was granted—and the end came soon thereafter. Mrs. Breault, a native of Canada, had been a resident of Danielson for many years. She leaves her husband and a family of children.

Miss Edna Sharkey entertained at a birthday party at her home on Aspinook street Thursday evening in honor of George Cormier. Music and games were enjoyed and at 10 o'clock a delicious supper of chicken salad, rolls, jello, cake, assorted wafers, fruit punch and coffee was served by Mrs. Velo Sharkey. The guests were Miss Rose St. John, Misses Blanche and Estelle Jodoin, John Peringer, Edward Murphy, Frank Andrews and George Cormier of Norwich.

Mrs. Patrick Shea of Pawtucket is a guest at John Fitzgerald's.

The news of Miss Rosina S. Allyn's death, although not unexpected, was heard here with expressions of real sorrow. During the short time she lived in Jewett City her unusually sweet disposition won her many true friends. While she lived here she was a member of the Congregational church choir, Sunday school and Christian Endeavor and the A. C. G. club. She was most helpful, and always thoughtful for others' pleasure.

STATE POLICE ARRESTED 566 OFFENDERS IN JULY

A record was established by the state police department during July, when 566 offenders were arrested for various violations, according to the monthly report of Secretary Robert L. Sengle. There were 418 arrests for violation of motor vehicle laws, 254 being for reckless driving. Forty arrests were for liquor law violations, and the others were for miscellaneous offenses.

The department police patrolled 130,000 miles of state road, investigated 1,052 complaints and examined 8,124 applicants for motor vehicle drivers' licenses, rejecting 501. The weights and measures department made 796 inspections. Liquor seized during the month was valued at approximately 32,000.

Joseph Dutkiewicz, 35, is in a critical condition in the Middlesex hospital suffering from injuries received Thursday when part of a skylight at the main plant of the New England Enameling Company, Middletown, fell on him.

"Agent For Reparation Payments"

Owen D. Young, of New York, recently appointed "Agent for Reparation Payments" by the Reparations Commission. With the Macdonald-Herriot agreement that the agent shall have the deciding voice in event of a deadlock of the commission, this plain American citizen becomes the most powerful figure in the history of the world, if one considers power as the equivalent of the effect of his decisions on the economic wellbeing of the greatest number of persons. He will be able to influence foreign exchanges—bringing comparative wealth or penury to millions—by the stroke of a pen; or to set in motion the troops under which the Treaty of Versailles can be used to call Germany to account if she refuses to live up to the terms of the Reparations Commission, of which he will be the deciding voice.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, Aug. 8.—A sharp break of 6 5-8 points in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe unsettled today's stock market after an early period of strength due to active short covering prompted by the cut in the local federal reserve rediscount rate. Sales fell below the million share mark for the third consecutive day.

Spirited bidding for leading issues gave the market a strong tone at the opening. However, the failure of the speculators on the long side to follow up the advance encouraged a resumption of profit taking which reached its climax when large blocks of U. S Cast Iron Pipe were thrown onto the market, apparently for pool account.

Active trading took place in the shares of the railroads mentioned in connection with the "Nickel Plate" merger, traders endeavoring to adjust prices in line with the proposed exchange ratios. "Nickel Plate" common soared 5 1- points to 114 1-2, a new top and then dropped back 3; Pere Marquette common crossed 68, also to a new top, but fell back two points, while the Erie issues lost ground, the common dropping two points, the first preferred one and the second preferred yielding fractionally. Chesapeake & Ohio issues lost about 1 1-2 points ecah.

Special buying was again noted in the Anthracite coal carriers, Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson establishing new 1924 maximum quotations at 139 7-8 and 126, respectively. Pittsburgh and West Virginia common yielded on profit-taking, closing 2 3-8 points lower at 6. Canadian Pacific, Texas and Pacific, and Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred also sold at their best prices of the year.

U. S. Steel common sold as high as 18 1-4 but reacted later to 106 7-8, off 3-8. Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, the other so-called picotal shares, also closed fractionally lower.

Bullish demonstrations continued in a number of specialties, General Baking, Foundation Company, American Radiator and Pullman being among the dozen stocks to break their previous high prices. Good buying also was noted in Allis Chalmers, National Dairy Products, Sears Roebuck, American Brake Shoe, American Beet Sugar and American Car and Foundry. Cuyamel Fruit sank to a new low at 52 1-8 and then rallied two points.

The further reduction in the local re-discount rate had no immediate effect on the money rates. Call loans held steady at two per cent. while time money was quoted from two to three and one-half, depending upon maturity. The commercial paper market was quiet with rates ranging from 3 1-4 to 3 3-4.

Foreign exchanges opened strong and then turned reactionary. Demand sterling moved up nearly 3 cents to a new 1924 peak, price at 4.54 1-8 and then cancelled its gain, while French francs were active around 5 1-2 cents. Swiss francs crossed 19 cents for the first time this year, approaching within a few points of parity.

BOND MARKET

New York, August 8.—Reduction of the New York federal reserve bank's rediscount rate to 3 per cent. lifted bond prices to higher levels today, but except for an initial flurry the response lacked the vigor which characterized trading following rate changes earlier in the year.

Brisk rallies in Liberty bonds attested to the influence exerted upon the United States government listed by alteration of the bank rate. Advances ranged from 3-32ds to 19-32ds carrying two issues to 1924 top prices. The treasury 4 1-4's crossed 106 to a record high.

Stimulated by the lower bank rate and the continued rise in the foreign exchanges, all French governmental and municipal bonds surged upward, leading many other European obligations into new high ground. Closing prices were slightly under the top levels, but trading in the foreign group was on an unusually broad and active scale all day.

Bonds of the railroad involved in the Van Sweringens "Nickel Plate" merger underwent a price readjustment based on the terms which will govern their entry into the new system. Convertible issues of the Erie and Chesapeake and Ohio reacted with the stocks of these roads but the other liens, scheduled to become the underlying issues of the greater "Nickel Plate" were strengthened.

The position of high grade investment securities was improved by the lower bank rate, with Atchison, Northern Pacific and other railroad liens moving up.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Corn jumped up 3 1-4c a bushel today as a result of the government crop report. Extreme gains, however, failed to hold. The corn market closed nervous 7-8c to 2 1-8c net higher, December 1.04 7-8 to 1.05, with wheat unsettled 1-4c to 1c down, September 1.29 to 1.29 1-8 and December 1.32 5-8 to 1.32 7-8, oats 3-4c to 1 1-8c up, and provisions showing five to 20 cents advance.

Active buying of corn began as soon as the market opened. Most traders had assumed that a much greater improvement in the corn crop would be shown than proved to be the case. The fact that the condition of the crop, 70.7 turned out to be the lowest since 1911, was especially a source of surprise, as well as an incentive to purchase. Besides, heavy losses of probable yield were forecase in the states of largest production, Illinois and Iowa.

Reactions from top prices in the corn market were partly due to stoppage of buying on the part of shippers here and other dealers who had been taking corn available for immediate delivery. A sudden drop in wheat prices counted also as a weight on the corn market near the end of the day.

Rains breaking the drought in Argentina were responsible for depressing of wheat values in the last hour of trading. Previously the wheat market had developed considerable strength in sympathy with corn, although the United States government report as to wheat together with a decline at Liverpool had a bearish effect at the start. Reports of ice forming in some of the fields in Saskatchewan were a disturbing influence just before the finish.

Wet weather causing delay to the movement of the oats crop gave independent strength to the oats market, and more than nullified the effect of the government report as to oats.

Provisions were responsive to the action of the corn market and of hog values.

CURB MARKET

Losses in the active oil shares were held to small fractions. Mutual Oil was active on merger rumors. New subscriptio nwarrants for Phillips Petroleum new stock were admitted to trading, selling from 55 to 63 cents.

A break in Dubilier Radio of 4 points, one of which was later recovered, was one of the features of the industrial list. Glen Alden Coal dropped more than two points on a small turnover and Lehigh Valley Coal certificates yielded fractionally on a reduced volume of trading. Gillette Safety Razor advanced 5 points.

Trading in bonds was more active with prices advancing slightly.

GALES FERRY

A meeting of the committees of the recent community picnic was held at the home of Nelson Parker, the general chairman, Monday evening. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Edward H. Latimer, who prepared the round clam chowder, about 55 gallons.

The news of the death of Richard Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Chase of Portsmouth, R. I., was heard with regret Wednesday evening. It is stated that Monday he was run over by an automobile and dragged 30 feet, was taken to his home and lived until Wednesday. The young man was well known here, as the family lived at Long Cove seven years, moving from there a few years ago. Mrs. Herman J. Peckham of New Bedford, Mass., mother of Mrs. Chase, who was visiting at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albertus S. Dean on the Military highway, near the village, was notified of the accident and left for Portsmouth Wednesday afternoon.

William K. Wright of Sterling has purchased a building lot of Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett situated on the Military highway, joining on the south the memorial parklet at the junction of the Gales Ferry road. The deeds were passed Thursday. Mr. Wright will soon begin the work of construction, building a shop before the erection of a bungalow.

Mrs. R. Irving Huributt and party, including her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett, and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bartlett of Norwich, motored to Killingly for Old Home day Thursday.

Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Woodward are entertaining Miss A. A. Aldrich of Providence at the M. E. parsonage.

Mrs. M. A. Baker of New York has taken Leisure Hour cottage, recently vacated by Robert Collison and family of Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. LeCount and daughter Dorothy of Yonkers, N. Y., joined Mrs. LeCount's mother, Mrs. Richard B. Ames, also of Yonkers, at the cottage the family occupies on the Bluff.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus S. Dean motored to Newport, R. I., Mrs. Dean's former home, where they called on relatives and friends.

Mrs. George E. Lawson, with her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Eutis, and two children, recently of Portland, Ore., moved this week into the cottage of her son, Carl B. Lawson, in the village, having been guests of another son, Monett A. Lawson, and Mrs. Lawson, at Long Cove. The family were former residents of the place.

Among those attending the funeral of Judge Lucius Brown in Norwich Monday were Noyes B. Allyn, Mrs. Henry W. Huributt and Nelson Parker.

Rehearsals are being held by an augmented choir of the M. E. church to present the cantata Esther.

Charles Frost and party, who left for a cruise to Cape Cod last week, on the power boat The Montclair, belonging to Mr. Frost's father, George W. Frost, returned Friday.

At the recent card party for the Country club in the clubhouse auction and Michigan were played, prizes being won by Miss Hettie Way, Frank Rogers and Mary C. Watrous. Refreshments were served.

Rufus W. Huributt is ill at his home.

Mrs. Stephen H. Norman, who is at the home of relatives in Norwich, continues very ill.

Rev. Harry E. Olcott of Hartford, assistant superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, is to give his lecture, Liquor and the Law, with stereopticon pictures, in the M. E. church Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Onset, Mass., motored here Monday, and were guests over night of their relatives, Nathan A. Gibbs and daughter, Miss Cubbs.

COLCHESTER

The case of state vs Peter Santchuck, for making and selling hooch was tried before Justice Baker Thursday evening in Grange hall. The accused was charged with two counts. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs of $120.91 and was given a suspended sentence of 15 days in jail. He was placed on probation for six months. Prohibition Officers Congdon and Fitzpatrick, County Investigators Lewis and Jackson, Deputy Sheriff Hoxie and Constable Riley made the search and arrest.

Patrick Connors of Hartford is a guest of Fred J. Hudson for a week's vacation.

Mrs. Charles L. Shailer of North Westchester was in town Thursday.

The case of state vs Morris Goldstein, for bathing at the New Dam was tried before Justice Baker Friday morning. The accused was found guilty and fined one dollar and costs, which was paid.

Charles L. Strong, David Shea, James F. Purcell and George N. Lyman motored to Hartford Thursday.

The special town meeting to see if the town would appropriate $1600 for the purpose of bearing part of the expense of the salaries of the teachers in the Academy school in order to have the four year high school course. Although there was not a large number attended, there was no opposition and the vote was unanimous.

Calvary Episcopal services are to be held in the Baptist church Sunday morning at 9 o'clock.

Supt. Frank Geer of the Connecticut Motor Transportation Co. of Hartford, was a visitor in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Arthur H. Brown was a Hartford visitor Thursday.

May Appoint Connecticut Man.

Homer S. Cummings, democratic national committeeman, is to appoint a Connecticut representative on a campaign committee to assist Thomas J. Spellacy, John W. Davis' eastern campaign manager. Mr. Spellacy announced in New York. The committee will have representatives from every state in Spellacy's territory, which includes New England, New York and New Jersey.

A very successful report of the 4th of July parade was given. It was also voted to hold another Field Day this year on Saturday, September 20th. Another imporant meeting will be held on next Monday evening at the Army & Navy club and each organization is required to send delegates.

WON'T CONFER ON CANDIDATE FOR CHAIRMAN

A. S. Lynch of New Haven, secretary of the democratic state central committee, quieted in no uncertain way, the report that he and Edward M. Yeomans, chairman of the committee, would confer and agree upon a candidate for temporary chairman of the party's fall convention to be recommended to the state central committee at its meeting in New Haven Saturday.

Lynch followed the lead of Mayor David E. FitzGerald of New Haven, and declared that the "committee picked the temporary chairman" and that he had "no intention" of acting with Yeomans in a recommendation to the committee. Mr. Yeomans had previously said that he and Mr. Lynch would suggest a temporary chairman to the committee.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Pleading guilty to a charge of violation of the liquor law Samuel Rutchik was sentenced to serve ten days in jail and fined $200 and costs, the costs amounting to $11.95 in the city court Friday morning. He was taken to jail to serve out his sentence and it is understood he is making arrangements to pay the fine. Rutchik was arrested Thursday night by the local police on an actual sale charge. A bottle of alcohol and a gallon jug of alcohol figured in the case.

Ralph Dimecco, Italian, arrested Thursday night by the local police was discharged by the court for lack of evidence when he was presented on a liquor law violation charge. The police visited Dimecco's house on Lake street Thursday night and took possession of three barrels of wine. The wine something over 100 gallons in all, was transported to the police station in a large truck and kept at headquarters over night. After the accused had been discharged by the court the wine was carried back to the house.

Dimecco was discharged at the close of the testimony of several of the state's witnesses, no positive proof being found that the wine was being kept with intent to sell. The defendant entered the claim that the wine was kept for private use.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES AT GALES FERRY CAMP

The girl scouts at Camp Merrit, Gales Fersy, enjoyed a picnic recently in the wood near the camp. Luncheon consisted of roasted frankfurters, apple sauce, baked potatoes and sandwiches. A number of the girls picked blueberries and blackberries.

The scouts at Camp Merrit were given a treat Tuesday evening by the Westerly scouts. Eight girls were buglers and with the help of several drummers gave a splendid concert at the camp fire. Thursday night the girls had extra dessert, a large watermelon, the gift of Father Kane of Westerly.

There have been 32 Westerly scouts at the camp this week and they have won several merit badges. The dancing class was so large it had to be divided into thirds. Despite the hot weather the scouts enthusiastically danced in the dining hall and practiced outdoors. The basketry classes are meeting regularly.

FOUND SCANTILY CLAD MAN NEAR LUMBER YARD

A man who gave his name as Angelo Rotundo, his age as 47, and who said his home was in Bridgeport, was found wandering around the vicinity of Dawley's lumber yard, clad only in a shirt and one stocking by the police about 10.30 o'clock Friday night. He was taken to police headquarters where he told a story of having his clothing taken away from him near the railroad tracks. Surmising from the man's condition and his rather rambling talk Captain D. J. Twomey notified the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane that the man had been picked up by the police and it was learned that he had wandered away from the institution and attendants were sent to police headquarters to take him back to the hospital.

U. C. T. MEN TO HOLD OUTING HERE THIS MONTH

The members of the Eastern Connecticut United Commercial Travelers organization are looking forward to an outing to be held Saturday, Aug. 23, at the Poquetanuck drawbridge. The programme will include a chowder in the morning, a "bake" in the afternoon, a ball game and athletic events.

Capt. Alf Rogers of the New London team and Capt. Ernest Bean of Norwich will choose the umpires. Norwich has started hard training and feels more confident as some of their late comers into the order are showing up strong, particularly the pitcher and the catcher. Ernest LaFleur of Willimantic has donated a box of cigars which will be the prize for the winning team.

BALTIC MILLS GIVE HELP HALF HOLIDAY

It is estimated that 500 Baltic people got away from the intense heat of Thursday afternoon when they thronged the shores of the Beaver Brook river and enjoyed frequent dips in the cooling waters. At one time the crowd became so large that it was almost impossible to get a chance at the diving board. As the noon hour approached the heat had reached a point where it was almost unbearable and the Baltic Mills company was generous enough to close its plant and give its employes a half holiday.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

White Cross Council No. 13, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual outing Sunday at Poquetanuck Drawbridge. Many of the members will go by automobile, but the great majority will take the busses which begin running at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and hourly thereafter. Arrangements have been made for extra busses to take care of the crowd.

The several committees having in charge the different events, having prepared a schedule of events, which will keep something moving from the time the members arrive until it is time to return.

The opening event will be a ball game at 11 o'clock between the married and single men, and this event promises to furnish considerable amusement as the manager of each team has been making some very strong assertions as to the ability of their respective teams. At 12 o'clock chowder will be served. At 1 o'clock another series of athletic events will take place, including 50-yard dash, 100 yard dash and fat men's handicap race, all of which events are open to all members. This will be followed by a tug of war between a Greeneville team and a team from all other sections of the city. Greeneville, which prides itself on its athletic prowess, will put a strong team in the field. Henry Gorman has charge of this series of events.

At 2 o'clock, under the direction of William J. McClafferty, the water events will be held, consisting of tub races, swimming matches and fancy diving. There are a number of entries for these several events which should make them interesting. At 2.30 there will be a real ball game between two K. of C. teams, and as there are some fast players amongst the members, an interesting game is expected. John Shea, Jr., has charge of the several ball games.

The great athletic event of the day will come at 4 o'clock and will be in the nature of a surprise. A committee of which Daniel J. O'Brien is chairman, has made the arrangements for this event. Four o'clock will be the "zero hour" on this programme of athletic events. The final event of the day will be the bake which will be ready at 5 o'clock.

IMMERGRUEN LODGE

Immergruen lodge, No. 12, O. D. H. S. held its regular meeting Wednesday night at 25 Shetucket street. The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock by Mrs. Martin Wenzel, president. It was voted to hold an outing Sunday, August 24, 1924 at the drawbridge, to which all members and their friends are to be invited. Members were requested to take basket lunches and an announcement was made that cake and ice cream would be served at the close of the meeting by the outing committee.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Sedgwick corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial with Senior Vice President Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury presiding in the absence of the president. The regular reports of secretary and treasurer were accepted as presented, and national general orders No. 10 and department orders No. 3 were read. A memorial was also read to Mrs. Blakeman, past department president, whose death recently occurred at her home at Shelton.

It was decided to have a meeting of the executive committee next Friday at 7 p. m. at the Buckingham Memorial when the plans will be made for serving the dinners for the regimental reunions in this city on Aug. 19 and 20. Mrs. Atterbury is to be one of the members of the corps who will attend the national G. A. R. convention in Boston this month.

GROTTO

Nemrod Grotto began its August programme of special events with the ball game Friday afternoon at the state hospital diamond in which the single men defeated the married men by the score of 16 to 9.

The next event will be the moonlight sail on the steamer Nelseco next Wednesday evening wrich will be a cool pleasant sail down the Thames river and out around Bartlett's reef lightship and return. Tickets are to be sold only to Master Masons who may bring with them their families or friends, and no tickets will be sold on the boat. The distribution is through the committee chairman, Raymond C. Brittin; or through Secretary George Chappell. The Nemrod grotto band will be aboard the boat and the event will be one which all who attend will find most enjoyable.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

The Norwich grange picnic at Mohegan park was largely attended and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present. The rain of the latter part of the afternoon drove the crowd to the shelter of the pavilion for awhile but when the shower was over the good time proceeded as if there had been no interruption. The games in charge of the committee consisting of Miss Hattie Clark, Ralph Marsh, Leroy Miner and Miss Mae Guile provided great diversion for the adults and the children and the ball game was a feature of the afternoon. The team captained by Ralph Marsh defeated the team under Arthur Avery by the score of 6 to 3. The basket lunch plan was followed and lemonade was served by the grange.

At the meeting next Wednesday in Steiner hall it is expected that the young people's programme, which had been deferred from a previous meeting, will be given.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., held its regular meeting Monday evening with Worthy President Timothy Fields in the chair. Matters of routine business were transacted. The aerie is planning a series of class initiations the first of which is to be held during the first part of October. In order to stimulate interest in the membership drive the aerie has offered a special prize, a life membership, to every member who brings in 20 or more new members up to October 6, 1924.

The committee in charge of the next class initiation is Edward J. Mullins, George Nadolny, August Hastedt, Maurice Freiberg, John Kimiski.

A social time followed the meeting after which the entertainment committee served light refreshments.

STOECKEL TO ADDRESS NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of the Connecticut state motor vehicle department has accepted an invitation to address the thirteenth annual congress of the National Safety Council to be held at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29 to Oct. 3. He has been asked to speak on the subject, Drivers' Licenses, Including Examination and Revocation.

The feeling that reduction of motor vehicle accidents must depend largely upon the disciplinary power vested in the states through the licensing system is becoming general, and the fact that Connecticut was the first state in the Union to require operators to have licenses, and its record of suspensions freely made, has resulted in a greatly increased number of inquiries about the Connecticut system this year. Even now, a great many of the states do not license motor vehicle operators. New York state is just beginning the policy under legislation adopted in the last session of its legislature, and the system it has adopted follows that of Connecticut in many respects.

The motor vehicle department here has been using the suspension power to cooperate with the courts in the general effort to promote more careful driving in the state. For reckless driving and intoxication alone, it suspended 1,265 licenses in the first half of this year, and the suspension rate for July continued about the same. The licensing system has the additional advantage of impelling drivers who might otherwise "take a chance" to be careful for fear of marring the record of their driving kept in the motor vehicle department files.

Four thousand of the leading safety men of the country will attend the Louisville congress to exchange ideas for making the industries, streets and homes of the nation safer and for renewing faith in the principle that most accidents are preventable. Commissioner Stoeckel's address will be the first number on a public safety section program arranged for the congress.

POETRY

FATE.

Two shall be born, the whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought
Each of the other's being and no heed;
And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Will cross, escaping wreck, defying death;
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step to this one end,
That one day out of darkness they shall meet
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes!

And two shall walk one narrow way of life
So nealy side by side that should one turn
Ever so little space to right or left,
They needs must stand acknowledged face to face;
And yet with wistful eyes that never meet,
And groping hands that never clasp, and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear
They seek each other all their weary years
And die unsatisfied—and that is fate!
—Mrs. Susan M. Spalding.

MOTHER, HOME, HEAVEN.

Three words fall sweetly on my soul,
As music from an angel's lyre,
That bid my spirit spurn control,
And upward to its source aspire;
The sweetest sounds to mortals given
Are heard in Mother, Home and Heaven.

Dear Mother!—ne'er shall I forget
Thy brow, thine eye, thy pleasant smile;
Though in the sea of death hath set
Thy star of life, my guide awhile,
Oh, never shall thy form depart
From the bright pictures in my heart.

And like a bird that from the flowers,
Wing-weary seeks her wonted nest,
My spirit, e'en in manhood's hours,
Turns back in childhood's home to rest;
The cottage, garden, hill and stream
Still linger like a pleasant dream.

And while to one engulfing grave
By time's swift tide we're driven,
How sweet the thought that every wave
But bears us nearer Heaven!
There we shall meet, when life is o'er,
In that blest Home, to part no more.
—William Goldsmith Brown.

GENERAL ENDORSEMENT OF ARMY DEFENSE TEST PLANS

Twenty-Seven Patriotic and Veterans Organizations Have Announced Their Approval—Secretary Weeks States That the Plans For September 12 Are "Above Politics"—Clears up Misunderstanding That the Day Has Been Designated as a Holiday.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Decision of twenty-seven patriotic and veterans' organizations to endorse the army defense plans for Sept. 12 places the project "above politics and prevents its exploitation for political purposes," Secretary Weeks today wrote Mrs Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In a letter replying to Mrs. Cook's notification of the attitude of the organizations referred to, the secretary said opposition to the test plans was based very largely upon "honest misunderstanding not only of the war department plans," but "even of our defense organization."

"The very nature of the opposition proves conclusively," he said, "the need for the test."

As to present composition of the United States army, the secretary declared it was made up "more than half" of civilians.

"The army will be expanded in an emergency by the addition of more civilians, and civilians will direct this expansion," he continued, explaining the need for public understanding of the machinery. As a result of the test, he said, the war department hoped to get from it the information for "an ideal plan" to be recommended to the states.

Referring to the endorsement of the test by the twenty-seven societies, Mr. Weeks said:

"Such action definitely places the 'defense test' above politics and prevents its exploitation for political expediency. The co-operation that is forthcoming from the governors of states is of the same praiseworthy character. Every indication is that their support on Sept. 12 will be nearly unanimous.

"There is misunderstanding of the war department's request that governors and mayors appoint citizens' committees to direct and co-ordinate 'defense test' activities in their respective states and cities. The fact that those are designated as mobilization committees has led some to infer that they are to mobilize all our manhood and all our purpose. We requested the appointment of these committees in order that all might see the machinery by which the skeleton units of the army of the United States would be expanded, and that all our citizens might understand that they would conduct their own mobilization in the event of war.

"We have requested these committees to demonstrate, with the assistance of such citizens as might volunteer their services, how they would expand the units under their jurisdiction. It is important that the federal government, as well as the people, have information on this subject.

"The same misunderstanding led to the false conclusion that a holiday had been asked for. The war department has not attempted to say to any state or city whether a holiday should be declarde or not. Each knows its own situation. The war department, however, has not proposed a national holiday, partly because of the proximity of Labor day. The national government would be just as well pleased if each city held its demonstration late in the afternoon, or early in the evening. As the president has pointed out, this is to be a voluntary movement on the part of our citizens."

Waterbury, Aug. 10.—Officers of the department of Conecticut, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and of the state auxiliary, together with delegates from the various posts throughout the state, met here today and unanimously endorsed National Defense day by pledging the utmost support of the Meterans of Foreign Wars of this state for an inventory and test of the nation's defenses. Major William J Shanahan, formerly of the 102d infantry, U. S. A., who is the department commander, presided.

LOEB-LEOPOLD TRIAL TO BE CONCLUDED THIS WEEK

Chicago, Aug. 10—All evidence in the hearing to determine the punishment to be meted out to Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, for the murder of Robert Franks, will be completed by Thursday or Friday of this week, it was intimated today by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.

Unlimited argument is expected to follow the state's rebuttal testimony which will be started when the defense rests tomorrow or Tuesday. Closing pleas, it was said, probably will not be made until the middle of next week.

Dr. Herbert S. Hulbert, Chicago alienist, who testified Saturday that abnormal activities of certain of Leopold's glands had advanced his intellectual powers while at the same time retarding his emotional faculties, will take the stand again tomorrow to be cross-examined. Defense counsel has suggested that Dr. Hulbert will be the last witness they will present to give direct testimony. Foreman Leopold and Ernest and Allan Loeb, brothers of the two defendants, and Jacob M. Loeb, uncle of Richard, are expected to be called merely to identify exhibits.

The first rebuttal witness for the state may be Miss Susan Lurie, for whom Leopold has expressed affection. Miss Lurie was found after a day's search in Milwaukee, where she was visiting friends.

Another rebuttal witness whom the state deems important is Thomas Gregory, valet to Loeb for several years. He is expected to testify as to Loeb's most intimate personal life and habits. Others on the state's list of prospective witnesses include Doctors William O. Krohn, H. Douglas Singer and Hugh Patrick, alienists; several instructors and students at the University of Chicago, and a number of prominent men and women who attended Leopold's classes in bird life.

WOMAN SLASHED IN FACE DURING FAMILY QQUARREL

New Haven, Aug. 10.—As the result of a family quarrel, Mrs. Margaret Stoner, of 110 Oak street, is in Grace hospital with a deep gash on the side of her face. She was cut by a knife alleged to have been wielded by her son, Harold, 21. He was arrested on a breach of the peace charge and is held under bond of $5,000. The young man told the police he had intended to cut his brother after a quarrel and that he accidentally hit his mother.

CAR JUMPED TRACK ON LONG ISLAND RAILROAD

New York, Aug. 10.—One car of a Long Island Railroad train bound for Rockaway Beach jumped the track near the Orone Park station today, causing injuries to four persons and delayed thousands of heat refugees on the way to the beaches.

Tracks and ties were torn up for 100 feet and passengers in the derailed car were tossed about as it bumped over the wooden ties. Only one person, Mrs. Annie Henderson, went to a hospital.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO HARTFORD WOMAN

Hartford, Aug. 10.—Miss Agnes Moonan of Manchester died at the Hartford hospital this afternoon as the result of internal injuries received Friday night when an automobile in which she was riding struck a truck on the road to Wethersfield. Miss Eleanor Hartnett, another occupant of the car, which was driven by Louis Glassberg of Hartford, died a few hours after the accident.

Any man who really understands women is too wise to boost to them of his wisdom.

SHENANDOAH MADE AN ALL NIGHT CRUISE

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 10.—Following the successful test of a mooring mast in the U. S. S. Patoka in Narragansett bay, which proved, according to Commander Zachary Lansdowne, that the dirigible has an "unlimited cruising range," the Shenandoah returned to the naval air station here at 5.36 a. m. today after an all-night cruise.

The Shenandoah flew to Newport and rode at the Patoka's mast until the middle of Saturday afternoon. She then cast free and although it first was believed she would spend another night attached to the mother ship, the dirigible started back to its base. On its return the ship went a hundred miles at sea to escape a storm, flying most of the distance at an altitude of 600 feet, according to Commander Lansdowne.

He said there had been no mishap in connection with the test, and that the trial had been prolonged sufficiently to prove the feasibility of using a floating base. When the dirigible left here Friday it was understood she would remain three days for the test.

The Shenandoah arrived over the air station at 3.30 a. m., twenty-four hours after casting loose from the Patoka, and hovered above the field until 5.10, when a perfect landing was effected, and the work of trundling the ship into its hangar was quickly accomplished.

Although Commander Lansdowne made no definite statement concerning immediate future plans for the Shenandoah, he intimated that a return to Narragansett bay for further tests with the Patoka was a possibility within the next few days, following completion of minor alterations shown to be necessary by the first attempt.

LITTLE PROBABILITY OF CALLING OFF WORLD FLIGHT

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 10 (By the A. P.).—The next leg of the American world flight will not be attempted until all courses of action have been maturely considered from every point of view and the best possible decision under the circumstances is reached.

This announcement is contained in an official statement issued on board the cruiser Richmond, flagship of the squadron of American war vessels which are patrolling the course of the fliers.

There is no question of calling off the flight because of the ice conditions, the statement says, and, in the opinion of Admiral Magruder, in command of the naval squadron, the flight will be completed successfully, barring possible accidents to the planes or adverse weather.

"The possibility that the weather may change suddenly after the next leg of the flight is started," Admiral Magruder says, "is a factor that may cause failure, but by watching the weather carefully and using the best judgment our army world fliers will succede in reaching Labrador. After that the legs are short and easy."

NEGRO STABBED IN THE STREET IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Aug. 10.—John French, Negro, was seriously injured tonight when he was slashed by an unidentified negro man on Pearl street here. Sixteen stitches were necessary to close the wounds in French's stomach. He is expected to recover.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT IN SESSION IN BOSTON

Boston, Aug. 10.—Two commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, the one past, the other present, the former legless since the second battle of Manassas and the latter with dimming sight, this afternoon in the Old South church loosed their old fiery spirit and roused their audience of fellow veterans and friends to patriotic fervor at the first public meeting of the 58th national encampment. About 2,000 veterans had arrived tonight. The convention, which will be officially greeted by state and city tomorrow night, is expected to bring 6,000 or 8,000 G. A. R. men to the city.

Gaylord M. Saltzgaber, leader of the aged army during the present year, referred to the resolution against war adopted recently at the Methodist conference in Springfield and said that its worth depended on the way it is interpreted.

"It is all right to denounce wars in general," he said, "but none of the wars in which the United States has engaged were unrighteous. If the nations of the world could be brought to the same point of view as this country it would be right to disarm, but we cannot make the United States the prey of the nations. Some would even tear down the Bunker Hill monument, or that at Washington, so anxious are they to be rid of the memories of the past."

1,554 LICENSES REVOKED OF DRIVERS FOR DRINKING

Hartford, Aug. 10.—The Connecticut Department of Motor Vehicles has revoked the operator's licenses of 1,554 automobile drivers for driving motor vehicles on the public highways while under the influence of liquor. Thirty-six of these operators, who were convicted twice on similar charges, have been deprived of the right to drive motor vehicles in the state for five years. Approximately 600 of the others have already been under suspension for more than a year.

In the first half of this year, 369 licenses were suspended because of this offense, and 65 of the operators involved were sent to jail. The state law fixes one year as the minimum period of suspension for the first offense of driving while drunk and five years for the second offense.

The number of suspensions for intoxication reached its peak in Connecticut last year when 775 operators were ordered off the roads because of it. The number suspended for that offense this year is greater than all the suspensions on that account during the entire calendar year, 1922.

Statistics show according to the department that the great majority of Connecticut accidents is due to drunkenness and other forms of reckless driving.

PEDESTRIAN FATALLY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

Thomaston, Aug. 10.—Howard Crandall, Jr., six, of Cheshire, was fatally injured at 4 o'clock this afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by Frank O. Babb of South street, Plymouth. The accident happened on Main street in front of the residence of Edgar Brown.

The youngster, who with his parents had been visiting at the Browns, was playing in the street with another playmate and failed to hear the approaching automobile. In trying to avoid hitting one boy, Babb struck the Crandall child. The boy was picked up unconscious and was carried to Mr. Brown's home, where he died before the arrival of the doctor.

Deputy Sheriff Frank H. Mattoon of Thomaston investigated the accident but did not hold Babb because eye witnesses declared the accident was unavoidable.

Powder Storehouse Burns; no Explosion

Forty-Five Million Pounds of Powder Was Destroyed at, Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 10.—Forty-five million pounds of powder was destroyed by fire at the Old Hickory powder plant near here today. The loss, on the basis of present prices, is estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The powder was manufactured for the federal government during the war at a cost of approximately $22,500,000, for the 45,000,000 pounds destroyed.

Machinery and buildings erected by the government during the war at a cost of more than $5,000,000 were destroyed by the flames, which swept over an area of 40 acres in the heart of the plant. The total war time cost of the property and powder destroyed was estimated today to be more than $28,000,000.

The powder had been stored here by the government as a war reserve. One half of it was to have been used in roadbuilding under the direction of the department of agriculture.

The fire was declared to be the greatest single loss suffered by the government since the World war, and was rated as one of the most destructive incidents in the history of government munitions plants.

No one was severely injured.

At sundown this afternoon it was impossible to approach the area of the fire because of the intense heat. An official estimate of the loss, therefore, was impossible. All estimates were made from a distance by government and private employes.

CONDITION OF GILPATRIC REMAINS UNCHANGED

Putnam, August 10.—G. Harold Gilpatric, state treasurer and cashier of the First National bank, who attempted suicide by shooting Thursday, is holding his own, according to a statement given out at the hospital today. There is little change in his condition. It has been conclusively demonstrated that his eyesight has gone forever, even if he recovers from the bullet wounds. No plans have been made for a second operation to remove the bullet. Doctors state that the ball is so situated that it will do but little harm even if it is not removed for some time.

Directors of the bank will meet again tomorrow morning to take what action is necessary on the situation. They refused to make any statement today. Members of Mr. Gilpatric's family also refused to talk beyond declaring that it had been decided not to give out the text of the letter written by Mr. Gilpatric before he shot himself.

Many letters and telegrams have been received by Mr. Gilpatric from friends who express their hope for a rapid recovery.

OPTIMISM IN LONDON CONFERENCE CIRCLES

London, Aug. 10 (By the A. P.)—The announcement from Paris that Premier Herriot and his associates will return here tomorrow, after having obtained the approval of the French cabinet to the evacuation of the Ruhr under conditions which are assumed to be such that the Germans will accept them, has relieved the depression which existed in international conference circles when it was announced that M. Herriot, General Nollet and M. Clemental were going to Paris for a discussion of the situation.

Unless the French now make conditions far different from those newspaper messages from Paris indicate, the delegates representing the other powers are of the belief that the conference will have fair sailing during the next two or three days will reach the agreement which war-worn Europe is hoping for.

BURNS PROVED FATAL TO REV. DANIEL D. WAUGH

New York, Aug. 10.—The Rev. Dr. Daniel D. Waugh, rector of the Church of the Redeemer at Watertown, N. Y., who was severely burned August 1, when an incendiary fire swept through the five-story apartment house at 104 West 92nd street, died in Reconstruction hospital today.

His wife, Clara, was killed when she jumped to the sidewalk from the fifth floor during the fire as a ladder was being extended to save her.

Up to the time of his death Dr. Waugh had not known that his wife was dead, and constantly asked for her during moments of consciousness.

The minister and his wife had been in New York only a day and were unfamiliar with their surroundings. Had they made for the fire escape or roof, the police said, they would have been saved as were others.

A. F. OF L. HAS DESIGNATED "UNION LABEL MONTH"

Atlantic iCty, N. J., August 10—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today designated the month beginning August 25 "Union label month" and ordered the organization of a nation-wide drive for promotion fo the purchase of union made goods.

Thirty thousand local unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. were notified ot assign upward fo 100,000 committeemen to promote the drive. A list, to be published by the locals of manufacturers using labels was broad cast with the notices.

"This will be the biggest movement of its kind in our history," declared Matthew Woll, vice-president of the council and its spokesman.

"It will be a tremendous effort to bring together for the support of union label products the full purchasing power of the 4,000,000 members of the A. F. of L., their friends and sympathizers. We look for far-reaching results."

The designation of "union label month" was the important official act of the executive council sitting as a whole. Its eleven members, presided over by Samuel Gompers, have been in annual session here since August 1, began tonight to disperse.

It was announced further that the label trades department intends to have an organized force of speakers available for mass meetings aimed at organization of the purchasing power of unions in each community.

PROVIDENCE POLICE SURPRISED BOOTLEGGERS

Providence, R. I., Aug. 10.—A squad of city patrolmen working on a tip furnished them by Harry Barney, night watchman at the Burrows & Kenyon Lumber company on Allen avenue, surprised a gang of bootleggers at the dock of the United Coal company 3 o'clock this morning and after an exchange of shots seized 500 cases of choice liquors, seven motor trucks, a high powered automobile and arrested six men, all of whom were armed.

The men arrested gave their names as Michael M. Harrison, Levi Solomon, Charles Hoffman and Peter Kearns, all of this city; Jesse Silva of Bristol and William Quinn of Warren. With the execution of a five-ton truck, which bore the Massachusetts registration, B-79298, all of the confiscated machines were Rhode Island registered. The boat, from which the cargo was being transferred, bore the registration 94G.

The contraband was later delivered to prohibition enforcement officials. The men arrested will be arraigned before federal authorities tomorrow morning. There were no cosualties.

TO DEMAND NAME OF FORD ON BALLOT IN NEBRASKA

Detroit, Aug. 10—(By the A. P.)—Roy M. Harrop, vice presidential nominee of the peoples progressive party, announced here today that he would demand that the name of Henry Ford be placed on the ballot in Nebraska as the presidential candidate of the progressive party.

He declared he would protest against the placing of Senator La Follette's name on the ballot as the party's presidential candidate and would also object to the certification of Dan C. Butler as the progressive party's candidate for governor.

Mr. Harrop declared Henry Ford had received the presidential endorsement in the Nebraska primaries. His objection to Senator La Follette, he said, was based on the senator's stand against the Ku Klux Klan. "Senator La Follette", he said, "has raised a religious question in his stand against the Ku Klux Klan which I do not believe is brought in good faith."

BOSTON GARMENT WORKERS TO GO ON STRIKE TODAY

Boston, Aug. 10.—A general strike affecting 4,000 men and women workers on men's clothing, members of affiliated unions of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was set for 8 o'clock tomorrow morning at a meeting of the complaint board today. Full authority was given the board at a meeting of the workers last Thursday. The leaders say that nearly 200 shops will be closed by the strike which they declared is for the purpose of forcing observance of the present agreements with the manufacturers.

FIVE MEN ADRIFT IN SOUND IN POWER BOAT

Bridgeport, Aug. 10.—A radio message, supposedly from Captain Robinson of the Eastern Steamship company's steamer New York, was communicated to the Stratford Lighthouse tonight, saying that five men were adrift in powerboat No. 5275, five miles off Stratford Shoals, and "required assistance." At the lighthouse, it was assumed that the steamer had made arrangements for the rescue, and local yacht clubs were notified, but delayed arrangements to send boats out, awaiting further word from the steamer.

SEVEN BARNS BURNED AFTER BEING STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Winsted, Aug. 10.—Seven barns on the dairy farm of Frank and Joseph Snyder on West Hill, were destroyed by fire tonight after they had been struck by lightning. The damage was estimated at about $25,000. More than 60 tons of hay, vehicles and farming implements were destroyed. The bolt set fire to large cow barn and the flames spread to the other buildings. Fifty men who formed a bucket brigade saved the house. A series of electrical storms hit this section today and considerable hail fell.

FORMER PROHIBITION AGENT FOUND STABBED TO DEATH

New York, Aug. 10.—Steward N. McMullan, former prohibition enforcement agent and ex-convict, was found stabbed to death in his apartment early today. His wife, Mrs. Francis McMullan, is in a police station cell, charged with his death.

McMullan, four years ago, killed Harry Carlton, a chauffeur, by shooting him in the back of the head, and then was acquitted on the claim that Carlton had attempted to stab him.

According to neighbors living in adjoining apartments, McMullan was under the influence of liquor last night and coming home began to abuse his wife. She fled the house with her six-year-old daughter, Shirley, and ran to the street to appeal for police protection. When she returned with a patrolman to her apartment McMullan had gone.

He is said to have returned shortly after midnight and soon thereafter sounds of cursing and of blows came from his apartment. A few minutes later, Mrs. McMullan called the house telephone operator and asked her to summon a doctor. When an ambulance arrived, McMullan was found dead.

Policemen questioned Mrs. McMullan who denied she had stabbed her husband. The police, however, doubted her story, since a seven-inch knife, stained with blood, was found sticking in the ground beneath the rear window of the house next door.

PRESIDENNT COOLIDGE TO REST UNTIL THURSDAY

Washington, Aug. 9.—Rest was the programme of President Coolidge today and after attending church this morning he sought relief from another day of intense heat within the White House.

IMPERIAL WIZARD CALLS LAFALLETTE PERNICIOUS

Houston, Tex., Aug. 10.—"The most pernicious thing in the political life of America is the appeal being made by a group of dissatisfied political leaders, led by Senator LaFollette, to destroy the people's confidence in this, the soundest, the greatest and best government on earth," said Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, in a prepared statement issued here yesterday as he sailed from Galveston for Key West.

In his statement answering a recent statement by Senator LaFollette, he said:

"The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan had hoped that the political and the economic problems of the day would provide sufficient opportunity for the people to decide who should constitute the next administration, so it is with sincere regret that I read the letter of Senator Robert M. LaFollette concerning the klan.

"The recent convention in New York evidenced to every thinking man that we again have a church, as such, attempting to take a hand in the political management of the nation, which is a direct violation of the fundamental law requiring separation of church and state. Thus we have an honest difference of opinion as between many honest Protestant and many honest Catholic minds in America, and, until we have a common mind, either for the control of state by church, or for their complete severance, to the satisfaction of both Catholic and Protestant, there will not be a cessation of religious discussion in this country."

"Senator LaFollette, aspiring to be a political Moses, regrets that we are present to prevent the dissatisfaction of the passing day. I thank God that in this hour, when sane thinking and courageous action are vitally necessary, that we are here. No paternalistic, communistic, bolshevistic appeal to the political passions of the masses should pass unchallenged.

"No economic advantage or political need will excuse the continuation of this propaganda, which dates back to the hour of our nation's peril.

"Some of the present group, including Senator LaFollette himself, dared to refuse co-operation and support to this government in the hour of its greatest need."

TERRIFIC ELECTRICAL STORM IN LITCHFIELD

Litchfield, Aug. 10.—During one of the most terrific electrical storms that ever struck this section, lightning sent fire to the F. T. Busk place here early tonight, burning the barn to the ground. Three horses were burned. The garage, greenhouse and other buildings were also destroyed but the Torrington, Litchfield and Bantam fire departments managed to save the house. The fire could be seen for miles.

The storm was accompanied by several minutes of hail which it is believed will result in serious loss among the fruit growers. No estimate of Mr. Busk's loss could be obtained from members of the family but other farmers say the barn and other buildings were worth $4,000.

AIRPLANE BOSTON II MADE FLIGHT OVER FOG BANKS

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 10.—Hopping off into a fog, the airplane Boston II, left here just before noon today for Pictou, N. S., on its trip to meet the American round-the-world flyers. The plane is to replace the wrecked Boston, thus enabling Lieut. Leigh Wade to complete the flight with his companions.

It was indicated that Lieut. G. C. McDonald and his mechanician would encounter heavy banks of fog from here to the Bay of Fundy.

The aviators passed two hours in the morning going over the plan and after pronouncing her in perfect condition, set out for Nova Scotia at 11.45. They were soon out of sight in the fog that hung over the harbor. In yesterday's flight here from Boston the aviators flew almost continuously over high, heavy banks of fog.

FORD'S NAME TO GO ON BALLOT IN MICHIGAN

P.)—Henry Ford, six years ago a democratic candidate for United States senator and now an involuntary candidate for United States senator and now an involutary cadidate for the republics nomination for the same office, has ten days in which to eliminate himself from the lists in the state wide primary September 9.

Charles J. Deland, secretary of state said, unless a letter or telegram asking that his name be withdrawn, is received from him before the ballots are printed ten days hence.

88-YEAR-OLD MAN SHOT HIS 87-YEAR-OLD WIFE

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—Edward Bubb, 88 years old, shot and killed his 87-year-old wife today and then committed suicide. Their bodies were found by their son, Charles Bubb. Death had taken five sons of the aged pair during the last year, and this, together with the fact that both he and his wife suffered with cancer, is believed to have affected Bubb's mind.

WILLIMANTIC

With the arrival and placing in position of the memorial tablets to the sons of Windham who engaged in the World War it now seems probable that the long delayed dedicatory ceremonials will be held this season, while the weather allows an open air gathering of the public. The movement to purchase a fitting memorial got its impetus five years ago, at a special town meeting when authority in the matter was given to a special committee, to include the board of selectmen. After investigation, it was decided to have two tablets of bronze, on eto commemorate those who were killed r died while in the service and the other giving the names of the various battles or engagements at the front in which Windham soldiers took part. The tablets were delivered here some time ago and are awaiting erection. The bronze slabs are 7 1-2 by 5 1-2 feet each and weight several hundred pounds. They are designed to be placed against the walls on either side of the entrance to the town building.

A committee of officials and men interested in the movement met Saturday afternoon and expressed views on what the location of the tablets should be. The World War veterans do not favor having the tablets placed against the walls of the building. In this position they would be inconspicuous and quite a distance from the sidewalk in front of the building. It was suggested that the tablets be placed on the town hall lawn which faced the intersection of High and Main streets and is a desirable location, but this procedure would entail an additional cost for granite slabs to support the heavy tablets. The matter was finally left to a committee of five who will confer with the designer and builder of the tablets and it is expected that a definite agreement will be reached at an early date. The committee which met Saturday included: Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, First Selectman Russel A. Andrews, Lieutenant James L. Lee, Captain James B. Fullerton, Captain Joseph R. Morrison and Captain (Dr.) W. F. S. Keating, representing the World War veterans; Captain Jean B. Paulhus and Lieutenant Jeremiah E. McCarthy of the Spanish War Veterans and Commander A. P. Shannon and Past Commander James Haggerty, of the local Grand Army Post.

Miss Anne England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George England, of Chaplin, and Hobart R. Shanley, Jr., of Burlington, were united in marriage at 8.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the presence of relatives and friends from Burlington, Vt., Hoboken, N. J., Canada, Holyoke, Westfield and Springfield, Mass., Hartford, Chaplin and Willimantic. Rev. John H. Knott officiated at the ceremony which was performed at the home of the bride's parents. The maid of honor was Miss Cecile England, sister of the bride and the best man was Walter Britland of Holyoke, Mass., little Miss Vera England, cousin of the bride, ring bearer. The ushers were W. Harry England and George England of South Manchester, the bride's cousins. Miss Luella L. Clark of Springfield, Mass., played the Bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's wedding march. R. K. Hardy of Springfield, Mass., sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning". Miss Clark was accompanist. The bride was gowned in white broaded satin and wore a tulle veil in coronet style with real lace inserts. Her bouquet was of bride roses with a shower of sweet peas. Her maid of honor was attired in canary chiffon and carried yellow roses. The ring bearer, Little Vera England, wore a frock of turquoise crepe de chine. The decorations of the house were palms, ferns and summer flowers. For a wedding trip to Boston, Maine and Canada.

Mrs. Shanley's traveling gown was of black satin with ornaments of steel and emeralds. She wore a hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Shanley will make their home in a newly furnished home in Westfield, Mass., where the groom is connected with the sales force for the Crocker, McElwain and Chemical Paper Companies of Holyoke, Mass. Mrs. Shanley was formerly in charge of the business department at the Westfield High School She received numerous gifts, including several checks.

A Hudson coach owned and driven by Joseph Osso, proprietor of a small store on Jackson street, turned over on a newly oiled road in North Coventry Thursday evening, causing injuries to Abraham Osso, brother of the driver and Louis Shakel, a local man who were riding in the machine. Joseph Osso escaped without a scratch. Shakel got a wrenched back, bruised shoulder, lacerations about the face, a cut on his head which caused a bald spot, and a badly bruised finger on his left hand. Abraham Osso suffered a wrenched back. Shakel was pinned under the machine after it had toppled over; residents of North Coventry assisted in lifting the car to free him. The machine was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed when it struck the slippery section of road opposite the building formerly occupied by the North Coventry postoffice. Shakel was up and about Saturday but was unable to work. Abraham Osso is under a physician's care. The machine is at a local garage awaiting repairs.

In the police court Saturday morning Jan Utevitcs was fined $5 and costs for breach of the peace and the same fine for resisting an officer in the performance of his duty. Mrs. Utevits was also present in court on a charge of resisting an officer, which charge was nolled. Judge Foss made the law clear to Utevits and his wife in regard to offering resistance. The man has been before the police court on other occasions and each time was convicted. When the present case was first heard in court he assumed the name of John Lanka. Witnesses for the defense Saturday morning were Andrew Jackson and Jeter Jackson, brothers, Frank Lis and Mike Moroskye who stated that Utevits did not make any disturbance, nor did he resist being arrested. Officer Coriarty and Supernumerary Leo Piche, who made the arrest testified for the state as did also Officer Grant Bombria, who heard the disturbance from his home. Andrew Ogozaley, who had charge of the hall and music where a dance was held testified that he knew of no disturbance. Officer Coriarty, on the other hand, stated that Utevits insisted on going into the ladies' toilet room and before leaving the hall expectorated on the floor.

The Willimantic baseball club which has been straining for a tie with the lead horse and approached to within a half-game behind the list heads, the New Departures, met a stumbling block in Torrington, Saturday afternoon, returning here after a plastering defeat of 10 to 1 for Torrington.

From her home at South Coventry the funeral of Mrs. Bertha L. Botham was held Saturday morning. A high mass of requiem at St. Mary's R. C., church, South Coventry at 10 o'clock was sung by the pastor, Rev. William H. Kennedy. The organ music was by Miss Celia Day and the singing was by Miss Day and George LaFleur. The bearers were Edward Medberry, Willard C. Tew, Felix Benoit, Albert Lamarche, Frank Doulos and Louis Proulx. The floral tributes were beautiful. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Father Kennedy conducted the committal service at St. Mary's cemetery. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp., had charge of the arrangements.

The amulance of the Day-Kimball hospital, Putnam, came to this city about one o'clock Saturday afternoon with a patient for St. Joseph's Hospital, whose name was not given out but who is said to be an employe of the Wayne Electric Company of Stafford Springs. The man was badly injured. Residents of Phoenixville said that the man was driving an automobile at a fast rate of speed between Phoenixville and Eastford and when turning out to pass an auto truck the car skidded and crashed into a pole. The driver was thrown to the ground, and his back was injured and his leg broken. Dr. Russell gave first aid treatment and the man was then sent on to the local hospital.

William M. Myren, new editors of a weekly journal for retail, wholesale and manufacturing jewelers, published in Providence, is a native of Willimantic where he received his school training under John D. Wheeler. Mr. Lyon has been in the service of the publication for fourteen years.

A heavy public service car driven by Eddie Albozek skidded and turned over at Eagleville, near the Green store, Friday forenoon, while Albozek was transporting a passenger from this city to West Stafford. The car was damaged, but neither Albozek nor the passenger was inured. State Policeman Hardisty of the Stafford Springs barracks investigated the accident and concluded that the machine was being driven recklessly. Albozek was arrested and he will be given a hearing in the Mansfield town court before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews Wednesday evening next.

A sea plane was forced to alight in the harbor Friday afternoon because of engine trouble. The driver of the plane went to Providence to secure a machinist to repair the engine. Joseph Rose of Church street was secured to act as a watchman Friday night. The machine was repaired on Saturday and continued on its journey. The sea plane was moored about thirty feet north of the breakwater.

The 110th anniversary of the battle of Stonington was celebrated Saturday afternoon with an inspection and parade of the fire department and the sanitary corps. A holiday crowd turned out to view the parade. Many admiring comments were heard concerning the new apparatus and uniforms. The steamers gave the townspeople a surprise by presenting in the parade a fife and drum corps made up of their own members. The weather was typical of this season. At times the heat was intense. Flags were flown all day from a good number of houses. Pictures of the procession were taken by Russell Burdick, of Westerly.

The celebration of the Feast of the Holy Ghost was continued Sunday afternoon by the Portuguese residents. There was a procession about 5 o'clock when the crown was moved from Manuel Mello's to Joseph Medarin's home.

FINE RECREATION PIER SHAMEFULLY NEGLECTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stonington, Aug. 10.—Every day Stonington people note with regret the deplorable condition into which the Recreation Pier and Public Landing at the foot of Union street has been allowed to fall. It is a disgrace that this useful and beautiful spot has been allowed to depreciate in the way that it has, since the town acquired its ownership, scarcely more than a year ago. The lighting fixtures have been demolished so that now in the evenings the place is in darkness. Many of the spiles in the slip have been torn up by severe storms. These have not been replaced and unless the slip is reinforced it will be washed away before another winter passes. Both of the marine stanrways have become weakened, the one to the south of the pier has become a place of danger. This stairway is ready to fall at any moment. The lawn is unkempt and the Recreation Pier presents an extremely unattractive appearance. The first thing the town authorities did upon acquiring the property was to forbid the young people from swimming there, yet along the entire waterfront this is almost the only place where public bathing is a possibility. Interviews with prominent men in Stonington have resulted in such suggestions as follow concerning the Recreation Pier: The place should be completely reconditioned; a large sign bearing the words 'Public Landing, Stonington, Ct.,' should be erected; the former gasoline supply house should be made into a bathing house and some part of the dock fitted for bathing purposes. Stonington owes it to herself and to the memory of the public-spirited man who donated the pier, to make it what the name implies, a recreation pier.

MYSTIC

Miss Ruth C. Chapman and Mrs. Margaret Eldredge, past presidents of Williams' Woman's Relief corps, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, junior vice president of the department of Connecticut, and Mrs. Catherine Allyn, National Aid left Sunday morning for Boston, to attend the National convention of the Woman's Relief corps, in session at the same time as the National Encampment of the G. A. R. The National convention of the Daughters of Veterans is also in session at this time and Miss Chapman, who is a member of this organization as well as the Relips Corps, expects to attend some of the sessions of that body. Another member of the local corps who is to attend this convention is Mrs. Augusta Cutler, past department chaplain. The local members expect to be gone about a week.

One side of Baptist Hill was opened to traffic last week and cars now whiz up and down the hill at a good clip. Judging from the speed at which some cars travel this stretch of road it is taken for a speedway rather than an approach to a busy village. One car came to grief near Elm street the last of the week by attempting to make the detour there while traveling at a too rapid rate of speed and was considerably damaged.

Mr. and Mrs Robert A. Noyes of Jersey City, N. J., spent the week end with Mr. Noyes' mother, Mrs. Ira F. Noyes.

Where Eels Breed

The bureau of fisheries says that eels breed in salt water. The American eels breed in water 300 fathoms deep off the southwest coast of Bermuda. European eels breed within a few miles of the same place. The two species have never been known to cross-breed. Young eels migrate to fresh water. No American eel has ever been found in European waters nor a European eel in American streams.

Need $725 to Wed

Danish banks have forbidden male employees receiving less than 4,000 crowns (about $725) a year to marry. In many of the banks most of the clerks have to work several years before attaining the minimum marriage salary.

In the Third District court before Judge Michael J. Turano, John Milby, 59 High street was given a hearing on a complaint alleging possession of intoxicating liquors. Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., moved to dismiss the complaint on a payment of costs amounting to $13.50, which sum was paid. Milby was presented then on a complaint charging on August 2nd the operation of an automobile while under the influence of liquor. On motion of his counsel, John F. Gallagher a plea of nolo was entered. Solicitor Ferguson said that the defendant, with three other men was in an automobile and all had apparently been drinking. While the automobile was not operated at a rapid rate, nevertheless, it pursued an uncertain course over the highway. The defendant was taken to the police station and examined by three physicians and declared to be under the influence of liquor. Attorney Gallagher said the automobile in question had a habit of zigzagging or shimmying, when his client was not in an intoxicated condition. Inasmuch as Mr. Milby had a good reputation in the community and a family, and conviction would carry a revocation of license he thought the ends of justice would be met with the imposing of a light fine. Judge Turano said that he did not have much sympathy and "I don't like to send a man to jail, but I am going to some day." A fine of $100 and costs of $13.76, amounting to $113.76 in all was paid and the defendant was discharged.

William Heskett was charged with having liquor in his possession. Attorney Gallagher withdrew a not guilty plea and pleaded nolo. Attorney Ferguson said that Heskett was a member of the automobile party and had a suit case containing beer. It should be taken into consideration that the booze was not for the purpose of selling but for their own use. Gallagher said that he was the only person injured in the automobile mishap and the beer was for his and his friends' consumption. He was fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

Jay Little, a passenger in the same automobile was found guilty on the complaint and paid a fine of $25 and costs.

John H. Higgins, alleged proprietor of the "T" House on the Post road near the General Stanton Inn was in court on complaint of Sheriff John E. Wilcox, alleging common gambling. This place was raided the previous Saturday night and gambling equipment was reported seized. Through his attorney, John J. Dunn a plea of not guilty was entered. The case was continued two weeks, to August 23nd. John J. Dunn became his surety in the sum of $1,000.

Brown Joyce, 33, of Bristol was complained of for operating his automobile August 3rd on Beach street, at a speed greater than fifteen miles per hour. He pleaded guilty. Solicitor Ferguson stated that the traffic officer followed the defendant on the Watch Hill road from Thompson's corners to Clark street, the traffic being quite heavy and that six cars were passed in the same direction. A fine of $30 and costs were imposed and paid.

Joseph G. Corey, 33, Hartford, was accused of exceeding the speed limit of twenty-five miles per hour on the 3rd day of August on the Watch Hill road. Attorney Ferguson said that the said offence took place at 5:30 in the afternoon and an average speed of 35 miles per hour to the switch was noted by the traffic officer. The accused was fined $30 and costs.

Irving J. Danfield of Providenes, was credited with operating an automobile on August 1st on Bay street at a speed greater than fifteen miles per hour. Town Solicitor said that the defendant was followed from Ninigret circle to the fire station on Bay street and that he passed a number of automobiles that afternoon when traffic was congested. Pleading guilty, he paid a fine of $30 and costs.

Samuel Hendricks, 28, at first pleaded not guilty but when his case was taken up later changed it to a plea of guilyt. He was followed by an officer and a speed of twenty-eight miles per hour was recorded. The traffic officer was said to have warned him previously. Defendant stated that he had not been in Westerly very long. Judge Turano asked about the conduct of the accused when spoken to and was informed that the defendan twas "very reasonable about it." He paid a fine of $25 and costs.

John Ojola, 42, was complained of for operating an automobile August 5th, on High street, wihtout a license. He plaided not guilty later when his case was taken up it was learned that he had a Connecticut operator's license. The case was dismissed on his payment of costs, amounting to $2.80.

James Kelly, 24, had an automobile accident August 3rd on Elm street at which time it was learned that he was driving without registration. He was fined $25 and costs.

William Keenan, 20, August 2nd operated a truck of the Westerly Light and Power Company without a license and said that he was sent on an emergency case. He paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Frank LaPiere, 20, July 31st operated an automobile on Canal St., with the muffler cut-out open and had done so before. He paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Samuel Agnello, 35, August 3rd operated an automobile on Ocean road without proper brakes. Conducting his own case he pleaded not guilty. Traffic Officer Madison testified for the state that the brakes did not work properly. The defendant on the stand for himself admitted that they were a little loose. He was fined $25 and costs, which was paid.

Nelson Perrin did not appear when his name was called and he was reported as having gone to West Virginia. His case will come up Friday next.

Lawrence Main complained of for reckless operation of an automobile near the Wellstown bridge on which he is at liberty on bond of $7500, had his case continued two weeks, to August 22nd.

Judge Turano asked if there was any appearance to claim nine quarts of William Penn whisky in nine quart bottles, two quarts of gin in two bottles and one-half pint of whisky, seized in a raid on the Sunset View place of Rose Falcone, formerly of Norwich, at Pleasant View There was no appearance and the liquors were ordered forfeited to the state.

Walter C. Cokane, of Hopkinton, was presented on complaint of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquors. Through his attorney William Kiernan of Providence, he entered a plea of not guilty. The case was continued to Friday, August 15th. Surety in the form of a bank pass book was supplied for two hundred dollars.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

2.—Use pen and ink, not pencil.

3.—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.

4.—Original stories or letters only will be used.

5.—Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

DEEDS OF KINDNESS

Suppose the little cowslip
Should hang its golden cup
And say, "I'm such a little flower
I'd better not grow up!"
How many a weary traveler
Would miss its fragrant smell,
How many a little child would grieve
To lose it from the dell!

Suppose the glistening dewdrop
Upon the grass should say,
"What can a little dewdrop do?
I'd better roll away!"
The blade on which it rested,
Before the day was done,
Without a drop to moisten it,
Would wither in the sun.

Suppose the little breezes,
Upon a summer's day,
Should think themselves too small to cool
The traveler on his way;
Who would not miss the smallest
And softest ones that blow,
And think they made a great mistake
If they were acting so?

How many deeds of kindness
A little child can do,
Although it has but little strength
And little wisdom, too!
It wants a loving spirit
Much more than strength, to prove
How many things a child can do,
For others by its love.

THE SUNBEAMS

"Now, what shall I send to the earth today?"
Said the great, round, golden Sun.
"O! let us go down there to work and play."
Said the Sunbeams, every one.

So down to the Earth, in a shining crowd,
Went the merry, busy crew;
They painted with splendor each floating cloud
And the sky while passing through.

"Shine on, little Star, if you like," they cried;
"We will weave a golden screen
That soon all your twinkling and light shall hide,
Though the Moon may peep between."

The Sunbeams then in through the windows crept,
To the children in their beds—
They poked at the eyelids of those who slept,
Gilded all the little heads.

"Wake up, little children!" they cried in glee,
"And from Dreamland come away!
We've brought you a present; wake up and see!
We have brought you a sunny day!"

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

How many of the Wide Awakes, who read the story of the heroic deed of the Boston boy, who was badly burned while trying to rescue his grandmother from a burning building, thrilled at his daring and courage? Every boy and girl loves stories of brave deeds and pictures some happening when they themselves are the real hero or heroine.

We read stories of days gone by, tales of Washington the Father of our country, General Custer the Indian fighter, Paul Jones and many others and thrill at their courage. Those heroes of days gone by stand out among men and their names will always be seen in the pages of history for they were big men.

However, for those of us not destined to play such a prominent part in the world, there is always a chance to be heroic, to be brave and daring. By this is not meant, doing something because a friend dares you to do it to show that you are not afraid. One may accept a dare and do the thing they were asked to do, yet be cowards while doing it, for fear that they will lose the confidence of their friends and be laughed at for failure to take a dare.

There is plenty of opportunity to be brave in every day life. Remember the day when you fell and cut yourself. Were you brave then, or, did you play the part of the coward or "baby." The boy or girl who could stand the pain and take the bump without a whimper was being brave. It takes the same kind of stuff to stand the knocks of life with a smile that it does to play the part of a hero.

Perhaps it doesn't set your name in the papers but at least you know that you did not play the part of a coward. The power to say, "I will," when it is easier to say, "I cannot," is what makes big men and women. The boy or girl who has courage enough to do the right, when others do the wrong, are destined to become great men and women.

Every parent looks forward to the day when their boys and girls shall grow up and be successful in whatever line of endeavor they may select. They like to see the spirit of bravery and courage dominant in a child, for they know that this is the spirit that wins.

The coward or sissy is looked down upon by every red blooded boy and girl and as a rule are left out of the crowd when good times are had. The only real fun in life comes when one takes the hard knocks with a smile. It helps the weaker fellow take his knocks and look up to you as an example to follow, and, you yourselves, have the satisfaction of knowing that you have tried yourselves and have not been found wanting.

That is the type of boy and girl this country needs today, the kind of boy and girl who will "carry on" no matter what comes, always facing front ready to tackle and win when the next hard knock presents itself.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

MY PET DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: My little dog is a bull dog and his name is Sport. Now I will tell you how jealous he is. When I jump rope he takes the rope away and he wants me to notice him all the time. When I play with my doll he trys to get the doll, but I don't let him. When my girl friend comes to play with me he won't let her play. When she runs he runs after her and bites her, so it is hard for me to keep a girl friend.

Now I will tell you what he likes. He likes ice cream, candy and lots of other things. I hope that other little boys and girls have a dog like Sport.

ALICE G. TETREAULT, Age 9.
Versailles.

THE LITTLE STRANGER

Dear Uncle Jed: I'm sending you this letter to tell you that I've made a little story, as follows:

Not very long ago, in one of our cities out west a policeman was sitting on a box in front of a store. He felt something crawling up his legs. He caught it and held it up in his hands. He did not know what it was. At first he thought that it was a rat. But he had never seen a rat like that before. He took it to the police station and kept it for a while.

One day a policeman was passing a fruit store. He looked in the window and saw in a small glass show case a nest of seven baby animals just like the little stranger at the police station. He went in and asked the store keeper where he got them. "I found them in a bunch of bananas that just came from South America," replied the store keeper.

LAURETTA DESPATIE, Age 11.
Wauregan.

THE MOCKING BIRD

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for such a long time so I thought I would write and tell you about the Mocking Birds. The mocking bird is to the south what the robin is to the north. He is known as far north as British Columbia, but is seldom found nesting there, while those found in the south live there the year round. The female builds her nest the later part of March, lays greenish blue eggs speckled with brown in April and by May the eggs are hatched.

The mocking birds back is ashen gray, wings are browniah tinged with white patch and outer tail feathers are white and brown.

The dogs names are Freckles the Second and Tiperary Blue Boy.

The horses hauled in five loads of hay today so I suppose they will be very hungry when their master feeds them tonight.

Some day I will write and tell you about how they get in hay.

MILDRED WHITNEY, Age 11.
Willimantic.

HER FIRST LETTER

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl seven years old. I have two brothers, one five years and one two years old.

I have two baby kittens, one black and one gray. This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes so I will write again.

EDNA M. FRINK, Age 7,
Moosup.

A TRIP TO HARTFORD

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake circle. I am going to tell about my trip to Hartford.

Friday, July 18th, my mother, uncle and I went to Hartford. We went to the home of my aunt. On our way back we stopped at the Capitol. We went in and saw the statues of Hale, Governor Buckingham, Lafayette on his beautiful horse and the flags that were in the Civil war. The capitol was beautiful. Then we continued on home through the beautiful hills of Connecticut.

DORIS PETERSON, Age 11.
Norwich.

USEFULNESS OF BIRDS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy it. Birds are a helpmate to man. Although very small in size they are a great help. It is a common belief that were it not for the birds, man would not or could not live long; he would be unable to grow products. The owl eats field mice and snakes. The oriole and robin eats all worms and insects and this saves the farmer much trouble. The woodpecker saves the trees by destroying the insects that injure them and the pigeons are very useful by carrying messages for us.

When everything seems dreary we are cheered by their joyful carols. In the morning we are greeted by their morning songs. Another way we are aided by them as when they notify us that spring is here by their return from the south. Birds generally live near farmhouses where they feed on worms and insects.

MARGARET M. HAGGERTY, Age 13
Norwich

THE BALTIMORE ORIOLE

Dear Uncle Jed: As I was sitting idle, I thought I would write to you. I am going to tell you about the Baltimore oriole. It comes here early in May, and stays until the middle of September. The head, throat and the upper part is glossy black. The tail is black with yellow markings on the tip. The other feathers are orange. Their long nests hang from high branches of elm or sycamore trees. It is made of bits of string, silk threads and yarns, interwoven with shreads of bark and milkweed stalks. When there are hawks, the nest is made deeper than the customary seven inches and partly closed at the top, to conceal the sitting bird. The eggs are white scrowled with blackish brown. Their songs are clear, varied whistle or warble. They have a plaintift whistle. They eat caterpillars, beetles, ants, spiders, etc.

IETTA SECKTER, Age 11.
Norwich.

WRITES FOR FIRST TIME

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little girl nine years old. I have two sisters, one is five years, and one is eleven years. I have a little garden with some flowers and vegetables in it. I have not written to the Wide Awakes, so I will write more next time.

RETA M. FILLMORE, Age 9.
Moosup.

FAITHFULNESS REWARDED

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story for the Wide Awakes. I am doing it for two reasons, first, because I haven't written anything for them for a long time; second, because I would like to get another book. The first prize I received was very interesting. It was entitled, Risen from the Ranks.

This is the story. The minister told it in church one Sunday in connection with the text. Ye are faithful in little things, I will make thee ruler over many things.

A young man came from a foreign country with his mother and father. He had to work to help educate himself. He obtained work in a hotel as an errand boy.

One day a rich lady came to the hotel. She lived there several years. During that time the young man ran on errands for her. When she died she left the young

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

First Selectman John A. Gilbert, as tree warden of Killingly, has, upon the application of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company, set Aug. 14 as the date for a hearing on the matter of removing certain trees along the highway adjacent to the property of Ralph Tracy, in the northwestern section of the town. The hearing will be held at the office of the selectmen in the town hall building and will be public. Interested persons may attend and be heard if they so desire.

The petition to remove the trees in question, shade trees bordering the highway, is filed in view of the fact that the lighting company has plans for running a high tension line across the area now obstructed by the trees, this line to reach Attawaugan to furnish power for the plant of the Attawaugan company. Running a line carrying such a high voltage makes it essential that it be so arranged as to afford every protection to the traveling public. The trees in question are a possible source of danger, for a sagging wire might charge any one or all of the trees and cause death to anyone who might come in contact with them when so charged.

Mr. Gilbert is anxious that all interested may present themselves at the hearing and advance their views on the matter.

It so happens that an important commercial consideration—as to furnishing power for one of the important manufacturing plants of the town—is involved in this hearing. The trees themselves are not really valuable except as they add shade and picturesqueness to the locality where they stand. They have no great commercial value. Mr. Gilbert is desirous, however, that the hearing be attended by all who have any interest.

Inasmuch as numbers of residents of the town of Killingly are numbered among the depositors of the First National bank of Putnam, of which State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric has been the cashier, it appears from conversation with them that they would welcome some specific statement from the bank's officials relative to any operations of Mr. Gilpatric's that may have resulted unfortunately for the bank. This matter was a general topic of conversation here Sunday. The statement that the bank is solvent is accepted as correct and accepted without question. The depositors feel, however, at least in this territory, that a bank, being a semi-public institution, should repose as much faith in its depositors as its depositors do in entrusting to it their money. Summed up, the general opinion seems to be that something very definite be said—at once. If the bank stands to lose $10,000, why not say so? If the amount is more or less, why not say so? Hundreds of wild stories, apt to be very injurious, if unrefuted, would be spiked, it is held, by officials of the bank making some definite statement at this particular time.

Two youths who had stolen a can of meat from a refrigerator at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hatch on Main street later received some good and fatherly advice from Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill when they faced that official in his office Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Hatch are away on a vacation journey. Neighbors observed the raid made on the refrigerator and informed the state police. Officer A. W. Williams promptly apprehended the young men, who were temporarily resting in Davis park. They are youths of 17. One of them claimed Providence as his home, the other Cambridge, Mass. They had left their home cities to see the Big Village—little old New York. It was as harsh with them as it is with most people. They were heading homeward, riding trucks, when circumstances dropped them off in Danielson. They were hungry. At a bakery they offered to do work in exchange for some rolls they asked for—and received. Having eaten the rolls—on the park—they went across to the Hatch home to ask for a drink of water, found no one at home, discovered the refrigerator where it was handy of access and took the can of meat.

The still hungry boys listened repentantly to what Attorney Bill had to say to them, were warned of the folly and danger of such acts as they had committed here and then went along with Officer Williams, who offered to buy them "a side of beef" before starting them away for Providence.

An obstruction in the highway—probably a stone—is believed to have been responsible for Dr. S. B. Overlock's car dashing off the road, clicking against one pole and bringing up with a crash against another one Saturday afternoon while he was near Dayville Four Corners, on his way from Moosup to his home in Pomfret. The car—one that had seen much service—was so badly damaged that Dr. Overlock turned it over and will replace it with a new machine. Dr. Overlock, surgeon at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, escaped with no more serious injuries than a few minor scratches and cuts and a shaking up. He was feeling the effects of his experience Sunday, when he did not make his usual morning visit to the hospital, but in the afternoon was giving attention to his affairs again.

It was just after a thunder storm in this territory when Dr. Overlock's car figured in the accident and the wet surface of the highway, in addition to the obstruction the car struck, probably figured in the car going out of control.

Friday will be observed at St. James' church as the feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin. There will be special masses, the first at 5.30 a. m.

In numbers of instances housewives had difficulty with the gas supply Sunday and, therefore, were handicapped in getting meals.

Henry C. Morlich of New Bedford visited friends in Danielson over the week end.

Among the easiest things the mercury does these days is its daily climb to 90 degrees. It did it again Sunday.

A pair of aeroplanes winging their way over Danielson engaged the attention of many people at about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

One of the recent interesting catches at Alexander's lake, by one of the summer colony there, was a bass weighing three pounds.

Visitors from many parts of New England will be at Brooklyn for a sale of antiques scheduled to be held there this week.

Rev. Arthur Raymond Vegiard, who was celebrant Sunday at St. James' church of his first solemn high mass in this his home town, is to be assigned to Holyoke, where Rev. M. J. Ginet, M. S., a former Danielson pastor, is in charge.

Eiten E. Knight, after a brief visit here, has gone to Maine for a visit. A former teacher in Killingly's schools, he is to become principal of the Abraham Lincoln school in New Haven at the opening of the school year in September.

PUTNAM

A small number of Putnam people have thus far patronized the U. S. airplane mail service. About a dozen pieces of mail have been sent via airplanes and a like number received. Matter received at the Putnam postoffice with the special postage required is sent by a five-hour express train to New York, where it is put aboard the plane for its destination. The country is divided into three zones, the first as far west as the Ohio river, having an 8-cent rate, the second covering the middle west, requiring 16 cents while to the Pacific coast 24 cents is required.

W. H. Beach of Tamoe, Fla., has arrived in Putnam and taken possession of Mantup farm, in the Gary district, which he received in a deal with the former woner, Landlord E. C. Rogers of the Putnam inn, and in which Mr. Rogers acquirde a considerable property holding in Florida. Mr. Beach intends to restock Mantup farm with full bred cattle and conduct a modern dairy farm.

An excursen train which made up in Hartford picked up quite a number of Putnam people on its stop here. The excursion was to Boston and the train arrived in time to give the excursionists opportunity to spend the day at any of the many nearby beaches, or sightseeing about the Hub.

Philip Lapointe of North Grosvenordale was fined $25 in the city court Saturday morning after he had pleaded guilty to reckless driving. State Policeman Comstock told the court that he trailed the defendant's car through Grove street, School street, Mechanics street and to Mechanicsville and that defendant was driving at the rate of 35 to 40 miles an hour, regardless of anything, including intersecting streets. The only defense was that the young man did not realize he was going so fast.

Capt. William Jarvis of the Putnam police is having two weeks' vacation and is to leave this week on a motor trip to parts where fancy may lead him. During his absence Sergeant Laird will be in command and will be on duty days.

G. T. White, assistant general superintendent of the New York Central lines, arrived in Putnam Saturday in his private car. A party of people met the superintendent in an automobile and left the station. The car was put on a siding and it is understood will remain here for several days. The destination of the superintendent is not known, but it is believed that he joined relatives who are spending the summer in this section.

Some time ago it was called to the attention of city officials that there is a dangerous condition on South Main street, where the surface of the roadway near the rails of the trolley track has worn down. This forms deep ruts in which automobile wheels are liable to get caught, causing the driver to lose control of his car. The condition is serious.

Putnam people who have radio outfits will have an opportunity of tuning in on Station WFI, Philadelphia, Aug. 13th, at 3 p. m., daylight saving time, and hearing Misses Dorcas and Ruth Bartlett of this city and other members of the Festival Ladies' Quintet, which organization of musicians the Bartlett sisters have recently joined.

The Misses Bartlett have written their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, of Putnam, that rehearsals are progressing finely and that they are delighted with their new work, their surroundings, and the other members of the musical organization. The quintet opens on the Chautauqua circuit at Stockton Springs, Me., Aug. 22d for a tour of 150 cities and towns. The sisters with their ukeleles are the curtain raisers for the quintet.

During a thunder storm with a heavy downpour of rain that passed over Putnam Saturday afternoon lightning struck a barn on the Walter Rich place, Woodstock avenue, setting it on fire and damaging the interior, which was used as a garage. The loss will be several hundred dollars. The fire alarm was rung in at 2.10 from Box 32. This is a mile from headquarters and as the alarm sounded when the downpour was the hardest the firemen got a good drenching making the run. The fire was kept in the interior of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Rich being away, their automobile was not in the garage. The interior of the building was damaged and some articles of personal property, also some hay, were damaged or destroyed. The "all out" signal was rung at 3.50.

Rev. Simeon E. Cozad and family have returned from the west to Boston. Mr. Cozad has two calls to New England churches which he is considering. Mr. Cozad was formerly pastor of Putnam Congregational church, but resigned July 1st. He went to Nebraska, where he has a brother, with the intention of possibly locating in the middle west. The family, however, preferred to live in the east. Putnam friends of Mr. Cozad are pleased at his opportunity to resume preaching in this section.

Mrs. Douglas Fenewick, who has been spending the week at the Putnam inn and going back and forth to the hospital to visit her sister, Mrs. Freeman, returned Saturday to her home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradford and their daughter, Miss Marjorie Bradford, assistant clerk of the Windham county superior court, and Mrs. Ray Fuller and two children of Hampton have returned from an outing at Charlestown Beach, R. I.

Putnam horse fanciers were a bit disappointed in the showing made in Norwich by the two Putnam horses—Peter Boreal and Fair Worthy. It is understood that the reason was that the horses were not in good condition when the bell rang, one being a bit lame, while the other had a sore on its back.

GILPATRIC SHOOTING STILL AROUSING SYMPATHY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Aug. 10.—State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric had a restless night Friday night, but his condition Saturday morning was about the same as immediately following the trephining operation Friday afternoon, which was considered favorable, under the circumstances. He is declared to have a strong pulse and a strong constitution, but the most favorable factor in the possibility of his making a recovery is that he has determined to make a fight for life.

In the determination of Mr. Gilpatric to try to get well is evidenced the same thoughtfulness of others that he has always displayed. To him it seemed better that he should not recover, and he has so expressed himself. When relatives and friends implored him to make the fight, he replied: "If you want me to, I will." A very little encouragement was held out today that in the event that Mr. Gilpatric's battle for life is successful he may be able to see slightly from one eye. That the optic nerve is affected and in the event of recovery total blindness is probable, as told exclusively in this column Friday, was substantiated today by those close to Mr. Gilpatric.

If Mr. Gilpatric recovers, it will be for the same reason that he is where he is today—thoughtfulness of others and the desire to please everyone. Whatever may be the cause of the tragedy that entered Mr. Gilpatric's life and that of this community, no one believes, however wildly he may speculate as to the motive, that the conditions which led him to attempt his life arose in any selfish effort for himself. If he finds himself in financial straits, with heavy financial responsibilities and burdens, those who know him are a unit in the belief that it was trying to help, to do for and to benefit others than himself that led him into a trouble that he suffered alone, uncomplaining and with his cheerful smile, even at a time when he must have been contemplating his own end.

Wednesday Mr. Gilpatric was about the city as usual. No one noticed that he was not his normal self. Wednesday night, just before returning home for the last time before what he believed would be his end, he talked with friends as usual, and nothing was seen to cause so much as a comment that he was not his usual cheerful self. And all of that time he must have been suffering agonies that few ever experience.

These details, lost sight of following the shock of the tragedy, are now being recalled. A neighbor whose house is in the rear of the Gilpatric home recalls that he noticed the light in the Gilpatric bathroom burning late Wednesday night, that it was still burning Thursday morning and Thursday afternoon until Mr. Gilpatric had been found unconscious by his friends.

Mr. Gilpatrick entered his home alone Wednesday night. How he spent the night and the following day is not known. Some time he penned a note to his wife, the contents being of a personal nature and not made public. Here, alone, he tried to end his life; alone, as he had carried his burdens; without appeal to others, as he had been appealed to in the time of need. While in the city where he has lived so long and throughout the state were men who, had they known they could serve him, would have put their all at his disposal. But that was not his nature. He was willing to share others' burdens, but he refused to shift his burdens upon others.

The almost unanimous opinion is that financial straits and worries led to the deed. It is also the general belief that if he has erred in any way, of which there is at present no proof, his error was the result of a generous nature that could not say no to a friend. Whether or not he has aggerated his own position, if it ever becomes publicly known, his friends are convinced that it will be found that he has not personally benefited by any error of judgment he may have committed.

Conditions at the bank remained the same Saturday. The officials maintained their same non-committal attitude. It was stated at the bank that the bank examiners had refused to make a public statement and that the bank officials felt that this policy should be maintained. It has been iterated and reiterated that the bank is perfectly solvent and that this is accepted as so is evidenced by a continued absence of any alarm or uneasiness and by only nominal 100 per cent. withdrawals and by the nearly normal amount of deposits. It is understood that the bank examiners will be at the bank again Monday morning. While it was given out that they had completed an examination of the bank's books, it is believed that they are to make a further examination of Mr. Gilpatric's books, which examination, it is understood, has not been completed.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Friends of Rev. Marion H. Jones of Providence were pleased to greet her Sunday, the 3rd, when she occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church and made a brief visit in town, returning to Providence in the afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid society met Tuesday with Mrs. Nelson and in spite of the hot weather with the usual attendance. No more meetings are scheduled until after the lawn party.

Canterbury grange celebrated Neighbors' Night Wednesday, when thirty-three members of Killingly grange came to furnish the programme. There were also visitors from Putnam, Plainfield, Highland and Norwich granges. Sandwiches, cake and punch were served.

Fourteen members of Canterbury grange were at Plainfield Tuesday evening where they gave a programme in company with members from Ekonk.

Dr. Helen Baldwin of New York has been spending her vacation at the Baldwin homestead, at South Canterbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Frink and Mr. and Mrs. James Lathrop returned the past week from an automobile tour of nearly two weeks.

Francis Palmer, son of William Palmer, who formerly lived here, has been visiting his aunt, Miss Frances Palmer at the home form.

Thad Wilson, who is a civil engineer has recently gone to Rochester, where he will be employed for some time.

Mrs. Beadle, a former resident, has been visiting her nephew, Fred Safford and will also visit at the home of Henry Davis who bought and lives at her old home place.

Hiram Hawes and daughter attended the annual picnic of sportsmen at Gardner Lake, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodler have returned from a visit to New York, bringing a friend with them.

CHAPLIN

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mortimer of Glen Ridge, N. J., are visitors at the summer home of Herbert Plass.

Mrs. Herbert Plass and Mrs. Charles Mortimer took a pleasure trip by automobile to Plymouth and Cape Cod Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Russ moved into their new house at the south end of the village the past week.

Miss Florence I. Hunt is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Annie Cornell in Barrington, R. I.

NEW LONDON POLICE RAID HOUSE SAID TO BE OWNED BY OAKDALE MAN

The police raided the house at 653 Main street, occupied by George Silva, early this morning and as a result of the visit of the officers there Silva was taken into custody charged with conducting a disorderly house. James Santangelo, 32, of 13 Shaw avenue and Hazel Kaiser, 22, of 28 Starr street, were arrested charged with frequenting the place. Santangelo and the two girls were released from custody upon furnishing a surety on their bond of $100 each, for their appearance in the police court Monday morning. Silva was held for trial in a bond of $200.

The police observed Silva, Santangelo and the two girls enter the house early this morning and had knowledge that they did not reside there. After the two young men and girls had been in the place an hour or more, Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Michael Dorsey entered the place, the officers gaining admission shortly after 2 o'clock. The evidence the raiding force found there was such that it was apparent as to the purpose of the inmates and the quartette was placed under arrest. It is understood that Silva's father had just purchased the house but had not moved there from Oakdale with his family.

Louis Galeck stepped from a condition he mistook for wealth into poverty when he came to New London in a borrowed automobile last week. He came to a realization of his situation when he appeared in the police court here Saturday and pleaded guilty to reckless operation of an automobile, also to a charge of driving an automobile without a license. Galeck got gay [illegible] a machine that did not belong to him so that when he got here he said, he picked up a couple of flappers and started for Ocean Beach. Going along Ocean avenue he hit a pace that made Sergeant Hick, who happened along in his automobile, follow Galeck as he fairly flew past intersecting streets. Going by Glenwood avenue, which is regarded as one of the most dangerous spots on the road because there is a blind corner there, Galeck went at a speed of 35 miles. Officer Hick stopped him as soon after as he could get to him and demanded to know what idea Galeck had of speed. He also demanded to see the operating license of the New Britain youth. Galeck didn't have a license and he could not account for speeding, so Officer Hick ordered him into court the following day. Galeck didn't appear. When he made his appearance Saturday he tried to explain that he didn't have the money to pay his carfare here, so he couldn't show up in court. He meekly pleaded guilty and said that he would have to walk home if he was fined. He was fined, just the same, for he was ordered to pay $35 for the joint offense, also to pay the costs of the trial. Leniency was shown to him in that he was given six months in which to settle.

Spectators in the police court were led to ask Saturday what is to be the limit of wages and to inquire to what use the earners put their money after they earn it. Three New Haven youths, Sam Sawicky a "short" man in a restaurant—that is one who is employed in emergency when a man is needed; Joseph J. Bradley, a milk pedlar, and Edward Christian, a painter who receives a dollar an hour when he works, were charged with stealing rides on a freight car on the New Haven road. They got on at New Haven to come here for an outing. They left the train long before it got into the railroad yard, that is at Maple avenue, thinking that they could get away undetected. A fourth fellow with them thought right for he made his escape. The others were grabbed by police in the employ of the road, headed by Officer Martin Kane. Christian had $10 but there was no more money in the crowd. The court ordered that Christian's $10 should be taken by the probation officer to buy tickets for the three as far as New Haven and that the youths should use the tickets and stay away from New London in the future. What a man who can earn a dollar an hour at work with a paint brush is doing stealing a ride on a freight car was a [illegible] to all who heard the case. Why he should be paid any such sum was as great a mystery as was the fact that he was a tramp, going about without purpose in the world.

Rev. Kenneth C. McArthur, Cambridge, Mass., occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church, both morning and evening, today, in the absence of Rev. Chester H. Howe, who is having a fortnight's vacation.

The New York police have requested the New London authorities to maintain a watch for the sloop Amateur, owned by a Brooklyn resident, which, it is believed, has been stolen. The Amateur is the craft which left Block Island several weeks ago with a trio of New York and Brooklyn young men aboard. The occupants of the craft are believed to have been lost and the boat has since been sailed to a port, believed to be Fishers Island. The request was turned over to the United States Coast Guard officers here, who have been causing a lookout to be made for several weeks for the missing craft or bodies of the men who sailed on the boat. The men feared to have been drowned are Edward S. Riconda, John Roden and Harold D. Hudson.

John J. Murphy, 126 Connecticut avenue, and Thomas O'Loughlin, 74 Cabot street, Hartford, were arrested Friday night, charged with violation of the automobile in Waterford, through each failing to give the other the right of way, thereby creating a condition of danger. Before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton each was fined $5. Both Murphy and O'Loughlin took an appeal. Murphy became surety on O'Loughlin's bond of $26 for appearance at the next term of the court of common pleas and Thomas Giordani became surety on Murphy's bond. Murphy and O'Loughlin were operating their machines at an alleged speed of 35 miles an hour near Mossbroker's corner when spotted by State Police Officer Stephen R. Stanton, of the Groton barracks and taken into custody.

Louis Ginsberg, a Waterford groceryman, was prosecuted on a charge of trespass instituted by his landlord, Frederick L. Goss. The evidence tended to show that the prosecution of Ginsberg was one of spite and for that reason Justice Morton reserved decision. Gunsberg is alleged to have passed over other property of Goss where the former procured a pail of well water and the act of Ginsberg in entering upon the Goss land constituted the trespass charge.

Joseph Gordon managed to extricate himself from a bad case of dishonesty Saturday. He was charged with the embezzlement of $160 from his employers, P. Adel and company, wholesale fruit dealers. Gordon said he was guilty, and had he not said so the state was in possession of facts that would have proven him guilty. Before the case could get a start, his attorney announced that Gordon had effected a settlement with Adel and had given him notes that would wipe out the entire indebtedness to Adel. Attorney Hollandersky, who was acting as prosecutor, balked at the idea of a settlement of this sort as he regarded it as making a collection agency of the court, but he did not insist on that view of the matter when Judge Prince represented that Gordon had no criminal record and inasmuch as he need not have one if he paid the notes he gave, the judge so he continued the hearing until the first of next January.

William and Annie Steiler, Station 6, Waterford; Richard and William Kip, Williams street, Mrs. Lillie Gladstein, Ocean Beach; Miss Barbara Chapman, Mystic, and Miss Nellie Kutz, East Lyme, patients at the Lawrence hospital, were discharged Sunday.

A girl who declared that she was Margaret Connor, and that she resided at Ocean Beach, was taken into custody at 2.30 o'clock this morning by Patrolman John Hogan, the girl apparently being of unsound mind. She was later released after having been examined by City Physician George P. Cheney. The girl was observed walking along Pequot avenue by Patrolman Hogan, who questioned her. The girl declared that she resided at the home of Mrs. Watson at Ocean Beach. The [illegible] accompanied the girl to the Watson home and there Miss Watson denied that the girl ever had a residence with her. Upon being examined at the police station City Physician Cheney did not consider the girl's mentality such as to warrant her being detained.

Samual Blonder, plumber, 696 Bank street, reported to the police Saturday that his place of business was entered by a thief Friday night and that $4 or $5 was stolen from a cash drawer. The police discovered that entrance was gained by removing a wire screen from a rear door, permitting the door to be unlocked.

L. H. Beebe, 154 Connecticut avenue, has lodged complaint with the police because of residents at 159 making so much noise late at night that the slumber of the Beebe family is greatly disturbed.

Octave Gagne, of Norwich, employed on the steamer Cape Cod of the Thames River line, was arrested Saturday night on North Bank street, near the corner of State street, by Patrolman Clarence Martin, charged with intoxication. He furnished a surety on his bond of $25 for his appearance in the police court Monday forenoon in John Kenny another employe of the boat.

Stella Robbins was found in a helpless state of intoxication on Golden street, Saturday night, by Patrolman Frank Philopena. She was arrested and furnished a surety on her bond for appearance in the police court on Monday morning.

George Liakopoulos, 382 Trumbull street, Hartford, was arrested this morning by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with reckless driving. Liakopoulos was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile owned and driven by Perlin W. Soule, 81 Main street, Monson, Mass., collided with a motionless trolley car of the Connecticut company this afternoon on Truman street. The step of the trolley car, which was of the one-man type, was ripped away. Soule was arrested by Patrolman Thomas Leyden charged with reckless driving. He furnished a bond of $75 for appearance in the police court Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jordan Clark, of Broad street, spent Saturday and today with relatives in Glen Rock, N. J. They made the trip by automobile.

James V. Angelitte, 19 High street, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer William Corcoran, charged with operating an automobile, which was equipped with defective brakes. The machine was operated on the grade approaching the union station on State street and narrowly escaped collision with other vehicles. Angelitte did not possess an operator's license. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile owned and driven by Adam Lapkowsky, 30 Lincoln avenue, struck Mrs. May Pierson of Bank street, early this evening on Bank street, near the corner of State. Mrs. Pierson was crossing the street and in the heavy automobile traffic was run down by the Lapkowsky car. She regained her feet quickly and stated that she had not received any injury.

The automobile owned and driven by Abraham Krueger, 5 Colt street, Norwich, struck a motionless car on Water street this evening, the latter car being damaged. The damaged machine carried registration 60-550 and was a Ford. The owner was not located, Krueger [illegible] known the fact that he was responsible for the damage to the car by reporting the accident at the police station.

The New Haven police reported to the local authorities this evening that a Studebaker automobile bearing registration A-6342, had been stolen from that city and requested that a lookout for the machine be maintained.

About 50 employes of the city and several of the members of the city council enjoyed an outing at Red Top Saturday afternoon. The day was spent in popular diversions and with feasting, a chowder being served at noon and a clambake at 4 o'clock, the latter being provided by Fire Chief Charles Rose.

Mrs. Francis Johnson and two children, of Willimantic, spent Saturday and Sunday with E. C. Peck and family, of 54 Golden street.

Misses Josephine Longo and Florence O'Meara, of Hartford, have returned home, having visited several days with Miss Josephine Irlandi, of 84 Ocean avenue.

Petitions nominating Thomas F. Gragan for member of council and Lawrence S. M. Cook for selectman, were filed late Saturday with City Clerk Julian D. Moran. The time limit for filing of petitions has now expired. Mr. Gragan is at present a member of the city council and Mr. Cook is chairman of the board of selectmen.

Residents in the vicinity of Vauxhall and Ledyard streets, including City Manager William A. Holt, tonight lodged complaint with the police because of the actions of horses pastured in a lot owned by Mrs. Annie Hislop. Of three horses there one was being bitten by the other two and the horse attacked neighed so loudly that residents complained.

FITCHVILLE MAN'S CAR DAMAGED IN COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Aug. 10.—An automobile owned and driven by Alfred Hallett, manager of the New London store of the Mohican company and a machine owned and operated by Joseph R. Rinehart, of Fitchville, were in collision this evening on Truman street, at the corner of Blinman. Rinehart's car was considerably damaged, the radiator being smashed, as were the fenders and headlights. Hallett's car was also damaged.

Rinehart's car was headed in a southerly direction and awaited the passage of several cars going in the opposite direction at Blinman street. When Rinehart supposed the last of the string of cars had passed he operated his car toward Blinman street and before the machine reached that street the car operated by Hallett and without headlights showing, it is claimed, crashed against the front end of Rinehart's car. Rinehart made a report of the accident at the police station.

WHAT OF MAINE?

With the state election only a month away, the republicans of Maine have learned that Mr. Brewster and not Mr. Farrington is to be their candidate for governor. Mr. Brewster wins after the uncovering of a scandalous state of affairs on primary day when the ballot boxes in the fourth Portland ward were stuffed in favor of Mr. Farrington in a manner as brazen as it was stupid. The testimony of such Ward 4 voters who dared to come forward and tell, under oath, how they voted revealed the way the primary vote had been made to appear in favor of Mr. Farrington.

In view of all the circumstances it is scarcely to be expected that Maine will give this year what might be described as an old-fashioned republican majority, but that is not an indication that the democrats will elect Mr. Pattangall governor. Such claims are the expression of a hope rather than a probability. Notwithstanding democratic efforts to confine the contest to local issues and belittle the idea of its national significance, national issues will tend to bring the republicans together at the polls. Maine, in addition to choosing a governor, legislature and county officials, will elect a United States senator and four congressman. That in itself is answer to the claim that the election will be only of local significance. A republican victory in Maine is of importance to the republican cause in the nation. In the states of the northwest it would have an unsettling effect to have it said that the democrats had carried the Pine Tree state. Here in New England the nature of the Maine struggle is well understood but that is not likely to be so in the states beyond the Mississippi. There the verdict that Maine gives at the polls will be significant. It would be difficult in the west to explain the election of a democratic governor in Maine, even if the advertising of the democratic committee were reproduced with its claim that the contest is of local significance only.

This is a fact to be borne in mind by Maine republicans. It is true that the November figures do not always bear out the cry that "As Maine goes so goes the Union," but it is not true that the country can be brought to look upon the Maine election as settling a purely local contest. So the republicans of Maine will not be unmindful of the fact that what they do in September will have its influence in November. A republican victory in Maine will be a national asset.

AGREEMENT WITH RUSSIA.

Little surprise was evinced when, on Tuesday, there came the news that the Anglo-Russian conference in London had broken down. When, however, on Wednesday, it was announced that the British and the Russian delegations had reached full agreement, there was astonishment—and skepticism.

Does this mean, the world asked itself, that a way has been discovered by which a state upholding communistic and revolutionary aims can be taken into the family of respectable nations? If so, the agreement is of the first importance. If Great Britain can reconcile itself with sovietism, then perhaps France and the United States can go and do likewise.

Certain skeptics in the British parliament, however, find it difficult to believe that the agreement means anything like this. Suppose the Russians have merely consented to take into consideration the repayment of a part of Russia's pre-war debts, not as a matter of principle, but merely in order to get from England a loan.

If this is all the agreement amounts to, it means little or nothing to any other nation. Under the impression that the agreement goes no further, Lloyd George called it a fake.

It is well known that Prime Minister MacDonald is laying high political stakes on his ability to regularize Anglo-Russian relations. Before he assumed office he pledged the labor party to do just this thing. Rather than fail, he would take almost any agreement.

If the vital issues that cut off Russia from the rest of the world have which means much politically to MacDonald, means little to Great Britain and less to the rest of the world.

THE TARIFF AND THE FARMER.

At frequent intervals democratic editors and orators work themselves into great indignation about the hardships brought upon the American farmer by the iniquitous republican tariff.

"Why does the republican party," they ask, "pretend to be trying to do something for the farmer when by the protective tariff it is increasing the prices of the things he must buy to live and carry on his work?"

Then they add that increasing the tariff on wheat at the request of the American farmers was a futile gesture, because it was not accompanied by a reduction of the tariff on the things the farmer buys.

Farm machinery, of course, is one of the things the farmer buys pretty freely, although not annually, as some of his frock-coated friends seem to think. The fact that every article of farm machinery, plows, harrows, headers, harvesters, reapers, threshing machines, wagons, carts, "and all other agricultural implements of any kind and description not specifically provided for in whole or in part, including repair parts," are on the free list of the Ford-McCumber act is not alluded to by these oracles.

Binding twine, hones, whetstones, fertilizers, natural and chemically made, oil cake and oil cake meal, fence posts, barbed wire, coal, wood, crude oil, leather, shoes and other necessaries of the farm are all on the free list. As a matter of fact, about the only things the farmer requires on which duties are levied by the tariff law are certain cotton and wool clothing that he wears, and the odd thing about that is that he demands those duties himself for the protection of his industry.

Fervid excitement and an earnest wish for the welfare of the farmer and the destruction of the republican party are all right, natural and proper. Nobody wants to interfere with the full exercise of these enjoyments. But the tariff is too often discussed and blamed by folks who do not know what goods are on the free list and what ones are subject to the tariff.

OUR PAPER SUPPLY.

..In a bulletin published by the forest service of the United States department of agriculture the information is given that the paper used in 1922 in this country weighed 8,000,000 tons, or sixteen billion pounds, which represents nearly 150 pounds for every man, woman and child in the United States. The paper used in a year weighs more than the population. Of the total paper consumption in 1922, newsprint, which is made from wood pulp, called for 2,450,000 tons, or thirty-one per cent of the total requirements. Wood pulp is used for the manufacture of other kinds of paper, and the bulletin contains a plea for better provision for meeting our needs. Consumption long ago outran the domestic supply of wood pulp. At the present time more than half the paper we use is imported either as paper or as pulp and pulp wood. Consumption is increasing and it is predicted by the federal authorities that in another twenty-five years the 8,000,000 tons needed now will have become 11,000,000 tons.

But the problem is not without solution, according to the experts, and that solution is in the increase of home production of wood pulp. It is said that the great soft wood forests of Washington, Oregon, California and Alaska, together with the pine forests of the south, contain ample supplies of wood suitable for the paper making for the immediate future and that something can be expected through limination of waste in manufacture and increase in the number of woods used in the pulping process.

It may be added that here is a hint for New England. There are still large forest areas in our northern states. The pulp and paper industry is one of the largest and most valuable of the region. It has caused the springing up of prosperous towns in the wilderness. It gives employment to large numbers of people. Clearly it will be good business to foster, in every way practicable, the care of the nearby forests that this business may be, in the greatest degree possible, freed from dependence on foreign sources of supply for its raw materials. It is well to have public attention here and elsewhere directed to the question. It is of general concern. Incidentally it serves to remind us that the forests of northern New England are among its assets of great worth.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Don't take a chance with very fine silks and muslins, but iron them with a piece of cambric laid over them.

A small piece of orange peel in the teapot gives the tea a pleasing flavor and makes a less expensive blend taste like an imported brand.

It is pretty difficult to copy filet lace patterns from newspaper diagrams, and perhaps the easiest method on the eyes is to draw a pencil through each line as it is finished.

Stewed rhubarb is so good for the system that we like to see each member of the family eating some. Sometimes a dab of whipped cream on the serving will do the trick.

No kitchen is complete without a soap shaker. All bits of soap that accumulate in the house may be put therein, and a few shakes in the dish water will mean a lovely lather. All boiling down of soap is avoided if this utensil is used.

When your garments are returned from the cleaner in large bags, save the bags. They are certain to come in handy when you want to store articles.

A number of mirrors will add size to the small room.

First aid supplies should be in the medicine closet of every home.

The ice pick is a fine weapon to punch holes in the cleaner powder can.

SPANGLES APPEARING

Spangles are appearing at present on the latest evening frocks. In midnight blue or black chiffon, some of these frocks are powdered with spangles like the sky with stars.

EGG TESTS

A good egg will sink in water. A good boiled egg will adhere to the shell and prove difficult to separate. The shell of a fresh egg has a slightly rough appearance, while that of a stale egg is glassy and smooth. When the boiled egg is done and the shell dries quickly on removing from the water you can know it is fresh.

USE OF OSTRICH TIPS

Whatever should we do without the ostrich? At this instant he decorates our evening cloaks, our frocks, our hats—and our bracelets. A tortoise-shell bracelet rimmed with tiny yellow ostrich tips is one of the season's novelties.

WEEK END CLOTHES

Week end clothes are somewhat of a problem to the girl whose dress allowance is rather limited. It is essential that everything should be appropriate, but with luggage reduced to the minimum each article must be chosen with a definite idea as to its purpose.

At some places one wears sports clothes for the greater part of the day, changing into evening frocks for dinner. At other resorts, however, it is noticed that the formal afternoon gown is worn by the smartest women.

The girl who is wise will select her summer wardrobe according to a well planned color scheme so that every integral part is in harmony with the other. At the moment combinations of white and black are smart, while both gray and beige are favorably regarded, with gray perhaps a bit more fashionable. All white is chic, and may be varied by clever accessories in which a note of bright color is introduced.

PLENTY OF AIR

Don't forget to keep the cellar windows open on the sunshiny days. It does not take long for the cellar to become damp and musty if not ventilated during the summer weather.

WICKER AND GLASS

A compact and useful little table is made of wicker painted white, with two trays glass covered and lined with cretonne, one above the other. A delightful piece of furniture for a child's room.

OF PAINTED LEATHER

A sports coat of great charm is made of white leather painted with an allover mottled effect in tan and light brown. Around the bottom of the hemlength coat are two wide flounces of brown suede.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Silk wraps come in with the coming of warmer weather. They are equally chic as cloaks or capes and have this season delightful trimmings of feathers as well as fur.

A novel afternoon frock is of pale green crepe. Its trimming is a deep, circular fringe of suede in tones of darker green.

Hats of duvetyn and silk velver are already making their appearance and give up a very good idea of what is in store for us in the way of fall millinery.

A jeweled net cap, after the manner of Juliet's, has been designed for the flapper who does not wish her bobbed hair to flap at a formal dance.

Forgetmenots as head bands for blonds are coming into vogue. A young girl in the Berkeley hotel, London, the other evening wore a head band of forgetmenots, which went beautifully with her blond hair and mist-gray frock.

ADAPT MANDARIN COAT

The oriental influence has at last reached the swimming costume. Its latest phase is a mandarin coat of figured Chinese silk, held in place at the hips by big buttons. Beneath this is worn a modified form of Chinese trousers.

NEW FASHION NOTE

Last summer belts could not be narrow enough. This season instead of mere strips of colored leather one sees belts anywhere from three to five inches wide. This is a new fashion note that has quietly crept into the modes of the summer but it is one of distinct importance. Flannel sport frocks of gay plaided flannel are completed by wide belts of suede or patent leather that repeat in color the dominant shade in the design, and even bathing suits of vivid printed silks or handblocked linens are distinguished as being of this year's mode by their extremely wide belts. Needless to say a fashion of this kind is only to be taken up by the slim. However, when properly worn, there is a certain chic about these wide belts that accounts for their undoubted vogue.

FOR THE PIPE SMOKER

The average man must be just a little tired of receiving gifts of cigarette cases and will probably welcome a well made case of fine black leather that contains a particularly fine pipe, small match safe of antique silver, and a flat tobacco pouch of brown suede.

THREE OF A KIND

For sand or garden a play apron of cretonne with a matching hat and bag will delight the soul of the littlest girl in the house.

WHEN DOLLY BREAKS

To mend a broken doll quickly bind tightly with strips of adhesive plaster. It will hold the broken parts firm for quite a while.

DECORATIVE BOWL

An exquisite decoration for the center of the dining room table consists of a large bowl of bluish white glass upon the sides of which are etched or brown graceful fish. The bowl is filled with wild roses made of sea shells.

ABOUT WOMEN

Nine women now sit in the Denmark Parliament.

Nearly 9,000 farms in Missouri are superintended by women.

England has nearly 6,000,000 women engaged in gainful occupations.

Miss Alice N. Leonard has just been elected Treasurer of Newport, R. I.

At the age of 70 years, Miss Emma S. Brown, of Philadelphia, has just retired from the government service after 57 years of continuous service in the treasury department.

In Germany the new government holds a place for women as well as the men.

FOR PICTURE HANGING

A stick with a notch in the end will be found a great help in taking pictures from the walls. The picture wire slips right into the notch and makes climbing up and down unnessary.

CHANGES IN PRICES

Nearly all foods have a seasonal rise and fall in price. By learning these you can buy when prices are reasonable and save money.

BETTER FLAVOR

In buying meat bear in mind that flecks of fat all through the fibers mean that it will be more tender and have better flavor than if it did not have them.

SHADE HAT IS HERE

The floppy shade hat is here and welcome. In a soft straw which droops gracefully this type of hat adds to its picturesque effect by quantities of drooping plumes.

RECIPES

Mutton and Pork Sausage: Sausage can be made from mutton mixed with pork in much the same way as beef is used for similar purposes. A general formula would be: Mutton, two parts; lean fresh pork, one part, and fat pork, one part, with salt and seasoning to suit the taste. Such sausage can be made into cakes and cooked at once or may be packed in skins or bags in the usual way. Homemade sausage is usually kept frozen. When this is not possible small quantities may be made for immediate use.

Frozen Orange Whip: Boil one cup of sugar and two-thirds cup of water until it spins a thread or 238 degrees Fahrenheit on the sugar thermometer. Add the grated yellow rind of two oranges and one-third cup of orange juice, cover and keep in a warm place one hour; then cool. Beat two cups of triple cream until stiff and add, gradually, the orange sirup. Cut two oranges in halves crosswise and remove the pulp and separate in small pieces. Pour the juice from the two oranges into a brick shaped mold; then dispose over juice alternate layers of cream and orange pulp until mold is full to overflowing. Adjust the cover securely and pack in equal parts of crushed ice and rock salt. Let stand three hours.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Child Labor Amendment

Mr. Editor: Very misleading articles on the Child Welfare Amendment are being sent out broadcast in opposition to it—as the opponents can not find reasonable arguments against it, they have resorted to such foolish arguments as the following, "Johnnie can not help his dad rush a load of hay to the barn, whether they get paid or not, Saturday night just as a thunder shower is coming up, nor can Mary help her mother wash the dishes so that the family can get an early start for the shore."

Only the crazy, ignorant or thoughtless voters will be influenced in the least by such ridiculous statements, unfortunately there are many such that will be frightened or influenced by them.

What is the text of the Amendment, Section 1. The congress shall have power to prohibit the labor of persons under the age of eighteen years and to prescribe the condition of such labor.

Section 2. The reserved power of the several states to legislate concerning the labor of persons under the age of eighteen years shall not be impaired or diminished except to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the congress. The amendment does not prohibit all labor of all persons under the age of eighteen. The law is to protect children from such exploitation as would injure their health or interfere with their right to be educated. As I understand the amendment it grants to congress the power to legislate incurrently with the states, which means that the power now exercised by the states will not in any way, be diminished. All that is asked by the voters is a grant of power broad enough to enable congress to legislate according to the needs and the public conscience of the towns. Such is the summing up of this Child Welfare Amendment by Senator Medill McCormick when he introduced the proposed amendment he surely ought to know better than any of these irresponsible writers who are interested in exploiting children in gainful labor

The last census shows that since the Child Labor Amendment was received, that in spite of the great increase in the child population, child labor in the factories, fields and canneries has increased at frightful rates. The increase in 11 cities is 57 per cent., in 14 cities 24 per cent., 5 cities 100 per cent., while in others it has run up to 800 per cent.

We may hoot at law and say it does not prohibit but—no sane person can gainsay such fails.

In Waterbury, Conn., nearly eight times as many children received work permits in 1923 as in 1922. To all who believe that children are safer while employed in work than at play let them stand face to face with the fact that in the beet fields the backs of boys and girls there employed are made crooked. In two counties alone in Colorado there are 715 children under 6 years of age and 1,400 between 6 and 16 at work in the fields from 3 to ten hours a day for weeks at a time, reports tell us. If you do not know or believe it write to Miss Grace Abbott, Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. Yes, she will tell you what in the oyster and shrimp canneries Louisiana children of 8 and 10 and 13 are working from six o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night. Do you wonder that Louisiana does not want the Child Labor Amendment? Have you ever opened oysters and shrimps. If you have you must know what cruel work it is for hours at a time. Talk about the Dark Ages! Every state that thus exploits its children for gain is as cruel as the darkest of Dark Ages.

Do you know that in Georgia, where this amendment has already been rejected that orphans or children of widowed mothers may work in factories at the age of 12 and may be worked sixty hours a week and after they are 14 1-2 they may legally work all night? If you do not get busy and ask Miss Grace Abbott.

If the child labor amendment does not pass then it will show that the women of America are either grossly heartless or thoughtless. For they 26,000,000 have the power to say that children shall not be exploited by heartless, money grabbing corporations. These millions of women must have influence over the men folk in their household. Have the mothers of the nation less heart than congress, that has passed the child labor amendment in the interest of the childhood of the nation?

Women are on trial as well as men. The women are especially on trial because this is their opportunity to show how they will use their vote. I believe the amendment will pass.

AMANDA C. ROBINSON

Boston, Aug. 9th, 1924.

Citing extreme conditions in the beet fields or the shrimp industry, which ought to be changed, is not a logical reason for supporting a law which would prevent young people of 16-17 years old engaging in gainful occupations, which in many cases would not harm them, but be of positive value to them.—Editor.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Admiral Sir Charles E. Madden, who has been appointed Admiral of the Fleet, the chief position in the British Navy, remembered on this side as having been commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet from 1919 to 1922. From his youth Sir Charles was brough up on the best traditions of the navy, so that, when the time came for him to choose a career, it was only natural that she should elect the navy. Prior to the great war he was rear-admiral in command of the third and second cruiser squadrons in the home fleet. After the outbreak of the war, he was appointed chief of staff to the admiral commanding-in-chief, at that time Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, who happens also to be his brother-in-law. At the battle of Jutland, Admiral Madden served with distinction, and was mentioned in dispatches. In 1917 he became second in command of the Grand Fleet. In character he is earnest and reserved, firm and ready for emergencies, and he bears the reputation of being a stanch friend.

Bryan's Many Unsuccessful Efforts

William Jennings Bryan achieved brilliantly in boyhood and youth, then had to drink defeat to its bitterest dregs when he most desired success.

Raised on a farm near Salem, Ill., he was taught by his mother until he was ten years old. Then he attended public school and at 15 entered Whipple Academy at Jacksonville. At 17, he enrolled in the University of Illinois, where he was leader in his classes, and in literary and debating societies, won first prize in oratory and was valedictorian.

After studying law in the Union Law School of Chicago he was admitted to the bar and at 23 began to practice at Jacksonville, Ill. The start was slow, and he had to borrow money to keep on.

Business turned for the better, he was married at 24 and three years later moved to Lincoln, Nebr., where he had to start again at the bottom of the legal ladder. His eloquence won him prompt recognition and he was elected to Congress, where he made a reputation as an orator. Reelected he became a candidate for the senate, and was defeated.

In 1896, at the Democratic National convention in Chicago, he made a brilliant speech in favor of free silver, swept the delegates off their feet, and was nominated for president. He made a nation-wide campaign, but was defeated.

During the Spanish-American War he was colonel of the Third Nebraska Volunteers but did not see action. In 1900 he again ran for president and lost. He established the weekly Commoner. He made a tour of the world and in 1908 was once more a presidential candidate, and for the third time met defeat.

In 1913 he was appointed Secretary of State by President Wilson's cabinet and concluded treaties with 30 countries in a plan to insure peace. Then came the dispute with Wilson over a note to Germany, which was followed by his resignation.

Leader of his party longer than any other man except Henry Clay, Bryan, at 64, is still active in public affairs and from his beautiful home in Florida takes prominent part in many discussions of the day.

Tomorrow—Rea Needed Great Patience.

Stories That Recall Others

ALL SAID

A shopkeeper had in his employ a man so lazy as to be utterly worthless.

One day, his patience exhausted, he discharged him.

"Will you give me a character?" asked the lazy one.

The employer sat down to write a noncommittal letter. His effort resulted as follows:

"The bearer of this letter has worked for me one week and I am satisfied."

ONE ON THE GEOGOLIST

The late Charles P. Steinmetz was fond of telling this story: A geologist one day saw a laborer digging flints from chalk. "Do you think flints grow?" he asked the man.

"I don't think nothing about it," was the positive answer. "I know they grow."

The geologist laughed.

Take one home then and put it on the mantel and watch it grow.

"All right, I will," said the laborer. "And you do the same with a pertater and see how much that growa."

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

"It is not a town but only a tiny coastal fishing village, where American airmen will come to rest on their first stop in Iceland," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "Hornafjordur or Hornafiord has two points in its favor as an air station: it is within a mile or so of being the closest Icelandic point to the Faroe Islands whence the air men are flying; and its waters are almost landlocked. Another valuable feature is the ease of finding the place. A few miles inland behind Hornafjordur rises the shimmering white Vatna Sokull, one of the highest points in Iceland.

"Reykjavik, the other Icelandic stopping place of the flyers is near the southwestern corner of the island, facing Greenland. This community of 15,000 inhabitants is the capital of Iceland, and the only place on the island that can claim the title, 'city.'

"Throughout the 1050 years of Iceland's occupancy by people of European extraction, it has been practically a country without cities. Life has centered in the scattered farmsteads, many of which today are somewhat feudal establishments, sufficient to themselves. The characteristic farm buildings are encased in sod and appear to be set partly in the ground.

"No grain can be grown because of the short growing season. The farmers raise turnips and potatoes, but give most of their attention to hay and their herds of cattle and ponies, and their flocks of sheep. Fishing is carried on along the coasts. Another industry of importance is the collection of eiderdown from nests of the eider duck.

"Reykjavik has been dubbed by one unsympathetic writer 'the ugliest city in Europe,' but Icelanders can controvert the charge both on the technical grounds that it isn't in Europe, and on the solider one that recent years have brought improvement in appearance.

"During Iceland's long townless period Reykjavik was a tiny fishing village and local trading center. When it began growing the lack of timber in Iceland was made good by the use of corrugated sheet iron and the resulting buildings did not make for attractiveness. There is still a 'tinny' look to parts of the capital, but many substantial buildings have arisen, including the large stone House of Parliament. Tied down for centuries by galling trade monopoly laws, Iceland has won almost complete independence in recent years and is associated with Denmark now under what amounts to a voluntary and limited partnership.

"Reykjavik means 'smoking creek.' As in many parts of volcanic Iceland, there are hot springs near the city. A characteristic sight in the Icelandic capital is the procession of women carrying tubs and clothes going to and from this natural laundry.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

IN THE NORTH COUNTRY

Well, as soon as Little Jack Rabbit put on the fur overcoat, the mittens and cap, which the little brown mink and the kind blind mole, and the generous little gray squirrel had given him, he set out for the cold north country, where I told you he was going in the last story, to see the silly king who wished to paint all the crows white in Rabbit Land.

Well, the farther the bunny boy hopped, the colder it grew, and by and by, the snow began to fall and the winds to blow, and it wasn't easy traveling, let me tell you. No sir, it was all he could do to plough through the deep drifts and by and by he couldn't hop at all.

"Oh, dear me! I shall freeze, I know I shall," he cried, looking about to find shelter from the chilly wind.

They ate in the kitchenette

Just then all of a sudden, a little old woman peered out of a doorway in a big tree and said:

"Come into my Tree House, little bunny."

And would you believe it, the inside of that great tree was fixed on just like your house or my flat. It had a little kitchenette with a stove and a cupboard, and next to it was a little room with table and chairs, and upstairs in the top of the tree trunk was a nice little bedroom with a four poster bed and a chest of glass.

There was an old woman who lived in a tree,
And she was as happy as happy could be,
For in summer the birdies sang all day long,
And in the cold winter the wind sang a song.
And her little old stove kept her warm as could be,
And the smoke blew away through the top of the tree.

"Now take off your boots and warm your toes by the fire," said the kind old woman, "while I get you some turnip tea."

So, pulling off his boots the tired bunny boy made himself at home while the old woman went out the back door to another big tree in which she had her stable, where she kept a spotted cow and a little donkey on which she rode to market in the good old summer time.

After milking the spotted cow, for it was toward evening, you see, and milking time she came back to her little house and made some nice turnip tea. Then she made two or three pancakes and I wish to goodness that old lady had made some for me, for I'd love to eat a cake made by an old lady who lived in a tree house.

"Now my dear," she said clearing off the little kitchen table, for they hadn't eaten in the dining room as the tiny kitchen stove didn't throw out enough heat to warm the rest of the Tree House, "you must spend the night here, and tomorrow morning you can set out for the Snowflake country." And next time you shall hear how little Jack Rabbit reached that strange cold region.

CHILD TRAINING

A Tip From Pueblo Indian Mothers

Zahrah E. Preble

The Pueblo Indians in New Mexico, especially the Zunis, have acquired a wisdom about training their children which could well be emulated by the parents of other races.

The Indian mother trains her child from its birth. There are certain tribal ceremonies, based upon a deep religious concept of life, which, they believe, must be observed in order to insure the child strength, health and keenness of mind.

The Indian mother says that the brain and thoughts of the child are forming during its first year, and that it should be kept quiet and not be distracted by being played with or unnecessarily handled, as such treatment will cause it to become upset, and affect its whole life.

We can teach the Indians much with regard to the prevention of infant mortality, but, in the matter of the emotions and in character training, we can learn much. Always is their child treated with gentleness, kindness and understanding sympathy. Obedience is taken as a matter of course, but it is never enforced by physical violence, or excited speech, and in that lies the secret of their power. The Indians can be excited in their sports, in discussing matters of government, in individual altercations and in calamity, but with their children they are calm, they never raise their voices in sharp tones, they never take hold of a child to shake or spank it. They talk to it soothingly, kindly and lovingly, until the little one is calmed. The doctrine of Love is the one used; punishment is rarely needed.

Another wise custom in the training of an Indian child is to keep it busy and to make it feel its ultimate importance in the community. We allow our children too much undirected play which has no connection with the later issues of life. An Indian mother begins as soon as the child can walk to train the little girl to imitate in the spirit of privilege and play, the things she does in her daily household life. The little boy is taught by his father, or grandfather—who has more time—in the ways of men, hunting and caring for the crops; and, almost before they can talk, folk-tales and verbal histories of the tribe are told to them, to which they pay unflagging attention.

Sincerity, loyalty, consideration for others and the tribal good, as well as strict observance of ceremonial life, philosophy of the tribe, are all familiar things to a child before it is five years old. The qualities mentioned are not enforced, ever; they are the logical result of consistent behavior on the part of the parents. The child, being a natural imitator, becomes imbued with these to such an extent that they form an integral part of its character before it begins to think for itself.

WEDDING.

Cudworth-Latham.

A pretty wedding took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Latham of Scotland road, when their daughter, Emily Latham, became the bride of James Rowland Cudworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudworth of Perkins avenue. The service was conducted by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church, only immediate members of the families being present.

The bride was attractively gowned in peach colored chiffon with ecru colored lace and her shower bouquet was of delphinine and snap dragons.

Both the bride and groom are well known in Norwich, the bride being a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and Wellesley college. Her father for many years was a member of the faculty of the Academy.

The groom is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is a member of the faculty of the School of Mines at the University of Alabama. His father is senior partner of the firm of Cudworth & Thompson.

Both have many friends here who wish them success in their new life. The bride's going away gown was of brown Roshinara crepe. Mr. and Mrs. Cudworth will reside at 2223 Ninth street, Tuscaloosa, Alabama, after their honeymoon, and will be at home after October 1st. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Beckwith-McGourty

Miss Mary McGourty, daughter of M. and Mrs. Owen McGourty of Waterford and Charles Beckwith, son of Mrs. Catherine Beckwith of Jordan Village, Waterford, were married, at the parsonage of the First Baptist church of Waterford, Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. George H. Strouse and was witnessed by a small gathering of relatives and friends.

Miss McGourty wore a gown of pink crepe de chine and with hat to match. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. W. W. Starr of New London. Charles McGourty, a brother of the bride, was best man.

Mills-Nicholson

Claude A. Mills, Rockville, Conn., city and town tax collector, started his vacation Monday of this week and word was received later that he had been married in Hartford before leaving for a two weeks' trip. Mr. Mills, married Helen Nicholson of Ellington Monday afternoon at a parsonage at Hartford. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of Hartford, the latter being the sister of the bride-groom. Mr. and Mrs. Mills have left for Oneida, N. Y. Upon their return they will live in the James Miller house at Rockville.

Beckwith—Markowska.

Norwich friends of the Beckwith family have received announcements of the marriage of Henry Kenyon Beckwith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Earle Beckwith, formerly of Lincoln avenue, and Miss Zofia Fubor Markowska, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Anthony Markowska, which took place July 8th, Rev. George B. Allison of the First Presbyterian church, of Wellsburg, West Virginia, performing the ceremony. Mrs. Beckwith who is a graduate of Baldwin-Wallace university, follows the profession of her father, having passed her examinations for the bar and received both her A. B. and L. L. B. degrees before her 21st birthday. She is a descendant of Count Cassimir Pulaski, the Polish general who served in the Continental army.

EAGLES' DELEGATE LEAVES TODAY FOR PROVIDENCE

Edward J. Mullins, official delegate from Norwich Aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., is to leave Norwich this (Monday) morning for Providence, R. I., to attend the Grand Aerie convention being held in that city this week.

The holding of the convention in the New England section is the beginning of an intensive campaign. Another important thing of interest to every Eagle is the old age pension.

It is expected that a large delegation from the Norwich Aerie will go to Providence Thursday to attend the field day events and participate in the mammoth parade.

AUTO LAW VIOLATORS FINED IN CITY COURT

There was a short session of the city court, Saturday morning, with Judge Arthur F. Libby on the bench. Two Norwich men paid $5 and costs amounting in each case to $14.50 for being intoxicated.

Anthony Belicki paid $2 for using Main street for a parking place for his auto all night Friday and another violator paid $3 for parking on a crosswalk.

THREE MEN INJURED WHEN CARS COLLIDE AT ROAD JUNCTION

(Special to the Bulletin)

Jewett City, Aug. 10—Three men were injured in an automobile crash here at 6.30 o'clock tonight. The Norwich ambulance was called to Sylvandale to carry Shea and Anthony Kozloski, to Backus hospital Shea has a compound fracture of the left leg above the ankle and a cut on his head. Kozloski complained of a terrific pain over his hip, but no bones could be found broken. All is the result of a collision of automobiles. A Ford coupe ni which were Kozloski, Stanley Cholewa and Shea, was coming from Norwich around the bend from the Newent road, towing a car owned by Swabby of Jewett City, a Buick, driven by James Barry of Norwich, accompanied by Patsy Veltz, Tony Balcom and Tom Anderson was going toward Norwich and ran into the coupe, both cars overturning on Larry Olson's lawn. Balcom's back was badly bruised, but the other men in the Buick were not inujred. Kozloski is the man now out on bail, after a hearing last week an a charge of stealing tires. The sympathy of everyone is felt for "John O" as he is known to his friends. No man in town is more helpful to everybody than John O. performing all kinds of good deeds whether paid for it or not.

He is a favorite as a dance promptor.

To add to the excitement a man and woman in the crowd fainted and Dr. J. H. McLaughlin and his brother Dr. Andrew McLaughlin of Providence were kept busy attending to the several patients. Automobiles were lined up from the bridge to St. Mary's cemetery.

BEWARE OF FLIES SAYS HEALTH BULLETIN

When your town is full of flies it shows that you have failed to organize "that early fly campaign," the chief feature of which was to destroy their possible breeding places, says the weekly bulletin issued by the Connecticut state department of health.

The breeding places are usually close at hand—the garbage can at your back door—the dump in the hollow which the rainy weather has converted into an ideal breeding place—the manure pile at the farm a half a mile away. All these places need your closest attention.

Flies that breed or are allowed to wander over filth, spread typhoid fever, diarrhoeal diseases and dysentery.

First, your garbage can. Keep it covered. An open receptacle for garbage is one of the best breeding places for flies. Garbage should not be allowed to accumulate—it should be kept dry, and covered, and collected often. Burning garbage is the only efficient means of destroying it. Garbage which is buried may breed flies, especially, if it is in a damp place. All privies should be built fly tight.

If you live outside the city and have a manure pile which is left exposed you may be the one in your community who is responsible for a steady supply of flies during the summer season. By doing this unneighborly act you are not only creating a nuisance in your town, but you may actually be assisting in the spread of disease since flies that breed and feed on filth carry all disease germs which may be present there.

The babies are the ones who suffer the most from such negligence since they cannot protect themselves. Flies leave their deposit of filth wherever they go and thus contaminate milk, or baby's feeding dishes left uncovered, or even the little hands and faces from which the germs get into the mouth and cause serious intestinal diseases. A flyless area is known to be freer from these intestinal diseases than is the town swarming with flies.

So, while screening your house is an excellent means of shielding your family from the annoyance and danger from flies, it does not free your town of flies. A campaign to clean up the insanitary places should have started early in the spring, but there is yet time to keep many of the flies from breeding by kepeing constant vigilance with a tight cover over your garbage can, and by demanding that manure piles and all insanitary places be cleaned up. Manure should not be allowed to accumulate but should be spread on the ground to dry. If this is not possible it should be collected in a tightly screened bin so flies cannot get in to breed, and treated with borax or bellebore.
